6th Annual Art & Wine Fest Slated For Sept. 10-12

The sixth annual Deep Creek Lake Art & Wine Festival will be held the weekend of Sept. 10-12, benefiting the American Red Cross, Western Potomac Chapter. The fest will feature wine pairing dinners, handcrafted works by local and regional artisans, wine tasting from over 200 Maryland and national wineries, live music, children's activities, brunches, lodging packages, and more.

The festival begins Friday night with area restaurants offering special pre-fix wine pairing dinners, teaming up with national wineries to pair pre-selected wines with specially prepared dinner courses. The menus appear on www.-deepcreekwinefest.com. Reservations are suggested.

The weekend continues on Saturday from noon to 6 p.m. at the Garrett County fairgrounds, McHenry. Over 30 professional artisans and craftsmen will display and sell their art, from handcrafted jewelry and wood carvings to oil paintings and hand-painted furniture and accessories. National distributors and Maryland wineries will offer samplings of a variety of over 200 wines, which guests may purchase at the retail store open until 7 p.m., with net proceeds donated to the American Red Cross.

Children's activities will include face painting, balloon art, carriage rides, and a moon bounce.

Guests will have the opportunity to speak with locals and frequent visitors who are "elevated to a new status" for the afternoon as they become the festival's "celebrity pourers." Past participants include state senator George Edwards, Maryland delegate Wendell Beitzel, and other state and local officials.

Live entertainment will be provided by local and regional musicians, and a silent auction will features donated wines, wine accessories, art, and children's gifts. Live entertainment includes music by Travis Minnick, Dmitry Kubin, Brother Short, and The Remedy.

"Last year was our biggest festival to date," commented co-chair Vianne Bell. "1,800 guests tasted and purchased wine, were entertained by our local musicians, purchased art from regional artisans, and had a lot of fun."

According to Bell, last year's festival netted a donation of $33,797 to the American Red Cross, Western Potomac Chapter. In 2005, its first year, the committee raised just over $11,000 for the American Red Cross, and in five years the American Red Cross has received over $117,038, which allows the chapter to provide funding to programs in Garrett County that include local disaster relief, blood collections, communication with members of the military deployed throughout the world, and life-saving training skill programs.

Sunday brunch will also be offered at participating restaurants.

"September is such a beautiful time to visit Deep Creek," noted co-chair Paula Yudelevit. "The fall colors are magnificent, and we've been very fortunate to have near-perfect weather every year."

A $25 package for adults, 21 and over includes entry fee, wine tastings, and a commemorative wine glass. General admittance is $5, and children 5 and under are admitted for free. Advance tickets are available for sale online and at the festival.

Lodging packages are available at participating hotels, bed and breakfasts, and resort rental agencies. The packages include entrance to the festival, wine tastings, a commemorative wine glass, and Friday night wine dinner gift certificates to be used toward wine pairing dinners at participating restaurants. A MOMENT OF BEAUTY TO US, but this tiger swallowtail butterfly is "laboring" to keep itself alive as it begins its life in a new form. Swallowtails transform similarly to monarch butterflies, beginning life as a caterpillar and metamorphosing into a self-contained chrysalis before emerging as this elegant creature. Their entire lives require constant labor, just to survive. Humans feel that way about their own lives, and have therefore created a day to celebrate the hard-working people of the country. Monday is Labor Day, and most laborers will be able to rest and relax a little, and take in one of the official last days of summer. The weather is to be pleasant, with a slight chance of showers over the weekend, but sunny and 70-something on Monday. Photo by John McEwen.

Holiday Closing

The offices of The Republican will be closed Monday, Sept. 6, in observance of Labor Day. Offices will reopen on Tuesday, July 6. Advertising and news deadlines will remain the same.

Two Local Men Arrested On Assault Charges

Two assault arrests were made by Garrett County sheriff's deputies this past week. The following cases are unrelated.

Deputies responded to the 600 block of Dennett Road for a reported domestic disturbance. Investigation revealed that Kodie Alan Dawson, 20, Oakland, was in violation of a court-issued protective order. He was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing with a District Court commissioner.

In a separate incident that occurred in Loch Lynn, deputies responded to a Maple Avenue residence. It was learned through investigation that James Reed Reckart had assaulted an adult female. He was taken into custody to await a bond hearing.

GCSO Seeking Info On Burglary In Bloomington

Garrett County sheriff's deputies are investigating a residential burglary that reportedly occurred at a garage on Hampshire Avenue, Bloomington.

It was determined that an unknown suspect(s) gained forced entry into the garage sometime between late Sunday night and early Monday morning. Once inside the garage, the suspect(s) removed tools and miscellaneous items from within. It appears that a vehicle was possibly used during the burglary.

Anyone with information regarding the incident is asked to contact the GCSO at 301-334-1911. Callers may remain anonymous.

Local Man Placed On Probation In Child Porn Case

A 56-year-old Oakland man received a probation before judgment (PBJ) verdict in Garrett County Circuit Court last Tuesday for a fourth degree sex offense and possession of child pornography.

James Clarden Crabtree pleaded guilty to the charges in May. Judge Daniel Moylan (retired) accepted his plea and ordered a pre-sentence investigation be conducted prior to sentencing.

Last week, Moylan rendered the PBJ and placed Crabtree on five years' probation for each charge, which will run concurrently. Eighteen months of the five years' probation will be supervised.

The conditions of his probation include having no contact with the victim and victim's family, apologizing in writing to the victim and the victim's family, completing 500 hours of community service, continuing to seek psychiatric counseling and treatment, maintaining a stable living situation and employment, and following special conditions concerning photography work involving minors.

Crabtree was also ordered to pay court costs totaling $1,010.

Related charges against him, including second and fourth degree assault, were not prosecuted.

Crabtree was arrested and charged in December 2008 by investigators with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, who determined that he had inappropriate contact with a juvenile in the spring of 2008.

To corroborate that victim's statements, a search and seizure warrant was executed at Crabtree's home and photography business, and various electronic items were seized.

During the analysis by the Computer Crimes Forenaics Unit of the Maryland State Police, evidence of known child pornography was located on one of the hard drives seized from Crabtree, according to the state's attorney

Public Works Bd. Awards Funding To Local Projects

Gov. Martin O'Malley yesterday announced Board of Public Works approval of recreational projects in nine counties, including Garrett, and Baltimore City through Program Open Space and the Community Parks and Playgrounds Program.

"These dedicated programs and funding sources allow us to continue to provide accessible recreational opportunities that are close to home for Maryland's working families," said O'Malley. "Increasing availability of safe outdoor spaces for children also helps instill values of awareness and responsibility in our next generation of stewards."

Oakland will receive $16,000 to upgrade the gymnasium floor and lighting in the Community Center (former National Guard Armory).

Deer Park will receive $75,000 to construct a restroom at the Community Park. There are currently no public restrooms located within the park, which consists of a playground area, basketball court, and a pavilion.

Garrett County Commissioners Hear Update Reports From Departments

The Garrett County commissioners received update reports on Tuesday from the Roads Department, Department of Public Safety and Emergency Management, and Heritage Management Plan officials. The commissioners also approved bids presented by the county's Purchasing Department.

Roads Department

Superintendent Jay Moyer, Garrett County Roads Department, reported that paving crews have laid approximately 18 miles of asphalt so far this fiscal year.

This includes some patching on Joni Miller, Shady Dell, and North Glade roads.

In addition, the entire section of Boy Scout, five miles of Oakland Sang Run in the Oakland area, one mile of Oakland Sang Run in the Accident area, and 1.1 miles of Monte Vista were paved.

Crews are now in the Grantsville area to do paving/repair work on Westernport Road. Moyer noted it was paved in 2007, but during the last few years, a tremendous amount trucking from coal mines has damaged 1.3 miles of this road.

"To bolster the integrity of the road, we put down a 3-inch base and a 1.5-inch surface over that, in anticipation of continuing truck traffic on that road," Moyer said.

The entire 2.3 mile length of Dorsey Hotel Road, including 300 feet in Grantsville, will also get a bituminous overlay, he added.

The superintendent noted that about one-third of the county's $1.5 million paving budget will be reserved for winter operations. If the funds are not needed for that, they will be used for spring paving projects.

He reported that Federal Emergency Management Agency officials are reviewing the Roads Department's request for reimbursement of snow removal/winter operation costs during a federally declared disaster period in February. The department is expected to receive $160,400.

Moyer noted that should help with this coming winter operations.

The superintendent also reported that the long awaited Bayard-Corona Bridge project is finally moving forward. The Maryland–West Virginia project has been in the works for 12 years. Moyer said construction will begin in the next building season and be completed in fall 2012.

Public Safety

Director Brad Frantz, Garrett County Department of Public Safety and Emergency Management, reported that the Emergency Services Club at Southern High School started back up this week. Students will meet five days a week.

"It does appear that we'll be able to teach them the entire First Responder Course through the Maryland Fire and Rescue Institute," Frantz told the commissioners.

SHS teacher Todd Dyche is the club's mentor and will also instruct the course.

Frantz said Northern High School's EMS Club will only be able to meet one day a week because of class scheduling issues. He noted that the NHS club membership grew last year.

"Both clubs now really look like they're going full speed, and I'm very proud of that," Frantz said.

He said many of the members have gotten involved with local fire departments. Completing the First Responders Course will now enable them to volunteer for the rescue squads.

Frantz noted that some of the EMS Club members will be portraying victims in a hazardous materials training and decontamination exercise, scheduled for Monday, Sept. 13, at 7 p.m. in the Oakland town parking lot. Local volunteer fire departments will participate.

The director said the departments took part in a similar exercise about 1½ years ago. Since that time, however, Craig Umbel of the Garrett County Health Department has been conducting hazardous materials response training for the departments. Frantz said the upcoming exercise will be a good measure of the progress the fire companies have made since the first exercise.

Heritage Plan

The commissioners unanimously approved the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce as the entity that will oversee the Heritage Area Management Plan. Community Action will support the chamber's efforts.

Community Action president Duane Yoder and staff member Peggy Jamison and Chamber president Nicole Christian and official Joyce Bishoff discussed the issue with the commissioners.

Jamison reviewed the progress that has been made with the project. Garrett County was recognized as a Heritage Area in 2003 by officials with the state's Heritage Preservation and Tourism Areas Program. Garrett County is the last recognized Heritage in the state.

The purpose of the program is to link resource preservation with economic development and tourism, creating public/private partnerships to achieve lasting sustainability.

In order to be a certified area, however, the county had to first designate an entity to oversee the Heritage Area sites and plan.

The plan will address heritage preservation and tourism initiatives in the county by assessing capital and non-capital projects and PLACES FIFTH IN NATIONAL CONTEST – Cain Sturm, the current Maryland State SkillsUSA Cabinet Making champion, recently flew to Kansas City, Mo., to compete in the National SkillsUSA Cabinet Making contest. He competed against 48 students representing their state or U.S. territory and placed fifth overall in the nation. Sturm is currently a senior at Southern High School, and will compete one last time this school year in the SkillsUSA Cabinet Making contest. He is the son of Lowell and Tonya Sturm, Oakland. LOST DOG – This concrete statue was apparently forcefully removed sometime during the days of Aug. 13 and 14 from its place at Curt's Corner Anchor Mart north of Swanton. The hotdog has been a fixture at the North Glade Road store for some time. While investigators have mustard up some information, they would relish more so that they may ketch-up with the culprits, as theft is against the law... Oh, we could go on. But the loss is not a joking matter to the owners, and any and all information as to its whereabouts would be appreciated. Persons with knowledge of the statue are urged to contact the Maryland State Police at 301-387-1101.

Louis Newcomb Running For GC Commissioner

Louis Newcomb Jr. has announced his candidacy for Garrett County commissioner in District 3.

"After 40 years of serving the citizen of Garrett County through teaching, coaching, and working with our community, I feel that I am in a unique position to serve the community as county commissioner," the Republican candidate said.

A longtime resident of Garrett County, Newcomb has been a teacher and coach since 1970; represented Maryland (the only teacher selected) at Wake Forest for Law Related Studies; a member of the Garrett County Education Association; head of the Youth Football League; and member of the Sons of the American Legion.

He also found time to be a Scout master and a Little League coach and manager, in addition to continuing his post-graduate education through Frostburg State University and West Virginia University.

"I will probably be the only commissioner able to dedicated himself full time to the position because, if elected, I will retire from my teaching position at Southern Middle School," Newcomb said. "This will allow me the time to analyze the issues and act on them in the best interests of the citizens of Garrett County."

He added, "These are difficult times that demand difficult decisions. But by working for you, with you, together we will be able to move Garrett County and its citizens forward for years to come. Education is our number one priority, along with a safe place to live and good jobs for all."

Newcomb and his wife Glenda live in the Oakland area, where they have reared two children – Matt and Autumn. Their children and five grandchildren live in Garrett County and attend Garrett County public schools.

Interested persons may contact the candidate at louisnewcomb@yahoo.com or 301-334-2722.

DCL STEWARDSHIP AWARDS PRESENTED – Friends of Deep Creek Lake presented their first Stewardship Awards during a recent donor dinner to Jeff Craddock, Bonnie and Ronald Sunny, and Cheryl DeBerry. "We believe in providing recognition of the positive actions taken by individuals to help preserve and protect this wonderful watershed," said Steve Kallmyer. "Too often the good works are overlooked." Craddock (above), also known as Deep Creek Jeff, was honored for his role as the Deep Creek Lake watershed's "stream wading guru." "Jeff has walked miles of tributaries, taken hundreds of macro invertebrate samples, trained many other volunteers, and inspired all volunteers with his passion to protect our wonderful watershed," said Barbara Beelar, Friends of DCL director. Beelar said the Sunnys (below left), owners of the 121-acre R&B Farm in Swanton, have taken measures to protect their farmland, which abuts a stream feeding Deep Creek Lake at Pine Tree Cove. The couple have placed the property under the state's land preservation program, which forever restricts all commercial and residential building. They also have a nutrient management plan to control fertilizer application and minimize runoff, a forest stewardship plan to manage 76 acres of woodland, and a conservation plan using "best management practices." "The lake tributary on their property is well buffered, and livestock access is restricted," Beelar said. "Their overall commitment to conservation clearly demonstrates agriculture and watershed protection can coexist and benefit all." DeBerry (below right) is the natural resources business specialist for the Garrett County Department of Economic Development and serves as the county's liaison to the Friends of DCL. "Over the past two years, she has greatly contributed to the understanding of natural resource issues, helped facilitate communications with various sections of county government, and has provided guidance and honest feedback," Beelar said.

programs; determining cost estimates and sources of funds for projects as well as the operation and management of the Heritage Area, assessing economic performance (return on investment); recommending a management platform and action strategies; and identifying Heritage Area boundaries and areas for targeted investment.

Jamison indicated that local organizations and individuals will have an opportunity to have input on the final Heritage Area Management Plan draft.

Plan consultants recommended that the chamber be the designated entity because it is the county's marketing organization for tourism, it has established public and private partnerships, it has a visitor center and already provides tourism services, it has marketing expertise and staff, and it has an existing organization capable of managing the heritage area.

For more information, persons may visit the consultant's web site: peterjohnstonassociates.com.

Bid Awards

The commissioners unanimously approved three bids on Tuesday: Daystar Builders, courthouse rotunda roof drain system replacement, $4,769; Joe Colmer Logging, $10,960.40, for timber harvested at Landon's Dam to make way for a wind turbine and at the King's Run refuse collection site for an expansion project; Thomas & Thomas Construction, $28 an hour and 12 percent markup on materials, general carpentry service as needed; and Axis Geospatial, $129,000, geographical information system (GIS) parcel conversion project.

Purchasing agent Brian Bowers noted that the GIS award was contingent upon the county receiving funding from the Maryland Emergency Numbers Board. The county's GIS specialist, Debbie Carpenter, seemed confident that the board would approve the entire $129,000 for the mapping project.

GC Chamber's Candidate Forum Is Well Attended

A fairly good-size crowd attended the local candidate forum at Garrett College last Saturday. Beginning at 10 a.m., the event lasted for nearly five hours. Three candidates for sheriff spoke first, followed by 11 for the three county commissioner positions, two candidates for the state House of Delegates, one unopposed for state Senate, and four candidates for register of wills.

The forum was sponsored by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, The Republican newspaper, and radio stations WKHJ, WMSG, and the Train.

The moderators were Dr. Jeanne Neff, former (interim) president of Garrett College, covering the portion for sheriff and commissioners, and Judge Leonard Eiswert, who covered the portion for state delegate, state senator, and register of wills.

Responders in each group were rotated in order to give each candidate a chance to go first. Questions were preselected from those directed to the Chamber of Commerce, but the candidates did not see them ahead of time.

The largest race being contested is that for the three commissioner seats. Candidates had six questions to address. One common thread throughout all discussion was the need for open meetings at times other than Tuesdays at 9 a.m. at the courthouse, the incumbents responded that other meeting times for different issues have been set, with staff having pertinent expertise in attendance, only to have just a handful of the public show up.

Also discussed were tourism and other types of business, taxes, education, technology, trades, and the need to create jobs to keep young people in Garrett County. Zoning was also addressed, with most agreeing that education about the different types of zoning is key to understanding the benefits.

Candidates for state delegate and senate all agreed that legislation passed for the entire state often does not work for western Maryland; one size does not fit all. They all felt that state officials should be brought to western Maryland more often to see firsthand what the rural challenges are.

The complete proceedings of the forum will be on YouTube.

The births of four babies were announced this week, two girls and two boys.

A son, Kileian Gage Collins, was born to Andrea Rose McMaster and Charles Reuben Collins, Oakland, on Aug. 16.

A daughter, Nevaeh Tnes Custer, was born to Brittany Hampe and Eric Custer, Salisbury, Pa., on Aug. 24 at Somerset (Pa.) Hospital. The maternal grandparents are Dawn and Ronald Hampe, Salisbury, and the paternal grandparents are David Custer, Keyser's Ridge, and Patty Durst, Grantsville.

A daughter, Claira Grace, was born to Andrew and Stephanie (Weeks) Uphold, Oakland, on Aug. 25 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

A son, Nathan Riley, was born to Abe and Connie (Harvey) VanMeter, Deer Park, on Aug. 27 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Omission Noted

A photograph that appears in today's issue on page C-18 is missing some information. The people in the photograph were to be identified, but were not in the original caption.

The photo shows women from the Bittinger Lutheran Parish who make quilts and donate them both locally and out of the county. They recently donated to the Dove Center.

Man Charged With Inhaling Harmful Fumes

An Oakland man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on Sunday following an 11 a.m. incident on Memorial Drive near Fourth Street.

Paladin Shane Roy is charged with willfully inhaling harmful substances. He was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

TGCC Slates Proposal Writing Sessions At GC

The Regional Leadership Series developed by The Greater Cumberland Committee to promote positive change resumes Wednesday, Sept. 22, with a session devoted to writing proposals for grant funding.

A morning-long grant writing workshop will provide an overview of the process for finding and securing funding to help an organization meet its goals.

Participants will learn how to locate grant opportunities, write effective proposals to win them, and track progress for reporting purposes. Federal, state, and local grant programs will be discussed, as will those of foundations, corporations, and other entities.

The instructor is Josephine Gilman, dean of administration and finance at Garrett College, where the workshop will be held from 9 a.m. to noon in the Continuing Education Building.

In addition to GC, other TGCC partners in the regional leadership development series are Allegany College of Maryland, Frostburg State University, and Potomac State College of West Virginia University.

The series, which was well received in 2009, its inaugural year, is designed to augment existing leadership programs, such as Leadership Allegany! the Western Maryland Rural Leadership Academy, Leadership Maryland and Leadership West Virginia.

The goal is to provide current and potential civic and corporate leaders the tools they need to effect positive and sustainable change in the region through a series of four, three-hour sessions on key aspects of leadership.

The deadline to register for the grant writing workshop is Sept. 15. Persons may call ACM's Center for Continuing Education at 301-784-5341. For more information about the course, persons may contact Sarah Friend at 301-387-3069 or e-mail her at sarah.friend@garrettcollege.edu.

An Act of Disrespect...

Evidently it is because the wind industry enjoys support from the federal government, the Maryland state government, and right on down to Garrett County government that its leaders seem to believe that the many and varied regulations regarding construction can simply be ignored; that such rules are made not for them, but for everyone else. That is a logical conclusion, given the fact that the construction company at the Roth Rock wind project was cited for numerous violations last week and the project was at least temporarily shut down.

Of course, the customary punishment for such violations is a monetary fine, but because the pockets of the wind industry are so incredibly deep (richly lined with federal, taxpayer-financed subsidy funds), having to pay some fines is apparently considered by wind proponents to be just part of the cost doing business. The "investigation" into the alleged infractions is still under way by the Maryland Department of the Environment, so the aforementioned company has yet to be fined for anything. The company is innocent until proven guilty. But even if found guilty, and even if the subsequent fines would amount to tens of thousands of dollars, let's face it – That's pocket change for the multi-million-dollar wind industry.

Writing as a native of this county, it is absolutely infuriating that any out-of-county company would feel all right about waltzing into our county and then proceed to rip and tear the environment with zero regard for the laws that govern such activity. Not only is it illegal, but it is an assault, a slap in the face, an incredible act of utter disrespect toward our environment and those of us who live here.

Almost equally enraging and disappointing, though, is the relative lack of oversight of such a project by our county elected and appointed officials. If it weren't for the efforts of a couple of residents who live near both of the wind projects on Backbone Mountain, the raping of the land that has occurred there would have probably gone unnoticed by those who are supposed to be in charge of such matters. The only people on watch were those nearby residents. It is fortunate that they took pictures and just happen to know a lot about construction-project regulations.

It's enough to make a person sick to his stomach.

Letters to the Editor

Editor's note: All letters of political endorsement will be restricted to publication in the final two issues of this newspaper prior to the Sept. 14 primaries (those of today, Sept. 2, and Sept 9). We will publish as many letters as possible, depending upon space. Writers are reminded that all letters to the editor must not exceed 400 words.

To the Editor:

Last Friday, Aug. 27, on Rt. 219 at the intersection of Spring Glade Road, a near disaster occurred. I was waiting to get my 7-year-old grandson off his bus, which stops for him along Rt. 219 at the entrance of Spring Glade Road.

The driver opened the door, and at that moment, a burgundy SUV passed the bus on the right berm going at least 30 miles per hour. By the grace of God, my grandson disembarked after the car passed. The driver kept on going. We could not get a full tag number, but you know who you are.

Both the bus driver and I were so shocked, it took a second to register. It seems there was a bus behind ours that was making a left and the SUV driver started to pass it on the right as soon as her signal was on, and then proceeded to come on past our bus on the berm.

My grandson was seconds away from being hit and possibly killed.

I'm sure no one would want to be the driver and have to live with hitting a child. I plead to all drivers to slow down, and to never pass any buses on the right — especially at an intersection — and always be alert to the buses.

No parent, grandparent, or friend needs to have to see something like this happen to anyone, especially a child or grandchild.

We would like to thank you, the editor, and all of the most gracious people who donated to replace the sign taken from the Garden Wall in Oakland. The new sign is up, please stop by just across Center Street from the Mary Browning Center and you can see it.

The Garden Wall is now the Garden in the Corner. Thanks for the many donations and thanks to the people who attended the Lewis reunion who donated. We had more money than we needed so we made a donation back to the Lewis reunion treasury.

A special thanks to Domenick Signs that redid the sign, and also to members of the Oakland town crew who put the sign back up. Also to the town hall staff who collected the donations.

We knew we could do it, and we did it!

To the Editor:

School days are here again, and many of our kids will be making the transition from middle school to high school. This is a very important transition, full of changes and new situations, not to mention more independence.

With more independence come more opportunities to make choices – choices that sometimes are very significant, like those related to alcohol, tobacco, and drug use.

Parents, here's the scary news first. Your child will be exposed to more temptations than ever before. Smoking rates increase by 33% as students move from middle to high school. Alcohol use rates increase by 31%, and marijuana use increases by 57%. At no other time during your child's public school years will substance use rates jump at such magnified rates.

The good news is that most youth still choose not to use tobacco, alcohol or drugs. And parents are the #1 reason why kids choose not to use. So use your influence. Let your kids know your rules and expectations about drug and alcohol non-use just like you taught them your rules about getting along with others and playing backyard kickball and using manners. Talk to them about curfews and who their friends are and how to handle tough situations. Talk them through the consequences of poor decisions, as well as the rewards of good ones.

It is so important to stay connected to your children and continue to show you care by attending back-to-school nights and parent/teacher conferences with the same enthusiasm as when they were younger. Stay involved in your child's life at all ages because what you say really does matter.

Sincerely,
Kerrie Margroff

To the Editor:

As president of United Steelworkers Local 676 at NewPage's paper mill in Luke, and representative of 670 USW members, I am urging all elected officials to support the American paper industry in its current unfair trade case on coated paper with China and Indonesia.

According to federal law, China and Indonesia are illegally dumping coated paper into the United States after receiving government subsidies allowing them to sell paper at a less than fair market value. As long as the Chinese government is subsidizing paper companies in excess of $4 billion dollars, no matter what technological advances are made in the industry, American workers cannot compete.

The Luke mill currently has a $200,000,000 impact on its surrounding area. No one in this area can afford to have anything detrimental happen to the paper mill. This country cannot afford to have the paper industry follow in the footsteps of the steel industry. All we request is a level playing field, which cannot be achieved as long as these subsidies are allowed.

An International Trade Commission hearing is scheduled for September 16, and we value and expect every elected official's full support on this matter.

Greg Harvey
President
Local 676 USW

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the citizens of Garrett County who have called, e-mailed, or stopped by my office to implore me to run again for county commissioner. After many hours of prayer, I decided not to run. Many of you may not know that I moved since the last election. I am now in District 3.

Residents of Garrett County have an important responsibility this coming September 14 and again on November 2 to get out and vote for officials who make and dictate our future here in Garrett County.

There is a Tea Party movement across our land, and we need the same kind of sentiment here in our local election. This is important because we have too long endured decisions that have been kept behind closed doors with deals that might support special interests and not benefit the whole of Garrett County.

The current commissioners have increased taxes each year above and beyond the constant yield rates set by the state of Maryland. We are overtaxed. This could change if voters vote in the challengers of the commissioners.

Most folks in Garrett County do not want the $25 million swimming pool being built on our college campus. Most folks are not happy with the new exhibit hall being built on the local fairgrounds. With very little benefit, it is paid for by our tax dollars. Also, the "Road to Nowhere" Quarry Road off Rt. 219 was paid for by tax dollars after the current commissioners realized that they had no sewer facilities at the quarry. Thus the exhibit hall was moved.

The lake, which residents rarely get to use, is overtaxed and because of that it is now on "life support." Like many citizens, I have never been on the lake. I only get to dodge through the traffic hazards caused by the lake.

We now have high unemployment, and taxing more will not help that situation at all. More taxes will result in a downfall of Deep Creek Lake and the jobs it creates for us locally.

Deeply concerned,
Pastor Sid Nazelrod

To the Editor:

I was fortunate to make Garrett County my permanent residence in 2005. Coming from downstate Maryland, I was able to appreciate the beauty of this part of Maryland and was very pleased with my choice. I could get up in the morning and look out at the mountains and appreciate their beauty. It took me awhile to slow down and enjoy the fantastic views.

Then came Constellation Energy and their wind turbines. They have destroyed my views, and I still do not understand if these wind turbines will actually be energy efficient, as they would like us to believe.

I write this letter to encourage all the citizens to get out and vote in November and please vote to replace all the Garrett County commissioners who sold us down the river with their total disregard for the people's wishes to not allow the wind turbines without further study. It is time to vote out the all with fresh thinking people who listen to the people they represent.

We need to vote more than ever this November with one goal in mind – it is time to take back our government all the way to the White House with new people who care about the people they represent and not the special interests that are lining their pockets. I, too, sometimes think it is futile to vote, but I firmly believe that we can turn this country around and put it back on a course that represents the people and not the corporations.

Please take the time to vote out all the incumbents to send both political parties a message that we the people run this country, and not them. We also need to set term limits to eight years for political offices so we do not do this again in the future. Take the time to vote them all out of office and send a message.

Thank you,
Charles J. McLaughlin
Oakland

To the Editor:

Wind prospectors are on Four-Mile Ridge, said a Garrett County neighbor! You might ask, "Where is Four-Mile Ridge?" It is the ridgeline just to the west of Big Savage Mountain and east of Frostburg Road and south of Finzel. There is a wind-measuring (met) tower up on the ridgeline. You can see it from the road. It has been gathering wind data for months now.

Why do I bring this to your attention? Well, the focus on Big Wind up until now in western Maryland has been on Backbone Mountain and Constellation (Clipper) Energy and Synergics. The latter is the developer of the Roth Rock wind project. Synergics is based in Annapolis, and run by CEO Wayne Rogers. Mr. Rogers was instrumental in influencing Maryland legislators to pass the bill excluding wind projects less than 70 megawatts from state environmental review.

I guess the legislators did not understand that Garrett County has no zoning outside Deep Creek Lake and some half-dozen towns, and that our county commissioners are not interested in regulating wind turbines. But, perhaps Mr. Rogers did know! Since developers are prospecting for wind throughout the county, you might check to see if there is a met tower near you!

Synergics is also the developer of the industrial wind facility on Four-Mile Ridge. Although there have been no public hearings and no one has even seen a proposal, Synergics has entered into landowner leases, as well as a 20-year power purchase agreement with Delaware – not Maryland! Talk about putting the cart before the horse, or perhaps Mr. Rogers knows that there is nothing to stop or limit his hubris.

This project has the potential to affect over 35 homeowners along the ridgeline and Frostburg Road, and forever change its rural character. Besides the direct effects of noise, light flicker, and visual obstruction on people living near this project, there are also considerable environmental effects. These include loss of habitat for rare, threatened, and endangered species; fragmentation of existing forests by wide access roads and clearings for turbines; routes for a variety of invasive plant species; dead birds and bats; runoff possibly affecting tributaries of the Savage River, a pristine trout stream, as well as Callahan Swamp, and alteration of scenic views from Big Savage hiking trail, nearby wildlands, and elsewhere. I thought that you might want to inform yourself in advance of this looming issue.

J. Edward Gates
Frostburg

To the Editor:

I wonder how many terrorists, foreign and domestic, were created and recruited by the headlines and editorial pages this week.

Yes, terrorism comes at many times and for many reasons. It's good to reflect on our own Christian church history and the role it has played in harming others through bigotry and intolerance.

Let's not forget the horrific slaughter of Muslim men, women, and children in the Middle East by the crusaders – blood running deep in the streets of Jerusalem. The deadly Inquisition started out of hatred for the Muslim oppressors and spread its fearsome wrath to intolerance for Jews, and "heretics" of all kinds. The early Ku Klux Klan, Christians all, was obsessed with fear and hatred of the blacks. In later years Catholics, Jews – any non-Christians – were fair game for torment and death.

Please let's not do to innocent, faithful Muslims what the early church did to the Jews – painting them all as Christ killers. This opened the door for countless years of suffering for all Jews and to Hitler's atrocities; and to our own guilt. Christians today would have to stand before God for their part in Timothy McVeigh's terrorist attack.

Let's not return to those old and ugly ways. This is our opportunity to forgive the past, ourselves, and others. Let's instead stand with our God and our faith. Let's remember Jesus' teachings and take them to heart. How can we love our neighbor and judge not if we even hold onto the notion that a Muslim center with mosque would demean and desecrate blessed ground – where God's children of all color and creeds rest, together? To ask that this wonderful group of Sufi Muslims not build on their own property is pure bigotry and against the principles this country was built on. There is no room for such dangerous action now or ever again.

Blessed are those who stand for principle and work to calm emotions, for they shall sow what we all will reap. Let's all honor our constitution and those who even die doing so, as they work to free Muslims from those who act to demean their own religion. Let us bear witness to the Christ of loving, open arms.

This would be a good time, too, to pray for success with the peace talks starting this week between the Palestinians and the Israelis.

Sincerely,
Cynthia S. Knight
Grantsville

To the Editor:

In regard to Joe DiSimone's ad endorsing Rita Watson for register of wills, which appeared in this paper Aug. 12, I was very disappointed with his reasoning. It is short-sighted to think that she is the only candidate capable of handling the pending estate cases as compassionate enough to comfort the bereaved.

We shouldn't vote for a candidate simply because he/she is already trained. No one person has an entitlement to a job decided by the voters of the county. The transition moves forward with each election.

As for the complicated computer systems, almost any person facing a new job has to learn a computer program. Isn't it ironic that Joe served well for 30 years and had no prior experience? Were we to follow his logic, he should never have served in that office nor should Rita have served with him.

Do we keep the same person in office until he/she

To the Editor:

Thanks to the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce and sponsors for an informative forum for the candidates running in the Sept. 14 primary election.

I have attended different forums in other counties as I travel through the state. This one was handled very professionally, was well attended, and the questions were challenging to both the candidates and the audience.

I feel confident that the citizens in the audience could evaluate and make a wise choice for whom to vote by observing and listening to the responses to the well-designed questions.

Here in Garrett County we should be proud we have true democracy at work. I am proud to be a citizen of this county and part of the political process.

True leaders bring people together, they do not divide.

As homeowners in Garrett County, we have been coming to Deep Creek Lake for many years. We have always stopped at Get-n-Go in Oakland and held many delightful conversations with Traci Royce.

From the first time we met her, she always has a smile, speaks kindly about everyone, and is a good Christian woman raising her children with her husband, with high morals and standards. She is a very caring, friendly, young woman in today's fast-paced society. As she wants to serve as your register of wills, be assured she will put forth 100% of her time and efforts in serving you if given the opportunity.

Good luck and God bless you, Traci, in your upcoming election.

To the Editor:

Losing a parent can be one of life's toughest hardships, but thanks to Rita Watson's expertise and an innovative satellite register of wills service – which she had provided to citizens with evening hours in 2004 – my late brother John and I were able to conveniently settle our mother's estate in Grantsville. She guided us through all the hoops in no time flat.

When our mother died in the fall of 2004, I was preparing for my annual Christmas tree harvest, and my plumber brother was busy winterizing his customers' vacation homes. While we grieved our mother's untimely death and had the benefit of advance, good estate planning, what made the probate process hassle-free for us were Register of Wills Rita Watson and her thorough and efficient satellite service. On her own time, she had travelled to the northern end of the county to help people.

With more than 30 years of will and estate experience, Rita Watson wisely understands that most families, especially at the time of an unexpected death in the family, know little about the probate process. Her remarkable satellite program has since evolved into a for-credit course, complete with PowerPoint presentation, which she teaches free of charge for Garrett College.

I appreciated Rita Watson's knowledge and skills then, and I still do, especially when I reflect on our family history, including the death of a great uncle (who founded the family plumbing business in 1907). When I was 12, he had died with an unclear will. I was in college before his estate was ever settled in another county.

Garrett County residents are extremely fortunate to be able to turn to an extremely proficient and compassionate register of wills. What's more, the Maryland Office of Legislative Audits completed an audit of three years (required by law) of the Garrett County Register of Wills Office in May 2010. The five-week audit revealed no errors and won Rita Watson special praise from State Treasurer Nancy Kopp.

The county doesn't have 30 years to bring anyone else up to Rita Watson's level of competence, understanding, and special empathy. She should be retained as our register of wills.

Sincerely,
Marshall Stacy
Swanton

To the Editor:

With election season upon us, now is the time for all Garrett County registered voters to reflect on what the current Garrett County commissioners have done for the county residents.

We now have 16 fewer Garrett County road workers due to retirement that our commissioners decided not to replace. Did they forget this past winter in February, along with the 20-plus feet of snow? How will I and others get to work this winter? Many of us have to be at work on time regardless of the weather conditions. Loss of work is loss of income tax revenue for the county. I am self-employed and do not make money sitting and waiting around for the snow plow to come through. With impassable, snow-covered roads, how will medical assistance reach our citizens when an emergency arises? Apparently our money was all well spent on the commissioners' million dollar pet projects.

Yes, we now have wind turbines in Garrett County thanks to the help and support of our current commissioners. I and many others have pleaded with the commissioners for some type of general regulations for these monstrosities, only to have it fall on deaf ears. Thanks to the current commissioners, we will all soon be able to see wind turbines ruin our pristine landscape no matter where you live in Garrett County.

Currently, from my farm in Avilton (eastern Garrett), I can see with the naked eye 13 wind turbines on Backbone Mountain. This is from one side of the county to the other side of the county. I cannot yet imagine how these wind turbines will affect the residents living close by these towers. The commissioners have neglected us again.

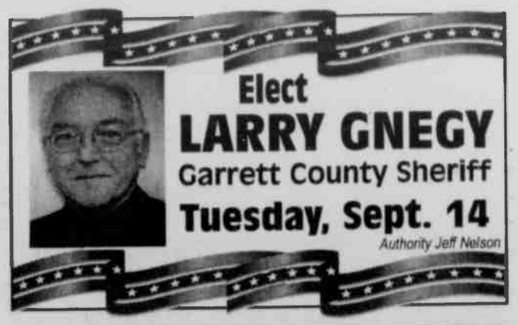

The way I sum it up is this: The current Garrett County commissioners are not addressing the public's needs when it comes to the health and welfare of our citizens. Now is the time for our voices to be heard. Guess who I will not be voting for this election season.

Goes on the Record

"When you first run for office, you run on ideas. But once you've held office, ideas aren't enough. You have to run on your record, as well. If you have a moment, I'd like to share my record as county commissioner with you. During the last four years we have:

- Opened the new CTTC building to be included in scholarship fund for Garrett County students.
- Cut taxes from $1.00 to .99.
- Helped less fortunate seniors with a 50% property tax cut.
- Helped to build the business park at White Face with the goal of enticing better jobs into the county thus creating employment opportunities for our young people.
- Helped local fire departments to the tune of over $1.2 million.
- Championed property rights.
- Cut capital projects spending by over $40 million.

I still believe in the ideas and principles I put forth when running four years ago. Namely:

- Affordable housing
- Better opportunities for future generations of Garrett Countians
- Less taxes
- Help senior citizens with less in property taxes
- Believe in property rights

If re-elected I will pursue the following ideas and goals:

- Maintaining responsible budgeting
- Maintaining the services for Garrett County citizens with less money
- Continue to look for ways for affordable housing for our young people
- Continue the effort to help the volunteers of Garrett County

This is my record and these are my plans for the future. Both reflect my core values and beliefs. If you honor me with your vote and return me to the Garrett County Commission you may do so with a clear understanding of how I would continue to serve you over the next four years. I thank you in advance for your support." – Denny Glotfelty

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

I felt pretty low when Meredith departed for West Virginia University on Saturday and Caitlin was very busy packing up lots of kitchen items from her grandmother's house. Of course, all her clothes were scattered around my house and her father's place. She planned to start early. She slept with me, and her alarm got me up immediately. But not Caitlin. She lingered in bed for at least half an hour. Personally, the minute I am awake, I get up immediately to head to the bathroom.

This Sunday, I was not looking forward to Labor Day weekend. It feels like my house is so empty without my girls. I was taking a cat nap and woke up to see my beautiful blonde Claire in my living room. I don't know yet how long she can stay. Probably not very long, because she got a second job in the D.C. area in her major – communications. It's something promoting a new restaurant in downtown D.C. After a dreary wet morning, this Sunday turned into a nice day, so she headed to Swallow Falls.

Yesterday, I got a surprise visit from my cousin Nadine Buckle, who is camping at Swallow Falls with her boyfriend and his kids. She never saw it so crowded. And she noticed a surprising number of people speaking in various European languages. It's amazing that Swallow Falls is known as a top tourist attraction in Europe. But it's a lovely place, and very well represents the eastern Appalachian Mountains region.

Both Caitlin and Meredith were very busy in the last week or so touching base with their Garrett County friends before they go their separate ways. It's so nice that Caitlin's closest friends happen to be children of a couple close to me and her father, Dana Hanibal and Jamie Haydel. Jamie's big sister Emily is home from California, where she will get married soon to a crew man for the Grateful Dead. Maybe they will perform at Emily's wedding. That would be very special.

I wish I could go there. But that is way out of my budget. The same thing is true about my cousin Penny Hummel's wedding in mid-September. Penny and her sister Elizabeth came in for my wedding. In fact, Elizabeth caught my bouquet, and it was not very long until she got married. I think Rodney and Marci and Carol Bass and Courtney plan to go out to Washington state for Penny's wedding.

Since my girls are all over the place, I was lucky to have a Pittsburgh Pirates game to console me, especially since they were able to beat the New York Mets, 2-1. The pitching was very good, defensive play was good, and the Pirates were able to produce two single home runs. It wasn't a great game, but good enough.

Thank goodness I still maintain a close relationship with a close high school friend, Marla Frickey, now living in Virginia. She hopes to come up here on Labor Day weekend. When I told her about the white fawn Meredith saw, she told me that the Native Americans believe a white deer is sacred, and anyone who kills one will suffer some very bad luck. Her boyfriend, a big deer hunter, knows two persons who did shoot a white deer. Both died soon after.

It is not enough to just use the Ten Commandments as the entire law needed to regulate all kinds of Americans, ensuring that we have liberty and justice for all. We have all kinds of crimes, not even thought of by the founding fathers. America is a very different kind of place from any na-

Adorable Adoptables

"COME MEET THIS PLAYFUL YOUNG TABBY and her other 'roommates' at the Garrett County Animal Shelter," invites a Humane Society spokesperson. Those in need of homes include a short, stocky, and friendly Jack Russell mix (above right) that was given up by his owner, a cute-faced young female mixed breed canine (below left) that was brought in as a stray, and another mixed breed (below right) whose pups went to a rescue facility several weeks ago and is patiently waiting for a family of her own. "These and other pets not pictured are available for adoption; call or come in," said the spokesperson. "To adopt, you must pay a fee and fill out an adoption form that insures you will take your new pet to have a health check and to be spayed or neutered. If you don't find what you are looking for at the local shelter, please call or go online to Petfinder.com to see what surrounding shelters have available. Preston, Tucker, and Mineral counties in West Virginia are within an hour's drive and usually have more pets available." For more information, persons may call the Garrett County Animal Shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday.

ELECT BILL WELCH
Commissioner, District 3

In business we measure efficiency by department so we know where service can be improved.

Why aren't efficiency measures easily available to taxpayers (the commissioners' customers)?

Elect me commissioner, and county budgets shall be published online by department and office within department. In addition you will see costs of services within departments by office including cost of service by service unit. It is the only way to establish accountability for officials.

tion in the Bible days. It is even far different than even our grandparents' society.

But a review of the Old Testament shows what kind of society existed then. There were ultimate powerful leaders like kings and emperors, and the rest of the people just meant nothing. Their life was miserable, and after a powerful nation conquered another nation, they enslaved its population to serve the emperors of the conquering nations.

It was all about showing the leaders' power. The rest of the people just barely made a living. But over centuries, a broader economy developed, and wars were the rule. As more complex political systems developed, the only people who could read or write were just priests in the dominant religion.

I believe the majority of Americans are Christians, but with great variety in that big group. There are evangelical Christians, more liberal Protestant denominations, Catholics, Quakers, and Mormons, who interpret the Gospel in very different ways. And if America is primarily a Christian nation, does that mean that we should deny any rights to other Americans of a different religion? Or a different race or culture?

I seem to be frustrated by numbers. It was a major miracle that I didn't fail college algebra. Yet when I took the graduate school admissions exam, somehow I scored in the 90th percentile in math. That means that I did better on that part of the test than 90% of people who plan to attend graduate school. I have no idea how I could score that well in a subject that is almost a complete mystery to me.

I can't sleep to know so many helpless children have nothing. I guess I really can't afford the $28 per month to support someone, but for my mental health I can't afford to do nothing. When I was still working, it was not very hard to afford to sponsor a little girl in Ethiopia, and it was a very rewarding experience. When I sent $5 for her birthday, her social worker told me in a letter that she bought her first pair of shoes with it. And she was proud of those shoes. It almost broke my heart because my daughters had so much. Each one had probably 10 pairs of shoes of all kinds.

I am feeling so alone, like I am the only one who cares at all about social justice for all Americans or the rest of the world. I can't help that I am basically a compassionate person. And sometimes when I see stories in the news, I just cry. I feel like the Far Right is destroying America, and I am absolutely powerless to stop it.

I am afraid that the majority of people only act on their self-interest, and that means going with the flow, even if it is going in a very bad direction. I feel like I am one of the few who believes in liberal or progressive ideas. That is a very lonely feeling.

The fabulous musical 1776 about the struggle to pass the Declaration of Independence focuses on the efforts of John Adams to push it through. One song says, "Is anyone there? Did anyone hear what I heard? Or does anyone have the courage to let their voice be heard?' I am afraid not.

My youngest brother Scott was born in 1960. He was among the preschool-age kids from the poorer areas who attended the new Head Start Program. It was at a time when our educational system could take a role in leveling the playing field for children from economically disadvantaged areas. Scott certainly did not come from a home without learning experiences – just the opposite. But he probably deserved to be in that first class of Head Start.

I don't know who else was in Scott's Head Start class, so I don't know whether it made much difference in their school performance. But I am pretty sure it contributed to the kind of man Scott grew up to be, able to identify and reach less fortunate people.

At the mob scene that was Scott's wake in 1987, there were lots of his high school class – the luckiest of them, the brains, the student leaders, the elite, well-dressed, and successful. Across the room I saw another young man who looked like he didn't want to be noticed. He had his head down. I found out who he was. He was probably in Scott's Head Start, but they moved in very different places in high school. He didn't have the "fight" last name and never even thought about going to college. Anyway, his family couldn't afford it. None of his former classmates approached or greeted him. But I believe that if Scott were there (in body), he would have pulled him in with the rest of his classmates.

It made me feel very sad to remember that. Even at Garrett we had two classes: the "right people" and the "underclass' or "unnoticed." The challenge our education system had was to make sure that kids felt like they belonged and were worthwhile. That's something that doesn't come with improved teaching or better technology.

But it's true that early childhood learning opportunities help, like my family's set of World Book Encyclopedias. What an enormous asset that was when I was a young child. They opened lots of subjects that were unknown to me. I used to love to take one down and just page through it. I don't think the Internet has the same appeal. Of course, there are still many students who don't have the Internet at home. Or hundreds of books. Or parents whose top priority is how each of their children is doing in school, never missing parent conferences.

I was lucky to have several teachers who went out of their way to engage me in school. I get pretty angry when people complain about the decent living they earn, and benefits. They need to think about what it involves to be a good teacher. Often, they do jobs belonging to parents, instill discipline, teach manners and how to interact with other people, and look out for signs of trouble. They are very underpaid. And you can't evaluate them by their students' standardized tests. Not all students come into a class with equal abilities, knowledge, or life challenges. Each of those things has a big influence on how they do on the tests.

The students of Accident Elementary used to undergo various screenings to identify things that might arise as problems in their education. That was how I found out that I needed glasses. It is possible that my nearsightedness did contribute to my problems in math. In spite of the fact that I didn't like to wear glasses, I did wear them in the classroom because I really couldn't see the chalkboard very well.

Maybe Garrett County is seeing an example of some kind of evolution. It involves the regular brown white-tailed deer changing to white deer. There was a white one in the Accident area. Of course, then there was the one in Bittinger first seen by Floyd Detrick, or by his wife Ruth's father, Russell Brenneman, who was next door to my grandparents, Charles and Linnie Buckle. I spent quite a bit of time in those woods. But I don't remember any deer at all.

Then, there was the white fawn seen by Meredith a few weeks ago. I really want to see it, but since I can't go into our woods, it is pretty unlikely.

We often saw lots of deer feasting on apples in August. There was another very old apple tree back along the creek where the pasture met the woods. Those apples were the most delicious I ever tasted. Most of the fruit was high in the tree, which was a pretty tall apple tree, above the reach of deer or girls. A small apple tree with the same kind of apples used to be along the fence line between the back pasture and the hayfield. Pappy Dale liked clear fence lines, so he cut it down. However, I planted seeds from it by my back porch. But it is too soon to know what will happen. The young tree had lots of blossoms this spring, but they are a very late apple, in late Sept. or early Oct. So I don't know what I will get.

Almost every farm around here had an orchard, which was a pretty essential source of the winter's supply of fresh fruit. It was stored in fruit cellars. And this kind of apple was perfect for winter storage, because it was very firm. But our yellow transparent apples were not very good for winter storage, although they were excellent for home-canned applesauce. And there was a very old pear tree close to the house where the Yoder family and my grandparents Oral and Emma Glotfelty raised their families. It was one of my favorite places. Now only the foundation remains.

A "Reclaim the Dream" rally was held at Dunbar High School's football stadium, packed with civil rights advocates, including my nephew Scott Bass. This rally focused on the message Martin Luther King Jr. delivered so eloquently 47 years ago on Aug. 28.

Altar flowers at Emmanuel will be given this week in memory of Ferne Beachy, and in honor of Julia Danielle Pochet, who will be baptized during the morning worship service.

The council of the Bittinger Parish will meet at the church next Tuesday, Sept. 7.

The women of Emmanuel's ELCA will meet, also at the church, on Monday, Sept. 13, at 7 p.m.

tion to make the register of wills (and other offices), non-partisan. A new approach, as you suggested, would eliminate the necessity for costly election procedures surroundmg functions you described accurately as "just going by the book."

I could not agree with you more. In many states and some Maryland counties, a probate court structure operates without a register elected position.

There are certain laws, procedures, and forms to be processed. It's part of the job to follow the procedures and keep apprised of requirements that may change. Rita Watson has been trained, attended seminars, and is familiar with the processes, computer sys-tems, and staff to administer to these matters across the intrastate bureaucracy that Senator Edwards described at the candidates' forum.

No candidate challenging the incumbent has communicated anything irregular with the work of Rita Watson.

If Rita Watson is serving us competently, it just does not make sense for the citizens of Garrett County to make a change. No candidate of the three challengers makes a compelling argument or reason whereby Watson should be removed from office. As she stated at the forum, "This is not an entry level position." There is always a "learning curve" with any endeavor. I wouldn't like to file a will with a new register who has just started to learn the job.

In the primary election, Democrats will not be given a choice, as you stated. Some believe Democrats were unable to bring a candidate forward for this office. I believe Democrats are satisfied with the incumbent and saw no need to mount a challenge. Those interested in candidacy as Democrats chose other offices to seek.

I hope the Republicans and others who vote the Republican ballot in the primary election will vote to return Rita Watson as their party's candidate for register of wills. As a dyed-in-the-wool Democrat, I would like the opportunity to cast my vote on November 2 for demonstrated competence, the Honorable Rita Watson.

Sincerely yours,
Andrew J. Di Liddo Jr.

To the Editor:

As we approach the upcoming primary election, I have been keenly aware of the call for change by many of the challengers in the county commissioners' race, but I caution voters to be wary of such calls for change without very specific details about the implications, including impact of services and budgets. We need look no further than the last national election to know that the promise and reality of change are often quite different.

We need to ask these challengers to "do the math." When they promise to maintain or expand services, where is the money going to come from? Conversely, when they promise to reduce taxes, we need to know what services will be reduced to cover the loss of revenue. When they promise to do both, we need to ask a lot of questions.

Our incumbent commissioners have a track record of living within their means during very difficult economic times, without bonding away our future; they have consistently maintained an excellent credit rating; they have reacted to unanticipated revenue cuts from the state and federal level without significant impact on the level of services provided. They continue to invest in our young people through the college scholarship program for all graduating high school seniors who attend Garrett College. They have empowered and encouraged county department heads to aggressively pursue federal grant funding to offset local shortfalls, which has allowed for increased support of many community assets, including volunteer fire departments and EMS. They have consolidated and streamlined various departments, allowing them to operate more efficiently.

Look around at some of the counties to our east that some challengers cite as the model for Garrett County. What is their economic picture? How many furloughs or lay-offs have they had? How many services have been completely eliminated? What is their level of indebtedness compared to the overall operating budget?

These are indeed very difficult economic times, and there are many signs that these tough times will continue at the national and state level with the prospect of double-digit unemployment and a continuing recession, and change may well be warranted at those levels of government. But locally, these are times that call for proven leadership, not unsubstantiated promises.

To the Editor:

Four years ago in 2006, my father ran for the office of Garrett County sheriff. During that campaign many supporters of Larry Gnegy expressed concern about my father having a retirement from the Maryland State Police. These supporters felt that since he was receiving that retirement he should not be elected as sheriff.

I would now like to make these supporters aware that Larry Gnegy is receiving a retirement from Garrett County and his chief deputy candidate Butch Zimmerman is receiving a retirement from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. If those same supporters honestly believed that, they would now oppose the election of Larry Gnegy for the same reason. Or, is it now, in some way, different?

Thank you,
Becky Berkebile

To the Editor:

This letter is regarding the present race for the office of the Garrett County register of wills. There are many things that have concerned me throughout this campaign. I have the ut-most respect for Joe DiSimone, our former elected Register of Wills, as many of you in Garrett County do. That being said, may I remind everybody that we all start somewhere.

We have had a former school bus driver as register of wills in Joe Welch, and a prosperous furniture salesman in the former elected register of wills, Joe DiSimone. Both of these men knew that this office was an elected position. Why is the incumbent Rita Watson so surprised that she needs to be elected by the people? I understand you have a dream, but it's not guaranteed. I am surprised that with all you know, you do not realize that this is how the system works. You have to be elected by the people whom you serve to be register of wills.

After I have read all the various campaign ads, the one that bothers me the most is that of Rita Watson's "scare tactics." Your estate will not be jeopardized if there is a new register of wills elected by the people. I feel this is emotional blackmail at a very sad time in a person's life. Your loved one's last wishes will be fulfilled, regardless of who is elected; the state of Maryland sees to that.

The register of wills is not the only person who runs that office. There is also the assistant and chief deputies and the elected judges of the orphans' court.

Something else that was stated by Rita Watson earlier this year was that there is no help available for a newly elected register of wills; not true. There are four seminars every year for elected officials.

In closing, as you go to vote on September 14, follow your gut instincts. What made you vote for Joe DiSimone? He was a caring man who started out with no experience, and you elected him for seven terms. There is more than one person qualified to run the office of register of wills. Think about it. Honesty, ethics, moral standards, and compassion do matter. Don't believe all the crap that you read – it's just paid advertisements.

Sincerely yours,
Sheila Tasker O'Neill

FROSTBURG STATE ARTS SERIES TO OPEN WITH STEP AFRIKA – The 33rd season of the Frostburg State University Cultural Events Series (CES) will begin its 14-act season with Step Afrika, the first professional company in the world dedicated to the tradition of "stepping." The group, some members of which are pictured above, is based in Washington, D.C. The show will be held Thursday, Sept. 16, at 9 p.m. in the Drama Theatre at FSU's Performing Arts Center. The entire season, which was recently announced, is detailed in a story on today's arts page.

Frostburg State Univ. Announces 33rd Cultural Events Series Lineup

Now in its 33rd year, the Frostburg State University Cultural Events Series (CES) has announced what organizers call "an exciting season of entertainment – musical, theatrical and dance – to western Maryland."

The 2010-2011 FSU series will feature 14 acts, including "Broadway-caliber productions" to Grammy award-nominated and award-winning performers, international dancers, classical music, and an interactive live animal show.

FSU offers two performance series, the Mam Stage Series and the CES Jazz Club, as well as some added special events.

"Our series and events provide the opportunity for residents and visitors to enjoy quality performances at an affordable price and in easy-access venues," the spokesperson said. "It also provides the opportunity for businesses, corporations, and organizations to purchase group packages at special rates."

The CES season will open with Step Afrika, the first professional company in the world dedicated to the tradition of stepping. A writer for Dance magazine said the group presents "knee slaps, flat-footed stomps, sandpapery drags, and resounding claps" in its performances.

This Washington-based company will take the stage on Thursday, Sept. 16, at 9 p.m. in the Drama Theatre at FSU's Performing Arts Center.

The modern dance group Rioult will perform on Tuesday, Sept. 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the Drama Theatre, Performing Arts Center. The spokesperson said Rioult is a leading company in the world of modern dance, under the direction of French choreographer Pascal Rioult. The group has toured the world with performances that have been called "sensual, articulate and exquisite," according to the spokesperson. The 10-member dance company is based in New York.

Scenes from the Broadway show Rent will be presented at Frostburg on Saturday, Sept. 25, featuring two of the original cast members of the Tony Award- and Pulitzer Prize-winning musical. Adam Pascal and Anthony Rapp will present the pop/rock concert celebrating their own musical careers as well as songs and stories from the popular musical.

Pascal originated the role of Roger Davis, the struggling HIV-positive musician, and Rapp is best known for his role as Mark Cohen, the documentary filmmaker and narrator of Rent. Both have performed in several other Broadway musicals. "Direct From Rent – Adam Pascal and Anthony Rapp Live!" will be given in the Pealer Recital Hall, Performing Arts Center, starting at 8 p.m.

Family Weekend at FSU will be held in early October. The pinnacle event of the weekend will be Lifehouse, an alternative band from Los Angeles that appears on the Main Arena stage in the Cordts PE Center on Saturday, Oct. 9, at 8 p.m.

Lifehouse released its debut "No Name Face" in 2000, and has continued on successfully since. Members Jason Wade, Ricky Woolstenhulme Jr., Bryce Soderberg and Ben Carey are said to have "delicately balanced two identities – song craftsmen and raucous rock and roll band."

A limited VIP package, including a front-row seat and a meet-and-greet opportunity, is available.

The Maryland Symphony Orchestra will return to FSU on Friday, Oct. 15. Special guest pianist Angela Cheng will be featured in the show, to be held in the Pealer Recital Hall, Performing Arts Center.

Under the artistic leadership of music director Elizabeth Schulze, the MSO is western Maryland's premier professional orchestra. The program will include works from Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 4 and Schubert's Symphony No. 9, featuring Cheng. Cheng has been praised for her "brilliant technique" and has released several classical CDs.

Dance will return to the FSU stage on Thursday, Nov. 11, with the Bayanihan Philippine National Dance Company. Since its formation in 1957, this company has been working to educate audiences on the cultural traditions and folklore of the Philippines through theatrical presentations and traditional music.

"Their extravagant dances require a combination of precise movement, balance, and skill," the spokesperson said.

Their spectacular performance will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Pealer Recital Hall, Performing Arts Center.

Kathy Mattea, the two-time Grammy Award winner and twice-named Country Music Association Female Vocalist of the Year, will present a holiday concert on Tuesday, Nov. 30, at 7:30 p.m. "Kathy Mattea Songs and the Season" will feature Mattea's renditions of holiday songs.

A popular American jazz fusion band will come to FSU on Friday, Dec. 10. Spyro Gyra will present a jazz performance at 8 p.m. at the ballroom of the Cumberland Holiday Inn. The nine-time Grammy Award-nominated group has been performing since the mid-1970s, and was founded in Buffalo, N.Y. The group has recorded more than 25 albums, with more than 10 million copies sold.

"With elements of funk, pop, and R&B, Spyro Gyra will delight audiences with their smooth, toe-tapping sounds and reinforce why this band has remained in the forefront of modern jazz for over three decades," the spokesperson said.

The Music Man, a well-known musical, will be pre-

Pink Glove Act To Be Presented Twice Over Holiday

Brenda Brosnihan's 2010 performance fundraiser, the "Get Your Pink Gloves On" campaign for Cindy's Fund, will be presented at two venues this weekend, Sept. 3 and 4.

The performances of the "Pink Glove Dance" are being given throughout the county as a fundraiser for Cindy's Fund and to raise awareness about breast cancer and early detection.

Brosnihan's group will perform the dance on Friday, Sept. 3, during the Little Yough Summer Music Festival concert. Featured that evening will be the local band The Remedy, which will perform the Pink Glove song live for the dancers.

The second Labor Day weekend performance will be on Saturday, Sept. 3, at the Honi Honi at Deep Creek Lake. That performance will be given at 3 p.m.

"We invite everyone to get their pink gloves on," Brosnihan said. "If you're interested in supporting Cindy's Fund through an open donation, you can purchase pairs of pink gloves at Marvin's in Oakland, or from any of the dancers currently participating.

"We hope to see pink hands everywhere as a sign of solidarity for the awareness for breast cancer as well as financial support of Cindy's Fund," she said.

Cindy's Fund is a local charity created in memory of Cindy Kutchman. The funds raised are use, to support area persons dealing with cancer, and also to help with early detection programs.

Nashville Singer To Perform At Southern High

Joe Pearles of Quiet Sound Ministries in Nashville, Tenn., will sing "easy listening gospel music with a touch of country" in the Southern High School gym on Sunday, Oct. 3, at 3 p.m.

In the full-time music ministry, Pearles has performed concerts across the United States and Canada, and is affiliated with several well known television and radio evangelists.

He has been featured on Gospel Music Television and in Branson, Mo.

Proceeds from the concert will benefit people who lost money through Stewart Funeral Home.

FSU Festival Will Celebrate Area's Unique Culture

The Appalachian region's rich cultural heritage will be on display during Frostburg State University's 2010 Appalachian Festival on Saturday, Sept. 18, with related events on Thursday and Friday, Sept. 16-17.

Now in its fifth year, the free daytime event celebrates all that makes the region unique – its history, culture, natural environment, musical and artistic traditions, food, and more.

The FSU campus's Upper Quad will be packed with music, crafts, foods, tradition, educational workshops, and the arts from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Two stages will feature music highlighting the area's strong bluegrass, old-time, and Irish and Scottish music traditions.

Dedicated talks will discuss regional issues; stories will be swapped Appalachian-style, traditional crafts including quilts, rag rugs, coverlets, spinning, tatting, and pottery will be on display; and children will have their own hands-on area of crafts and activities to keep them entertained.

DAVID HOLT

LAURA BOOSINGER

The capstone of the event will be a concert by four-time Grammy Award winner, consummate folk song collector, TV personality, storyteller, and acclaimed musician David Holt on Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Palace Theatre in downtown Frostburg.

Sharing the bill is Laura Boosinger, an Asheville, N.C., recording artist with a long list of recordings and performances to her credit.

Advance tickets are available at Main Street Books and Mountain City Traditional Arts in Frostburg. Tickets are $15 in advance or $18 at the door; tickets for students and children are $8.

The literary highlight of the festival this year will be a reading from the "Affrilachian Poets," a group of African-American writers who come from Appalachia, defying the all-white stereotype of the region. Poets Norman Jordan, Mitchell L.H. Douglas, Ricardo Nazario y Colon, Crystal Good, Bianca Spriggs, and Keith Wilson will be reading at 3:30 p.m. in Frost Hall's Cook Chapel.

Coined by African-American writer and Appalachian native Frank X. Walker nearly 20 years ago when he learned that the dictionary definition of "Appalachian" did not include him and other people of color from his region, the term "Affrilachian" now appears in the Oxford American Dictionary, describing this previously disregarded part of Appalachian culture. The reading is free and open to the public.

Leading up to the festival will be the FSU Trident Initiative's annual Trident Entrepreneurship Conference, which will be held on Thursday and Friday. Titled "Appalachian AdVentures: Celebrating the Region's Entrepreneurial Spirit," the conference will focus on entrepreneurship with a distinctly regional sense-of-place flavor.

For more information about the conference, persons may contact Sudhir Singh at 301-687-4093, Stacy Wassell at 301-687-4019, or Terri Hast at 301-722-4173.

Also on Friday afternoon, everyone is invited to participate in an "Old-Time Appalachian Hoe Down," led by the Barnstormers and RockCandy Cloggers, on the Upper Quad (rain site: City Place on Water Street) from 4:30 to 6 p.m. At 7:30 p.m. on Friday, a special screening of The Bonecrusher, winner of the 2010 Jack Spadaro Documentary Award for Best Documentary on Appalachia, and Split Estate, a film focusing on natural gas drilling issues, will be shown at the Palace Theatre on Frostburg's Main Street.

To learn more about the FSU Appalachian Festival, one may visit frostburg.edu/events/appfestival, look for it on Facebook, or e-mail krogersthomas@frostburg.edu.

sented at Frostburg in three performances on Saturday, Jan. 15, at 3 and 8 p.m. and Sunday, Jan. 16, at 3 p.m. Written by Meredith Willson and presented by Windwood Productions, The Music Man is the winner of five Tony Awards, including Best Musical.

The show tells the story of con artist Harold Hill, who descends on River City, Iowa, in 1912 and tricks the townspeople into buying musical instruments and uniforms for a boys' band he promises to organize, even though he knows nothing about music. His plans are derailed when he falls in love with Marian, the local librarian.

With classic songs such as "Seventy-Six Trombones," "Ya Got Trouble," and "Til There Was You," Wilson's tale "celebrates the innocence and fun of a sweet bygone era," the spokesperson said.

Walnut Street Theatre will present Tennessee Williams' The Glass Menagerie on Tuesday, March 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the Drama Theatre, Performing Arts Center. The play has been described as Williams' "most deeply personal and haunting play," and tells the story of Amanda Wingfield, a faded Southern belle, and her two children, and the obstacles they face when the fragile daughter falls in love.

Coinciding with St. Patrick's Day will be a concert by Celtic Crossroads, a traditional Irish acoustic group. The concert will be given in the Pealer Recital Hall, Performing Arts Center on Sunday, March 13, at 7:30 p.m. The band features seven Irish musicians playing over 20 instruments, including whistles, harps, fiddles, banjos, mandolins, accordions, and drums.

The Javon Jackson Band will perform as part of the CES Jazz Club on Friday, April 1, at 8 p.m. at Windsor Hall in downtown Cumberland. Tenor jazz saxophonist Javon Jackson began playing professionally in clubs at 16, and met and was mentored by jazz great Branford Marsalis.

"Since then he has become a leader in jazz music with his own style of jazz that reflects his influences from the funk, R&B and rock worlds," the spokesperson said. The Denver Post described Jackson as "an imaginative straight head player who has taken a funk-oriented route with stand-out results."

Jungle Joe's Wildlife Adventure will offer family entertainment on Thursday, April 7, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lane University Center. The program will address issues of environmental and wildlife entertainment. Headed by "Jungle Joe, Pet Detective," Wildlife Adventure, with the Bucks County Zoo, features an interactive live animal show that includes a wide variety of mammals, birds, invertebrates, reptiles, and amphibians.

The Maryland Symphony Orchestra, led by conductor Elizabeth Schulze, will finish out the CES season with a performance of Giuseppe Verdi's 90-minute Requiem on Saturday, April 30, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, May 1, at 3 p.m.

The large MSO orchestra will be accompanied by 120 choral musicians from the Cumberland Choral Society and the FSU University Chorale for this presentation.

Tickets, including ticket packages and discounts, are available for all CES performances. Packages available include a "Build Your Own Series" package for those planning to attend several events throughout the year; Corporate Nights offering group pricing, priority seating and personalized service, and Group Sales with special rates for purchases of 15 or more tickets for a single performance.

Tickets may be ordered by calling 1-866-849-9237 or 301-687-3137, or by visiting ces.frostburg.edu.

The Cultural Event Series is partially supported by a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council.

Situated in the mountains of Allegany County, Frostburg State University is one of the 12 institutions and two regional higher education centers within the University System of Maryland. For more information, persons may visit www.frostburg.edu.

FSU is committed to making all of its programs, services, and activities accessible to persons with disabilities. To request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, persons may call 301-687-4102 or use a Voice Relay operator at 1-800-735-2258.

For Garrett County Register of Wills

An Open Letter to the Citizens of Garrett County
From Members of the Garrett County Bar Association

As attorneys who practice and live in our community, we have a unique perspective on the internal workings of the courthouse offices, and daily interact with the people behind the scenes who faithfully serve the public.

This year the voters of Garrett County have the privilege of electing a Register of Wills due to the retirement of Joe DiSimone, who competently executed the duties of his office for more than 30 years.

Register of Wills is a position that requires a substantial knowledge of the ever changing laws and regulations of the State of Maryland in order to competently administer estates. In smaller counties such as ours, the Register is just not an elected position, but it's a job that requires, from day one, the knowledge and understanding of probate law and procedure to adequately serve the residents of Garrett County.

Our current Register, Rita Watson, is the only candidate who is qualified to serve in this position. After serving 30 years in the office as Chief Deputy, she faithfully asssumed the duties of the office when Joe DiSimone retired last July 1, has successfully undergone a strenuous State audit, which is required by Maryland law to be conducted of all Registers' offices every three years, and still efficiently, and with empathy, performed the duties of her office.

The laws of probate are ever changing and complex, and as attorneys we rely upon Rita Watson's opinion and guidance. Her ability to guide many citizens through probate procedures has saved individuals thousands of dollars in fees and expenses.

We, the following attorneys of Garrett County, without reservation, urge the voters to elect and retain Rita Watson for Register of Wills. She is the only qualified candidate.

Huskies Hope To Overcome Size With Speed; To Play Smithsburg

by Branden Wilt

Northern Garrett varsity head football coach Phil Carr will have to expect some big things out of small packages, as the Huskies try to improve on a 2-7 2009 campaign starting this Friday at Smithsburg.

Success in 2010 will be no miniscule mission, however, as the Huskies will face off with two perennial local powerhouses and several larger schools with just five players over six feet tall on the NHS roster. This lack of size will hopefully be overcome with a load of depth, according to Carr.

"We were a young team last year," said Carr, "but we were very competitive against the larger schools on our schedule."

Leading the growth and depth chart will be projected starting signal-caller Patrick Sines. The 6-1 junior will head a backfield consisting of Alex Baker, Josh Mason, and Jake Bosley. Split ends Kyle Rosenberger and Cody Rodeheaver will provide two more targets at the skill positions, a spot Carr feels will be key for the Huskies.

"The strength of this year's squad will be our skilled position players," said Carr. "We have good depth and speed in our backfield and on the outside with our receivers."

Northern will have to overcome the loss of its set of Dylans – Day and Miller – on offense, as well as to the graduation of lineman Tyler Opel.

"Our biggest concern will be the size [or lack of] on the offensive line. We also are not very deep there," said Carr. "Hopefully we can use our quickness to overcome that lack of size."

Anchoring that line will be 6-2, 220-pound center Garrett Rayner, and Adam Brenneman and Zach Friend at the guard positions. Sean Kamp will also split time at guard, and may see some starting action.

A trio of players will rotate at tackle, with Zach Meyers, Justin Durst, and Nick Owens all expected to see significant playing time.

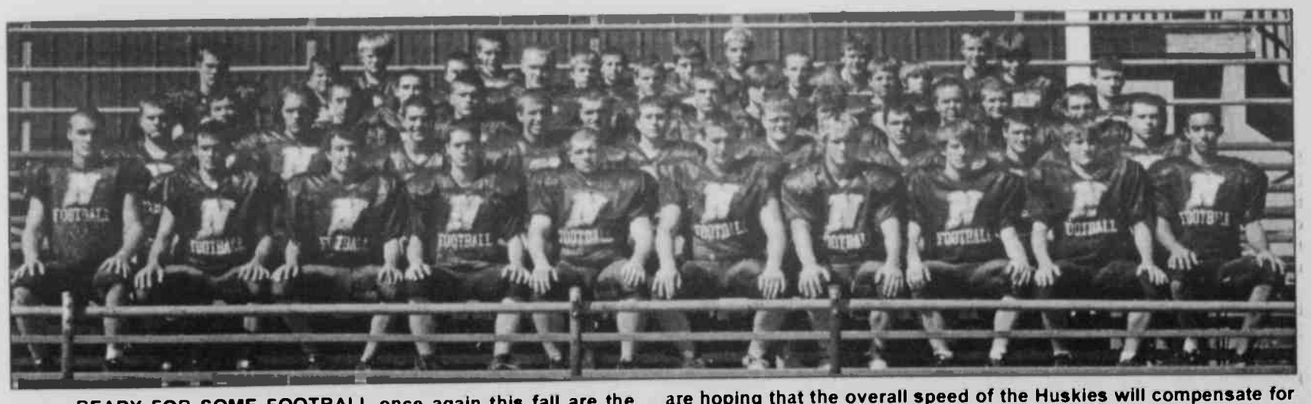

Carr says that Dan Sisler, Carlos Howard, and Dan Uphold will also see minutes on the offensive line.

Also lost to matriculation is All-Area and leading tackler Adam Moranduzzo on the defensive side of the football.

Carr and staff will call on Chris Murdock, Cody Rodeheaver, Devin Francillion, and Kyle Rosenberger as potential starters in the defensive backfield this week at Smithsburg, with Bosley, Austin Tombley, Bobby Hay, Ty Owens, and Josh Mason as the linebackers.

Raynor, Brenneman, and Meyers will lead the way in the defensive front, with

READY FOR SOME FOOTBALL once again this fall are the members of the Northern High School varsity, who will open their season this Friday evening at Smithsburg. Coach Phil Carr and staff are hoping that the overall speed of the Huskies will compensate for a relative lack of size at several key positions. See story for Carr's thoughts on the upcoming 2010 campaign.

Ram Netters Have Strong Defense, Improving Offense; To Open Tuesday

"A positive attitude and team spirit" are among the strengths of the 2010 Southern High School varsity volleyball team, according to head coach Stephanie Stephens. The Rams will open their season next Tuesday at Allegany.

"We have several players who are strong in every aspect of the game," said Stephens. "Both our varsity and junior varsity are playing well and are blending well on the court. Defensively, the girls are very strong."

Top players lost to graduation are Anna Keefer, Alicia King, April Sisler, and Kaylee Sisler, but talented athletes back this year are Alycia Horner, Alyssa Cowgill, Annie Graham, Tara Marple, Bethany Rexroad, Lindsay Lipscomb, and Corinne Fike.

As for concerns, Coach Stephens said that her team needs to be stronger offensively in order to compete with some of the schools that the Rams will face this season.

"We are working hard to improve our offense," she said, adding that she expects Fort Hill and Frankfort to be among the area's top teams.

"Coach Graham (Becky, junior varsity coach) and I are very pleased with this group of girls," Shaffer said. "They show enthusiasm and energy, on and off the court. We want them to enjoy volleyball and make the 2010 season a positive experience for everyone."

CONSEQUENCES OF EXCESSIVE NOISE
If you think that hearing loss is the only adverse health outcome that can be expected from exposure to excessively loud noise, you should hear what German researchers have to say. They found that those exposed to jet noise, and especially women, face an elevated risk of stroke, high blood pressure, and heart disease. According to the study, men who are exposed to jet noise have a 69% higher risk of being hospitalized for heart disease, and women living under flight paths experienced an even higher (93%) rate of hospitalization for cardiovascular disease. The study also showed that women exposed to jet noise during the day were 172% more likely to suffer a stroke.
If you would like to learn about the various ways of safeguarding your hearing from hazards of all kinds, we invite you to ask the people who know, the people who have your best interests at heart – the people at AUDIBEL. We provide comprehensive audiological care in a friendly, comfortable atmosphere. Between our commitment to your well being and our dedicated staff, your hearing is in good hands.
PS. One study found that women exposed to jet noise at night are twice as likely to develop breast cancer.

REGISTER OF WILLS
YOU HAVE ASKED
What does the Register of Wills office do?
The Registrar is a clerk of the Orphans' Court, charged with appointing personal representatives to administer estates and oversee the proper and timely dispensation of these proceedings. The Registrar assists and advises the public in the preparation of all required forms, maintains and preserves a permanent record of all proceedings, tracks estates and refers delinquent matters to the Court, collects inheritance taxes and probate fees, and audits estate and guardian accounts. The Register of Wills office is prohibited from rendering legal advice.
Will you still be Police Chief? / Why don't you want to be Police Chief anymore?
No. If elected for the Registrar position, I will no longer be your Police Chief. I'm humbled that you have allowed me to be Chief for 26 years. It is not that I don't want to continue in this capacity. It is that I would like to pursue a new opportunity. Peggy Jamison, the Mayor, and the Town Council would select another person to represent you as Police Chief.
Becoming the next Registrar and working in the Register of Wills office would be a life changing move for me and my family. I'm trying to convince you that I deserve the job more than my opponents. The truth is, you have a really hard decision to make this election year. There are four good choices! Each offer unique skills and abilities. It is my hope that the qualities that you see in me will earn your vote.

Rams Enjoying Largest Turnout For Football In Years; To Open At Alco

by Branden Wilt

It's a numbers game at Southern Garrett: one of the largest turnouts for football in over a decade at 70 student-athletes; seven returning starters on offense; eight re-ups on defense.

But will it equal a trip to the Maryland 1A playoffs in 2010 for the Rams?

Three months and 10 games will tell.

"This is the most seasoned group of athletes we have had in 10 years," said Ram head coach Steve Savage. "This is the senior class we have been looking forward to the past four years to help turn things around on the mountaintop."

The fifth-year head coach has set the expectations high for his neophytes at Southern, but Savage feels his seniors are up to the challenges both on and off the gridiron as they open their season at Allegany this Saturday.

"Several of these young men have proven they are willing to make a commitment – not excuses – and do what it takes to be successful in football and in life," Savage continued. "They have spent time in the weight room and want to succeed. They have done everything we have asked of them to get better. Now we have to go out and work hard every day to reach our goal of making the playoffs."

Senior Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel returns for his second year as the starting quarterback, and, according to Savage, the 5-10 signal caller brings leadership and experience to the position, and has looked much improved in all phases of the game.

The Ram backfield will resemble a Greek god's worst nightmare, and will feature a hybrid combination of backs including Kody Sanders, Zack Knotts, Derek Papa, Tyler Gregory, Derek Noble, Dan Sislo, Mason Dick, and Kurt Gangler.

"All of these kids are good enough to carry the ball," says Savage. "Kody has the most experience and has worked hard in the off season to get stronger. He suffered a hand injury and missed much of his junior year, so we are looking for big things from him this season.

"Zack Knotts and Derek Noble have plenty of experience as well carrying the ball. Sanders and Papa are returning seniors and will see plenty of time in the backfield, as well as in other positions on the offensive side. We need those two on the field for us so we will use them in a variety of ways to capitalize on what they bring to the table."

Savage likes the versatility of his skill players, and will try to mix things up this season.

"Gangler and Mason Dick are also vying for time as backup quarterback, and both have shown flashes of being able to succeed at that position," said Savage. "Both are juniors who are talented athletes, so we will certainly be looking for ways to get them involved. We like Bubba as a running back as well, so if one of the two juniors can step up and play some quarterback, it will allow us to use Bubba in other ways."

However, that eight-headed monster will need someone up front to open up holes, and the Southern coaching staff recognizes this.

"The most important part of the offensive side rests in the blocking ability of our offensive line," he said. "For the first time in years, we do have decent size on the line. With returning senior starters Ryan Bennett, Tyler Alt, and Corey Helbig, we have some experience as well."

The offensive line is 80% set, with juniors Josh Wotring and Mikail Perrme battling for the center spot. First-year starter Wes Miller will man left tackle, while Bennett and Helbig will be the guards, and Alt will see the start at the right tackle spot.

Tight end will be a four-headed serpent consisting of seniors Joe Kisselovich and Derek Papa, and juniors Tim Glotfelty and Garth Wolfe.

"Any of these guys can play the position," said Savage, "so we feel good about all of them."

Juniors Logan Stewart, Dick, and Gangler will see time at the split end position.

Southern will have to defend the football as well, and the Rams will be switching from a five-man front, used last season, to a four-man front.

"With the number of quality linebackers we think we have, we just want to get as many of them on the field as possible," Savage explained. "We will be using returning senior starters Scheffel and Sanders, and Helbig or Tyler Gregory at three of those linebacker spots. We will certainly be using a rotation of backers because we believe all of these young men can play. I have been impressed with all of these guys and their ability to make plays. It is the one area where we have tremendous depth.

"Our defensive ends should be the best tandem in the area," he said. "Returning starters Joe Kisselovich and Ryan Bennett should be strength for us. Joe really gets after the passer, and Ryan is a great run defender. They are both big, strong, and fast kids."

Trying to fill the defensive tackle position has been a battle. Alt is a returning starter and senior Cameron Bernard saw lots of action last season. A rotation will be used, with Alt and junior Stan Brown likely to start the opener.

The secondary will be filled by Zack Knotts at safety, Dick or Gangler at one corner, and Papa or Stewart at the other.

Senior Jake Bramande will handle all kicking duties and, as a soccer player, will add a new dimension to the team with his accuracy.

Following the trip to Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland Saturday, the Rams will travel to the Mountain State to take on Moorefield in week #2 and then try to handle Hampshire in their September 17 home opener.

Rounding out the schedule will be Rappahannock, Tucker County, Petersburg, Fort Hill, Mtn. Ridge, Bishop Walsh, and arch rival Northern in the finale.

All kickoffs are set for 7 p.m., save the BW Saturday afternoon matinee at Spartan Stadium. That contest will get under way at 1:30.

Northern Boys To Open Soccer Campaign Friday In Brunswick

by Branden Wilt

The Northern Garrett boys soccer team will open its season tomorrow in Brunswick when it faces off with Winters Mill in the first of a pair of weekend matches.

Head coach Lynn Lais will rely on experience and ball control downstate Saturday in the form of returnees Steven Holtschneider, Cooper Corley, and Cody Brenneman (midfielders) and defender Jeffrey Trautwein. All return with one more year of experience and savvy under their belts.

Also suiting up again in goal this season will be Justin Shaw.

"We have had some great sessions," says Lais. "This team is very hard-working and fun-loving. Our goal is always the regional final and a chance at the state tournament."

Standing in the way will be local inter-county rival Mountain Ridge, and private power Bishop Walsh. Both expect to provide the Huskies with stiff challenges this season.

"Our ongoing season goal is to get better every time we take the field at practice or in a game. Our intent is to finish everything we do well," said Lais.

Projected Saturday starters include Shaw in goal, and Trautwein, Brody Fike, Nick Buckel, McCann, and Zach Beal on defense. Holtschneider, Corley and Brenneman will man the midfield, while Alex Daniels and Jared Fike will get the nod at striker positions.

The Huskies will face their first local action next Wednesday when they travels to Oakland to take on arch-rival Southern.

Rams Edge Huskies, Huskies Top Rams In Last Two Golf Outings

The Southern and Northern golf teams met each other twice this past week, with the Rams edging the Huskies in the first competition, and the Huskies topping their cross-county rivals in the second one.

At the Maplehurst Country Club in Frostburg last Wednesday, the Rams finished second behind Mtn. Ridge, but four strokes ahead of third-place Northern.

It was a close match throughout, as just six strokes separated the three teams. The Miners finished with a team score of 180 to win, Southern was just two strokes back at 182, and the Huskies carded a 186.

It was the first win ever by Mtn. Ridge over either Garrett County school.

Northern's Austin Doerr garnered low medalist honors with a 38, while Billy Gindlesberger led the Rams with a 44.

In the second clash of the week, which was a five-team event hosted by the Rams at the Oakland Golf Club, the Huskies emerged as the team victor with a score of 178, followed by Southern with a 182.

Mtn. Ridge placed a distant third with a 199, Fort Hill followed with a 215, and Allegany did not have a complete team.

Doerr again led all the golfers, carding a low medalist score of 36. Gindlesberger and Evan Friend led the Rams with 44s. Second and third best individual scores were those of Fort Hill's Brian Lutton (42) and Northern's Camen Seller (43).

Team leaders gone from last year's 24-6 Southern squad are Brady Donaldson, Mark Mattingly, and Trevor Messenger. Pacing the team so far this season are Friend, Gindlesberger, and Andy Clark.

Other starters have been Kenny Harvey, Derek Getson, and Kelsie Polce.

"Every golfer has a strong desire to improve his/her game," said SHS head coach Ryan Wolf. "We are a young team, but we want to work hard this season to improve and have a better showing in the regional tournament."

Both the Rams and the Huskies are back in action today in the AMAC Tournament, which is being hosted by Mtn. Ridge at Maplehurst. The event teed off at 11 a.m. this morning.

Jason Opel, Anthony Cervi, Zach Merrill, Brian Ferrell, and Vladimir Johnson all seeing time on defense.

"Our practices have been good so far," said Carr. "Guys have been fighting for starting positions every day, which I think will make us better.

"We have to focus on improving each day, each week, and each game. Our goal is to have a winning season and go from there."

The Huskies will host their home opener in week #2 when Williamsport arrives in Accident, and will then travel to Mineral County for back-to-back games with Keyser and Frankfort.

Bishop Walsh will begin a three-game home stand on October 1, as Hampshire and Mtn. Ridge come to town before the Huskies mush to Greenway Avenue Stadium to face off against Allegany in week #8. Northern will finish its season on the road on October 29 at Berkeley Springs before the season finale in Oakland with intra-county rival Southern on November 5.

The kickoff at Smithsburg is set for 7 p.m.

Women Golfers Play Scramble

The Oakland Ladies Golf Association's weekly play last Thursday was a scramble.

Finishing in first place with a 70 was the team of Sue O'Neal, Becky Glotfelty, and Kathy Refosco. Second place was won by the team of Sherry Grant, Pat Filsinger, Barbara Frantz, and Jennie Bernard.

Garrett Golfers Participate In WPC Tourney

Garrett College golfers were among some 40 college players representing various junior colleges in Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania who competed in the recent Western Pennsylvania Conference's opening tournament at the Wisp Resort in McHenry.

Garrett freshman transfer Ed Herpel, a former standout at Northern High School, carded an 80 for a top-five finish on the Wisp course, deemed one of the toughest courses in the league, according to GC coach Dennis Gibson.

Sophomore Chris Kelley came in with an 86, good enough for a place among the 10 best scores. Low medalist score was a 76.

"This event is always tough for us," said Coach Gibson, "because we do not begin school until Sept. 8 and so we have only a few players on campus. I am happy with the opening scores. It looks like we will have an opportunity to be very competitive this fall in the WPC."

The Lakers' complete roster will be released after Sept. 8.

Oakland Senior Men Host Team From Alpine Lake

The senior men of the Oakland Golf Club invited the senior men from Alpine Lake, Terra Alta, for a day of golf and lunch. The format was a two best balls, net of four mixer.

Placing first with a team score of 115 was the team of Roger Levin, Bill Freeman, Larry Layman, and Gary Dixon.

Second place was determined via a scorecard playoff, with the team of Jim Hetrick, Skip Cramer, Sam Dick, and Ed Frantz edging out the team of Lee Maes, Bill Kelley, William Felix, and Dale Savage. Each team finished regular play with a score of 117.

Dave Lewis, Jerry House, Dale Rodeheaver, and Gordon Wright finished fourth in another scorecard playoff (119).

Thank You

I want to take this opportunity to say "thank You" for all your thoughtfulness, kindness and caring during Harvey's brief illness and death.

To: Dr. Richter, Dr. Schwalm, and Dr. Guiltoose and the staff of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, your care and concern went above and beyond the normal, and Harvey knew he could trust your judgement to always be in his best interests.

To: Sharon Buckel and Garrett County Home Health, we are so fortunate to have this agency in Garrett County to depend on, day and night, whatever the need.

To: Crellin United Methodist Church family: for all the food, flowers, and baskets sent to the hospital, and for the picnic lunch you provided after the memorial service, but most of all letting your actions show Christ's love through all you've done!

To: Mtn. Laurel coworkers–your kindness in making sure my work was always done, for the food, for your hospital visits, for PTO donations, and for always being there to listen during all the ups and downs of Harvey's illness.

To: My family: I could never repay all your love and support. For being there in the middle of the night, for your hospital trips, for putting your lives on hold to be with me. I love you more than you know!

I especially want to thank those of you who visited Harvey in the hospitals, brought food to our house, sent donations to the Fire Dept. or the church, for all the cards, the uplifting messages, the heartfelt words of encouragement and the prayers lifted up in our names. Thanks to Burdock Funeral Home, Fairfax County Fire Dept. Retirement Association, Pat & Jana Cessna Harry and Kris Spiker and families for all your kindness!

If I've missed anyone in this thank you, I'm truly sorry, your kindness will always be remembered.

My life was richly blessed by having Harvey there to share the years with! He will be missed! May God bless you all.

How to Generate Retirement Income during Retirement

Like most people, you probably save and invest throughout your working years so that you'll be able to afford a comfortable retirement. Once you retire, you'll want to focus on strategies to help you make the most of your retirement income — and you might want to become familiar with these ideas well before you retire.

Basically, you'll have some "must do" moves and some "think about doing" moves. Let's take a look at the "must do" ones first.

• Take the right amount of distributions from retirement plans. Once you turn 59½, you may be able to take penalty-free withdrawals, or distributions, from some of your retirement accounts, such as your traditional IRA and 401(k). But once you turn 70½, you generally must start taking distributions from these accounts. Your required minimum distribution, or RMD, is based on the previous year's balance in your retirement plan and life expectancy tables. You can take more than the minimum, but you'll want to make sure you don't take so much that you outlive your savings.

• Maximize your Social Security benefits. You can start collecting Social Security as early as 62, but if you wait until your "full" retirement age, which will probably be around 66, your monthly checks will be larger. And if you wait until after your full retirement age before you start collecting benefits, your checks can be even larger, though they'll "top off" when you turn 70. What should you do? Start taking the money as early as possible or delay payments, waiting for bigger paydays? There's no one right answer for everyone. To get the maximum benefits from Social Security, you'll need to factor in your health status, family history of longevity and other sources of retirement income.

Now, let's consider two moves that you may think about doing during your retirement years.

• Purchase income-producing investments. Outside your IRA and 401(k), you may have other investment accounts, and inside these accounts, you'll need a portfolio that can produce income for your retirement years. You may choose to own some investment-grade bonds and certificates of deposit (CDs), both of which can help provide you with regular interest payments at relatively low risk to your principal. However, these investments may not help you stay ahead of inflation, which, over a long retirement, can seriously erode your purchasing power. Consequently, you also may want to consider dividend-producing stocks. Some of these stocks have paid, and even increased, their dividends for many years in a row, giving you a chance to obtain rising income. (Keep in mind, though, that stocks may lower or discontinue dividends at any time, and an investment in stocks will fluctuate with changes in market conditions and may be worth more or less than the original investment when sold.)

• Go back to work. In your retirement years, you may decide to work part time, do some consulting or even open your own business. Of course, the more earned income you take in, the less money you'll probably need to withdraw from your investments and retirement accounts. However, if you've started collecting Social Security, any earned income you receive before your "full" retirement age will likely cause you to lose some of your benefits. Once you reach full retirement age, you can keep all your benefits, no matter how much you earn.

Keep these strategies in mind as you near retirement. They may well come in handy.

EXPERIENCE DOES COUNT

This letter from Maryland's elected State Treasurer, Nancy Kopp, was received recently by Register of Wills Rita Watson congratulating her on the completion of an audit of 3 years of her office's operations. The audit, done by a State Certified Fraud Examiner and CPA, took 5 weeks to complete. A report of "no finding" is much coveted by State agencies subject to regular State audits.

The register's offices are audited at least every 3 years without prior notice. The local office remitted almost $300,000 to the State General Fund after operating expenses and refunds last year.

"I ASK FOR YOUR HELP AND SUPPORT SO THAT I MAY CONTINUE TO PROVIDE FRIENDLY, HELPFUL, EFFICIENT AND PROFESSIONAL SERVICE TO THE PEOPLE OF GARRETT COUNTY."

Steelers Fall To Mtn. Ridge In CAYFL Opener

The Division I Northern Steelers fell to the Miners of Mtn. Ridge in their Cumberland Area Youth Football League season opener last weekend, 22-7.

The Steelers took a 7-0 lead in the first quarter when Meshach Metz was on the receiving end of a 60-yard TD pass from Trevon Jones. Jones ran for the conversion point.

The Miners cut the Steeler lead to one point with a touchdown in the second period, scored on a three-yard carry by Rashawn Johnson. The conversion kick was no good.

The Steelers held onto their slim lead until the fourth quarter, when Johnson scored his second touchdown, this one on a 10-yard run. A successful conversion kick by Sires gave the Miners a 14-7 lead.

Sires added an insurance touchdown late in the quarter via a 45-yard run, and also kicked the conversion.

Brian Groves, Kendell Schrock, and Brooks Carr were the defensive standouts for the Steelers.

The Division II Steelers recorded a 30-12 victory over their Mtn. Ridge counterparts.

Austin Evans scored a pair of touchdowns for the Steelers, while Aaron Rodeheaver and Logan Yommer each scored one. Evans' scores came via a 31-yard pass from Noah Werner and a 22-yard run. Rodeheaver scored on a 33-yard carry, and Yommer carried the ball into the end zone on a nine-yard run in the third quarter. Jake Vernon booted three conversions.

The Steelers had a commanding 30-0 lead going into the final period, which is when Lucas Lowry scored two touchdowns for the Miners, one on a 24-yard fumble return and the second on a three-yard run.

Shay Shumaker, Kyle Beard, and Saylor Wampler led the Steeler defensive unit.

The Steeler teams will play again this Sunday against the Patriots at Northern High School. The Division I game will begin at 2 p.m., and the Division II kickoff is set for 4 p.m.

Oakland Rams Lose To Warriors In Season Opener

The Division I Oakland Rams opened their 2010 Cumberland Area Youth Football League season with a hard-fight 20-14 loss to the Braddock Warriors.

Jeffery Eddington led the Rams' offense with 110 yards rushing on just nine carries. One of his carries was a 75-yard touchdown run, and he also hauled in a 47-yard touchdown pass.

The Oakland defense was anchored by Mikey Welch, who recorded eight tackles, while Jordan Dixon had six tackles and a half sack, and Josh Adams had one and a half sacks.

"Although we lost, I saw a lot of positive things," said Ram head coach Brian Cooper. "We made some mistakes, but not as many as you would expect in a season opener."

The Rams' next game will be at Ridgeley this Saturday, with the kickoff set for 2 p.m.

The Division II Rams were blanked in the second game, 13-0.

My parents told me about Mr. Common Sense early in my life and told me I would do well to call on him when making decisions. Today I read his obituary. Please join me in a moment of silence in remembrance, for Common Sense had served us all so well for so many generations.

OBITUARY
COMMON SENSE

Today we mourn the passing of a beloved old friend, Common Sense, who has been with us for many years. No one knows for sure how old he was since his birth records were long ago lost in bureaucratic red tape. He will be remembered as having cultivated such valuable lessons as knowing when to come in out of the rain, why the early bird gets the worm, life isn't always fair, and maybe it was my fault.

Common Sense lived by simple, sound financial policies (don't spend more than you earn) and reliable parenting strategies (adults, not children, are in charge).

His health began to deteriorate rapidly when well mtentioned but overbearing regulations were set in place. Reports of six-year-old boy charged with sexual harassment for kissing a classmate, teens suspended from school for using mouthwash after lunch; and a teacher fired for reprimanding an unruly student, only worsened his condition.

Common Sense lost ground when parents attacked teachers for doing the job they themselves failed to do in disciplining their unruly children. It declined even further when schools were required to get parental consent to administer aspirin, sun lotion, or a sticky plaster to a student, but could not inform the parents when a student became pregnant and wanted to have an abortion.

Common Sense lost the will to live as the Ten Commandments became contraband; churches became businesses, and criminals received better treatment than their victims. Common Sense took a beating when you couldn't defend yourself from a burglar in your own home and the burglar can sue you for assault.

Common Sense finally gave up the will to live, after a woman failed to realize that a steaming cup of coffee was hot. She spilled a little in her lap, sued and was promptly awarded a huge settlement.

Common Sense was preceded in death by his parents, Truth and Trust; his wife, Discretion, his daughter, Responsibility; and his son, Reason. He is survived by three stepbrothers: I Know my Rights, Someone Else is to Blame, and I'm a Victim.

Not many attended his funeral because so few realized he was gone.

Remember: He's never really gone as long as you let him live inside you.

Edmon, Moss Open Singles Winners In 89th Annual WM Championships

The 89th annual Western Maryland Championships tennis tournament was held recently at Mountain Lake Park on the historic red clay courts of the Mountain Lake Park Tennis Club. The tournament is recognized as one of the oldest red clay tennis tournaments in the nation. Because of excellent weather conditions this year, all matches were played on the club courts.

David DeGrafft, tournament referee, certified that players from Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Massachusetts, and Florida participated in one or more of a dozen divisions of competition. Participants ranged in age from pre-teen, (Collin and Evan Chase in the men's open doubles) to Doyle Royal, who, at the age of 92, played the men's 80 singles.

Courtney Smith Edmon, Framingham, Mass., daughter of Manning and Kathie Smith of Mountain Lake Park and a former #1 player for the Southern High Rams, defeated Cara Stough, Friendsville, 2-6, 6-0, 6-1, to claim the women's open singles championship.

Later, Edmon teamed with Phan Tran, North Bethesda, to defeat the father/daughter team of David Barnes and Jana Palmer, Williamsport, 6-2, 6-0, in the mixed open doubles title match.

Two players new to the tournament met in the men's open singles championship, as William Moss, Fredericksburg, Va., defeated Nathan Waich, Scottdale, Pa., 6-1, 6-0.

Chris Stambaugh, Murphreesborough, N.C., a frequent champion, defeated David Mast, Baltimore, in a hard-fought men's 35 singles final, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4.

Two players who met in the men's 45 singles championship last year were opponents in the final again this year. However, roles were reversed, as Bradley Chase, Bristow, Va., prevailed over Nick Colletti, Elhcott City, 6-3, 6-4.

The men's 55 singles championship was awarded to William Moldoch, Severna Park, when Rieck Foelber, Sykesville, who was injured in the semifinal round, was unable to play in the final.

William Kamenoff, Annapolis, was a repeat champion in the men's 65 singles after he defeated Leonard Fechter, Pittsburgh, 6-0, 6-2.

In the men's 80 singles division, a round robin was played. Glenn Workman, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., defeated Doyle Royal, Bethesda, 6-0, 6-2, and later was declared the winner when Kile Williams, Timonium, was unable to play because of an injury.

William Moss and Kenneth Holzapfel, Hagerstown, both recent graduates of Hampden-Sydney University, easily defeated Laith Layous, Potomac, and Phan Tran, 6-2, 6-1, to win the men's open doubles title.

In a close men's 45 doubles final, the Wheeling, W.Va., team of John Dorsey and David Pauley prevailed over John Thomas, Greensburg, Pa., and David Waich, Scottsdale, Pa., 6-4, 2-6, 6-4.

The father/son team of Rick Workman, Clearwater, Fla., and Glenn Workman were topped in the men's 55 doubles championship match by Ray Calvert, Washington, Pa., and John

Asking For Your Vote
TRACI (MARTIN) ROYCE
Republican Candidate for
Register of Wills
✔ Royce is the Choice for Register of Wills and Here Are The Reasons Why:
VOTE Sept. 3-9 at Oakland's Armory or Tuesday, Sept. 14 in your district
✔ INTEGRITY – My Actions Reveal My Heart.
I have run my campaign with the same integrity that I will demonstrate in my position as your Register of Wills. My commitment is to you and making the Register of Wills office an honest, safe and comforting place for you to be. In this office, I will treat you with the same dignity and respect that I have always shown people in my life.
✔ EXPERIENCE – My Business Mind Proves I Am Qualified.
Much has been printed about the experience of the current incumbent. Please be aware that it is a fact that Garrett County has elected business people who made great leaders that had no prior experience, including our former Register of Wills. I will continue our rich tradition by bringing my experience from the local business world to this office. That, along with mandatory training provided by the State of Maryland, a direct line and secure log-in for Register of Wills to contact the Attorney General's office and the experience of the current deputies in the Register of Wills office, I will bring a smooth and efficient transition to this office, the public and the Orphans' Court.
✔ TRUSTWORTHINESS – The Finality Of This Physical Life Is Sacred, And I Will Handle Your Situation And Estate With Honorable Trust.
I believe that trust is not given, it is earned. Through my years in business and my involvement within the community, I feel that I have earned the trust of the general public and will maintain this trust in serving you as the Register of Wills, working full time with those who are already present in the office. Considering that you have worked very hard for all the assets that have accumulated in your lifetime, I recognize and will serve you in the utmost capacity to ensure that your wishes are properly adhered to.
✔ COMPASSION – My Tender Heart Will Meet You Where You Are.
Through my many years of dealing with the public, managing employees and life in the corporate world, I have strived to provide the utmost compassion to all walks of life and will use this as a benchmark in meeting the needs of families during their times of distress.
✔ COMMITMENT – I Am A Devoted Public Servant.
In all that I do, I am passionate about my purpose and will work full time in the office of the Register of Wills to see that your needs are administered to competently and efficiently. As I embarked on the journey to run for office, my intentions were never to defeat my opponents, but a genuine, heartfelt desire to serve a county that has blessed me throughout my life.
✔ AWARENESS – You Need To Know What This Significant Office Does And The Peace Of Mind That Comes From Having Your Estate In Order.
I will work hard to educate all county residents on the importance of registering their wills with the Register of Wills office and will utilize all available resources to promote public awareness of the office and its societal values.
✔ COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT – I Will Always Support The County That Has Supported Me.
I strongly believe that character is shown in all that we do for the community without being rewarded. I am very active in our community because I care. I am humbled by the support that I have been given and will continue always to give back. I am honored that you would vote for me, and I would never forget the faith you placed in me.
As you enter the voting booth, think about the person you choose to have serve you
Vote with confidence,
Vote TRACI (MARTIN) ROYCE for Register of Wills,
YOU WON'T REGRET IT!
It is my sincere belief that we each have been selected by God to fulfill a purpose as public servants to others, to the best of our abilities, and with this belief I seek your trust and support at the polls.

Experienced SHS Boys' Cross Country Squad Eyes State Title

With only two of its top runners lost to graduation, the Southern High School boys' cross country team returns a strong nucleus from a squad that finished fourth in the 2009 1A state championships.

"Several other new runners are quickly learning the ropes of a tough cross country season, while blending with their new teammates," said Winters.

Winters believes that the "teams to beat" in the area are Allegany, Fort Hill, and Mountain Ridge, but expects plenty of competition from a number of teams in the strong 1A West Region.

"Local West Virginia schools, including Hampshire, Preston, and Keyser, always have strong programs and make local meets especially tough," said Winters.

The Rams' season will kick off at the always competitive Interstate Classic, set for this Saturday in Clear Spring. The campaign will culminate with the 1A West Regional in Williamsport on November 4 and the Maryland State Championships on November 13.

"We have set many goals, including a state championship for this year and next," said Winters. "For the first time since Coach Carl Booth's teams of the mid-'90s that won multiple state championships, we believe this year's team has a realistic chance to achieve those goals. Continued hard work, support, and dedication from every member of this team can make these dreams become a reality."

Grafft. "We also received excellent cooperation from the mayor, the town council, and residents of Mountain Lake Park, before and during the tournament."

DeGrafft added that the efforts of numerous volunteers who assisted with preparations for and/or hosted various social events "were vital to the success of this historic tournament."

The tournament committee – consisting of Bill Tritt, tournament director, Kathie Smith, tournament secretary, Barbara Chesley, assistant secretary and Patrice Tritt, awards chairman – have plans under way for the 90th annual Western Maryland Championships, slated for the first week of August 2011.

Oakland Golfers To Participate In Patriot Golf Day

The Oakland Golf Club will participate in the fourth annual Patriot Golf Day, a joint initiative of the PGA of America and the United States Golf Association. Golfers across the country have the unique opportunity to donate an additional $1 or more to benefit the Folds of Honor Foundation (FoldsofHonor.org), which provides post-secondary educational scholarships for children and spouses of military service men and women killed or disabled while serving. The Oakland Golf Club will request at least an additional $1 for each green fee that is processed Sept. 3-6.

"This is a great way for the golf industry to help the families of those who have lost their lives or have been injured so that we may have our freedom," said PGA professional Patrick Warren of the Oakland club. "It is a wonderful opportunity for golfers in our community to give back to those who have given everything."

Through events across the country since 2007, PGA professionals have helped raise more than $5.3 million, allowing the Folds of Honor Foundation to award 1,163 post-secondary educational scholarships.

Major Dan Rooney, a PGA professional, USGA member, and F-16 military pilot with the Oklahoma Air National Guard, founded the Folds of Honor Foundation following his second of three tours of duty in Iraq. After witnessing the homecoming of a fallen American soldier, Rooney was inspired to start Folds of Honor to provide support to military families in the aftermath of their tragedies.

According to Rooney, there are 172,000 dependents of fallen and wounded military service men and women from the Iraq and Afghanistan conflicts alone, and 85 percent of those dependents do not qualify for federal educational assistance.

Individuals interested in contributing to the Folds of Honor Foundation, and those applying for scholarships, are invited to go online to FoldsofHonor.org.

Vote Gregan Crawford
Garrett County Commissioner, District 1
REPUBLICAN

As I have campaigned over the course of many weeks going door to door, dropping in on businesses, attending community and town meetings throughout the entire county, I have been able to listen to a variety of concerns about our county, our communities, and our local government. There is no substitute for this "old school" method of campaigning and listening to the voters' concerns.

The most repeated concerns that I hear regard spending/taxes and lack of livable wage economic development. Spending must first be aligned with the necessities and the services that all of our county citizens expect and deserve as well as our goals for increasing economic development and opportunity. Downward pressure must be placed on property taxes to begin to provide relief for all and make housing more affordable.

Growth was easy for many years; times were good; however, the current unsettled economic times now dictate to us that as a county and as a community of diverse interests that include agriculture, small towns, tourism, natural resources, recreation, and industry, we can no longer operate in the "default mode." The paradigm for growth is shifting, and new leadership is needed to guide Garrett County. As the paradigm shifts so must the mindset for addressing concerns and resolving issues. The significant number of candidates seeking to be elected to the office of Commissioner is an acknowledgment that it is time for new leadership, new approaches, new ideas, and a renewed engagement with our region, our citizens, and our business community.

It's the difference between being reactive and proactive, of accepting the status quo and embracing challenges. It's the difference between merely existing and thriving as a sustainable community. To be a sustainable community is to realize that no one aspect of the community can operate or exist in a vacuum; rather we are all inextricably connected as a community. From Grantsville to Red House to Finzel, we all have a vested interest in the success of Garrett County. I believe that there is no better place to live than Garrett County.

If elected, I will continue to listen to your concerns, work to resolve issues, and create solutions in an open and accountable manner, so that all of Garrett County and its communities can grow stronger, more resilient and expand opportunities. I believe that the best days for Garrett County are yet to come, and that Garrett County can grow its economic base and population base. The results of such growth will bolster our communities both economically and socially and will help to ensure that Garrett County remains a viable place to live and work.

I ask for your vote and support on September 14, 2010

LIGHT WIND, HEAT, FRUSTRATION
by Dan Muss

Last Saturday morning some forecasts called for the wind to be "light and variable"; Accuweather said 5 knots ESE. "Light and variable" was more like it, but there was enough to race, and PRO John Meredith set the course through the slot between Turkey Neck and Thousand Acres. My regular crew, Fearless Marilyn Filemyr, was off to her high school reunion, and Eric Von Ekartsberg filled in.

After a reasonable start we were in the muddle of the pack, but found ourselves fortuitously in some wind and rounded the first mark in first. Eric has had limited experience flying the spinnaker, but he did a good job going downwind. We rounded the leeward mark with about a four-boat-length lead, but mixed up with the rear of the Silver Fleet. I saw several boats taking unfavorable tacks off to the right and left, but we were only 100 yards from the finish and I decided to stay with the Silvers. Big mistake! Silverman came in from the right with a head of steam to win, while Rissell came in from the left to get second as we sat immobile and frustrated.

On Sunday the forecasts were again "light and variable," but Accuweather said 4 SSW. When we left the mooring that's exactly what we had, and I was downright shocked to find that the course was, again, through the slot. The course should have been set out in front of the Turkey Neck club because the slot was actually in the wind shadow of the Turkey Neck shoreline. With the southerly cast to the wind in the slot, we (and everyone else) started at the pin on the port tack and could almost fetch it without tacking. Anderson seemed to have his own breeze and took off, never to be seen again until back at the club. He did a literal horizon job on all of us.

The leg to the jibe mark was a spinnaker run, and our fleet, except for Anderson, was bunched together. After the gibe we had to sail close-hauled to clear the Thousand Acre point. As we approached the so-called leeward mark, there were three fleets mixed up – Silver, Masters', and Challenger – when the wind died. I decided to sail wide around the clump, but the wind came up from the south and everyone took off but us. I believe we finished last... of all the fleets! Not my greatest! My wife Carol who crews for Rissell swore later she'd never go out again when the wind was "light and variable."

After finally crossing the finish line, the wind died again and we had to paddle most of the ½-mile back to our mooring. No one came out to tow us in. The end of a difficult day.

Selin And Sober Repeat Victories In Garrett Open

Weather conditions were deemed perfect for the Garrett Open/Recovery Race held Saturday at Herrington Manor State Park. The race was organized by Garrett Trails and the Garrett County Health Department's Center for Behavioral Health to promote the use of trails throughout the county and also recognize National Addictions Recovery Month.

Sixty-one runners participated in the 6-kilometer course over established trails through forest glens, mountain meadows, and past the park lake. Kari Selin of Morgantown kept a 7:38 pace to lead all runners over the rolling course. Selin took the lead at the 3.5-mile mark when the lead runner missed a turn.

Jen Sober of McHenry led all women with a blistering 7:44 pace, finishing in second place overall and a full five minutes ahead of second-place female Andie Devens, also of McHenry.

The Southern High School boys' cross country team was well represented, with Jasper Tasker finishing third overall and placing a total of six runners in the top 11 spots.

Steve Green and Robin Storey led the strong masters field with respective times of 24:51 and 31:32.

A 1-mile walk was held in addition to the 6-kilometer run. Carsyn and Calyb King crossed the finish line with times of 10:58 and 10:59 to lead the 26 walk participants.

Additional race results and photos are available online at www.tristaterun-ner.com, and the Queen City Striders web site at qcs.tjel.com.

According to organizers, one of the goals of the GO/RR is to expose the public to the expanding trail system in Garrett County. Many participants commented on the beauty of the trail, and a few observed deer and wild turkeys while completing the course. One participant, Steve Bell of Keyser, said that he enjoyed the course so much that he ran it two additional times in preparation for the upcoming Savage-Man Triathlon.

A second goal of the GO/RR is to recognize those persons who are in recovery from an addiction. September is National Recovery Month and the Garrett County Steps Committee co-hosted the event to raise awareness of the resources available locally to assist persons struggling with addictions.

Steve Green, president of Garrett Trails, thanked the runners for their participation and encouraged the public to take advantage of the many trails throughout Garrett County. He also thanked the sponsors, which included: ASI at Garrett College, ASCI, Garrett County Center for Behavioral Health, Railey Realty, Gosnell Inc., Team One, High Mountain Sports, and Claire Shockley (voiceover actor). The race was hosted by Saucony Shoes represented by Jen Sober. Each participant received a gear bag from Saucony, in addition to a commemorative T-shirt.

Persons interested in hiking, biking, running or cross-country skiing the many Garrett County trails are invited to visit the Garrett Trails web site at: www.garretttrails.org.

"Election" is defined as "opportunity," "job hunt," and "hopo." Maryland has designated a 4-year term of accountability for this job before allowing another citizen the opportunity to try. Guiding someone through the probate system is an enormous responsibility, especially when facing the emotions of a grieving family. Adapting to a new office is a learning experience for all. I am compassionate and easy going, have extensive business experience, and confidently respect this challenge and opportunity to become the Register of Wills for Garrett County. I am qualified to run for this honorable position. If only one person were capable of running that office then none of us would have wasted our time, energy or money.

This is my OPPORTUNITY, my JOB HUNT, and my HOPE.

Please vote for me on September 14.

THE POTENTIAL IMPACT on streams, wells, and other water resources from the drilling for natural gas in the Marcellus shale shelf will be the topic of a webinar presentation at the next meeting of the Allegheny Highlands Conservancy, scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 15, at Garrett College. See story for details.

Wastewaters From Marcellus Shale Drilling To Be Topic Of AHC Meeting

The Allegheny Highlands Conservancy (AHC) will hold its regular meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 15, at 7 p.m. in the CAOS building at Garrett College. An archived webinar titled "Treatment/Disposal Options for Wastewaters from Shale Gas Drilling" will be presented by Bryan Swistock, water resources specialist, School of Forest Resources, Penn State University. The public is welcome to attend.

Some of those present at the March AHC meeting, at which the webinar was shown, found it to be "quite informative, and somewhat troubling," according to an AHC spokesperson, noting that this issue has not in their opinion been adequately covered locally by the media, academia, or government.

Some of the questions generated during the discussion that followed the first viewing of the webinar included: How will the millions of gallons of contaminated water generated from Marcellus shale drilling operations in Garrett County be treated? Who will ultimately pay for treatment? How and where will this treated water be disposed? How will wells, streams, and springs adjacent to leased lands be impacted, and who will pay if they are contaminated?

Those with high-speed Internet access who are unable to attend the Sept. 15 meeting can view this and another webinar by Swistock titled "Water Use and Water Quality Issues," located on the web at http://naturalgas.exten-sion.psu.edu/webinars.htm. A pdf file of "Treatment/Disposal Options for Wastewaters from Shale Gas Drilling" is also available at: http://resources.cas.-psu.edu/WaterResources/pdfs/12710webinarqa.pdf. The file size is too large for those with a dial-up Internet connection.

This is one of a series of webinars offered by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences and Penn State Cooperative Extension. They cover a variety of topics, ranging from local government's role in gas exploration to the effects of deep-well drilling methods on water supplies. The series is targeted at extension educators, federal and state agency representatives, and interested citizens.

AHC is a local land trust dedicated to conserve the natural resources, scenic beauty, and rural character of the Allegheny Highlands of Maryland. Members work to: protect and conserve land, water, and natural resources of the Allegheny Highlands region; promote the preservation, protection, and stewardship of forest, scenic, natural, wildlife, recreational, and agricultural land, and water resources; partner with the community to conserve working rural farms and forests; serve as a conservation information resource for landowners and land managers; and provide a forum for community understanding and support of land and water conservation.

JOE WAS ELECTED REGISTER OF WILLS IN 1978. HE WAS RE-ELECTED TO 7 ADDITIONAL 4-YEAR TERMS. HE RETIRED JUNE 30, 2008. HE IS RITA'S TREASURER.

RITA SERVED WITH JOE FOR MORE THAN 30 YEARS AS HIS CHIEF DEPUTY. SHE WAS SELECTED TO FOLLOW HIM AS REGISTER ON JULY 1, 2008.

JOE DISIMONE
EXPLAINS WHY HE SUPPORTS RITA WATSON

I urge my friends and all the voters of Garrett County to keep Rita Watson as their Register of Wills by voting for her in the September 14 Primary Election. I don't do this to benefit Rita or because we are good friends. I do it because I know that it's the best thing for the people of Garrett County, who sooner or later will be involved with her office and need her help.

I ask this not only because Rita served with great competence as my Chief Deputy for 30 years and not only because of her extensive knowledge of probate law and its application or her excellent record as Register for the past year and her capable performance as clerk to the Orphans' Court, and not even because I know that being Register of Wills has been her dream since she was 18 years old.

But I ask it also because there are literally hundreds of open estates and probate matters currently pending in Rita's office. Some of these cases take months or even years to complete. While this is occurring there are dozens of details concerning the progress and status of each of these individual estates known only to Register of Wills. The people who are working their way through this process must rely heavily on her knowledge, experience and her understanding of the issues facing them in their particular cases. What is to happen to those people if they must now start over with someone who not only has no experience in the complex business of the Orphans' Court or the probate process, but who knows nothing about their individual cases?

I have first hand knowledge of Rita's compassion and desire to help people. I know of her efforts to help them avoid unnecessary expense and get through probate with as little pain and worry as possible. Rita has that special, understanding way of talking to people who come to her in an emotional state of mind having lost a loved one, and facing all the problems that can entail. She has the gift of a personality that enables her to make them feel comfortable and at ease. This is true because Rita genuinely cares about other people.

Rita also has extensive knowledge of the complex state computer system which is used in every aspect of the work of the Register's office. Over the years, Rita has attended dozens of seminars and training sessions with experts in probate law and procedure including with lawyers from the Attorney General's office. Some years ago she started, on her own initiative, a series of free classes on probate throughout the county. These were held in the evenings for the convenience and benefit of people facing the prospect of losing someone close to them and needing information concerning estate planning. She did this voluntarily and without compensation.

Rita has also trained her co-workers, Tom Matthews and Heather O'Brien, to be efficient and outstanding public servants. Rita has been a great asset to the Office of Register of Wills for more than 31 years. The office is much busier today than it was when I was elected. I volunteered to be the treasurer of her campaign because I believe it very important that she continue to serve the people of Garrett County in that office.

Rita with Campaign Manager Rev. Don Matthews (L) and her friend and mentor Joe DiSimone (R), Campaign Treasurer

I also want to thank the voters of Garrett County for giving me the honor of serving as their Register of Wills for more than 30 years.

Joe DiSimone,

Former GC Students Reunite To Share The Past, Plan The Future

by Peggy Santamaria

As August was drawing to a close and new students scrambled to enroll in classes at Garrett College, a group of GC alumni from 1981 to '85 gathered on the campus to renew friendships and revisit places that exist now only as memories.

The idea for the get-together was initiated by Kim Doyle Fitzwater and Mike Uram. They got in touch with Phil Caruso, the baseball coach during their college days, who strongly supported the idea of the reunion.

"It has been over 25 years since we all left GCC to pursue our careers and lives," Coach Caruso said, adding that he felt compelled to see old friends and former team players and share some stories of youth and exuberance during their college days.

"In the past four years, I have experienced a stroke that affected the speech center of my brain," he said. "Two months ago I had a pacemaker installed. So I thought this would be a good time to see everyone again."

The group of 19 former Garrett College students arrived on campus Saturday, Aug. 21, for a luncheon sponsored by the Garrett College Foundation. College president Dr. Richard MacLennan welcomed them all back.

Fred Learey, executive director of the Garrett College Foundation, reconnected with people who had been his students when he was chairman of the college's business program.

"They have moved on now to successful careers, but have a lasting appreciation of the good beginnings they experienced here," he said.

Learey also said that the event seemed to generate a positive spirit.

"The reunion was a special experience for everyone who could attend," he said. "The group decided to initiate the Phil Caruso Athletic Scholarship to honor their baseball coach. I think this could be a great beginning for a growing alumni association at Garrett College."

Following the reunion, Caruso reflected on the event, saying, "I don't think I can find the proper words to describe this past weekend. The laughter and stories never stopped from Friday to Sunday afternoon. Those who couldn't make it for a variety of reasons were not forgotten, and their names and stories were shared. It was as if they were there."

Mike Uram shared his thoughts about the weekend's activities.

"It was like we picked up where we left off 26 years ago – like we never missed a beat," he said. "I am so proud to be a part of Garrett College alumni and a past baseball player for Phil Caruso. He and the college are a big part of who I am today. I am honored to say I attended Garrett College and was a baseball player for Phil Caruso. Hopefully, even more people will be able to attend future GC reunions."

Kim Fitzwater agreed that the work of planning this reunion was worth the effort.

"This weekend was magic, no doubt about it," she said. "I've heard the comment that it was 'only two years' that we all had together at Garrett. Two years? Leaving a footprint on the soul, it was a lifetime."

Anyone interested in learning about plans for future reunions at Garrett College or contributing to the Phil Caruso Athletic Scholarship is invited to telephone the Garrett College Foundation office at 301-387-3100.

Businesses Donate Funds to Educate Future Workforce

Garrett College received donations to fund two scholarships during the recent ribbon-cutting ceremony at its newest facility, the Career Technology Training Center in the Central Industrial Park in Accident.

Crabtree, Rohrbaugh, and Associates (CRA) of Mechanicsburg, Pa., the architectural firm that provided design services on the project, and Beitzel Corporation/Pillar Innovations of Grantsville, which completed the renovations and construction, each contributed a $1,000 scholarship.

Adam Abraham, project manager from CRA, presented a check to Julie Yoder, interim dean of the Continuing Education & Workforce Development Division at Garrett College, and Fred Learey, executive director of the Garrett College Foundation. In addition, Abraham awarded Yoder a plaque to commemorate the occasion.

"This project is a great example of a community coming together for a common goal,' Abraham said.

Representing Beitzel Corporation/Pillar Innovations, Willis Beitzel also presented Yoder with a $1,000 check to help educate and prepare local residents to become productive members of the Garrett County workforce. He noted that as an employer in Garrett County, he is very aware of the importance of well-trained workers for local industries.

"The Continuing Education and Workforce Development program is very appreciative of Crabtree, Rohrbaugh, and Associates, and Beitzel Corporation/Pillar Innovation for their generous scholarship awards toward programs offered at the Career Technology Training Center," Yoder said. "These scholarships will be used to assist adult students in achieving their career goals."

For more information on the courses offered at the Career Technology Training Center and scholarships available, persons may telephone 301-387-3069.

Garrett Extends Opportunity For Placement Testing

Garrett College has scheduled additional dates for potential students to speak with advisors and take required placement tests at the McHenry campus. Students who have already applied to Garrett College may take advantage of these opportunities.

Placement testing is scheduled for next Tuesday, Sept. 7, from 9 to 10 a.m. and from 1 to 2 p.m.

Walk-in placement testing will also be available September 8, 9, and 10 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. each day.

Once the placement process is complete, advising appointments will be slated.

"We are offering more dates and times for incoming students to attend advising and placement sessions to make certain we are reaching as many people as possible," said Ann Wellham, dean of marketing and enrollment management. "This is part of our initiative to let students know 'It's Not Too Late to Start a Bright Future.'"

For more information on advising and placement at Garrett College, persons may telephone 301-387-3044 or visit the web site www.garrettcollege.edu.

HONORED FOR ESTABLISHING ARBORETUM – Former Dennett Road Elementary School principal Clark A. Sharpless and many of his former colleagues held a picnic recently to commemorate the 30th anniversary of the school's arboretum. The Dennett Road Green School Committee purchased a granite marker and a Crimson King maple tree to commemorate the anniversary. Sharpless is pictured below with the tree and marker, which reads "2010 – 30th Anniversary, Dennett Road Elementary School Arboretum, Established by Clark A. Sharpless Sr., Principal 1974–1992."

Celebration Held To Mark Garden's 30th Anniversary

This year marks the 30th anniversary of the Dennett Road Elementary School Arboretum. The botanical garden was started by Clark A. Sharpless Sr., who was the school's principal from 1974 to 1992.

In order to commemorate the anniversary, the Dennett Road Green School Committee purchased a granite marker and a Crimson King maple tree.

Many of Sharpless' former staff attended a picnic in the arboretum on July 23 to honor the former principle and to reminisce about their time working with him.

Sharpless started the botanical garden by purchasing a tree each year and planting it with the help of students and staff on Arbor Day.

"The arboretum has grown into a lovely focal point in the front of Dennett Road Elementary School," said teacher Linda Teagarden. "It contains numerous species of trees, shrubs, and flowers. Many of the trees and shrubs have been planted in honor or memory of students and staff."

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources has donated many trees over the years. In addition, DNR provided a grant to install garden markers with the trees' names, as well as edging and mulch.

Individuals and businesses have also contributed materials or made monetary donations.

Before his retirement as Garrett County Extension agent, Jim Simms advised the Arboretum Committee and assisted with planting several shrub beds.

"Doug Collins has done landscaping for the arboretum and is a great resource," Teagarden noted.

In 2005, Ed Bach's Southern High School masonry class constructed a new brick school sign in the arboretum. Some of the students who helped with the construction had attended Dennett Road as children.

Fundraisers are held to help defray such costs as signs and maintenance.

This spring, Woodmen of the World donated six new picnic tables to be used in the arboretum. They will be used for various educational activities.

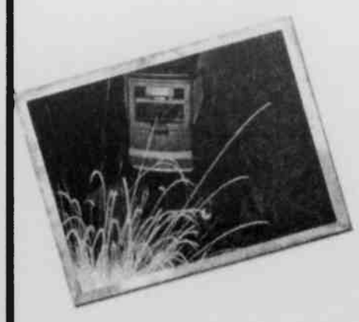

A large tree-shaped plaque in the school lobby recognizes the contributors to the arboretum.

The garden is maintained by Dennett Road students and staff. Students in Barbie Bolden's and Teagarden's classes regularly maintain it.

This spring there was a cleanup day during which time the whole school, along with parents, volunteered to help spread top soil and mulch, and to weed, paint, and do other tasks that were needed.

"May the arboretum continue to thrive for our students' learning efforts and for the continued greening of our beautiful school, for Garrett County as a whole, and for the United States as a beacon of conservation in the world," Sharpless said.

Seizure & Epilepsy Treatments

A seizure is caused by an abnormality of the brain. Seizures may be classified as nonepileptic or epileptic. A nonepileptic seizure can occur as an isolated incident. However, if seizures are recurrent, they are then classified as epilepsy. A seizure may occur as the result of a fever, concussion, or meningitis, among many other potential causes. A seizure typically lasts from several seconds to minutes. While affected by a seizure, a person may present symptoms that range from staring to convulsions. Partial seizures are characterized by changes occurring in only one part of the brain, while generalized seizures occur when there are changes in both sides of the brain. Seizures occur differently depending on the person's age.

There are many medications available for the treatment of epilepsy. The type of treatment prescribed depends on the type of seizures. Anticonvulsant medications, such as carbamazepine and oxcarbazepine, may be prescribed. Phenytoin is also an anticonvulsant that works to decrease the potential for seizures to occur. Primidone is classified as an anticonvulsant which works to increase the seizure threshold and also to decrease the overactivity occurring within the brain.

I Can Do All Things

Labor Day is a holiday to honor our occupations. Some toil for pay, some for nothing; our work force is all around us, giving of strength and intellect, compassion and courage. Reward yourselves on Labor Day for the work you do. Likewise; remember to give thanks to God as you worship Him on His day, for He has blessed us with our talents. "I can do all things through Him who strengthens me." (Phil 4:14)

THE GIFT OF DREAMS

Where do dreams come from, and why do we dream? The ancients thought that dreams were messages from God, often in symbolic form, much like Joseph's interpretation of Pharaoh's dream about the seven thin and the seven fat cows in Genesis. Some modern psychologists believe they are the unconscious mind irrupting into dream consciousness, and offering a brief glimpse of our hidden selves, though usually in symbolic form. Practically, there isn't much difference between the views of the ancients and those of modern-day psychologists when it comes to dreams. Maybe our dreams really are messages or reminders from God, in need of interpretation. Maybe they are a "gift" from the spiritual realm which needs to be analyzed or interpreted in order to be opened. We should not throw away these gifts without at least trying to "open" them. Dreams can offer valuable insights into our fears and desires, which we might not otherwise realize. An just maybe God is trying to tell us something through our dreams.

And he dreamed that there was a ladder set up on the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven; and behold, the angels of God were ascending and descending on it!

TV Pipeline

'V' actress has been more than a Visitor

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: Has the actress who plays the head of the Visitors in "V" appeared in any other TV programs or movies? –Elio Rivera, San Antonio

A: Morena Baccarin launched her television career in the Fox series "Firefly," then reprised her role in the feature film "Serenity." She went on to recurring parts on "The O.C." and "Stargate SG-1" and also was a regular on the short-lived TNT medical drama "Heartland." Other home-screen credits she's had have included guest shots on "Kitchen Confidential," "How I Met Your Mother," "Las Vegas," "Dirt," "NUMB3RS" and "Medium."

Q: Is the actress who plays Lauren on USA Network's "White Collar" the same Natalie Morales who appears regularly on NBC's "Today"? –Rita Bethke, New Berlin, Wis.

A: No, they're two different people. They can have the same name professionally since newscaster Morales doesn't have to be registered with the Screen Actors Guild. Had both women been registered there, one would have had to make a name alteration of some sort.

Q: I really like "Little People, Big World." At the end of the most recent season, Matt Roloff was found on the floor. Is he OK, or was that just a cliffhanger? –Carol Terrano, Woodside, N.Y.

A: It was a cliffhanger, all right, but he's OK. Some suspected he had a heart attack, but he actually was having a bout with vertigo; he's been taking medication to keep it under control.

Morena Baccarin

Q: I have watched the first two seasons of "Breaking Bad." When will season three be released on DVD? –Susan DeMeo, Palm City, Fla.

A: A definite date hadn't been set as of this writing, but the previous year's DVD release tends to come right before a new season of the AMC drama begins. The show – recently honored by the Television Critics Association – will get a later start than usual next year, with new episodes debuting in July, so you'll probably see the season-three set released at that time.

Q: What is the song that plays at the start of the new USA Network series "Covert Affairs"? –Erin Binford, Denver

A: For the pilot episode, it was "Dog Days Are Over" by the group Florence and the Machine. It's now "Can You Save Me" by Apple Trees & Tangerines.

Entrepreneurship Conference Slated At Frostburg State

The fifth annual Trident Entrepreneurship Conference will be held on Thursday, Sept. 16, and Friday, Sept. 17, at Frostburg State University's main campus. The announcement was made by officials with the Trident Initiative at Frostburg State University, the Small Business Development Center – Western Maryland Region, and the Western Maryland SCORE Chapter in Cumberland.

This year, the Trident Initiative will host its conference in concert with the Appalachian Festival. Titled "Appalachian AdVentures: Celebrating the Region's Entrepreneurial Spirit," the conference will focus on entrepreneurship with a distinctly regional sense-of place flavor, according to an FSU spokesperson.

"The meeting highlights asset-based development that is intended to capture the true character of Mountain Maryland and the surrounding area, an approach that has been gaining momentum in the region," said the spokesperson. "It will also include discussions on strategies to best tap into the growing demand for unique, place-based experiences."

The contribution of arts and entertainment districts, eco-tourism and adventure sports initiatives will all be acknowledged in the discussion of place-specific economic development initiatives.

The conference will serve the needs of a wide and varied audience comprising prospective and current entrepreneurs, the academic community, consisting of students, faculty and staff of regional institutions, economic development agencies; city governments; and the region's interested citizens.

Andrea Vernot, assistant secretary for marketing and communications, Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development, will address the conference.

"A significant objective of this conference is to recognize and honor leading entrepreneurs of the region, with a view to showcasing the region's best practices in small business," said the spokesperson.

The Model Entrepreneur of the Year and Young Entrepreneur of the Year awards will be presented at an awards luncheon at the conference.

Al Feldstein, Appalachian Regional Commission program manager, Maryland Department of Planning, will serve as the guest speaker and presenter at the awards ceremony.

The Trident Initiative is a comprehensive, entrepreneurship-based educational project funded by a multi-year grant from the Coleman Foundation in Chicago. This project attempts to enhance the current Entrepreneurship/Small Business Undergraduate Program at FSU by engaging and serving a core set of stakeholders that includes current students, through practice and networking; regional faculty, through discipline-specific and cross-disciplinary applied research on regional small business issues, and entrepreneurs (including program alumni) and economic development practitioners, through mentoring and fostering a climate of entrepreneurial ingenuity.

SCORE, "Counselors to America's Small Business," is a nonprofit association dedicated to educating entrepreneurs and helping small business start, grow, and succeed nationwide. SCORE is a resource partner with the U.S. Small Business Administration.

Real Estate Facts by...

Jeff Hovis

QUID PRO QUO

Sure, it's a legitimate question: Can you sell your home without the representation of a professional real estate agent? The legitimate answer is, Of course you can - but that begs the next question of whether it makes sense to do so.

One assumes that sellers want to obtain the highest price possible. Otherwise, the home could simply be auctioned, or sold to the first buyer who offers. Getting the best price depends upon exposure to the widest, most qualified segment of potential buyers.

An ad and a yard sign are not enough to create that exposure. While agents spend untold dollars on advertising and signage, those only attract about 20% of actual buyers, so just one ad and one yard sign will yield even less.

So where does the lion's share of motivated buyers come from? In a real estate firm, they come from cooperating brokers and agents. It's logical, since serious buyers seek the assistance of agents who save them time and money by matching their needs against large inventories.

The only buyers attracted to properties "For Sale By Owner" are ones who want to save the same commission that the sellers do! You can choose to represent yourself in this competitive industry, but it may cost you. Remember that a bargain is not measured by what you pay, but by what you get.

If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

Jeff Ashby, Edward Jones Investment

JEFF ASHBY

A new branch of Edward Jones Investments has opened in Garrett Square, Oakland, with Jeff Ashby as the financial advisor and Shirley Bernard-Durst as the branch office administrator. The branch is located at 12421 Garrett Highway and has been in operation since April. A grand opening is set for Thursday, Sept. 9, where refreshments will be served and drawings held for door prizes.

Ashby has been a financial advisor with Edward Jones since October 2008. He is a lifelong resident of Garrett County, and he lives with his wife Darcie and daughter Taylor in Mtn. Lake Park. Ashby holds a B.S. degree in business administration and finance.

Edward Jones was founded in 1922 by Edward Jones Sr. after he worked the rural territory in Missouri and Illinois. His son Ted Jones then positioned the company in the increasingly competitive marketplace. With more than 10,000 offices in the United Stated, Edward Jones has more branch offices than any other brokerage firm in the country. The firm serves nearly 7 million clients.

The business offers a variety of investments, including certificates of deposit, governmental bonds, municipal bonds, corporate bonds, mutual funds, common stock, insurance products, fixed and variable annuities, retirement planning, and estate considerations.

"I can truly say that I am grateful to work for a firm that I believe in," said Ashby, "and I know Edward Jones would not be what it is today without our clients."

Edward Jones specializes in helping individuals work toward their investment goals. The firm is committed to long-term investors, believes in face-to-face relationships, serves individual investors exclusively, and offers personalized service through its single financial advisor offices.

"We believe that building long-term relationships with our clients is the key to serving their needs," said a spokesperson. "We are located in the community where our clients live and work because that is the best way to get to know our clients and help them reach their financial goals."

Those interested in a consultation, without obligation, should call 301-334-1364.

Strange BUT TRUE

• It was 19th-century author Samuel Butler who made the following sage observation: "Morality is the custom of one's country and the current feeling of one's peers. Cannibalism is moral in a cannibal country."

• When the city of New York was concerned about leaks in its main water-supply system, it found a novel approach to the problem. Six experienced deep-sea divers were hired to live in a pressurized tank within the water-supply tunnel for a month while they investigated the leaks.

• Perhaps unsurprisingly, the Popsicle was invented by an 11-year-old boy.

• If you would like to get into modeling and live the glamorous life, you might want to reconsider: Researchers at Dow Jones MarketWatch have found that the average model makes a mere $11 to $12 per hour.

• Statistics show that for every person born in the United States, there are 15 puppies and 45 kittens born.

• In 1950, the average executive earned about 30 times as much as the average worker. Today's executives earn 300 to 500 times as much.

• Evidently wild monkeys are causing a bit of trouble for railroads in India. It seems that the monkeys board trains and run amok, causing no small amount of consternation to the passengers. To combat the problem, police in the city of Delhi hired a black-faced langur monkey to ride the trains and frighten off the wild monkeys. There's no word on what wages were offered.

• On Sept. 11, 1857, Mormon guerrillas, stoked by religious zeal and a deep resentment of decades of public abuse, murder 120 emigrants at Mountain Meadows, Utah. The conflict with the wagon train of emigrants from Missouri and Arkansas apparently began when the Mormons refused to sell the train any supplies.

• On Sept. 9, 1939, audiences at the Fox Theater in Riverside, Calif., get a surprise showing of "Gone with the Wind," which the theater manager shows as a second feature. Producer David O. Labor Day Travel By Marylanders Projected To Show 9% Increase

AAA Mid-Atlantic has projected that approximately 637,200 Marylanders will travel at least 50 miles round-trip away from home this Labor Day holiday weekend, a 9.1 percent increase from that of 2009. While the holiday travel forecast is based on travelers' intentions and historical data as of late July, the auto club now questions if the current path of Hurricane Earl will drive some travelers to stay home.

"The impact of the hurricane on travel this weekend will depend on what the storm does in the next 24 hours," commented Ragina C. Averella, manager of public and government affairs at AAA Mid-Atlantic. "However, whether travelers change their destinations to avoid the storm or the storm misses us all together, the big news is that Marylanders are traveling yet again for another summer holiday weekend, despite the economic hardships many are still facing.

"As we have witnessed for this summer's two other holiday weekends, Marylanders are still interested in getting away for the unofficial third and final holiday of the summer," she continued. "It appears that, in spite of mixed economic news, Marylanders, as well as Americans across the country, are resilient when it comes to taking their final summer vacation. Favorable gas prices, which are now even lower than those of Memorial Day weekend, seem to be contributing to the uptick in Labor Day travel as well."

AAA Mid-Atlantic expects the national average price of self-serve regular gasoline to be between $2.65 and $2.75 per gallon during this holiday weekend. Maryland's average price is projected to hold steady at approximately $2.60 a gallon heading into the holiday weekend.

"Approaching the holiday weekend, Maryland gas prices, as well as prices across the nation on average, are at their lowest level for the summer and at their lowest level since those of late February," said Averella. "Fortunately for motorists, crude oil has been trading at prices that are approximately 10 percent lower than a month ago, which is translating to lower prices at the pump."

Based on a survey of traveler intentions:

•The average distance traveled by Marylanders this Labor Day holiday weekend is expected to be 754 miles round-trip, 119 miles more than the nationwide average for holiday travel.

•Nearly 50 percent of Marylanders intend to log between 50 and 400 miles round-trip, while 24 percent will travel over 1,500 miles round-trip.

•The majority of the state's travelers, 41 percent, intend to travel with one other adult, while 37 percent of respondents expect to travel with family.

•Median spending is expected to be $731 this Labor Day, which is approximately 5 percent higher than the median spending nationwide.

•Visiting friends and relatives (56%), dining (55%), and touring/sightseeing (30%) were named as the three top primary activities by the state's travelers this Labor Day weekend.

According to AAA's Leisure Travel Index, airfares over the Labor Day holiday weekend are expected to increase 9 percent from those of last year, with the lowest round-trip rates moving up to $179 for the top 40 U.S. air routes. Weekend daily car rental rates will increase 7percent to an average of $46. Hotel rates for AAA Three-Diamond lodgings are expected to increase 6 percent from those of a year ago, with travelers spending an average of $139 per night compared to $132 last year. Travelers planning to stay at AAA Two-Diamond hotels can expect to pay 2 percent more, at an average cost of $102 per night.

Hurricane Earl Travel Tips:

•Stay abreast of local forecasts both at departure city and destination.

•Check with hotel for local updates on the storm's impact.

•Monitor weather conditions on a regular basis, as things can change quickly.

•Travel with only a carry-on bag when flying to give greater flexibility if one's schedule changes.

•Pack "emergency" creature comforts like snacks, rain coats, and extra clothing, etc. A flashlight with extra batteries, radio, and extra water are a good idea if going to a beach house.

•Heed all evacuation advisories and/or orders.

Local Men Sentenced To One Year For Theft Of Harvested Ginseng

Two Friendsville men were each sentenced to one year of jail time in recent Garrett County District Court hearings, presided over by Judge Leonard J. Eiswert.

Carl Nathan Friend, 31, and Eric William Sines, 26, were both found guilty on charges of theft of $500-plus value and theft less than $500. All but one month of the sentence was suspended, and each was additionally sentenced to complete three years of supervised probation to be monitored by the Maryland Division of Parole and Probation. They were also ordered to pay restitution of approximately $64,000 to the victims in the case.

Charges stem from a three-month investigation into the theft of ginseng that reportedly occurred over the course of several months in the summer of 2009. Several Friendsville ginseng farmers noted suspected unknown person(s) to have continuously stolen large quantities of the crop, and one had surveillance cameras installed on his property. Following extensive footage captured of the suspects, an investigation by Maryland State Police began in August 2009.

Friend and Sines reportedly stole from several farmers in varying quantities. Additional people were questioned on the transport of the suspects to the areas the thefts occurred. The two reportedly would be dropped off at a specific location and left for approximately an hour before their ride would return to pick them up. The ginseng was reportedly then sold for resale. The arrests of Sines and Friend were executed in November

In other court news, Nicholas Alan DeWitt, 21, Friendsville, was found guilty on a charge of disturbing the peace. He was sentenced to 60 days with all suspended and ordered to complete three years of supervised probation. The charge stems from an arrest by Maryland State Police in January.

DeWitt reportedly broke into a home in Friendsville and assaulted the owner and an adult male. He allegedly broke a coffee table within the residence during the incident. He was not prosecuted on two counts of second-degree assault and two counts of destruction of property $500-plus value.

Jonathan Vance Feaster, 20, Swanton, was found guilty on a charge of failure to obey a lawful order. He was sentenced to 60 days with 50 days suspended. He was placed on two years of supervised probation, ordered to complete 60 hours of community service, and fined $260. Feaster was arrested by the Natural Resource Police following a June incident on Deep Creek Lake.

Feaster was stopped on by NRP, who questioned him about canoeing without the proper personal flotation devices (PFD), as well as asked him about beer he had aboard the vessel. When asked for identification, Feaster reportedly gave the officer a false name. He then allegedly ran from the officer and did not stop upon command of that officer. He was not prosecuted on a charge of insufficient number of PFDs.

Carl Ludwig Sherburne III, 20, Grantsville, was found guilty on charges of failure to obey a lawful order and disorderly conduct. COUNTY COMMISSIONERS CUTTING JOBS AND SERVICES WHILE RAISING TAXES?

DID YOU KNOW?
The annual revenue from real estate taxes has gone from $29.5 million to $43.3 million in the past five years.

Every year as the assessed value of property goes up more property tax money is collected from the taxpayers unless the constant yield is imposed. Garrett County property assessments have grown from $3.1 billion to $4.9 billion in the past five years yet the property tax rate remains constant!

"HOW MUCH CAN YOU AFFORD?"
CAN YOU AFFORD 4 MORE YEARS OF THE CURRENT LEADERSHIP?"

MSDE Receives Grant To Support Better Nutrition

The Maryland State Department of Education's (MSDE) School and Community Nutrition Programs Branch has been awarded $291,000 in Team Nutrition Grant funding by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA). MSDE's School and Community Nutrition Programs Branch is partnering with the University of Maryland Extension (UME) on the grant, which is based on the behavioral economics concepts of choice architecture and "nudging."

Choice architecture refers to the conscious decision to arrange items – school meal components in this case – to achieve a desired outcome, according to an MSDE spokesperson. An example of choice architecture would be placing certain food items first in the cafeteria line, at eye level of the students.

Nudge marketing refers to the small prodding cafeteria staff can use to increase student selection of fruits, vegetables, and whole grains, the spokesperson explained. An example of nudging would be a cafeteria staff person asking students which food item they want, rather than asking if they want a certain food. These concepts are based on the book Nudge: Improving Decisions About Health, Wealth, and Happiness by Richard Thaler and Professor Cass Sunstein.

The two goals that MSDE hopes to achieve via the grant are:

1. Provide training and resources to local school systems to increase the amount and variety of whole-grain products, fruits, and vegetables selected by students in the school meals program.

2. Allow schools to apply for the USDA's HealthierUS School Challenge.

The goals will be achieved by training and providing mini-grants to 10 Maryland school systems to do the following: Use choice architecture to refresh the layout and design of the cafeteria, nudge students to select more fruits, vegetables, and whole grains, and provide nutrition education.

MSDE and UME will conduct nutrition education lessons in fourth and fifth grade classrooms in selected schools. The lessons will be aligned with the choice architecture and nudge activities in the cafeteria.

"The bottom line is to help our students make healthier decisions," said Dr. Nancy S. Grasmick, state superintendent of schools. "Through education, offering nutritious choices, and creating healthy school environments, our schools can be leaders in promoting wellness."

For more information on Maryland's Team Nutrition grants, persons may contact Stew Eidel at MSDE's School and Community Nutrition Programs Branch at 410-767-0216 or seidel@msde.state.md.us.

HYPNOTIST TO PERFORM AT SHS – Southern High School will present a unique comedy experience to Garrett County audiences by featuring Jason Linett, a nationally known comedy hypnotist. Linett will present a show next Friday, Sept. 10, at 7 p.m. as a school fundraiser for the senior class. "The hypnosis show combines the fun of audience participation with incredible abilities of the mind," said Linett. "It's the ultimate reality show." Linett is from Alexandria, Va., and has performed at schools, comedy venues, and corporate events across the country. Audiences can expect to see willing volunteers rapidly induced in a hypnotic trance and then given funny suggestions, including Linett turning himself invisible and turning volunteers into celebrity impersonators. "I don't embarrass the volunteers, and I don't even let them embarrass themselves," he said. The show will be presented in the cafeteria of SHS, Oakland, and tickets are $8, with proceeds to benefit the senior class. For more information, persons may call 301-334-3086. Pastor Publishes Deep Ck. Jamin Java Devotions

Dr. Ben J. Lahay has combined his life experience as a U.S. Marine, a middle executive at Lockheed Martin, a seminary student/graduate from Northeastern, a licensed counselor and therapist, and a senior pastor to write a daily devotions titled Deep Creek Jamin Java Devotions.

"This devotion is both timely for today's world and offers helpful insight to apply to your daily life," noted a spokesperson.

Lahay is a Maryland native who graduated from Woodlawn High School in Baltimore County. Labay and his family have been coming to Deep Creek Lake since he was in junior high school at St. Benedict's in Baltimore.

The pastor, his wife, and their two children moved from Montana to Garrett County in November 2007 to "accept the Lord's calling" at Deep Creek Baptist Church.

Here are some reviews from individuals who have purchased the book:

"Dr. Ben Lahay has a God-given ability to teach the meaning of Bible passages so that ordinary folks like me can understand them and thus apply to our personal lives."

"There are not many devotionals that address real-time life issues that are practical as well as provide spiritual guidance."

This young man has provided both the Christian and the non-Christian an insightful daily devotion which inspires and calls upon the reader to action."

Deep Creek Jamin Java Devotions is available online at many book sites (Amazon, Parable, Barnes and Nobles, Books-A-Million, etc.). One may also order it through Lifeway stores or locally at Emmaus Road, located across from Little Sandy's near the intersection of Rt. 219 and Sand Flat Road.

Proceeds/royalties from the book will be used to build the Deep Creek Family Life Center and also to help the Indian Children of Windswept Academy in Eagle Butte, S.D.

Horse Liniment Erases Pain

HIALEAH, FL. — An ingredient often used to treat inflammation in racehorse legs, is now back on the market in its original doctor recommended formula.

According to a national drug store survey, the formula at one time became so popular that it rose to the top of pharmacy sales for topical pain relievers. But the company marketing the product at the time changed the formula and sales plummeted. One of the inventors of the orignal formula has brought it back to the market under the trade name ARTH ARREST and says it can relieve pain for millions.

ARTH ARREST works by a dual mechanism whereby one ingredient relieves pain immediately, while a second ingredient seeks out and destroys the pain messenger signal before it can be sent to the brain. Considered a medical miracle by some, ARTH ARREST is useful in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to thritis, bursitis, and tendonitis.

ARTH ARREST is available in a convenient roll-on applicator at pharmacies without a prescription or call 1-800-339-3301. Now at RITE AID. With us, it's personal.

A FIREMEN'S PARADE and the largest model train show and exhibition in northern West Virginia are but two of numerous events scheduled during Rowlesburg's Labor Day Weekend Festival. Franchot Releases Fiscal Year 2010 Closeout Numbers

Emphasizing the need for "fiscal caution" during these turbulent economic times, Maryland comptroller Peter Franchot's office released yesterday the final closeout numbers for Fiscal Year 2010.

General fund revenues totaled nearly $12.6 billion in the fiscal year, which was $183.7 million above the official state forecast. Reflecting the ongoing impact of the national recession, the state's baseline revenue collections declined by 3.7%, the third worst performance in more than 40 years.

After final transfers and revenues were counted, the state of Maryland closed the fiscal year with a fund balance of $344 million. By law, this money will be returned to the state's Revenue Stabilization Account (Rainy Day Fund).

"These final numbers confirm that while Maryland is better positioned for long-term recovery than many other states, we are by no means insulated from the effects of our nation's recession," said Comptroller Franchot. "While I am obviously pleased that the state has managed to out-perform our conservative forecasts, it is important that we put these numbers into their proper context. We have just finished a year with negative revenue growth of 3.7%, one of the worst performances in recent generations.

"Furthermore, the nation's economic climate remains highly volatile, with obvious evidence to suggest that our anticipated recovery has lost momentum," Franchot continued. "Home sales have plummeted to historic lows, unemployment and underemployment remain at historic highs, and consumer confidence is shaky at best. As we move forward, we need to manage taxpayer dollars more carefully and efficiently than ever before. At a time when families and businesses are reexamining their spending habits and finding ways to do more with less, the state of Maryland will be required to do the same in order to maintain a fiscally sustainable course in the challenging times that lie ahead."

September Is Library Card Sign-Up Month

September is National Library Card Sign-up Month, and the Ruth Enlow Library wants to make sure that all children, teens, and adults in Garrett County have the "smartest card" of all – a library card, according to Director Cathy Ashby.

"Applying for a card is free and easy," she said. "Just come to one of the library's five locations to sign up and receive a Ruth Enlow Library lunch bag while supplies last."

Identification showing proof of address is required, and parents must accompany all minors applying for a card who do not have a driver's license.

A library card allows patrons to borrow DVDs, books in print and on CD, magazines, and music, and to access the library's online databases remotely.

Children 8 and younger signing up for their first library card qualify for the My First Card program and will receive a backpack containing a book, certificate, activity sheets, stickers, and guidelines for using the card.

"The library offers a number of resources for children, all designed to encourage them to become excited and enthusiastic readers," Ashby said.

She added that a library card has always been the most important school supply of all.

"Today's libraries are thriving technology hubs that millions rely upon as either their first or only choice for computer and Internet access, and we offer many online databases that are reliable sources of information," Ashby said. "A lot is happening at the Ruth Enlow Library, and the best part for both children and parents – in these tough economic times – is that it's all free."

Observed since 1987, Library Card Sign-up Month is a time when the American Library Association (ALA) and libraries across the country remind everyone about the importance of a library card.

More information about library programs and services is available on the web site at www.relib.net.

Anyone with questions about obtaining a library card may call 301-334-3996.

COMMISSIONERS: Retire all three!
Elect: Gregan Crawford District #1 – Jim Raley District #2 – Robert Gatto District # 3.

We need these good men, so we can retire the three present commissioners who have been building monster buildings –yet say their budget is too tight to buy kids text books! (see Times paper of 4/22/10 which had two big headlines: "$23 million facility will include two indoor pools"— 66,000 square feet we will have to heat, maintain and pay for over the years! Just below that big headline same day, "Bleak budget won't allow for new textbooks")

Where has the sanity gone in our "leaders"? Retire them and let's get back to listening to the citizens of Garrett County.

We need men who will listen to us, the taxpayers, who must pay for these wild spending binges they have been on, yet they tell us they are conservative!! Help!

State's High-Risk Pool Insurance Program Begins

Maryland Lt. Governor Anthony G. Brown and Congressman John Sarbanes were joined Wednesday morning at Johns Hopkins Bayview Medical Center in Baltimore by Johns Hopkins Community Physicians President Dr. Steven Kravet, Maryland Health Insurance Plan (MHIP) Acting Executive Director Tate Showers, CareFirst BlueCross BlueShield President and Chief Executive Officer Chet Burrell, health providers and professionals, and newly insured residents to announce the launch of the new federal high-risk pool program. The program will allow uninsured Marylanders with a pre-existing condition to gain health insurance coverage.

As a result of an agreement made in July between MHIP and the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, "MHIP Federal" received $85 million in federal funds and began accepting applications for insurance through the federal pool in August. The approved applicants began receiving health insurance coverage yesterday, and during the announcement were presented with ceremonial ID cards.

"Today marks an important milestone in Maryland's pursuit to expand health care coverage to more of our neighbors, including those with preexisting conditions," said Lt. Gov. Brown. "MHIP Federal is a national model and among the first high-risk pools in the nation to begin providing coverage for previously uninsured Americans. Because of reforms already enacted by Governor O'Malley and our strong partnerships with the federal government and the health community, we expect federal health reform to save Maryland taxpayers $829 million over 10 years and cut the number of uninsured Marylanders in half. This announcement will allow us to offer health insurance to more of those Marylanders who have been shown the door for far too long."

President Barack Obama signed into law the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (PPACA) on March 23, as amended by the Health Care and Education Recovery Act of 2010. PPACA requires the Secretary of Health and Human Services to establish a temporary high-risk pool program to provide health insurance coverage to uninsured individuals with a pre-existing condition. The secretary is authorized to carry out the program directly or through contracts with states or other eligible entities.

"There are thousands of people in Maryland who have been denied health insurance coverage because of a pre-existing condition," said Congressman Sarbanes. "Now, the health reform law will ensure that these individuals have access to affordable, quality coverage."

Following the enactment of PPACA, the Maryland General Assembly passed House Bill 1564, which authorizes the board of directors for the Maryland Health Insurance Plan (MHIP) to administer the federal high-risk pool program for Maryland. Governor O'Malley signed the emergency bill into law on April 13, and sent a letter to the Secretary of Health and Human Services designating MHIP as the entity that would implement the federal high-risk pool program for Maryland.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for Maryland residents who have not been able to get insurance because of a medical condition," said Tate Showers, acting director of the Maryland MHIP Program. "MHIP Federal members will receive comprehensive medical and prescription drug benefits for a very reasonable cost."

"Consistent with our founding principles, Johns Hopkins Medicine is committed to providing high quality care to all patients, regardless of their socioeconomic background. Despite our best efforts, many patients historically do not seek care until it is too late," said Steven J. Kravet, M.D., president, Johns Hopkins Community Physicians. "The new high risk insurance pool is viewed as a huge benefit that will encourage patients to access care earlier, which should result in better outcomes and lower costs in the long run."

MHIP started accepting applications in early August and enrolling individuals in the program with an effective date of September 1. The temporary federal high-risk pool program will remain in effect until the end of 2013, when it will be replaced by an insurance exchange established under PPACA. Maryland expects to receive approximately $85 million in federal funding for the federal high-risk pool program during the life of the program, and its implementation should allow MHIP to provide coverage to approximately 3,500 additional members.

Since entering into agreement with the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, MHIP staff members have been working to implement MHIP Federal. Coverage under MHIP Federal will be provided through a $1,500 high deductible plan. Members of MHIP Federal will have a comprehensive benefit package similar to the benefit package currently provided to MHIP members.

"One of health reform's key goals is to expand access to health coverage, and that is a major part of our mission as a not-for-profit insurer," said Chet Burrell, president and CEO of CareFirst BlueCross BlueShield. "We've been proud to work with the state since 2007 as administrator of the Maryland Health Insurance Plan and we look forward to continuing that service as we move into this new era."

By law, premiums for MHIP Federal may not exceed what is charged for comparable coverage in the commercial insurance market. As a result, premiums for MHIP Federal are reasonable and affordable, and the program will fill a gap in the current system by providing coverage for individuals whose income is not low enough to qualify for MHIP+, but are not able to afford MHIP. Implementation of MHIP Federal should allow MHIP to provide coverage to approximately 3,500 additional members.

To be eligible for coverage under the federal high-risk pool program, an individual must:

- Be a citizen or national of the United States or lawfully present in the United States;
- Be a resident of Maryland;
- Not have had health insurance for a continuous six-month period of time prior to the date of application to the federal high-risk pool program;
- Not be eligible for certain other health insurance coverage; and
- Provide certain evidence of a preexisting condition.

Congressman Sarbanes is a member of the Health Subcommittee of the Energy and Commerce Committee which has jurisdiction over health care policy. Lt. Governor Brown leads the O'Malley-Brown administration's efforts on a range of issues, including health care.

For more information about the MHIP Federal program, persons may visit www.marylandhealthinsuranceplan.net online or call 888-444-9016.

It breaks my heart to see our communities fading away at an alarming rate. It is time that the communities of Garrett County unite and take back what has always been ours. Prescription Drug Take-Back Initiated By DEA, Partners

The Drug Enforcement Administration and government, community, public health, and law enforcement partners recently announced a nationwide prescription drug "Take-Back" initiative that seeks to prevent increased pill abuse and theft. The DEA will be collecting potentially dangerous expired, unused, and unwanted prescription drugs for destruction at sites nationwide on Saturday, Sept. 25, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The service is free and anonymous, with no questions asked.

Local agencies participating in the take back are the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, the Garrett County Health Department, and the Garrett County State's Attorney's Office.

This initiative addresses a public safety and public health issue. According to officials, medicines that languish in home cabinets are highly susceptible to diversion, misuse, and abuse. Rates of prescription drug abuse in the U.S. are increasing, as are the number of accidental poisonings and overdoses from these drugs. Studies show that a majority of abused prescription drugs are obtained from family and friends, including from the home medicine cabinet. It is believed that many Americans do not know how to properly dispose of their unused medicine, often flushing them down the toilet or throwing them away, which are both potential safety and health hazards.

"Today we are launching a first-ever National Prescription Drug Take-Back campaign that will provide a safe way for Americans to dispose of their unwanted prescription drugs," said Michele M. Leonhart, acting administrator of the DEA. "This effort symbolizes the DEA's commitment to halting the disturbing rise in addiction caused by their misuse and abuse. Working together with our state and local partners, the medical community, anti-drug coalitions, and a concerned public, we will eliminate a major source of abused prescription drugs, and reduce the hazard they pose to our families and communities in a safe, legal, and environmentally sound way."

"With this National Prescription Drug Take-Back campaign, we are aggressively reaching out to individuals to encourage them to rid their households of unused prescription drugs that pose a safety hazard and can contribute to prescription drug abuse," said acting Deputy Attorney General Gary G. Grindler. "The Department of Justice is committed to doing everything we can to make our communities safer, and this initiative represents a new front in our efforts."

"Prescription drug abuse is the nation's fastest-growing drug problem, and take-back events like this one are an indispensable tool for reducing the threat that the diversion and abuse of these drugs pose to public health," said director of national drug control policy Gil Kerlikowske. "The federal, state, and local collaboration represented in this initiative is key in our national efforts to reduce pharmaceutical drug diversion and abuse."

Collection sites in every local community can be found by visiting the DEA web site at www.dea.gov. This site will be continuously updated with new take-back locations. Other participants in this initiative include the White House Office of National Drug Control Policy, the Partnership for a Drug-Free America, the International Association of Chiefs of Police, the National Association of Attorneys General, the National Association of Boards of Pharmacy, the Federation of State Medical Boards, and the National District Attorneys Association.

Explains why he will support

Gregan Crawford
Jim Raley
And Denny Glotfelty

For Garrett County Commissioners in 2010

Please take this opportunity to reach for a change in Local Leadership

It has been a very long time since we residents of Garrett County had multiple choices for each of the three Commissioner races. Please take the time and invest the energy to give serious review to the eleven candidates for Garrett County Commissioner. Visit www.deepcreeklakepoa.com to see two sets of candidate questions and answers from all of the hopeful commissioners. You have some excellent options. Those that missed the forum Saturday at Garrett College watch the chamber web site www.garrettchamber.com for You Tube links to the Q&A.

Last week Gregan Crawford came knocking on my door. I was impressed with District One's new option. A candidate that has the concern to listen, the desire to think and act proactively, understands the challenges and will be a dedicated public leader. Mr. Crawford has the ethics and drive to protect our communities. Among the questions Mr. Crawford asked me was, how many other candidates knocked on your door? My response was a bit sad even to my ears... not one candidate or commissioner has stopped this year or in many years by my business to ask for neighborly feedback. Gregan was easy to talk to, understanding and intelligent and left having earned both my confidence and my trust and that's why I will support him on Election Day with my vote.

I had the pleasure of sitting beside Jim Raley at this year's Lincoln day dinner. I was impressed by Mr. Raley's understanding of Garrett County politics and personalities. A fiscal conservative that understands Garrett County must control spending AND grow to attain our brightest future. It will be a welcome change to find leadership from District two capable of intelligently lobbying state and national legislature for local needs. Jim understands that our local political process needs to be open to debate and the discussion of all the people's ideas. Jim understands the educational system better than any candidate filed and he has worked with the commissioners in the past on the School Board to bring about the positive testing results that Garrett County students demonstrate. I will vote for Jim Raley because he goes to work every day to represent our future and that future rests in the hands of our students and teachers. Garrett County needs to do a better job of retaining our brightest and best young Garrett Countians that want to live where they have been educated and have grown up. Jim will make that a priority!

District Three has six men running for the commissioner seat. My long time friend Denny Glotfelty has worked very hard to do his absolute best representing his constituents for four years. Denny has never given up on making Garrett County a destination of choice for our seasonal visitors, supporting our educational system on all levels, supporting business of all sizes and remaining aware of the needs of the citizens of our county. I will vote for Glotfelty on September 14th because I respect and trust that he will join with the other new commissioners to make an excellent board. Denny deserves a second term.

As voters we are in control of the vitality of our community and are responsible to improve the direction of the future. Fred and Ernie have given years of dedicated service to Garrett County and we should all be very appreciative. However; it is time for change to energize the political process. A vote cast because you know them or have always supported them is a squandered vote. They have had ample opportunity, now is the time to require more visionary leadership that can transform Garrett County into a vibrant community that does not have declining population growth, a closed minded attitude and that is most content continuing the status quo. It's time to Go!

Can forest biomass make a significant contribution towards American energy independence?" The team placed second in the state, and hopes to travel to Springfield, Mass., to represent the Maryland FFA Association in the Eastern States Exposition FFA Forestry Event this fall. RECREATION

Prijon Kodiak Touring/Sea Kayak 17'

Two Lendal Paddles, One Carbon Fiber Made in Scotland

High Mobility Life Vest

Spray Skirt for Cold Weather Use

Custom Cable Locking Mechanism for Car or Rack Use

Great kayak for beginner or expert. Has wide enough beam to be comfortable and steady but narrow enough profile, with length, to also be fast. Rudder pedal controls installed but no ruder - I never needed it. Two water tight dry compartments makes gear storage easy and boat virtually unsinkable. Kayak has been used very little, perhaps only a dozen or so times total, just light lake and river use - no ocean. The boat has been stored inside for the last few years and was stored on a boat rack beforehand. Boat and gear are all clean and in excellent shape. Total package was more than $3K when bought new. asking $1,300 for all, obo. Call Rick at 301-334-1444

DUI/DWI HEARINGS

The following driving while under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI) cases were heard in recent District Court proceedings, with Judge Eiswert presiding

Onie Thomas Whitacre, 40, Maryland, was found guilty on a DUI per se charge and sentenced to 60 days with all suspended. He was ordered to complete three years of supervised probation and fined $410. Charges stem from a May traffic stop by Maryland State Police. He was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DWI.

Ernest Lee Graham, 42, Md., was given a PBJ on a DWI charge stemming from a May traffic stop by Garrett County sheriff's deputies. He was sentenced to 45 days with all suspended and fined $310. He was also placed on 18 months of supervised probation. Graham was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DUI per se.

BITTINGER LUTHERANS GIVE QUILTS TO DOVE CENTER – The women of the Bittinger Lutheran Parish have for years sewn comforters for Lutheran World Relief (LWR) and reserved two comforters each year for the House of Hope to use for those in need locally. This year the quilters continued to sew for LWR, but have expanded their efforts to include more recipients in Garrett County. Children's fabric has been purchased, and comforters made of those prints were delivered to the Dove Center for distribution to women and children who have received the services of the Dove Center, and who are embarking on establishing a new home situation. The Bittinger women also hope to provide a prayer shawl for each woman, and to expand their giving to recipients of new homes through Habitat for Humanity. They meet each Tuesday morning at Emmanuel Lutheran Church in Bittinger from 9 a.m. until noon, and anyone is welcome to join them. The group needs cutters, sewers, those who can lay out patches to make designs, and people to knot. Those who are able to knit or crochet prayer shawls or who would like to learn these skills are also welcome.

Patrick Anthony Grinnan, 45, Pennsylvania, was given a PBJ verdict on a DUI per se charge and sentenced to 45 days with all suspended. He was fined $260 and placed on two years of unsupervised probation. He was not prosecuted on charges of DWI and DUI. Charges stem from an arrest by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in May.

David Fulton Shaulis, 61, Md., was given a PBJ on a DUI per se charge and sentenced to 30 days with 30 suspended. He was placed on one year of unsupervised probation and fined $310. Shaulis was stopped by MSP in March. He was not prosecuted on DUI and DWI charges.

Charges stem from a traffic stop by Garrett County sheriff's deputies. He was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DUI per se.

Two Indicted By Grand Jury In September Term

Two men have been arrested on the strength of warrants issued with indictments filed by the September term of the Garrett County grand jury.

Jamie Lee Shiflett, 27, Mtn. Lake Park, was charged with robbery, theft less than $1,000, and second degree assault for events that allegedly occurred at the BFS store in Oakland on May 16.

A clerk contacted the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and reported that there was a robbery and monies were stolen from the store. Shiflett was originally taken into custody after he was found in the area. He was charged in the District Court, where the case had been pending a preliminary hearing, once officers determined his involvement.

After his arraignment in the Circuit Court on Tuesday, Shiflett remains in the Garrett County Jail in default of $25,000 bond.

Timothy Daniel Wilt, 46, Kitzmiller, was charged with first degree arson and malicious burning with intent to defraud.

Investigators with the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office were called by fire fighters to the scene of a house fire in Kitzmiller on May 31. A review of evidence at the scene led to the investigator's determination that arson was the cause of the blaze and that Wilt, the owner of the house, had set the fire.

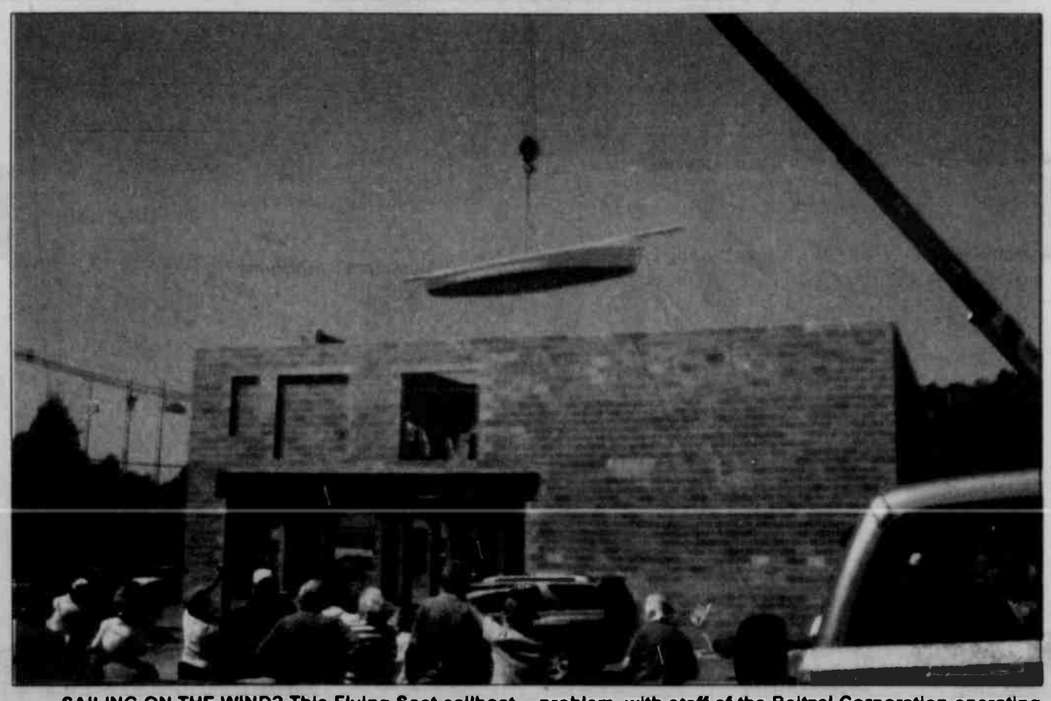

Bond was set for Wilt at $50,000 during his arraignment hearing on Tuesday. He remains lodged in the Garrett County Jail in default of bond, where he is also serving a sentence for a DUI offense.

The next court appearances for both men will be in early October.

ATV Accident Is Investigated

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to Garrett County Memorial Hospital Tuesday for an ATV accident with injuries.

It was discovered that Donald Manning Sr. had been operating a four-wheeler on private property at Yough Mtn. Resort, when he lost control of the vehicle causing him to fall off. No charges were filed for the accident.

SAILING ON THE WIND? This Flying Scot sailboat did sail on the wind yesterday afternoon, but not in the usual way, obviously. The craft was lifted by crane into the Garrett County Transportation Museum, now under construction along Liberty Street in Oakland. Robert Boal, president of the Garrett County Historical Society, said the Flying Scot is a "most wonderful gift," donated by W. Clark and Thoda Ashby of Carbondale, Ill., and planned to be the centerpiece of the museum's future Deep Creek Gallery section. The sailboat is known as FS#4, as it was the fourth of its kind made by the late Sandy Douglass, creator of the famous Flying Scot and a former long-time resident of Garrett County. A crowd gathered to watch the installation of the craft, and as the crane lifted it, the wind did kick up. But the effort went off without a problem, with staff of the Beitzel Corporation operating the crane. Harry and Karen Carpenter, who took over the Douglass Boat Company (now Flying Scot Inc.) in 1991, have been preparing FS#4 for display since December, and they were present for its moment in the air as well. Others involved in the effort coming to fruition have been Diane Thayer and Don Griffin of the Deep Creek Lake Yacht Club. The Asbhys owned FS#4 for 42 years, and this past summer was the first it did not sail. Construction on the museum is continuing, with crews working daily at the site. Photo by John McEwen. Commissioners Issue Statement To Address Recent Public Claims

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners and county administrator Monty Pagenhardt released a statement yesterday in response to recent statements and opinions pertaining to Garrett County government financial policies and practices. The statement, in part, follows:

"The board of county commissioners appreciates the opinion of any person and believes it is important that no matter what one's view of the issues may be, complete and accurate information is essential to a meaningful understanding and discussion," Pagenhardt wrote.

The first issue raised in the statement has to do with the funding of the Garrett County Board of Education. The budgeted appropriation to the education board by the commissioners for Fiscal Years (FY) 2009, 2010, and 2011 was $23,159,000, Pagenhardt reported.

"There has been commentary that the appropriation of county funding for FY 2011 has caused the loss of 10 board of education employees, which is not correct," the statement says. "An equitable funding level by the county for FY 2011 as compared to past years would allow for the same number of employees.

"It should be pointed out that state funding to the board of education was reduced from $23,629,775 in FY 2010 to $22,484,300 this year — a reduction of $1,145,475. The county also saw reductions in state revenue in the amount of over $4.7 million in FY 2010 and over $5.9 million the last three fiscal years. Therefore, the county did not have the financial resources to allocate additional funds to the board of education.

"However, the county has provided funding to the education board at a level equal to that of past years when funding to other departments has been reduced," the statement continues. "In addition, the county has allowed the board of education to retain carry-over funds for the past four fiscal years. This action is contradictory to the adopted financial agreement between the county and the board of education, which states '... the board of county commissioners will appropriate funding in order to guarantee and maintain a fund balance for the board of education equal to $500,000. Likewise, the board of education will refund any county appropriated money in excess of $500,000 to the board of county commissioners.'

"The commissioners agreed to amend this financial agreement to allow the board of education to retain unspent county appropriations as a way to allow the board of education to compensate for the loss in state revenue," the statement reads.

The commissioners' document explains that there are five "formula levels" of funding to the Garrett County Public School System.

1. State Share of Basic Aid, which is based on a formula that includes the "wealth" of a county. The Wealth Factor is based on a county's assessable base to include personal property, as well as real property, and net taxable income in that county.

2. Requested funding is

Sewage Spill At Deep Creek Lake Reported By GC Public Utilities

Mop strings wrapped around the inner workings of a sewage pump were apparently the cause of a sewage overflow at Deep Creek Lake Sunday afternoon.

Linda Lindsey, director of the Garrett County Department of Public Utilities, reported the incident to the Garrett County commissioners Tuesday. Approximately 6,400 gallons of sewage overflowed and traveled down a small stream and into the ground and the lake, Lindsey said. The incident happened at pump station 2-1 near Lake Shore Drive.

The mop strings got tangled in the pump's float control device, she said, and caused it to stop, although the pump kept running. The overheat system then shut the pump down. This resulted in the overflow. It occurred at about 3:10 p.m.

When the pump stopped, an audible alarm sounded, and a nearby resident called the authorities immediately.

Lindsey reported that a staff member was not far from the station at the time of the shut-down, and was able to be at the site within 9 minutes of the spill. She and several members of her staff also responded to the scene immediately to assess the situation.

The sewage had reached a small stream, and had also soaked into the ground. Lindsey said the ground was so dry that most of the spill was absorbed.

Her office contacted the emergency management and the Department of Natural Resources. A reverse 9-1-1 call was made to the surrounding homes, warning residents of the spill, and the DNR patrolled the lake in that area to keep people out until the water was deemed safe.

COMAR rules dictate that a public service announcement be made when 10,000 or more gallons of sewage are spilled, Lindsey said. Even though the spill was considerably less than that, Lindsey opted to make the announcement anyway, and it was put on the local radio station on Monday morning. (There were no staff members available at the station on Sunday evening, Lindsey noted.)

She said her office is working to put new diesel pumps in place, and if they had been able to do that before Sunday, the backup pumps would've taken care of the overflow. But several obstacles, including multiple leaks that require immediate attention, have delayed the installation, she said.

Lindsey also noted the frustration she and the staff experience because of things like mop strings being put into the system.

"The information about what should not be put down drains is out there, at the rental places and everywhere else, but we still deal with mop strings, rags, and other materials that do cause serious problems," she said.

She said water samples are being taken daily at the site, and that will continue until the water is clear of all debris.

This is the second spill this summer, with a much larger event involving a 42,000-gallon overflow taking place on July 11.

Not Prosecuted On Several Animal Cruelty Charges

Two Oakland residents accused of animal abuse were not prosecuted on three counts of animal cruelty, three counts of animal cruelty cause/authority, and 12 counts of animal cruelty failure to provide. Their case was heard in Garrett County District Court presided over by Judge Leonard J. Eiswert.

Carol Lynn Friend, 43, and Richard Ray Friend, 53, were both charged after the Garrett County Humane Society executed a rescue search and seizure on their farm on King Wildesen Road, Gorman, this past May. Both were accused of neglecting to care for over 50 farm animals, including horses, cows, and goats.

State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch said that it is her intention to re-file charges against the defendants that are more specific to the evidence acquired by the Garrett County Humane Society.

Five Arrested After Disturbance

Five men were arrested on Saturday after Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to a Deep Creek Drive residence for a reported disturbance.

Investigation revealed that Christopher Reisberg, Westminster, had committed malicious destruction of property against another adult male. He and four other men were also reportedly discovered to be in possession of marijuana and taken into custody. Dennis Pilcher, Trevor Zettle, Richard Pittinger, Bradey Bly, and Reisberg were charged with CDS possession of marijuana.

They were all taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

TRUCK OVERTURNS AFTER DRIVER IS STUNG – Maryland State Police investigated a tractor-trailer accident on I-68 that occurred at approximately 3:30 p.m. Wednesday. Investigation revealed that the driver (whose identification was not included in the police report) lost control of the westbound vehicle after being stung by a yellowjacket and strong winds then pushed the trailer. The trailer overturned and dragged the tractor along the right shoulder of the road. The trailer load was ejected onto the grassy area between the westbound lanes and ramp from Rt. 546 to Rt. 40. There was no report of any injury sustained in the accident.

TRACI (MARTIN) ROYCE

for Register of Wills

"I have been humbly endorsed by a great community of people all over Garrett County, of all ages, walks and with differing views and opinions. I have enjoyed my vast conversations with those who are now retired, the working class and the next generations coming up. I have met everyone from the homeless to the successful entrepreneur throughout this great county. I have had meaningful talks with the Democrats, the Independents and the Republicans. Regardless of their differences, what they all have in common is that they call Garrett County "home" and they will all experience death in some capacity (family member or friend, as a personal representative of an estate, beneficiary of an estate, etc.). All of us need the office of Register of Wills at some point in our lives, and I would be honored to serve you there. On this campaign trail, I have learned why Garrett County is so special — truly genuine people live here. Regardless of the outcome of this election, each of you have enriched my life, and for this I will always be grateful. I would be proud to work for you and with you in the office of Register of Wills." ~ Traci Royce

I Will Always Support The County That Has Supported Me

Unfortunately, I have heard a lot of misinformation over the past few weeks. As a successful problem solver, I believe the best way to address false information is by combating it with the truth. Rather than allow these rumors to grow and fester in the dark, I want to bring the truth to light.

— I will not terminate the current staff employed by the Register of Wills. In fact, the current deputies will be a significant asset to me in establishing the integrity of the office. By law, the incoming elected Register must complete the work of the outgoing register within 60 days. With unemployment so high and jobs so few, to do something so detrimental to the success of the county is simply not in my nature.

— There are also misleading comments that if a candidate does not have experience in this office, the people of Garrett County would suffer. By statute, the Attorney General's office assigns attorneys to assist Registers of Wills throughout the state. Whatever the current staff cannot answer, I am sure the capable people who work at the Attorney General's office can, and a direct link exists between this office and theirs.

I would be honored to serve the people of Garrett County as their Register of Wills. I pledge to bring compassion and respect to the position. If you would like to know more about me or my candidacy, please call me at 301-616-9328 or visit my website at www.traciroyce.com. Most importantly, remember you the citizen own the courthouse and you have the right to choose whom you want to have serve you. Practice your right to vote on Tuesday, September 14, at your precinct.

MPT Crew Films Fishing Episode In Garrett County

An Annapolis film crew was recently in Garrett County to film part of an episode called "Gone Fishin'" for Maryland Public Television's award-winning series Outdoors Maryland.

Robert Ferrier, an independent TV producer and owner of Backfin Media, and his crew filmed people enjoying fishing on Deep Creek Lake and the Savage River.

The crew also filmed tidal fishing off the Burton Fishing Pier in Cambridge in Dorchester County. The MPT air date for "Gone Fishin'" has not been set.

The episode ties in with the statewide fishing challenge offered by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, with three ways to win: Kids' Fishing Rodeos, Award Citation Achievers, and Catching Diamond Jim.

"The main focus is to promote the fishing challenge and to keep people excited about Maryland's natural resources – fish its waters, have fun, and come away with a renewed sense of personal responsibility for protecting these resources," said a Garrett County Chamber of Commerce spokesperson about the MPT episode.

Bill's Outdoor Center, a chamber member, is a major sponsor of the Diamond Jim contest. The purpose of the contest is to promote Maryland's fishing opportunities and the importance of children experiencing outdoor activities.

"Fishing is a great and inexpensive way for the whole family to have fun together in the outdoors," said Don Cosden, assistant DNR fisheries director.

FILM CREW SHOOTS MPT EPISODE IN GARRETT COUNTY – Backfin Media of Annapolis recently spent time in Garrett County filming people enjoying fishing on Deep Creek Lake and the Savage River, as part of an upcoming episode of MPT's Outdoors Maryland. Two Arrested For Driving On Revoked License

Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested two men each on a charge of driving on a revoked license. The following incidents are unrelated.

Lash Rocky Larue Lloyd Jr., Oakland, was arrested last Friday and served with a Circuit Court bench warrant for failure to appear. He was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

Chad Anthony Cerrito was arrested in the parking lot of Wal-Mart on Sunday. He was allowed to sign his citation and was released from the scene.

Halligan To Speak About Bully And Cyber-Bullying

John Halligan will be giving a presentation titled "Bullying, Cyber Bullying, and Youth Depression" to the students and staff of Southern Middle School on Monday, Sept. 13, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the cafeteria.

The focus of Halligan's presentation is to inform the students and staff about the harsh affects of bullying and cyber-bullying. He will also discuss and educate the audience on the signs of youth depression.

Halligan lost his son Ryan in 2003 to unfortunate circumstances that he covers in his presentation. He will also be giving an evening presentation that will focus on the lessons that he and his family learned too late concerning how to deal with bullying, cyber bullying and teen depression.

This session is intended to offer parental strategies that can be used to deal with such issues. The evening session is open to all parents and community members. Because of too specific content, the evening session may not be appropriate for elementary-age children.

Anyone with questions about this upcoming presentation can contact school counselor Dawn Panther at 301-334-8881.

Ehrlich Winning Sandwich Race For Governor

by Abby Brownback
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS - For all their campaigning, fundraising, advertising, and debating, Gov. Martin O'Malley and former Gov. Bob Ehrlich are essentially tied, according to several recent polls.

Perhaps, though, a better way to voters' hearts is through their stomachs. In that case, Marylanders' choice for governor this fall is between an incumbent roast beef and provolone sandwich and its challenger, a crab cake wrap -- and Ehrlich is enjoying a comfortable lead.

Chick and Ruth's Delly, an Annapolis staple, features menu items named for Maryland politicos who frequent the restaurant, including the two widely known candidates for governor.

Ehrlich's -- the $9.50 wrap -- outsold O'Malley's -- the $7.25 roast beef -- almost 3-to-2 from May through August. So in a head-to-head contest, Ehrlich trumped O'Malley 59 percent to 41 percent this summer.

The election hasn't affected sales, said owner Ted Levitt, but he can tell which politicians are popular with customers.

"If they're not too popular, [customers] order by number," he said. "Or you'll hear them say, 'Oh, never mind. I don't want that.' When they like the people, they say the name out loud."

Jim Wilcox, a longtime Annapolis resident, doesn't order either sandwich, but if he had to choose he would go with Ehrlich's.

"I wouldn't order his (O'Malley's) sandwich if he gave it to me," Wilcox said. "Ehrlich? I'd eat his sandwich."

Joe Fondale, though, said he would order O'Malley's roast beef sandwich, if only because he enjoys a similar item, Chick and Ruth's corned beef.

Levitt renames menu items after each election cycle. When he was governor, Ehrlich's sandwich was a white-meat turkey on wheat toast.

The turkey sandwich was retired after O'Malley took office in 2007 and his name took its place next to the roast beef sandwich. But soon thereafter, Chick and Ruth's introduced the crab cake wrap and named it for the former governor, a friend of the family.

The second Ehrlich-O'Malley gubernatorial contest (the first was in 2006, when O'Malley defeated Ehrlich) is an enigma, Levitt said, even for someone as entrenched with the locals as he is.

"You do hear a lot," he said. "But people, they have no clue. You can't tell who's going to win, and this is probably the first time you don't know."

To the citizens of Garrett County :

My Dad is a Republican candidate for the Register of Wills position. Dad has served the public for more than 30 years. As a public servant, Dad's actions are continuously monitored and scrutinized. He is easy going, friendly, outspoken and he does his best to put those around him at ease. If elected, his "people" skills will encourage more Garrett County citizens to utilize the services available at the Register of Wills office. He truly cares about people! Anyone can learn the duties of a position but, as far as character - it's developed thought by thought, action by action.

For the past 26 years, Dad has served as Oakland's Police Chief. He routinely deals with emotionally charged situations and individuals. He has helped hundreds of people. On the flip side, he has written an abundance of tickets, arrested numerous people and testified against the accused in a court of law. It is a testament to the type of person that Dad is, that even the majority of those that he has opposed, respect and honor him as a person.

Dad always chooses to do the right thing regardless of whether it's the most popular. He is wonderful father and a remarkable person. Right Vs. Right...

"A recruitment bonanza for al-Qaida" is what President Obama called the plan by a Florida pastor to burn copies of Islam's holy book, the Quran, in remembrance of the terrorist acts of Sept. 11, 2001. The president is dead on. The level of arrogance, ignorance, and downright stupidity of Rev. Terry Jones cannot be over estimated, as his action will indeed increase the level of danger for thousands of U.S. military personnel throughout the Middle East.

Does Jones have the right to do this? Absolutely. Freedom of speech/expression is one of our most treasured rights guaranteed by the Constitution. The question, though, is really not whether he has the right to do it, but is it right for him to do it?

We as Americans have the right to do many things that are extremely destructive and hurtful. We have the right to be bigots in our thinking, in the areas of race, religion, economic status, sexual orientation, level of intelligence, and body build. We have the right to exclude certain groups of people if we so choose. As parents, we have the right to rear our children as bigots. We have the right to belittle others, and thus make them feel stupid and worthless. We not only have the right to burn the American flag, but we have the right to display any flag in our yards, including one bearing a Nazi swastika.

It would be absolutely fantastic if all forms of the media would agree to completely ignore the Quran-burning event; to have no cameras and no reporters on the scene; to reject the airing of any footage whatsoever that might be submitted to the various news networks by people in attendance. No CNN, no FOX, no ABC, CBS, NBC, or BBC coverage – no mention – of the event whatsoever. This "pastor" has a congregation of around 20 people, yet he is getting the attention of the entire nation and, unfortunately, the entire world. Why would anyone in the media want to help him spread his message of hate, and thus help him endanger our young men and women who are so bravely defending our nation?

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Recent remarks in The Republican and popular media about the proposed mosque in New York City are missing some facts about Islam.

First: Islam is a "closed society" and all components of its culture and civilization are merged with religion. Criticism of its dogmas from within itself is forbidden. Some Muslim scholars trace the decline of Islam's fortunes to its partial embrace of modern ideas. Their cure is to emphasize the original principles of their prophet Muhammad.

Second: Sacred to Islam is the belief that the Koran is not "created" but is in existence in the mind of God. This means that daily life and public governance must be adjusted to conform to eternal truths.

Third: Islam has a sacred claim to "own" the entire world, especially those parts which have been conquered but currently are under "infidel" domination.

Fourth: there are attempts to introduce Islamic law into western nations. This proposal has achieved currency in Canada, Britain, and Western Europe. This subtle insertion of sharia (Islamic law) into the fabric of judicial discourse is in direct opposition to the Western practice of man-made laws.

Fifth: The myth of Muslim toleration has gripped the mind of westerners long accustomed to the struggle against intolerance within western society. Islam is the antithesis of tolerance. The vaunted Spanish example of communal bliss among Christians, Jews, and Muslims is rebutted by the facts of daily life. Most towns and cities were separated into ghettos, and periodic revolts attested the intolerable life of most Spanish "infidels."

Sixth: How are the western world's diplomats and others trying to improve the status of both friend and foe expected to accomplish much in the face of conditions endemic to Islamic civilization? Such matters as Arab exceptionalism, colossal illiteracy, monumental and self defeating abasement of women, unwillingness to soil their hands in manual labor, extreme tribalism and over-concern for personal honor, acceptance of crass corruption for the lubrication of society and governance, plus uncounted more debilities.

Western civilization and Islam are incompatible. The declaration of hostilities was the act of Islam, not the West. Because of centuries immersed in unquestioning obedience to self-defeating and unchangeable laws, corrective measures were and are unavailing. There is a word for this – no – two words: fecklessness and lolly.

To the Editor:

I have just learned that the Oakland bypass is no longer being considered. If that is the case, I suggest an analysis be made for the people.

Who thought this up? The estimated cost? Design costs? Amount spent overall? Amount of property acquired, and at what cost?

Once this is printed in The Republican, there will be some more questions for the taxpayers to ask.

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

On March 29, 2010, my dad was diagnosed with cancer. As any family who has been in a similar situation knows, our world was turned upside-down. While a cancer diagnosis is fairly common in this day and age, my dad made headlines.

As a Garrett County commissioner, my dad felt he needed to acknowledge his disease. The immediate outpouring of prayers, love, and support was beyond measure. Although we have had good news along the way of tumors responding positively to the treatments, another round of radiation was still looming. Through it all, Dad has had amazing determination, and his positive attitude never wavered.

That all changed on Wednesday, Sept. 1. Dad knew that his attitude and determination had paid off. While preparing for radiation, he met with his doctor to review his most recent scan. His doctor explained what they were not seeing. Miraculously, the target tumors had either disappeared or shrunk so remarkably that they no longer required treatment. Miraculously, all along this journey, any time Dad needed something, he met just the right person at just the right time.

Because we are so grateful for our miracle, we want to publicly extend our thanks. My mom, my brother, other members of our families, and I would like to thank all of you – our family, friends, neighbors, and even strangers. Thank you for the phone calls, hugs, cards, food, and your prayers. Most of all, we have God to thank for answering these prayers. If not for the prayers, Dad would not be where he is today – standing tall, proud, and with miraculous health. We also want to thank the staff of Western Maryland Health System for "healing with love."

When you see Denny Glotfelty, please know that he is standing strong because of you.

Sincerely,
Amy Beeman, along with Sandy Glotfelty, Toby Glotfelty, and our families

To the Editor:

SavageMan rocks! This two-day, two-triathlon festival, coming up Sept. 18-19, is a huge event for Garrett County, with 1,000 athletes registered from all over the United States and other countries as well. With its swim in Deep Creek Lake, bike courses over Garrett and Allegany county roads, and run in Deep Creek State Park, the four-year-old SavageMan is now internationally known as the most difficult road triathlon in the world, thanks to our beloved mountain terrain.

It introduces Garrett County, its attractions, and everything we love about it to thousands of visitors over this one weekend. It requires tremendous effort on the part of the race organizers, Park Service, roads department, emergency medical services, and community volunteers, as well as the athletes themselves and their friends and families.

Thank you to all of these contributors. I love this race. I thank Kyle Yost for conjuring it up, Greg and Darlene Safko for organizing and directing it, The Republican for publicizing it, the staff of Deep Creek Lake State Park for their multiple roles in making the event possible, the Garrett County Roads Department for getting the bike course in shape, and Railey Realty as bike course and lodging sponsor. Thanks to High Mountain Sports for its support and services to bikers, to all the neighborhood course volunteers, and to the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation for its continuous efforts to increase awareness, research, and treatment of this deadly skin cancer. (All proceeds from the race and funds raised by athletes go to the foundation.)

A special thank-you also goes to Joe and Andrea Howe, owners of Howe's New Germany Store, for their exceptional support all summer as a "self-appointed aid station" for cyclists training on the race course. It seems there's nothing they haven't been willing to do to help.

Thank you to everyone. I can't wait!

To the Editor:

I'm happy to see that the editor has seen the corporation problem now in a way to point out the real problem as I see it. To me, the corporations, with their deep pockets, are the problem.

State and local governments have to deal with this reality every time they want to bring jobs to our area. Responsible corporations, like our own Leitzel Welding Corporation, are few and far between. They respect the communities they work in and benefit from.

We need to be aware of the selfish, destructive behavior of greedy corporations. What was done at Roth Rock, the investigations, and the easily paid fines are an old story. We're lucky our neighbors were alert.

We need to appreciate what hard work our elected officials put into dealing with corporations. We need to be aware of those in larger government who benefit from the corporate greed. The Bush administration, with its secret energy policy meeting, gave corporations the green light to ignore laws, work around safety standards, and pollute and despoil our planet. Cheney engineered and Bush signed the bill that exempted companies drilling for natural gas from working within clean water standards protected from naming the chemicals used in fracking.

Oil and gas, in short supply, require especially dangerous means to extract them. Responsible voting for responsible leaders has been in short supply. If the party of no is still going to work against the EPA and the FDA, for instance, many dangers will continue to come our way. Corporate farming has brought us unsafe food and genetically modified seeds that are not even needed. The whole world is fighting against the dangerous use of those seeds, along with pesticides and herbicides. Our country lags behind, as our children suffer from more health problems, including cancer.

De-regulation and unfettered money markets have ruined our economy. It is a crime that wages for the ordinary folks have been stagnant since the '70s. People work harder with longer hours and with fewer colleagues – for less and less. This doesn't look like progress to me. Corporate wealth is soaring, the middle class is shrinking. CEOs and those on Wall Street have deeper pockets still. The number of those losing jobs (it helps the bottom line) is expanding.

Is this the situation we want to conserve? The editor pointed out the problem. We have to get strict on oversight.

Cynthia S. Knight
Grantsville

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to the Garrett County commissioners requested that it appear in this column.

Dear GC Commissioners:

This involves the Roth Rock wind turbines. I am a citizen of Garrett County and I have mixed feelings on the turbines. But my issue is much bigger than that.

I am currently employed by W.R. Casteel, an electrical contractor out of Uniontown, Pa. W.R. Casteel hires all local employees, as did White Construction, the general contractor.

With many fighting the wind mills, there is a gain – employment for local people. It has come to my attention and is very obvious that wind mills do not take long to erect and the job will soon be completed. A contractor named Cianbro has the erection and installation of the physical wind mills on this project. It is a large portion of the work.

Many, if not all, of the employees of Cianbro are not from this area, let alone this region or even this county. Many of them I have already encountered do not speak English.

Very few good-paying jobs are available in this area, and the chance to earn a good income, even if just for a short time, will soon be lost.

There are many skilled workers in this area. We do not need a contractor on a project this size to walk in with all their own employees from out of town and take the jobs that can benefit the local economy by benefitting the people who live here, pay taxes here, and raise their families here.

If you have ever seen the wind mills in Grant County and Mineral County, W.Va., and those to the west of here in Tucker County, they were all built with local labor, not imports from out of town, and with Cianbro, it seems like many, from another country.

If you have any power in your positions, I would like to work here locally, and so would many other persons who are out of work, skilled, and can complete this job without bringing in people from out of the region and taking all the money outside our community.

If we are going to have the wind turbines, at least make it benefit the local people who need the work.

Jim Walkling

To the Editor:

I write this letter to lend my full support to Rita Watson, our current register of wills.

As someone who has dealt with Rita's office in the capacity of personal representative on more than one occasion, I would give Rita and her staff the very highest marks possible.

During what was inevitably a time of grief and sorrow for my family, Rita and her staff were extremely empathetic and professional in regard to the counseling they provided and the assistance they offered in the course of creating and closing the estates. I cannot imagine having gone into that office and having had to deal with someone who may have known less about the subject at hand than I did.

I believe that Garrett County government has reached a crossroad and that this could very well be the most important election we may have ever faced. Our economic fate and future prosperity literally hang in the balance. We are not in a position to remove from office someone as skilled and knowledgeable as Rita Watson only to replace her with someone who is going to require on-the-job training.

I have known Rita Watson personally for over 30 years. If I were asked to prepare a list of the 10 best people I have ever had the pleasure to know, Rita's name would certainly appear near the top of that list.

I ask all voters to consider the importance of the register of wills office and to also consider how important it is to have the skillsets needed to perform efficiently and effectively in what is certainly a highly nuanced area of estate and tax law.

Thank you,
Douglas R. Railey
McHenry

To the Editor:

I want to respond to the letter written by Ms. DeWitt last week about the registrar of wills.

No, the same person doesn't have to be elected all the time. However, if you ever need the services of the registrar when one of your loved ones dies, you will be relieved to know that you are dealing with a person who knows what she is talking about and who is familiar with estate laws.

The days of Joe DiSimone and the way it was when he first started this position are over. These days, there are lawsuits, estate laws, and probate laws. It is extremely involved. There is a lot more to this position than having a nice smile and going out into the community to meet with people and convince them to have their will registered.

I am a business person, also. However, I wouldn't know the first thing about estate laws, and it would take a long, long time for me to become familiar with the laws.

This shouldn't even be an elected position. The position should be an ongoing process of training the deputy clerks, who then could step into the registrar position when the registrar retires, and on and on. That way, there will always be a competent person who knows what he/she is talking about.

I know all of the people running for this position. They are all friendly, kind people. However, these days, being nice just doesn't cut it. We are not voting for personalities, this is serious business. Voting for Rita Watson for this important position is the only sensible thing to do!

Teresa Taylor
Swanton

To the Editor:

As a former resident of Garrett County, I want to make a comment about the upcoming elections. Concerning the election of the registrar of wills, I think this is an office that should be taken over by the county, along with that of the clerk of court.

Even though some of the people running for office are business people, how can they possibly know anything about the handling of estates and probates? The current registrar has 30 years of experience. How can someone walk in off the street and take over?

I hope the voters remember that this is not a popularity vote. I'm sure that a long time ago, all the registrar had to do was complete some simple forms and be comforting to the family. I'd hate to see someone who needs help settling an estate walk into the office and be greeted by someone who doesn't even know how to use the computer system. It should be a requirement that everyone running for registrar of wills successfully complete a course in estate law.

I'd also like to thank the current commissioners for ruining the beautiful landscape of Garrett County with those horrible windmills. Garrett County will never be as beautiful as it used to be!

Sara Gray

To the Editor:

You published a letter last week from Sheila O'Neill, member of the GC Republican State Central Committee and supporter of Traci Royce, which threw the election campaign for register of wills into the gutter.

Rita Watson, incumbent, has run a very positive campaign. But the personal attacks on her and former register Joe DiSimone are so beyond the bounds of acceptable election etiquette that it's hard to believe that such cheap shots are part of a GC election.

I cannot sit by and let these attacks and falsehoods go unanswered, because I know neither Rita nor Joe will dignify them by answering. I'll attempt to set the record straight.

Ms. Royce, having no useful experience, apparently feels that to get elected she must ridicule those who do have experience. So she and her supporters are telling people that "no experience" is needed to be register because Joe DiSimone was a "furniture salesman" and his predecessor Joe Welch was a "school bus driver."

Here is what they don't tell you:

Joe Welch was county treasurer for many years before running for register, and had gained experience with government rules and procedures through interaction with the register's office.

Joe DiSimone was trained in communications in the Navy and a graduate

Gilbert, teacher

Inside the center participants can buy taco salad, fruit salad, nachos, chili dogs, sloppy joes, hot dogs, coffee, chocolate and regular milk, lemonade, and apple cider

Swan Meadow School students will open the evening with songs at 6:45 p.m., and the auction will follow at 7.

One of the special items in the auction this year, Gilbert noted, is a queen-size quilt created last school year by students and parents of the school. Twelve appliqued blocks show scenes from Gortner's history, such as the arrival of Peter and Barbara Gortner in America after they left by boat from Germany on May 15, 1848.

"Their harrowing transatlantic voyage was chronicled in the school's Alta Schrock Award-winning Gortner Oral History Project. Five copies of the project's soft-cover book, Piece a Quilt of Gortner, will also be in the auction. Copies of The Swan Meadow School History Book of Photographs and Memories will be sold throughout the evening.

To reach the Pleasant Valley Community Center, drivers should travel south on Route 219 and turn onto Paul Friend Road, then right onto Joni Miller Road. The Pleasant Valley Community Center is along that road on the right.

Adorable Adoptables

of Catherman Business College. Yes, he worked at Roylans, but his job included handling and accounting for money. It's true that when he was elected he had no experience as register, but Joe Welch, who was retiring after years of service, was granted a dispensation by the state to remain and train him.

Also, the office was much less busy in 1978. There was only one telephone, no computer, and vastly fewer estates, laws, regulations, and rules.

Ms. O'Neill calls "not true" Rita's statement that there is no state training for incoming registers. But she is wrong. Although there are two seminars per year for public officials, these deal with specialties such as new laws. There is no six weeks of training as claimed by Ms. Royce.

Ms. O'Neill's attack on Joe's ad endorsing Rita is perhaps the lowest of all. She called it "emotional blackmail" and "scare tactics." But if you have a problem with an estate, would you rather have Rita's 31 years of experience helping you or someone who is doing on-the-job training?

Sincerely,
Dave Insley

To the Editor:

The November campaign frenzy has begun. What with the major parties not cooperating and the Tea Party intervening, the forthcoming discussion and debates should be lively and, hopefully, civil. Will such liveliness turn out voters in large numbers? Time will tell; one can hope.

Consider what has grabbed the headlines in our newspapers and magazines lately:

2. The massacre of 10 medical missionaries in Afghanistan by the Taliban.

3. Massive flooding of 1/3 of Pakistan, putting 20 million Pakistanis in jeopardy of starvation and disease.

4. Increasing numbers of U.S.A. allied troops killed in action in Afghanistan.

5. Withdrawal of combat troops from Iraq.

6. A community center/mosque planned and approved, to be built near 9/11 location in New York City. Such has raised anti-Islamic fears, similar to anti-Irish Roman Catholic fears of papal power in the 19th century and the long-standing anti-Semitic fear worldwide which has been ongoing for 2,000 years.

Recently, the Aug. 30 issue of Time asked this question on its cover: "Is America Islamophobic?"

Editor Don Sincell in the August 26 issue of The Republican has it right, and one needs to read his editorial in toto. He supports religious freedom and the approval of the building of the Park 12, New York City community center/mosque, but the last paragraph of the editorial reads thus: "Granted, if for no other reason than to avoid what could evolve into a blood bath, it would seem prudent for the community center/mosque planners to reconsider the location of their project. But it would be far better in the long run, and for our nation in general, if this tunnel vision of so many Americans could somehow be cured." Amen to that.

Lastly, it behooves us, as a nation of laws, to conduct this debate in an orderly and civil manner as explained under Section 36 "Decorum in Debate" in Robert's Rules of Order, originally written in 1907 by General Henry Robert of the U.S. Army.

Paul Shogren

To the Editor:

In March of 1993, I met my future father-in-law, Fred Holliday. He was big and smiling, with a gray beard and glasses.

He ran a hardware store. Fred and I got along very well from the start. He was such a kind storeowner. He would often get calls at night while eating dinner. He would open up his store after hours to help these customers in need.

Fred was also mayor of the town of Grantsville. He had done so many good things in that town. He was an active member of the Lions Club and was always doing volunteer work and very involved in his community.

He decided to run for county commissioner in 1998. Fred was elected to his first term later that fall. He is an excellent commissioner and has served in this post for almost 12 years. He has been and always will be a dedicated public servant. He takes his responsibilities and duties very seriously, and is one of the most conscientious elected leaders I have ever met. He continues to work within the community for the greater good, and he continues to do his job well.

This fall Fred is running for re-election. Back in the spring, I offered to help him in any way I could. He asked if I would mind painting two campaign signs. He wanted his face painted about three feet high, and the text would read: Re-Elect Fred Holliday County Commissioner District 2. It takes a brave man to want his picture so large.

So those signs now are displayed in Garrett County for all to see. I hope the people who look upon his smiling face will know what a great man he is. I hope they realize what an amazing public servant they have working for the best interests of the county.

I also helped by going door-to-door asking Garrett County residents if they would be willing to place signs of support in their yards. Some folks were willing, some were not. A few folks told me they were Democrats. I told them I was too. I said that Fred Holliday was the man to support, regardless of party affiliation. They put up signs in their yards. I am so happy when I can see people stand together and support a common good.

Thank you,
Regina Holliday

JESSIE M. GNEGY

JESSIE M. GNEGY

Jessie Marie (Wotring) Gnegy, Oakland, went to be with the Lord on Sunday, Sept. 5, 2010, at her home.

Born in Aurora, W.Va., she was the daughter of the late Calvin and Hester (Sell) Wotring. Mrs. Gnegy was also preceded in death by her husband, Harold Elroy Gnegy Sr.

Every now and then someone comes along who may not leave a mark on society by being a business professional, but who leaves something greater for generations of family who have lost the rock and center of their foundation. Jessie was a home maker, wife, mother, grandmother, and great-grandmother.

She leaves behind five sons, Harold Jr. and wife Dotty, Robert and wife Marge, Larry and wife Terry, Tim and wife Sue, and Ron and wife Susan, all of Oakland, one daughter, Kathy and husband Gary, Oakland; eight grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren. Each person from the youngest to the oldest is left with memories about how she could make them laugh and how her smile could light up the room.

Even until the end, she was still giving her loved ones blessed memories that will fill each and every one of their hearts with joy every time they remember these moments.

Mrs. Gnegy was also a charter member of the Oak Park Church of the Brethren. She was a longtime Sunday school teacher and a deaconess, and helped with numerous other activities of the church. Serving the Lord was a very important part of her life, and she instilled the love to serve the Lord and help others in each and every member of her family, from the oldest to the youngest.

At this time we all mourn our loss but also remember the words to one of Jessie's favorite songs: "The blessing by faith, I receive from above. Oh, glory! My soul is made perfect in love. My prayer has prevailed, and this moment I know, the blood is applied, I am whiter than snow." After years of hard work and loving her family, Jessie's prayer has prevailed, and she is whiter than snow.

Friends were received at David A. Burdock Funeral Home, Oakland.

A service was conducted at Oak Park Church of the Brethren on Wednesday, Sept. 8, with Rev. J. Roger Fike officiating.

Interment was held in Garrett County Memorial Gardens.

New GC Students Welcomed During Tuesday Orientation

New students at Garrett College were warmly greeted by faculty and staff during a daylong orientation on Tuesday. With classes scheduled to start Wednesday, the event included words of encouragement and information about campus life, as well as activities, fun, and prizes.

Dr. George Brelsford, the new dean of student life, kicked off the orientation by welcoming the new students to campus and college life. Garrett College president Dr. Richard MacLennan joined the students for lunch in the Lakers' Cafe.

The afternoon was dedicated to campus-wide activities led by staff and members of the Student Government Association.

During a dinner in the Lakers' Cafe, Cissy VanSickle, director of student financial aid and veterans affairs, talked with students about budgeting and money management.

Volunteer Fair Set Sept. 25 At Garrett College

Area residents who are currently seeking employment may benefit from attending the Garrett County Volunteer Fair, slated for Saturday, Sept. 25, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., at Garrett College, according to Judy Carbone, director of advising, career, and transfer services, who is coordinating this community event.

Carbone points out that the health and social benefits of volunteering that have been publicized over the past few years are not the only advantages.

"There are also career benefits of volunteering," she said. "It can be part of a strategy to network, hone skills and develop others, fill in a time gap on a resume, or try out a new career, all while helping others."

Recent studies also suggest that volunteering may improve the chances that a job-seeker will find gainful employment. Internet sites are now popping up, touting the advantages of volunteering when it comes to job hunting.

With unemployment in Garrett County currently at about 7.5%, many people are filling out applications and hoping to get interviews. In such a competitive job market, volunteering may provide the edge that will improve one's odds of finding a job, Carbone notes.

Through volunteering, the job-seeker can advertise his/her employability by demonstrating professional skills, dedication, and a strong work ethic.

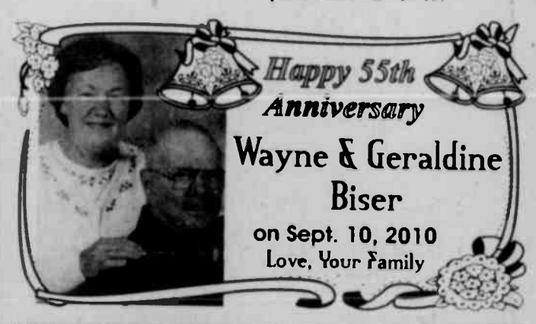

Planners of the Garrett County Volunteer Fair believe that this event will significantly benefit the entire community.

"Agencies and organizations will be able to link with dedicated workers who will help to continue service delivery at a time when funding is being cut in so many places," Carbone said.

People looking for an opportunity to share their skills to help others will be able to meet with organization leaders and find their niche.

"We encourage people who are looking for employment to visit the Volunteer Fair and learn how they can help others while helping themselves," Carbone said.

For more information on the Garrett County Volunteer Fair, persons may visit www.garrettcollege.edu/volunteer online or telephone 301-387-3046.

Judy Wilt, Treasurer Authority of Friends of Wayne Wilt

As the primary draws closer, the people of Garrett County have some tough decisions to make regarding the race for Commissioner.

Will we as a community continue to rely on and accept the same thought patterns and actions that have led us up to this point or is it time for new leadership that will be your voice in government affairs?

As a Republican candidate for Commissioner from District One, I am confident that I can bring new and better leadership to our county government. I believe that to move Garrett County forward requires an infusion of new ideas, new energy, and new approaches to problem solving with greater accountability and openness from new leadership. As a Commissioner I will be a steward for both the residents of Garrett County and the governmental affairs of the county.

I chose to run because I believe that Garrett County has reached a critical crossroad. Given the tough economic times and challenges, the citizens can no longer accept leadership that continues the status quo, a reactive mindset, or seemingly haphazard spending, rather the new Commissioner Board must be become more proactive in their thinking and actions. I believe that the decisions that are made and need to be made have much longer term consequences then ever before regarding the direction and the vision for our county.

I believe that the leadership of the county must begin to refine the vision for what we want our county to be in five, ten and fifteen years from now. What is the goal for new job creation? What actions are we taking to market the opportunities here? How can we grow our population base? Let's work towards ending the notion that our children and grandchildren must move away for better economic opportunity.

Even though we are a county of diverse interests and unique communities, the success of Garrett County will require leadership willing to commit to greater engagement between government and its citizens, its business community, and with regional and state government to resolve issues, address concerns, and expand opportunities. I am very pragmatic and focus on achieving solutions when faced with challenges and issues. I will listen to your concerns and opinions with an open mind and work to earn your trust in order to create solutions to move the Garrett County community forward so that Garrett County and its communities can grow stronger, more resilient and expand opportunities. We all have a vested interest in the success of our county.

I believe that the best days for Garrett County are yet to come, and that Garrett County can grow its economic base and its population base. The results of such growth will bolster our communities both economically and socially and will help to ensure that Garrett County remains a viable place to live and work. This goal can be achieved with leadership willing to take measurable actions. I feel thankful to live Garrett County, which is a unique tableland community, and I am proud to call it my home.

New leadership is needed on initiatives and matters that affect all of us but have historically been decided by a very few. I ask for your support, so that I may work to address the fiscal, economic, and community challenges we face.

if you are content with those actions and decisions of the current commissioners then, perhaps, your choice as to whom to vote for may be easy this September; if you are not then I ask for your vote and support.

Your voice does matter; the government works for you.

I ask for your vote on September 14, 2010

EXPERIENCE DOES COUNT

This letter from Maryland's elected State Treasurer, Nancy Kopp, was received recently by Register of Wills Rita Watson congratulating her on the completion of an audit of 3 years of her office's operations. The audit, done by a State Certified Fraud Examiner and CPA, took 5 weeks to complete. A report of "no finding" is much coveted by State agencies subject to regular State audits.

The register's offices are audited at least every 3 years without prior notice. The local office remitted almost $300,000 to the State General Fund after operating expenses and refunds last year.

Choral Society Rehearsals To Resume Sunday

The Garrett Choral Society will resume rehearsals this Sunday, Sept. 12, at St. Paul's Methodist Church in Oakland at 6:30 p.m. The group will be rehearsing for the Christmas concerts, set for Dec. 11 and 12 at St. Peter at the Lake Center, McHenry.

The choral society is under the direction of Julie Turrentine. Singers of all ages are invited to participate. There are no auditions, but a commitment to rehearsal time and learning the music is required, Turrentine said.

There is a $20 fee for each member's dues and music.

Founder Of Dancing Classrooms To Visit Accident Elem. School

Dancer, teacher Pierre Dulaine will visit Accident Elementary School on Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 4 and 5, on behalf of the local non-profit organization Dancing Classrooms Western Maryland, which is directed by Jennifer Christophel. There will be a private welcoming reception on Monday evening for present and future sponsors of Dancing Classrooms Western Maryland.

Dulaine will teach the fifth graders their first class of Dancing Classrooms on Monday and then give a short presentation on what it is, how it was started, and how it can impact the communities that participate in the program. This presentation will be open to all school principals, school board members, teachers, school officials, and any community member interested in supporting and/or sponsoring the organization.

Those who have seen the documentary Mad Hot Ballroom or the Time Warner feature film Take the Lead, starring Antonio Banderas, may already be familiar with Dulaine, founder of the organization. He has been called a "dancer and teacher extraordinaire" by the New York Times and has received numerous dance-related awards, including the Fred Astaire Award for Best Dancing on Broadway in Grand Hotel.

"Both [Mad Hot Ballroom and Take the Lead] greatly accelerated national, and international, interest in Dancing Classrooms, a non-profit arts in education program that serves as a social development program for 5th and 8th grade children," said Christophel. "Dancing Classrooms utilizes the art of ballroom dancing to effect positive change in the lives of children and their educational institutions."

The program was founded in New York City by Dulaine as a curriculum-based teaching approach using the vocabulary of various contemporary social dances in a classroom setting to help students develop social awareness, collaboration, teamwork, active arts making, self-awareness, confidence, creativity, cooperation, and high self-esteem.

"However, this program is not about ballroom dancing," said Dulaine. "It's a social development program. It's not just about the steps, it's what's between the steps."

Maryland's pilot Dancing Classrooms program was run in Accident Elementary School from March through May, ending with a culminating event.

"The transformation of the apprehensive students at lesson #1 into the confident dancers that performed at lesson #20 was truly remarkable," said Accident principal Karen Devore. "The most exciting element about this program is that it reached all students, regardless of social status, academic standing, gender, race, or disability. This was an enrichment opportunity for our students that will stay with each of them for a very long time."

The fundamental difference between Dancing Classrooms and other school programs is that this is part of the curriculum. It is not an elective or an after-school program.

Dulain is the owner and director of the American Ballroom Theater and has been a faculty member of both the School of American Ballet and the Juilliard School. The American Ballroom Theater began developing Dancing Classrooms sites throughout the U.S. and Canada in 2006 and now serves more than 45,000 children in 11 states and provinces and now the tri-state area including Garrett, Allegany, and

TEMPTED BY TROUBLE

by Eric Jerome Dickey

C. 2010, Dutton, $26.95; 355 pages

Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

Times are tough. You've tightened your belt so much that you don't have any notches left. You've canceled everything cancelable, given up all but the necessities, stopped going out and started going desperate. You don't know what to do next to save your un(der)employed self. It's decision time.

How up-the-creek are you? Would you pick up a gun to pay the bills? In the new book Tempted by Trouble by Eric Jerome Dickey, a man learns that firepower is not foolproof.

There was once a time when Dmytryk Knight and his wife Cora were bringing down a six-figure income between them. But that was before Detroit's factories started laying off workers, before money dried up and entire neighborhoods were bulldozed. It was before Cora started dancing naked in gentlemen's clubs, just to pay the mortgage.

When Eddie Coyle came to the club and took Cora to Canada for the weekend, Dmytryk was ashamed and jealous until Cora told him that Eddie Coyle needed help. Coyle was looking for a trustworthy wheelman to travel with his team of bank robbers, someone who thought fast and kept his mouth shut.

Eddie Coyle needed someone steady. Dmytryk needed a job.

The work was easy and the money was good – for a while. Dmytryk and Cora caught up on bills and did a little traveling. When money ran out, there was always another job. Another trip to another city for another brief wait in the car, while Dmytryk's teammates, Robert and Sammy, coolly walked into a bank and walked out with cash.

Yes, the money was good... but it wasn't enough for Cora, and when Dmytryk came home from a job one night, she was gone.

That distracted Dmytryk some, but he had no choice but to work. He needed the money to find Cora, and besides, Eddie Coyle would never let him off the team alive. Dmytryk had seen too much. No witnesses, Coyle said.

But there were plenty of witnesses when the Los Angeles bank job went sour. Plenty of people saw Sammy take a bullet to the face and Robert, one to the chest. But nobody saw Dmytryk as he sped away from the bank, or as he drove to Georgia toward another job and another devastating surprise.

Though I've read other novels by author Dickey, I'll admit that I'm not always a fan. For me, his work runs hot or cold.

With this book, I just about burned my fingers. Tempted by Trouble sizzles.

I loved that this book felt like a paper equivalent of Reservoir Dogs or a 1930s noir movie, with action that's bullet-fast. I loved that this novel's characters act like real people (albeit violent, immoral, brutal ones) in situations that aren't beyond belief. And I loved the ending of this book, which is so perfect it took my breath away.

Throw out your bookmarks, cancel your plans, and settle in this weekend with this first-rate crime novel. Once you start Tempted by Trouble, you'll have a tough time letting it go.

Group Sees Global Warming Behind Weather Woes

by Nicole Dao and Laura Thornton
Capital News Service

BALTIMORE - Violent weather is on the rise in Maryland, and global warming could lead to more extreme weather events in the future, according to a report released Wednesday by Environment Maryland.

"Global warming loads the dice for extreme weather," said Jon Wong of Environment Maryland -- a statewide, citizen-based, activist organization -- at a news conference Wednesday morning on the docks of Baltimore's historic Fells Point district. The district is still recovering from the floods wrought by Hurricane Isabel in 2003, he said.

Extreme weather events like Hurricane Isabel have already brought millions of dollars' worth of damage to coastal areas along the Chesapeake Bay, Wong said.

In less-populated, coastal areas such as Dorchester County -- which is less than 10 feet below sea level, the flooding damage can be particularly acute, says Edward McDonough of Maryland's emergency management agency.

The report, "Global Warming and Extreme Weather: The Science, the Forecast, and the Impacts on America," argues that global warming can lead to more intense hurricanes, heat waves and snowstorms -- all three of which have caused havoc in Maryland in recent years.

The problem is that global warming leads to more evaporation of water into the Earth's atmosphere. When a weather event like a hurricane or snowstorm does occur, the storm has more water with which to work, Wong said.

Experts urge caution in firmly linking global warming and increased or more intense weather events.

"Trying to find a scientific link...is scientifically difficult to do," said David Easterling, chief of the scientific services division of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's National Climatic Data Center.

"The bottom line is that there is likely a link...but it's hard to determine," he added. "We haven't done the kind of work we need to do to be able to say 'yes,' (there is a link)."

Still, local residents are encouraged to do what they can to reduce their carbon footprints, said Daniel Kirk-Davidoff, an adjunct professor of atmospheric science at the University of Maryland, College Park, at Wednesday's event.

Global temperatures are increasing by .2 degrees Celsius every decade, Kirk-Davidoff said.

"We escaped Hurricane Earl, but we may be looking at another event down the road," he added.

Convincing local residents of the importance of the issue can be challenging, said Baltimore City Councilman James Kraft, because it can be difficult to "distinguish between local weather and worldwide climate."

"(Global warming) is not visible. People can't touch that," Kraft added.

I want to thank everyone for the great opportunity I've experienced this summer.
As many of you know, I'm running as a Republican Candidate for District 3 Commissioner

This has been a tremendous experience; one that has opened my eyes about the concerns of our county. It has also reinforced what I already knew... that our people are second to none and at the same time are being taken for granted. I've enjoyed meeting you and listening to your concerns whether at your home, place of business, at town meetings or at the fair. During these conversations I have been repeatedly asked the same questions such as "Why are you running for commissioner? Why are we spending so much money on wants and not needs? Do you think our current commissioners have lost touch?" and the scariest question of all... "Who do you think is running the county?"

I've found out these concerns simply by being available and listening. That sounds so simple, but it's the truth. That's always been my approach (I guess that's why we have 2 ears and 1 mouth). That's the approach, along with my character traits, my values and the people around me, that make me a leader; a difference maker. I build trust, respect and communication. I listen with an open mind and work together to prevent and/or solve problems & issues. It's that same approach that will make me successful as your commissioner.

The election is next Tuesday September 14. If you're looking for a leader, a difference maker, a business manager with common sense and integrity, then I'm your man. At the same time, if you're happy with the current system, where our leaders aren't listening, where they are making decisions without your input, where the spending is on wants and not needs, where there is no defined plan for the future and they continue to spend our tax dollars like there is no tomorrow and show little concern about the number of jobs and young people lost to other areas – then your decision is made and I am not your man.

As I've told everyone, I don't have all the answers. However, I do promise to work hard with you, using all of our resources to find answers and move forward. We need to know how our tax dollars are being spent. Let's be more open with our spending choices; open up the decision-making process. Let's build on our positives. We have many, but they are being covered up by the negatives. We need to promote our area, preserve our heritage and our schools, and help our citizens and small businesses. They have proven their commitment to us, why haven't we committed to them? Let's restore trust, respect, communication, listening and common sense to our decisionmaking. That is what your vote for me will do. Again, thank you, but most of all thanks to all those who sacrificed so I could run for county commissioner, so we all can vote and so we can enjoy all our freedoms.

On Tuesday, September 14, cast your

Rams Play Campers Close In First Half, But Fade In Second

by Branden Wilt

It was a tale of two halves for the Southern High School varsity football team Saturday, but unfortunately for the Rams, it was the Allegany Campers who won the tail end of those two stanzas, scoring three unanswered touchdowns to take both teams' season opener, 35-7, at Greenway Avenue Stadium.

Southern played the Campers dead even for all save two minutes of the first half, with momentary lapses on the defensive end and some big plays by Alco accounting for the Rams' 14-7 halftime deficit.

Allegany wasted no time getting on the board, striking on just its third play from scrimmage, as Madison Wolford wove his way 53 yards and into the end zone at the 10:46 mark of the first quarter. Neal Morgan botted the conversion.

Down 7-0, the Southern defense stiffened at that point, forcing a fumble, and as the first quarter came to a close, the Rams began a drive that would even things up at 7-7.

Quarterback Bubba Scheffel hit Derek Papa across the middle with an 18-yard dart, and Scheffel then bootlegged to the left for 10 more yards, putting the ball on the Campers' 20.

Five plays later, Scheffel hit Tim Glotfelty in the middle of the end zone from five yards out, and Jake Bramande's kick tied the score at 7-7 with 6:06 left in the half.

It looked like the score would remain deadlocked at intermission, but Allegany sophomore quarterback Carter Imes, starting instead of senior Drew O'Neal, who was filling in at the halfback spot, got hot late.

The Campers took over at midfield with just under a minute to play, and Imes found a receiver on the sideline four times to move the football, but not the clock. The final strike, a 9-yard completion to Brady Ellsworth, followed by Morgan's conversion kick, put the home team on top 14-7.

It was all Alco in the second half, with O'Neal scoring on a two-yard carry at the 1:10 mark of the third period. Mogan's kick made it 21-7.

The fourth quarter featured a 24-yard TD pass from Imes to Aaron Leasure, and a four-yard TD run by O'Neal. Morgan successfully kicked both conversions.

Imes completed nine of 14 passes for 139 yards and two touchdowns.

Southern head coach Steve Savage was able to gather some positives from the loss at Greenway.

"We played hard," he said. "It shouldn't have been a 21-7 game. We made a few mistakes late to make it (the score) look a lot worse than it was. I thought we were a disciplined team, and overall we were mistake-free, had no turnovers, and were relatively penalty-free.

"We will need to continue to improve in our physical conditioning," he continued. "We showed a lot of resiliency and bounced back well from Allegany's first score."

Southern will travel to tangle with the Moorefield Yellow Jackets (0-2) this Friday.

The Jackets were stung last week, 46-28, by Frankfort's big-play ability. The Falcons dominated on the scoreboard all night, but Moorefield won the total yardage game both in the air and on the ground.

Moorefield amassed 264 yards via the rush on just 40 carries, compared to the Falcons' 257 on 50.

Jordan Ours was 6-for-19 for 119 yards through the air for Moorefield, and had a touchdown and an interception.

Louis Richardson carried 20 times for a game-high 130 yards for Moorefield. Ours also went over the century mark, and accounted to 103 more yards.

'Moorefield got off to a rough start at Frankfort," Savage said, "and that score was not indicative of the game as well. They struggled against BW in the opener as well.

"They run a wing-T and like to spread it out. Ours is a very good thrower, but he also runs extremely well. The fullback Richardson is very good, and Brandon Cassell is a third good back."

Moorefield will show a lot of size on defense, allowing the three aforementioned running backs freedom on the other side of the football to roam at linebacker.

"We will see a 3-3 defensive," said Savage. "They are 350-plus pounds up front. They are not fast, but they eat up a lot of space, which allows their backers to make good plays."

The kickoff in Moorefield is set for 7 p.m.

Elect Robert Corley for Sheriff

As your republican candidate for sheriff I would like to take this final opportunity, before the September 14 primary election, to thank my family, friends, supporters, and financial contributors for their overwhelming support over the last year.

I have spent my entire career at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office preparing for this opportunity. My education is strong, my accomplishments are lengthy and my commitment to the citizens of this county runs deep, but on election day I am not asking for your support because of what I have already done, I'm asking for your support because of what I can and will do if you elect me as your Sheriff.

Huskies Mauled By Jaguars In Season Opener; Fall 27-0

by Branden Wilt

Smithsburg's Ben Daniels took advantage of excellent line work and eclipsed the century mark in rushing as the Jaguars devoured the Northern High varsity Huskies, 27-0, at Carroll Reid Field Friday evening.

It was the season opener for both squads.

Daniels, who finished with 101 yards and two touchdowns on 19 carries, scored on the Jags' initial possession on which he amassed over half of his game-high total and scored on a four-yard run. Ben Daniels' conversion kick made it 7-0 with 5:32 to play in the first quarter.

A 71-yard drive was capped by a two-yard TD run by Daniels with 3:01 remaining in the second period. Daniels again kicked the PAT. The score was set up by Justin Scott's 52-yard pass-and-run connection with Luke Slick.

Smithsburg struck again on its first possession in the third quarter, taking the kickoff and driving 70 yards. Derek Smith capped the effort with a one-yard plunge, and Daniels' third successful conversion put the Jags up 21-0 with 6:49 left in the third.

The Jaguars tacked on one last TD in the final frame, as Brad Spickler scored on a 12-yard carry with 3:56 left in the game. The conversion attempt failed.

Smithsburg finished with 345 yards of total offense, 241 on the ground, while allowing Northern to cross midfield on just two of nine possessions and limiting the Huskies to 156 total yards from scrimmage. Fifty-five of those yards came on the Huskies' final drive, which stalled at the 7-yard line as time expired.

Josh Mason led the Northern ground game with 30 yards on seven carries, while Alex Baker and Patrick Sines both finished with 15.

Quarterback Sines completed seven of 15 passes for 97 yards. Cody Rodeheaver had four receptions for 69 yards, and Jake Bosley caught a pair for 23 yards.

Northern (0-1) will return to action Friday night in its home opener versus Williamsport.

"I was disappointed that we played like we did," said NHS head coach Phil Carr. "We have had tough times down there [at Smithsburg] with all the numbers they put on the field. They dressed 43 players, 23 of whom were seniors. We had only 21 players on the field.

"We gave up two scores in the second half, but played better. We made some changes defensively due to personnel situations this year that simply did not work. We went from the 3-5 back to a 5-3 defensively, and our kids played better. We thought we had a lot of talent at the linebacker, but our kids just did not respond."

Offensively, Carr noted that Simms passed for over 100 yards, but added, "Good teams run the football. We need to get better there and back to what we did in the past."

Northern will play its home opener this Friday when Williamsport travels to Accident. The Wildcats won last season's contest narrowly, 22-16.

Williamsport is coming off a close call of its own, a 9-6 season-opening overtime defeat at the hands of the North Carroll Panthers (Hampstead).

Carr said that Williamsport is not as talented as Smithsburg, "but is still a good team."

Senior tailback Reggie Russ, 5-9, 180, will be the Wildcats' go-to guy, and Williamsport will attempt to isolate him on screens and give him space to work.

Junior quarterback Tyler Wise throws the ball well, but will be a major threat to run from the shotgun, according to Carr.

"He is dangerous, he will just sit back there and then take off," said Carr.

Friday's kickoff at the Cove is set for 7 p.m.

Northern Steelers Fall To Patriots In CAYFL Game

The Division I Northern Steelers dropped a Cumberland Area Youth Football League contest to the visiting Patriots on Sunday, 37-12.

Rashaan Shives scored two touchdowns for the winners, while Alex Barnes, Kris Jackson, and Ryan Smith each scored one.

Barnes opened the scoring with a 26-yard TD run in the first quarter, and Kaden Watts booted the conversion to give the Patriots an 8-0 lead.

An 8-yard touchdown reception by Steeler Meshach Metz later in the same period made it 8-6.

Shives scored two touchdowns in the second quarter, one on a 15-yard carry and the other via a 46-yard pass reception, and the score was 23-6 at intermission.

After a scoreless third quarter, Patriot Kris Jackson returned a punt 41 yards for a touchdown, and Watt's conversion kick made it 31-6.

Brady Bittinger capped the next Steeler drive with an 11-yard TD run, but the Patriots came back to score a final touchdown on a 46-yard run by Ryan Smith.

Barnes finished with 95 yards on 10 carries, while Shives picked up 94 yards rushing, and Smith had 70 yards.

Leading the Steeler defense were Dylan and Tyler Giles and Justin Opel.

Behind a four-touchdown effort by Aaron Rodeheaver, the Division II Steelers cruised to a 40-16 win over the Patriots in the second game.

Rodeheaver scored on runs of 61, 25, and 38 yards in the first quarter, and returned an interception 55 yards for a TD in the second period.

Jake Vernon, who scored a touchdown on a 35-yard interception return, successfully booted four two-point conversions.

After falling behind 40-0, the Patriots avoided a shut out when Luke Stegmaier scored on a 65-yard run late in the second period. He scored a second touchdown in the fourth quarter on a two-yard run. Jordan Warner kicked both conversions.

Rodeheaver finished with 134 yards on just seven carries. Leading the Steeler defensive unit were Logan Yommer, Nate Durst, and Devon Wilhelm.

The Steeler teams will play again this Saturday night at home against Braddock, with the Division II contest getting under way at 6 p.m., and the Division I game kicking off at 7:30.

Oakland Rams Fall To Ridgeley In Youth Action

The Division I Oakland Rams dropped a 20-6 contest to Ridgeley in Cumberland Area Youth League action on Sunday at Ridgeley.

Oakland's offense was unable to get rolling against a stingy Ridgeley defense. Mikey Welch led the Ram offense with 76 yards rushing on just seven carries. Jeffery Eddington scored Oakland's only TD, hauling in a 35-yard pass from Travis Newton.

The Ram defensive unit was on the field much of the game. Dalton Cooper paced Oakland's effort with five tackles, while Eddington had three tackles and one interception.

"The team played hard all day," said Ram coach Brian Cooper. "We had more penalty yards and lost the turnover battle. It's almost impossible to win at this level making the mistakes we did."

The Rams' next game will be Sunday, Sept. 19, at home against the Mtn. Ridge Miners, with the kickoff set for 2 p.m.

Northern Girls Open Season With Wins Over Falcons, Alco

by Branden Wilt

Kaitlynn Fratz scored three second-half goals to lead the Northern girls' varsity soccer team to a 7-1 season-opening win over Frankfort on the Falcons' field Saturday.

The Huskies then upped their record to 2-0 Tuesday by shutting out visiting Allegany, 6-0.

In the win over Frankfort, Jenny Shaffer and Sydney McFarland each scored twice for the Huskies, with the former putting Northern on the board first with a goal off an assist from the latter.

MacFarland made it 2-0 on a Mandy Gallagher pass, and Shaffer notched her second score minutes later to make it 3-0. Callie Vernon assisted on that play.

Frankfort's Megan Eyler found a streaking Bri Welker to account for Frankfort's lone goal to make it 3-1, but it was all Northern from there. In fact, the Frankfort goal was the lone Falcon shot on goal for the afternoon.

Fratz found McFarland one more time to give the Huskies a 4-1 lead heading into the locker rooms at the break.

The second half belonged to Fratz, with her first two goals coming unassisted, and her final via an assist from McFarland.

Northern finished with a commanding 25-1 lead in shots, and a 9-0 advantage in corner kicks. Frankfort goalkeeper Steffani Shingle made 10 saves.

The Northern junior varsity team cruised to a 9-0 victory, as Brooke Fink scored three times, and Ashley Murphy and Kristen Carpenter each added a pair.

Fratz scored a pair of goals in Tuesday's victory over Allegany.

Sydney McFarland put the Huskies up 1-0 at the 12½ minutes into the match, scoring off a feed by Chelsi Kling.

Northern increased its lead to 4-0 by intermission with goals by Callie Vernon, Fratz, and Whitney Murphy.

The Huskies would add two insurance goals in the second half, one by Monica Keller and another by Fratz.

The Huskies finished with a lopsided 23-2 lead in shots on goal, and a 6-0 margin in corner kicks.

Uruashi Davalan recorded 17 saves for the Campers, while Morgan Brosnihan and Alex Diehl each had one save for the Huskies.

The Northern junior varsity also upped its record to 2-0 with a 2-0 win over the Camper jayvees.

The Huskies will travel to Southern next Tuesday.

The Rams then dropped a 2-0 match to visiting Northern last night to even their record at 1-1.

The Rams spent most of the night on the offensive against Frankfort, and outshot the Falcons 17-7. They also finished with a 4-0 lead in corner kicks.

Southern's Seth Ingram stopped six shots in goal to gain the shutout, while Frankfort's Cameron Spence had 14 saves.

Explains why he will support

Gregan Crawford

Jim Raley

And Denny Glotfelty

For Garrett County Commissioners in 2010

Please take this opportunity to reach for a change in Local Leadership

It has been a very long time since we residents of Garrett County had multiple choices for each of the three Commissioner races. Please take the time and invest the energy to give serious review to the eleven candidates for Garrett County Commissioner. Visit www.deepcreeklakepoa.com to see two sets of candidate questions and answers from all of the hopeful commissioners. You have some excellent options. Those that missed the forum Saturday at Garrett College watch the chamber web site www.garrettchamber.com for You Tube links to the Q&A .

Last week Gregan Crawford came knocking on my door. I was impressed with District One's new option. A candidate that has the concern to listen, the desire to think and act proactively, understands the challenges and will be a dedicated public leader. Mr. Crawford has the ethics and drive to protect our communities. Among the questions Mr. Crawford asked me was, how many other candidates knocked on your door? My response was a bit sad even to my ears... not one candidate or commissioner has stopped this year or in many years by my business to ask for neighborly feedback. Gregan was easy to talk to, understanding and intelligent and left having earned both my confidence and my trust and that's why I will support him on Election Day with my vote.

I had the pleasure of sitting beside Jim Raley at this year's Lincoln day dinner. I was impressed by Mr. Raley's understanding of Garrett County politics and personalities. A fiscal conservative that understands Garrett County must control spending AND grow to attain our brightest future. It will be a welcome change to find leadership from District two capable of intelligently lobbying state and national legislature for local needs. Jim understands that our local political process needs to be open to debate and the discussion of all the people's ideas. Jim understands the educational system better than any candidate filed and he has worked with the commissioners in the past on the School Board to bring about the positive testing results that Garrett County students demonstrate. I will vote for Jim Raley because he goes to work every day to represent our future and that future rests in the hands of our students and teachers. Garrett County needs to do a better job of retaining our brightest and best young Garrett Countians that want to live where they have been educated and have grown up. Jim will make that a priority!

District Three has six men running for the commissioner seat. My long time friend Denny Glotfelty has worked very hard to do his absolute best representing his constituents for four years. Denny has never given up on making Garrett County a destination of choice for our seasonal visitors, supporting our educational system on all levels, supporting business of all sizes and remaining aware of the needs of the citizens of our county. I will vote for Glotfelty on September 14th because I respect and trust that he will join with the other new commissioners to make an excellent board. Denny deserves a second term.

As voters we are in control of the vitality of our community and are responsible to improve the direction of the future. Fred and Ernie have given years of dedicated service to Garrett County and we should all be very appreciative. However; it is time for change to energize the political process. A vote cast because you know them or have always supported them is a squandered vote. They have had ample opportunity, now is the time to require more visionary leadership that can transform Garrett County into a vibrant community that does not have declining population growth, a closed minded attitude and that is most content continuing the status quo. It's time to Go!

SHS Girls Win One, Lose One In Tourney, Then Cage Falcons

The girls varsity soccer team of Southern High School and head coach Sara Shaffer are off to a quick 2-1 start this season, and look to continue to build on the momentum gained from the 2009 campaign.

"Each year for the last four years, the teams I have coached have achieved each goal I have set for them at the beginning of the season," said Coach Shaffer. "This year we intend to continue on that streak. Our goal is to get farther than the third round of the playoffs, which is how far we got last season. That was the farthest SHS had been in the playoffs for seven years."

Returning starters from that squad include Claire Wilkinson, last year's MVP and leading scorer, second-year goalkeeper Vicki Stevens, and experienced midfielders Gina Stuck and Madi Storey.

The Rams opened the season Saturday, going 1-1 in a tournament hosted by Oakland Mills.

Southern defeated 3-A Kennedy High School behind strong defense and the game's lone goal from Wilkinson. Her unassisted score came at the 11:06 mark in the second half.

Stevens and Annie Martin combined in goal to shut out the opponents.

The Rams nearly pulled off a sweep, but fell in a shootout against 2-A Oakland Mills.

Alt Shaffer and Melissa Goodman scored the game's lone goals in the first and second halves, respectively, but the Rams fell in the tie-breaking shootout, 2-1.

Southern's offense erupted for six goals against visiting Frankfort on Tuesday en route to a 6-1 victory.

Lexi Botterbusch fed the ball to Jill Yant minutes into the contest to put the Rams on top quickly, and minutes later Yant sailed a pass to Shaffer who scored the second goal. Sophie Schwab tacked on an unassisted goal with 6:54 to play in the half to make it 3-0 at the midpoint.

Dana Jewell pulled Frankfort within two with a goal off a direct kick at the 50:06 mark, but Southern's Shaffer, Schwab, and Ayla Fulmer followed with goals for the Rams to account for the final 6-1 score.

Wilkinson assisted on a pair of goals in the second half, and Yant had an assist on another.

Southern is sporting a large group of sophomores this season, led by Botterbusch and Shaffer. Botterbusch led the midfield in assists last season, and Shaffer was second in total scoring from the forward position. Both have played well early on as starters.

Coach Shaffer noted that team unity and a strong work ethic will be bright spots for her youthful bunch, stating, "I don't have to convince these girls that they need to practice hard so they play hard in matches. They 'bring it' all the time."

Shaffer expects its stiffest competition to come from intra-county foe Northern and local power Mountain Ridge.

The Rams will travel to Fort Hill this evening and entertain Northern next Tuesday. Match times for both evenings are 6 p.m. (junior varsity) and 7:30 (varsity).

Doerr Paces Huskies To Team Victory In AMAC Tournament

Austin Doerr led the field with a low 75 to win individual medalist honors and thus led the Northern High golf team to the team title in the Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference golf tournament, held last Thursday at the Maplehurst Country Club in Frostburg.

The Huskies easily captured the team title, finishing with a 21-stroke lead over second place Mountain Ridge. Team members are Doerr, Camen Feller, Jeff Bittinger, Dakota Fazenbaker, Caroline Bergstrom, and Brady Benton finished with a team score of 363..

Mountain Ridge recorded a score of 384, and Southern was just three strokes behind the Miners in third at 387. Keyser finished fourth with a 402, followed by Fort Hill with 425, Frankfort with 433, and Allegany with 454.

Doerr, who placed fifth in the Western Maryland Amateur in Oakland three weeks ago, ran away with the individual championship with a round of just 3 over par.

The Sentinels' Nick Meneghini finished second with an 89, and Southern's Billy Gindlesberger and Fort Hill's Brian Lutton tied for third with 91s. Keyser's Evan Coleman finished fifth with a 92.

Southern's Evan Friend tied for sixth with 93, and Mountain Ridge's Aaron Raines and Northern's Bittinger and Feller rounded out the top 10, all tied with 94s. Keyser's Keisha Coleman was the top female, carding a 102.

Deer Archery Season Opens September 15

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has announced that archery hunting for deer will open Wednesday, Sept. 15, and continue through January 31, 2011. Last season a total of 27,373 deer (10,047 antlered and 17,326 antlerless) were taken with archery equipment, up from 26,346 the previous hunting season.

"Archery hunting is an important and effective part of our deer management strategy," said DNR's Deer Project leader Brian Eyler. "Archery hunters continue to demonstrate a willingness to harvest antlerless deer, which contributes positively to deer population management across the state."

This year, archery hunters will be permitted to use crossbows statewide during the entire deer archery season. Any deer taken with a crossbow will count toward the hunter's appropriate regional bow season bag limit. Crossbows will continue to be legal statewide for all hunters during the firearm and muzzleloader seasons.

The deer hunting regulations vary between the two Deer Management regions in Maryland. Region A consists of Garrett and Allegany counties and, new this season, the western half of Washington County. Region B includes eastern Washington County and the remaining 20 counties.

The white-tailed deer archery bag limit for Region A is two deer – one antlered and one antlerless. Additionally, no more than two antlerless deer may be taken on public lands in Region A with any combination of the bow, muzzleloader, and firearm bag limits, excluding the Junior Deer Hunt Day.

In most of Region B, archers may take two antlered and 10 antlerless white-tailed deer. However, a second antlered deer may not be harvested until two antlerless deer have been taken. Additionally, a Bonus Antlered Deer Stamp is required to take a second antlered deer.

Archers in the Suburban Deer Archery Zone (Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Howard, Montgomery, and Prince George's counties), may take an unlimited number of antlerless deer.

When checking in a deer taken with archery equipment, hunters should record deer taken with a straight limb bow, recurve bow, or compound bow as taken with a vertical bow. Deer taken with a crossbow should be recorded as such. This will allow DNR biologists to continue to monitor the influence crossbows may have on Maryland's deer management program.

A number of Sundays will be open to bow hunting on private land during the 2010-2011 hunting season, varying by county. For a complete listing of Sunday bow hunting opportunities, hunters may refer to the 2010-2011 Maryland Guide to Hunting and Trapping, which is issued with each hunting license and also contains detailed information about all of Maryland's hunting seasons. Hunters may also find this information, as well as complete bag limits, season dates, deer registration procedures, and bow hunting regulations on the DNR web site at www.dnr.maryland.gov/huntersguide.

GO VOTE – SEPTEMBER 14, 2010

To help you make an informed decision at the polls on Tuesday, the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce has provided below questions and answers from the County Commission candidates (the numbers in parentheses after their names indicate election districts). These questions are a follow-up to the Candidates' Forum hosted by the Chamber on August 28. We hope you will find this information useful and that you will do your civic duty and go vote in the primary elections on September 14. If you are not sure of your polling location or need more information on Garrett County voting procedures, please visit www.garrettcounty.org/elections/elections.aspx or call 301-334-6985.

Question #1: What do you believe are the three primary advantages Garrett County can offer to a new or relocating business?

Crawford (1) Three primary advantages Garrett County can offer businesses are a loyal, hardworking workforce, a local government that is responsive to their needs and willing to assist them, and a dynamic community that is safe, has good schools, and is readily accessible to over 20 million people within 6 hours.

Falter (3) No Response

Gatto (3) A. Our People–they are second to none. B. Our proximity to millions of people within a short driving distance. C. Things we take for granted like natural beauty, four seasons, our heritage and available services.

Glotfelty (3) I believe Garrett County offers people with better working skills. We also offer economic packages that help businesses get started with cash flow so they can grow quicker. As well, we offer a beginning 50% property tax advantage to new businesses. We also offer one of the most beautiful places in Maryland to work and play.

Gregg (1) I believe the three primary advantages Garrett County can offer to a new or relocating business are: job creation credits (tax discount), the ability to leverage State/Federal/County Funds, and availability of building sites and an exemplary work force.

Holliday (2) A. With the number of students taking advantage of our scholarship program at Garrett College, we have a wealth of possible qualified employees to enhance any businesses in the county. Also, with our new Career and Technology Training Center, we can provide specialty training and qualified employees for a variety of businesses. B. We are blessed with a quality workforce with unmatchable work ethics in Garrett County. C. We have an Economic Development Department that has a great working relationship with all state and federal agencies in leveraging benefits to local/new businesses.

Newcomb (3) The three advantages we can offer new businesses are: a great education system, a workforce that is dependable and has a great work ethic, and infrastructure (industrial parks) already in place.

Raley (2) A. Garrett County has a strong educational program in K-12 education and has the higher education and adult education component which can be tailored to training opportunities for any business. B. The eastern/central corridor provides for easy access for trucking related businesses while the southern area provides for information technology type businesses. C. Garrett County has a four season opportunity for businesses that would benefit from a transient year-around population.

Robison (1) A. Heritage, Community and Great Schools. B. Play where you Work. C. Lower cost of living, and tax incentives.

Thomas (3) Garrett County has some of the hardest working people in the county, they are very strong willed and diligent at all tasks at hand. We have a great workforce to choose from supplying any company with hired labor. Secondly, Garrett County has the best roads for any business to operate out of with a fast and prompt road crews, Garrett County is open year around for business. All of the industrial parks that are located to all major roadways is a plus. And being that we are located within a three hour or less drive to several major metropolitan areas, there is an excellent market for any of their goods. Thirdly with some of the lowest taxes in the state of Maryland we can entice more low impact companies to relocate to Garrett County. This will allow them to pay a higher overall wage to our local pool of workers.

Welch (3) A. County leadership acting on the need for modern technology to promote economic diversity, especially more jobs paying living wages. B. Potential for a high quality of life if economic diversity and modern technology become official action priorities. C. Potential to retain more of our young and attract high-skill newcomers by attracting new businesses that pay living wages.

Question #2: There is a debate regarding paying as you go for capital projects or bonding to fund capital projects. What is your stance and why?

Crawford (1) Large scale capital improvement projects can cause a severe depletion of working capital in a budget. Bonding should be considered as a "last resort" and reserved for the most essential of public, capital improvement projects. Automatically excluding the use of bond issuance for large scale capital improvement projects is to take a legitimate "budgetary" tool out of the tool kit.

Falter (3) No Response

Gatto (3) We've been very fortunate to be able to pay as we go. I share that attitude. The only exception might be a definite need like a school or bridge etc... Something that would impact public safety to be without. Through listening, planning, communicating we should be able to clearly define needs from wants in order to remain financially sound.

Glotfelty (3) I believe in pay as you go for capital projects, especially in these economically challenging times. The benefit of pay as you go as opposed to borrowing money, is to not create debt load for the future of our county and its tax-paying citizens. We have to engage in responsible spending today so that our children can afford to live here tomorrow.

Gregg (1) My stance regarding bonding or pay as you go for a capital project is that there is considerable "up front" expense and on-going interest cost to bonding. The obligation of debt service funds deprives the County of monies for operational needs. Through astute management, the County has used carry over funds as one source for capital projects.

Holliday (2) I support pay as you go if revenues are available to do needed projects. In case of an emergency situation, I would support bonding. However, an example of what bonding costs is in 1996 there was a 4 million dollars bond for Yough Glades School and a new road. We still owe $1,715,000 and have paid $2,362,892 in interest. The bond will be repaid June 30, 2016, and we will have paid at that time $2,721,157 in interest plus $100,000 in bond-issuance costs.

Newcomb (3) I feel we need to examine the use of responsible bonding for long term capital projects. Bonding will spread the cost of capital projects over several years and jobs and wages will then not be adversely affected.

Raley (2) I want to scale back the number of projects until our economic picture is more stable and instead offer tax relief. Capital pay as you go projects annually cost each taxpayer approximately 16 cents on the property tax rate. Any bonding must be done in a responsible manner so not to overburden county debt service. This could mean some projects may have to wait. During the past few years Garrett County government has spent some $34 million in capital pay as you go projects, resulting in the tax rate remaining constant while the revenue from real estate tax has escalated significantly. This means the taxpayers of today are paying for projects to benefit those who move into the area in years to come. The county has proposed spending $36 million in capital projects over the course of the next 4 years. This could result in a 26 cent property tax increase by the 2015 budget.

Robison (1) A. I think we should have a cap on projects that Garrett County is allowed to spend without county wide support or referendum. When we start considering projects over that capped amount, we would have 2 (two) public meetings to discuss and inform the residents at large of the expenditure. If there is support for the expenditure we then can place the project on a referendum for bonding or "pay as you go." Let the people decide and then govern within those guidelines.

Thomas (3) I have never been a fan of bonding, because it will cost the taxpayers a huge loss in money. Whenever you bond any project it costs just to procure the bond. By the time you pay the bond off, the project will cost more at the tax payers' expense. There is absolutely no reason we as Garrett County as a whole should allow this to happen. Pay as you go is like any other piggy bank. Save your money, procure grants, and then place the capital projects in order of priority. With the whole world in a recession the needs should be put before the wants and put off until times are more stable.

Welch (3) A. My stance is to pay as we go EXCEPT for major projects involving public health, public safety and public education. B. The reason for keeping debt to a minimum is taking on public debt should be a last resort reserved for major public projects providing measurable benefits for all residents.

Question #3: Everyone agrees jobs are key to Garrett County's economic prosperity. What is one way the Chamber and Economic Development can work together towards this goal?

Crawford (1) One way to work towards achieving this goal is with a consistent, multi-faceted plan for marketing Garrett County in order to elevate our awareness in people's minds and to highlight the opportunities that exist here.

Falter (3) No Response

Gatto (3) By doing just that -working together with a common goal. Not only for our county but our region. We have a new chamber president. She offers us diversity of experience and skills. There is also a tremendous amount of diversity in our residents, both full and part time. They have tremendous skills and precious contacts and ideas. We need to reach out to all and not worry about who gets the credit.

Glotfelty (3) Our strong Chamber and Economic Department should partner up on areas such as advertising. Garrett County has many assets to attract potential jobs. Some of the newer assets are the airport runway extension to 5000 feet; the tech park at the White Face farm; the new exhibit hall at the fairground; the Community Athletic and Recreation Center (CARC) at Garrett College, and the new CTTC building at Accident (for the young people who've chosen a technical career path). Combining both entities funds to promote these assets would expand the advertising dollar for our area and reach more diverse interests to potentially attract businesses, and therefore jobs, for our county.

Gregg (1) The Chamber and Economic Development can jointly advocate for educational opportunities for all segments of our population.

Holliday (2) With our exceptional economic development staff and new leadership at the chamber, I believe this will create a unified front for Garrett County's economic prosperity.

Newcomb (3) The Chamber of Commerce and Economic Development agencies need use of all of the accommodation tax monies to further the growth of industry, tourism and jobs for citizens of Garrett County.

Raley (2) While the Chamber and Economic Development need to continue to attract businesses to Garrett County, the key to economic prosperity is to now grow the population of the county. This would include those who retire to the area and become full-time residents, as well as those who work and contribute to the income tax generated from residents of Garrett County and buy services here.

Robison (1) A. The Chamber of Commerce (CC) and Economic Development (ED) have shown that" if we build it, they will come" attitude is not really working. We now need to send Marketing professionals into the Cubical Industry or the Technology world and entice companies to come to Garrett County. Most of the companies on the East Coast are looking for ways to lower cost and bring in qualified employees. With the correct tax incentives and our lower cost of living, we can make it more affordable to grow these companies here in Garrett County than say Fairfax, Virginia. A two or three bedroom home in some of the areas on the East Coast can run as high as $1.3m, which in turn creates a much higher cost of living wage and doesn't allow some of those companies to grow. If the CC can market the "Play where you Work" and show the lower the cost of living for these companies, and ED can then work the infrastructure for those specific companies, Garrett County will be developing economic growth that won't harm the environment and will help our dwindling school enrollments with families moving into new housing and purchasing products in our stores, long term.

Thomas (3) Be more "informative," talk, hold meetings, work with local officials, local business, and down state officials. It is time to get more proactive and not reactive. It's time that everybody gets together, so that we all can work together. We need to be looking at every option instead of the same old routine, look towards getting more grants for small business owners, look at getting more attention from the outside world. It seems to me that Garrett County appears to be looking through a bubble when it comes to dealing with the big industry that seems to be knocking on our back door. We need to take the blinders off and see what is coming.

Welch (3) To focus efforts on public-private partnerships building modern technology infrastructure, something absolutely essential to attract modern businesses offering well paying jobs. All credible lists explaining why businesses locate in specific areas include easily available low cost modern technology–specifically T1 or faster broadband. High paying jobs are not coming to Garrett County until modern technology is available. Period.

Question #4: Our current county government has made an effort to improve transparency by increasing visibility of meeting notices and adjusting meeting times and locations. However, there is still a lack of participation. What would you do to improve communications with our communities?

Crawford (1) I believe that a lack of participation exists because people for the most part do not feel as though their voice matters. The times for meetings can be inconvenient as such public meetings should be streamed to the web, pod cast and archived for later review just as public meeting minutes are available. People should be able to sign up for email notification of the meeting time(s) and agendas. More can be done electronically, but having been to many town meetings and having stopped in on hundreds and hundreds of business and individuals while campaigning, there is no substitute for traveling out and about to listen to the citizen's concerns and issues first hand.

Falter (3) No Response

Gatto (3) Build trust and communication. Many people believe that the decisions have already been made and that the meeting is just a required formality. They also want to hear from and express their views to the commissioners, not their staff. I would work with the other two commissioners to devise a schedule so that one of the three could attend the many town meetings, association meetings and rotate that schedule between the three. We can advertise better, have evening hours when people aren't working, have meetings in various locations (for the convenience of different locations at different times), use modern technology to share ideas with others and get feedback (on line). It is the commissioner's responsibility to reach out to the people, not the other way around. It has been done during the campaign and should not end there.

Glotfelty (3) While physically attending meetings will always be an option and the public will always be welcome to come in, we have to look at new ways of communicating. Local government should better utilize the Internet and email to inform those citizens who are unable to attend public meetings, or at the very least make this option available for updates on any public issue. Likewise, we need to be able to receive correspondence from the public in the same manner. It would also be prudent to acknowledge just how many emails we currently receive so that people realize just how much contact we already have with the public.

Gregg (1) We could improve communications with our communities by continuing to publicly communicate the importance of public participation. Encourage citizen input by requesting public opinion. Arrange varying meeting times and locations.

Holliday (2) During my 12 years in office, we have held evening and Saturday meetings at different locations around the county and, at times, we had more county staff attending than our constituents. It seems the only time people come out to meetings is when controversial issues are being discussed. We recently completed our comprehensive plan and there were meetings held in different locations in the county with good attendance. I have always supported convenient meetings, but due to lack of participation in the past, this does not seem practical.

Newcomb (3) I will be attending as many of our community and civic meetings as possible each month. As an educator I have found one of the best ways to solve problems is brainstorming. Collecting information and using ideas from all of our citizens will ensure that I will have the best information to act upon. As a fulltime commissioner with no other job to go to, I will be able to do this.

Raley (2) During the campaign, I have visited every town council meeting. In each of those visits, I have met and talked with citizens with concerns. This is one approach I would continue as a County Commissioner and would hope others would do similar. I feel one Commissioner's meeting monthly should be conducted late afternoon into the evening to allow for participation with designated times for public commentary. In addition, email mailing lists are helpful to send information out to large groups and perhaps this could be a tool used by county government.

Robison (1) A. We need to reengage our citizens and keep them informed. I would have a marketing campaign for residents to sign up for either a hard copy or email version of a monthly county newsletter. The newsletter would let everybody know exactly how the Commissioners are communicating with our Delegate and Senator. If a house bill or senate bill was affecting Garrett County, I would have the newsletter show how the Commissioners supported or opposed the bill. I would have a section that kept each of the departments within the county up to date on budgets and requests. If we had capital expenditures or questions about expenditures, I again would have this placed in the newsletter. I would also have a response section that would allow residents to respond anonymously or by name. Most importantly, I would never be dismissive or belittle an employee, a resident of Garrett County or anybody that showed up to ask any question. There is only one bad question, the one never asked.

Thomas (3) We need to work more with the town mayors and councils. There should be NO reason why there is such a lack of interest from elected town officials and the county commissioner office. We need to let the public come and be able to ask questions and not shut them out like in the past!

Welch (3) A. Transparency is about information. It is not about meeting times, meeting locations or head counts at meetings. There has been no effort by commissioners to publish figures showing returns on specific investments, while there has been official resistance to publishing salary schedules and performance measures by county department. I would ensure that that the numbers on all projects are published four times a year and that return on investment in every department is published at the same times. That is what transparency is–ensuring the public has easy access to the numbers on performance of public officials and public projects.

Question #5: There is great potential for huge dividends in tax revenues from wind power and Marcellus shale. In what ways would you spend the money?

Crawford (1) Why must tax revenue be automatically considered for spending? A "huge dividend in tax revenues" could provide huge tax relief for all of Garrett County taxpayers. The spending of any tax revenues must always align with the priorities of the community–the needs, wants and foremost the necessities.

Falter (3) No Response

Gatto (3) To solidify our current budget. It does not necessarily need to be spent–perhaps we could use it to lessen the burden on our taxpayers and businesses to finally give them a break.

Glotfelty (3) We've already changed legislation to receive 5 1/2% of the income at the well head of Marcellus Shale. We'll receive over a million dollars in personal property tax from windmills. Part of the revenue needs to continue to go to future education for our young people, part needs to go for infrastructure for future businesses, and part needs to be returned to the citizens to lower property tax so that we all benefit from this beautiful place in which we live.

Gregg (1) The county has suffered a considerable reduction in State funding. Potential revenue from public utilities would help supplement these lost revenues. My goal will be to keep downward pressure on the real estate tax rate.

Holliday (2) These new revenues would be used to compensate the revenues lost from state cutbacks to the county budget and reduce taxes if feasible.

Newcomb (3) Garrett County's natural resources and beauty are of utmost importance. That being said, new monies from alternative energy may allow us to look at adjusting the constant yield rate downward and increasing our marketing efforts to attract and retain new businesses.

Raley (2) While I remain skeptical of the long-term huge dividends from these technologies, I am optimistic that Garrett County will enter into said ventures with extreme caution, unlike what has occurred with the current wind projects. I would designate said funds to provide oversight to protect the interests of Garrett County which is not happening now. I would pay for infrastructure costs to increase permanent jobs and restore the County roads to a full-staffing. A significant portion of the funds would need to be designated to protect the quality of roads and water supplies to the areas affected by these operations. If this is really as favorable as the public has been told by the current Commissioner's, we should be able to reduce the tax rate to below the constant yield.

Robison (1) A. Currently, the County Commissioners stance on these projects is to allow them at all cost. With Constellation Energy as an example, there was no bonding required for road repairs, the county felt there was to much regular traffic to require bonding. What has occurred is the County has fallen asleep at the switch and Constellation Energy is using and damaging other roads away from the primary roads required for the project. One of the first expenditures will to be to repair the roads they have damaged. B. Marcellus Shale will require approximately 125 tanker trucks daily to remove the hazardous water from the hydraulic fracturing well sites. Again they will have to travel over Garrett County roadways without bonding. If one of these trucks carrying 4000 gallons of hazardous water has an accident and spills any of the water into a water source, it will destroy the water source. Here we have discussed two expenditures, one is the road repairs and the second will have a cost we can pay for. C. The tax subsidies issued by Federal Law reduced the taxable amount of the Turbines by 50% before we even get the first tax dollar, then it is reduced by 5% a year with nearly no value for the structures at the end of year 10. Because there is no decommissioning for the turbines here in Garrett County, I would place $90,000 00 per turbine in escrow for when Garrett County will have to pay to remove the turbines in 20 years so that our children or grand children won't have to find a way to pay for the mistakes of their forefathers. D. The gas production tax was just lowered 2009 with Senate Bill 651 and the "Distribution of revenues is altered, providing additional revenue to the county general fund and less revenues to specific purposes. Revenues increase in certain municipalities and decrease in others." The revenues were removed from the schools and hospitals and shifted to general fund and local municipalities. E. I would place most of the funds into interest bearing accounts and repair our destroyed assets as needed. We may also have to keep some money back to assist those that were subject to the predatory practices of the leasing companies for Marcellus Shale and Wind Turbines. Additionally we may need money for increased inspections and legal fees to monitor the practices of both industries (we shouldn't have to have private citizens doing the job of paid public officials). I would then take the remainder and fund economic development that didn't harm our environment, communities or our way of life.

Thomas (3) The tax revenue from all of these big industries with its wind power, gas, coal, paper, steel, should be put into the general revenue to maintain our schools, infrastructure, and our workforces and should have some set aside to start helping with property tax problem that is slowly but steady increasing and forcing our families out of the area.

Welch (3) A. There isn't going to be as much return on wind power projects as there should have been thanks to local officials' incompetent management of tax depreciation. Further, 28% of the potential return on Marcellus shale got washed down the drain by county legislators in Annapolis when they successfully legislated to have the gas extraction tax reduced from 7% to 5%. The cost of these failures by officials takes one's breath away, yet some call it valuable "experience." Having noted that much of the potential return to taxpayers was sacrificed on the altar of pretend experience (Is this really the kind of experience taxpayers want to continue?) I would start by committing 50% of the proceeds to building modern communications infrastructure that would attract well paying businesses to the county. If the payoff is quick I might raise the percent committed to diversifying our economy with jobs that pay living wages.

Question #6: Deep Creek Lake is a major economic engine for our community. As a Commissioner, what would you do to protect and promote our greatest asset?

Crawford (1) Tourism and Deep Creek Lake will always be a significant economic engine; scenic beauty, outdoor recreation, leisure time activities are part of our "stock and trade." As a Commissioner you have to become Garrett County's greatest cheerleader and advocate. Just look around and try and find another such place on the map that can match us. You can't. You cannot adequately protect or promote our greatest asset if you don't possess that mindset and the reality that all of Garrett County is a unique and dynamic place.

Falter (3) No Response

Gatto (3) Currently, there are numerous agencies that share a part in the usage and decision making regarding Deep Creek Lake (releases). All of these agencies need to work together to understand how they are impacting the health and quality of the lake. Those who understand what is required need to be making the final decisions. At times those decisions may require saying "no" to specific requests. The new MDE permit affects the lake water in great ways, but mostly with the level of the water. This impact has been felt greater this year with the extreme heat and lack of precipitation. Fortunately the permit allowances are able to be reviewed every three years starting in 2010. Hopefully with our eyes open and using all the data, the impact of the permit can be evaluated. The lake gives great income and pleasure to people and our community as long as it remains healthy. As with any natural resource, we as humans cannot just take and not put back.

Glotfelty (3) As a commissioner I have and will continue to keep my finger on the pulse of any environmental issues now and in the future to help maintain the beauty of our pristine lake. It is important to protect, promote and preserve Deep Creek Lake as well as all areas of Garrett County so we can assure the balance of growth of new business and recreation alongside our natural heritage.

Gregg (1) I will serve on the Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board. This enables me to lend a positive voice for the effective management of Deep Creek Lake.

Holliday (2) I will continue to attend the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association's meetings and work with them in any capacity possible. I will work with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources and the Maryland Environmental Agency to protect the health of the lake.

Newcomb (3) The protection of Deep Creek Lake is important to all Garrett County because of the ripple effect of the money generated by the businesses and homes in that area. The ongoing problem of the sewer system in that area needs to be addressed. We need to be concerned about the long-term health of the Lake by watching how we allow growth to continue while balancing it with environmental issues as they arise.

Raley (2) Garrett County must remain competitive in the resort market place. Investors must be convinced of a positive return on their investment thus we must avoid excessive taxation. Vacationers must be convinced that they are getting the most for their travel investment so prices must remain competitive. I would not agree to an increase in the accommodations tax unless every dollar of the increase is invested into the promotion of DCL. I would work to resolve the sewer problems around the lake by calling upon the State of Maryland for grants from the infamous "flush tax" fund we all pay.

Robison (1) Our greatest assets are a combination of Heritage, Community Schools, Our People, and yes the Lake. We should be protecting the view shed and mountain tops of Garrett County and with the Lake being such a valued asset we should be protecting the waterways and water sources all over the county that feed into Deep Creek Lake. As a Commissioner I would place an immediate moratorium on Wind Turbines until an ordnance could be adopted and I would require permitting for Marcellus shale to be in line with the policies adopted by the Susquehanna River Valley Commission for Garrett County. By protect our assets we are promoting good stewardship for all to see.

Thomas (3) The lake is a wonderful asset to our region, and we need to protect our golden egg without forgetting about the surrounding areas. If we are striving to be a hospitality area, then we need to keep what the tourists are coming here for and that is the wild and scenic mountains and clean water that they can come and enjoy. We need to look into promoting our small town living, so our communities can grow and become prosperous just as well as the lake area. We have to start by addressing issues that we all sit around and discuss rather than just hoping they will go away.

Welch (3) I would take a close look at the sewer system first, based on the number of calls I've had on current management of the system. Parallel with that more can be done to protect the county's rural character without infringing on property rights. Further, I would listen to the lake business community as well as lake residents on what they want for the lake, keeping in mind that the lake's economic engine works hand in glove with the rural character of the county, and not me whose county economy runs on a healthy lake business community. Last but not least, by modernizing technology infrastructure the county can attract low impact businesses that presently cannot locate here due to lack of easy, cheap high end broadband. The only way Garrett County, and the lake, can prosper in the future is to keep more of our young people, and the young won't stay without more jobs that pay living wages, and those jobs can't happen without modern technology.

THE COMMODORE'S CUP REGATTA
by Dan Muss

This five-race regatta takes place every Labor Day weekend; the race committee consists of the two commodores of the two yacht clubs, Deerhaven and Turkey Neck, on the southern end of the lake. I logged on to Accuweather on Friday night, and they were calling for a rapid drop in temperature and strong winds from Friday night through to Sunday. I left a phone message for my crew telling her that we would probably not go out, but that I would go to the club to see what it looked like Saturday morning.

Saturday morning the anemometer at the club was registering puffs of over 20 knots, and the committee postponed to 2:30 p.m. We decided to bag it and, after the committee rode out to the middle of the lake and saw puffs of 36, they postponed all racing to Sunday and Monday. In order to try to get all five races in, the committee changed the Sunday start time from noon to 11 a.m. I went home to send out an e-mail to our club membership.

The Sunday morning forecast was for 5 knots at 11 a.m., but when we went out to rig it looked like 5 to 10, swinging from NW to SW. The committee set the start line in the western end of the slot with windward leg aligned WNW. I got a terrible start and rounded the first mark way back in the fleet. As we approached the offset mark, my crew, Fearless Marilyn Filemyr, freed the spinnaker, but as we bore off for the run I realized that the wind had swung S, and we were on a beam-reach. It's been my experience that the Scot sails faster on a beam-reach without the spinnaker, and we passed Peters, who was having trouble with his spinnaker, and Frank, who was flying his. On the second beat, Frank was ahead again, but we nosed him out at the leeward only to have him take us on the last beat to the finish. We didn't place, but we thoroughly enjoyed the competition.

On Sunday and Monday, 16 kids, some as young as 10, entered a junior Laser regatta organized by Sue Wolfle and Kathy Rubel. All of the youth were graduates of the Deep Creek Sailing School (DCSS). A few had never sailed until this summer. The senior Laser fleet captain and principal race officer (PRO) Darrel Van Hutten had a separate start for the kids. Over the two days they sailed eight races. The DCSS provided Lasers to those who did not own one. Santa may have a lot of requests for Lasers, Laser radial sails, and wet suits this December.

The DCSS emphasizes courtesy and sportsmanship, and the teaching paid off. The kids all helped each other find boat parts, rig, launch, and retrieve boats. One girl capsized and almost lost the rudder. But she hung on to the rudder (they sink). Another girl went to help. Then when the last girl in after the races sailed toward the dock, she capsized just short. Three kids jumped in and swam out to help.

The forecast for Labor Day Monday was for calm in the morning, with a 5-knot breeze SW at race time. Typical of our lake, it was an average of 5, sometimes 0 and sometimes 10, and sometimes S and sometimes W. The race committee set the best course it could, aligned with the prevailing wind direction, but at our start the boat was heavily favored. We got a perfect start, ripping [illegible] but Kemp, who was slightly below us, had more momentum and got a position to leeward and in front of us, and gave us really bad air. But I could not tack away since we could almost fetch the mark, so I bore off and sailed under him to get clean air. Kemp rounded about 50 feet ahead and held the lead around the leeward mark, but we had closed the gap by dropping our jib when the air lightened to help fill our spinnaker. We rounded behind him and tacked out to the center of the lake, while Kemp went into the western shore. Just then the wind swung westerly, and Kemp was in the shadow of the shore while we got lifted. We rounded the second windward mark with a good lead and held on to win that race and, with the fourth place we got Sunday, the regatta. Never give up!

There is one more race this season – the Magellan – but my bride and I will be away, so this is my final column for 2010. See you all next year!

Still Young NHS Volleyball Squad Hopes To Improve On 4-11 Season

Hoping to improve upon last season's 4-11 record is among the goals of Northern High School girls' volleyball coach Amanda Shaffer, and that may well be within reach, as the Huskies lost only two key seniors to graduation in Chelsie Custer and Taylor Maltba.

However, the team is still young, as only three seniors appear on the roster.

The Huskies will open their campaign next week.

Top prospects back this year are Maddy Whittemore, Kerah Umbel, and Tabitha Beasom.

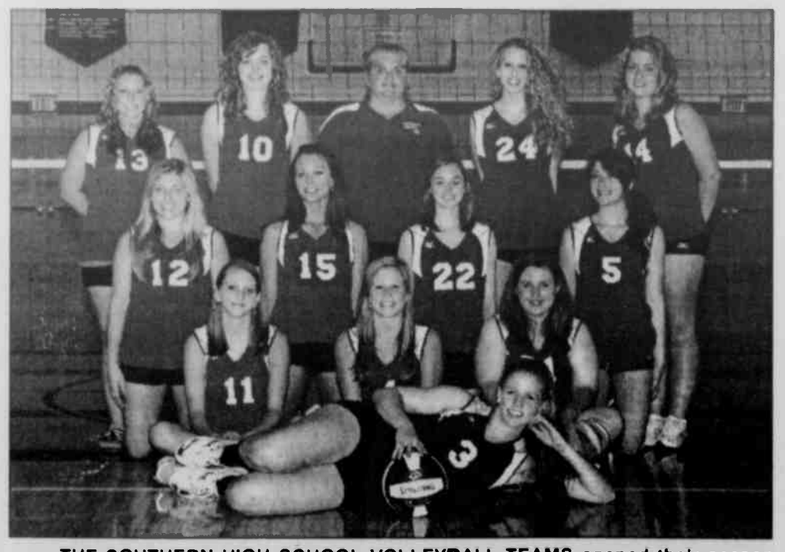

Others expected to start for the Huskies are Samantha Carr, Kayla Porter, Kaitlyn Yommer, and Miranda Beasom.

"Tabatha is one of the best setters in the area," said Coach Shaffer when asked about the team's strengths. "We also have some very strong hitters who are consistent in finding the holes on the opposing side of the floor."

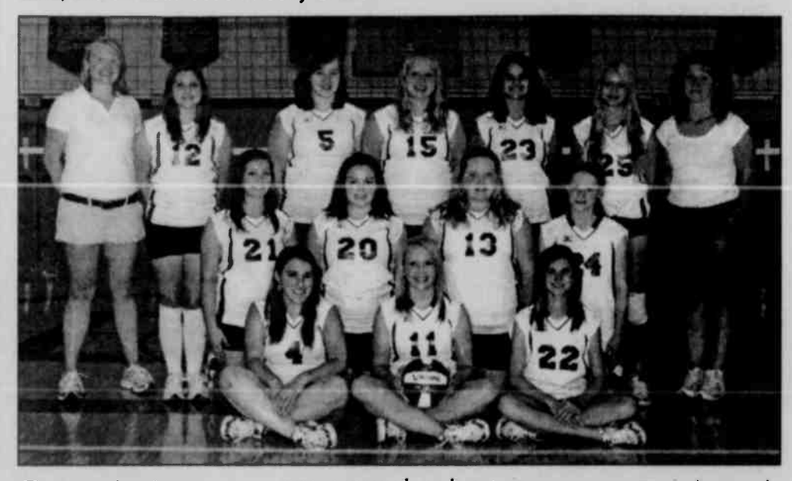

The youth of the team is cited by the coach as the greatest concern.

"Our primary goal for this year is to finish over .500 for the season," Shaffer said.

She added that she expects Fort Hill, Frankfort, and Southern to pose the strongest competition for the Huskies.

forwarded to the county for review as part of the comprehensive budget process.

3. Approved appropriation based on an extensive evaluation of estimated revenue sources.

4. Maintenance of Effort Formula is based on prior-year funding and student enrollment.

"This educational statute was approved and put in place for very logical and rational reasons," the statement says. "The Garrett County Public School System is experiencing a definite decline in student enrollment, yet the board of county commissioners has not based funding on this calculation, which would be less than approved funding.

5. Actual expenses. "It should be noted that actual county appropriations to the board of education over the past four years amounted to $86,585,223.70, as compared to $88,299,160 originally appropriated, leaving $1,713,936.30 of county appropriated funding that was unspent by the board of education.

"Upon request from the board of education, the county approved a portion of this unspent funding to be redirected and allocated toward other programs and projects within the board of education," the statement continues.

"There were no county government positions eliminated for FY 2011," the statement reads. "There are six employees on long-term disability pending retirement and 16 persons who retired on July 1, 2010. The statement that positions were eliminated is not accurate.

"Employees who retire are not unemployed, and the announcement that positions were eliminated has a connotation of a lay-off or furlough, which is again not correct.

"The total cost of the 22 county government positions that have not been replaced is $1.388 million. If the county were to supplement the loss of state funding ($1.145 million) to the board of education, plus employ replacements for the 22 vacant county government positions ($1.388 million), the total cost would be $2.5 million, an amount that is not achievable," the statement reads.

The statement says that in addition, the cost of employee salary increases was evaluated. Because of the associated total cost, there were no salary increases approved for FY 2011.

"This decision applied to all county government employees (classified service, union, contractual, and part time), the board of education, and Garrett College.

"An integral part of the budget process is to analyze the controls established to make sure that the county's operating expenditures do

Re-Elect
Ernie Gregg

County Commissioner

I have served as County Commissioner for 24 years. During that time, I have established relationships, both locally and in Annapolis, that have produced positive results for our county.

Local governments everywhere are facing the difficult challenge of maintaining essential services with reduced revenues.

As a result of prudent fiscal planning and management, Garrett County is essentially debt free.

The knowledge and experience I have gained and the relationships I have built will serve me well in dealing with present and future challenges that we as a county must overcome.

I would greatly appreciate your vote and support September 14.

Vote for experience and expertise that gets results!

Authority: Troy R. Gnegy, Treasurer

Denny Glotfelty Goes on the Record

"When you first run for office, you run on ideas. But once you've held office, ideas aren't enough. You have to run on your record, as well. If you have a moment, I'd like to share my record as county commissioner with you. During the last four years we have:

- Opened the new CTTC building to be included in scholarship fund for Garrett County students.
- Cut taxes from $1.00 to .99.
- Helped less fortunate seniors with a 50% property tax cut.
- Helped to build the business park at White Face with the goal of enticing better jobs into the county thus creating employment opportunities for our young people.
- Helped local fire departments to the tune of over $1.2 million.
- Championed property rights.
- Cut capital projects spending by over $40 million.

I still believe in the ideas and principles I put forth when running four years ago. Namely:

- Affordable housing
- Better opportunities for future generations of Garrett Countians
- Less taxes
- Help senior citizens with less in property taxes
- Believe in property rights

If re-elected I will pursue the following ideas and goals:

- Maintaining responsible budgeting
- Maintaining the services for Garrett County citizens with less money
- Continue to look for ways for affordable housing for our young people
- Continue the effort to help the volunteers of Garrett County

This is my record and these are my plans for the future. Both reflect my core values and beliefs. If you honor me with your vote and return me to the Garrett County Commission you may do so with a clear understanding of how I would continue to serve you over the next four years. I thank you in advance for your support." – Denny Glotfelty not exceed operating revenues. This provides assurance that county government remains solvent without operating with a structural deficit. The majority of designated/carryover funds has not been directed for operating purposes but for investment in capital projects," the statement continues.

ONE OF NATURE'S ODDITIES – The hummingbird is a fascinating creature, one of the smallest birds in the world. According to Wikipedia.com, they can hover in mid-air by rapidly flapping their wings 12 to 90 times per second (depending on the species). They can also fly backwards, and are the only group of birds able to do so. They can fly at speeds exceeding 15 miles an hour. This one was photographed in Oakland by Lisa Rook as it sampled her feeder.

Over the past 10 years, according to the statement, the commissioner board has directed approximately $23 million toward capital projects and capital outlay solely for education, to include over $18 million for the Garrett County Public School System.

"In 1996 when reserves were not adequate, the county bonded $4 million for the construction of Yough Glades School and to upgrade Wilson Road," the statement reads. "Over the 20-year life of this bond, the county will pay $2.7 million in interest. Had the county continued with this practice and bonded the $23 million over a 20-year period, the County would have paid $11 million in interest alone. This $23 million does not include all other capital investments funded by the county over the past 10 years.

"Fortunately, because of healthy reserves, the county's philosophy has been to pay for all or as much as is financially feasible of these capital investments with reserve funding. This has proven to be a prudent business plan. Bonding or short-term financial processes for capital investments are always a consideration during the annual budgetary process."

The statement notes that a number of planned capital projects have been eliminated, modified, placed on hold, or deferred because of unaffordable cost estimates. These include the Wisp Adventure Road, a new County Detention Center, Public Works Administration Building, the Community Athletic Recreation Center, the Exhibit/Trade Center, and renovations to a number of public school system buildings and facilities.

"Any interested person is encouraged to review the county's financial audits, bond rating reports, and other available documentation," the statement says, "and compare this financial documentation to that of other local governmental jurisdictions. This review would demonstrate that practices of prudent financial management has placed Garrett County government in a very solvent position for the future."

Some of the ways in which Marylanders can reduce their impact on the environment are by taking public transportation and driving more fuel-efficient cars.

Environment Maryland is urging the federal government to require the average car to get 60 miles on one gallon of gas by 2025.

But Kraft said that it is unlikely that the federal government will take notice of Environment Maryland's report.

Congress has recently considered several bills to block the setting of global carbon emission standards. Those would enable polluters to continue harming the environment, Environment Maryland charged.

"Unfortunately, we often utilize corrective reaction over preventative reaction," said Kraft, who said he believes that working with local citizens will have a more positive impact on the environment than appealing to the federal government.

JOE WAS ELECTED REGISTER OF WILLS IN 1978. HE WAS RE-ELECTED TO 7 ADDITIONAL 4-YEAR TERMS. HE RETIRED JUNE 30, 2008. HE IS RITA'S TREASURER.

RITA SERVED WITH JOE FOR MORE THAN 30 YEARS AS HIS CHIEF DEPUTY. SHE WAS SELECTED TO FOLLOW HIM AS REGISTER ON JULY 1, 2008.

JOE DISIMONE
EXPLAINS WHY HE

I urge my friends and all the voters of Garrett County to keep Rita Watson as their Register of Wills by voting for her in the September 14 Primary Election. I don't do this to benefit Rita or because we are good friends. I do it because I know that it's the best thing for the people of Garrett County, who sooner or later will be involved with her office and need her help.

I ask this not only because Rita served with great competence as my Chief Deputy for 30 years and not only because of her extensive knowledge of probate law and its application or her excellent record as Register for the past year and her capable performance as clerk to the Orphans' Court, and not even because I know that being Register of Wills has been her dream since she was 18 years old.

But I ask it also because there are literally hundreds of open estates and probate matters currently pending in Rita's office. Some of these cases take months or even years to complete. While this is occurring there are dozens of details concerning the progress and status of each of these individual estates known only to Register of Wills. The people who are working their way through this process must rely heavily on her knowledge, experience and her understanding of the issues facing them in their particular cases. What is to happen to those people if they must now start over with someone who not only has no experience in the complex business of the Orphans' Court or the probate process, but who knows nothing about their individual cases?

I have first hand knowledge of Rita's compassion and desire to help people. I know of her efforts to help them avoid unnecessary expense and get through probate with as little pain and worry as possible. Rita has that special, understanding way of talking to people who come to her in an emotional state of mind having lost a loved one, and facing all the problems that can entail. She has the gift of a personality that enables her to make them feel comfortable and at ease. This is true because Rita genuinely cares about other people.

Rita also has extensive knowledge of the complex state computer system which is used in every aspect of the work of the Register's office. Over the years, Rita has attended dozens of seminars and training sessions with experts in probate law and procedure including with lawyers from the Attorney General's office. Some years ago she started, on her own initiative, a series of free classes on probate throughout the county. These were held in the evenings for the convenience and benefit of people facing the prospect of losing someone close to them and needing information concerning estate planning. She did this voluntarily and without compensation.

Rita has also trained her co-workers, Tom Matthews and Heather O'Brien, to be efficient and outstanding public servants. Rita has been a great asset to the Office of Register of Wills for more than 31 years. The office is much busier today than it was when I was elected. I volunteered to be the treasurer of her campaign because I believe it very important that she continue to serve the people of Garrett County in that office.

Rita with Campaign Manager Rev. Don Matthews (L) and her friend and mentor Joe DiSimone (R), Campaign Treasurer

I also want to thank the voters of Garrett County for giving me the honor of serving as their Register of Wills for more than 30 years.

The Facets Of Garrett County Memorial Hospital

Garrett County Memorial Hospital renders high-quality diagnosis and medical treatment 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

The hospital provides a full range of patient support services, which include a four-bed intensive care unit, a family centered maternity suite, a 10-bed subacute rehabilitation unit, inpatient services, general surgical procedures, a host of auxiliary services, and a wellness department that actively promotes healthful lifestyles and assists the community by offering a variety of screenings and educational programs, both on and off site.

The laboratory, radiology, and cardio-pulmonary departments provide a full range of diagnostic studies. The same-day surgery unit allows patients to be admitted, recover, and be discharged after completion of surgery through the care of surgeons, all in the same day

The hospital's emergency department is staffed by nursing personnel who are specifically trained in advanced cardiac life support, pediatric life support, and trauma care, and backed by a physician experienced in emergency care at all times.

As the second largest employer in Garrett County, the hospital is supported by a staff of 335 professional and highly skilled employees. The medical staff is primarily comprises a team of family care physicians who combine their expertise with that of specialists in the fields of dentistry, dermatology, general surgery, gynecology, ophthalmology, orthopedic surgery, pathology, podiatry, and radiology

Volunteer Opportunities

At Garrett County Memorial Hospital, volunteers serve as valuable members of the healthcare team to help ensure patients, families, and visitors have a positive experience at the hospital. Volunteers are on hand in the hospital lobby with a warm welcome, information, and directional assistance as needed.

VIVA (Volunteers in Various Areas) members can also be found in the emergency department, surgical waiting area, and the basement office, performing a variety of tasks to help patients, visitors, and staff.

Local clergy members serve as volunteer chaplains to provide spiritual support to our patients, family, visitors, and staff every day of the year.

The Loar Auxiliary is a group of volunteers who manage and operate the Gift Shop and the Cup o' Joe vending area, located in the hospital's lobby. Proceeds from the Gift Shop and other Loar Auxiliary fundraising sales are used to benefit the hospital.

The hospital's Foundation organization is a group of dedicated volunteers who solicit donated monies to help fund vital patient care equipment and capital improvements at the hospital, while the hospital's board of governors volunteer its expertise to oversee the hospital's financial and operational management.

UNINTENDED CONSEQUENCES
Recent research by the non-profit EAR Foundation reveals that people age 40 to 59 years are losing their hearing at faster rates than previous generations probably due to increased use of personal listening devices with in-ear headphones. To make matters worse, only about 25 percent of the people with hearing impairments opt for the use of hearing instruments. The remaining 75 percent of hearing-impaired individuals who don't seek treatment pay a price for not doing so. According to the Better Hearing Institute, individuals with untreated hearing losses make $23,000 less annually than people with normal hearing because they do not get promoted or receive raises. This discrimination is inadvertent because bosses are not aware of the hearing loss.
If your hearing is suffering from the effects of noise and noise pollution, disease, trauma, or age-related loss, seek the professional attention of a hearing specialist. Hearing loss varies by type and degree, so we offer comprehensive evaluations and a complete line of hearing instruments to suit each person's particular needs. Come see us at AUDIBEL and have your hearing tested. It's painless, doesn't take very long, and can help you more than you know.
P.S. According to a recent Belgian study, smoking contributes to high-frequency hearing loss by slowing the flow of blood to the middle ear

First United Joins Maryland Green Registry

First United Bank & Trust, Oakland, announces that it has joined the Maryland Green Registry. First United is one of only two banks in Maryland that are participating members in the effort, which is a group of organizations working toward "a more sustainable Maryland."

According to a spokesperson for the bank, the organizations involved put proactive environmental practices to work right in their own organization. Maryland Green Registry offers tips and resources to help organizations set and meet their own goals on a path to sustainability. A window decal signifying membership is displayed at each of First United's Maryland offices.

"Maryland businesses and other organizations already know that even relatively simple steps to reduce our impact on the environment save money and create a healthier workplace," said Governor Martin O'Malley. "The Maryland Green Registry provides an opportunity for these organizations to share their stories and inspire others to take steps to protect our air and our water, including the Chesapeake Bay."

FIRST UNITED JOINS REGISTRY – Sarena Rodeheaver, Oakland community office manager, points out the Maryland Green Registry decal that has been prominently placed at each Maryland office of First United Bank & Trust since the bank is now a member of the registry. See story.

Internally, according to the bank spokesperson, First United has developed practices and procedures to help reduce waste, limit paper consumption, and increase productivity. Lean Six Sigma events have been conducted, helping further the effort as fully as possible within the bank for over two years, resulting in a variety of improvements. Additionally, customers are being given options to help in the effort as well, with online banking and electronic statement options.

"Our organization is very proactive in researching and implementing ways we can become more cost effective and environmentally friendly," said William B. Grant, First United's chief executive officer and chairman of the board. "This organization gives us the opportunity to be interactive with the other members so that we can share ideas. Everyone is looking for ways to be more environmentally conscious, and this is a great tool to use to help us in that area."

First United Corporation operates one full-service commercial bank, First United Bank & Trust, which has a network of community offices in Garrett, Allegany, Washington, and Frederick counties in Maryland, and Mineral, Hardy, Berkeley, and Monongalia counties in West Virginia.

Columbia Gas Inc. Unveils New Corporate Contributions Program

Columbia Gas of Pennsylvania Inc. and Columbia Gas of Maryland Inc. unveiled on Tuesday a new corporate contributions program that will provide grants to volunteer fire departments, organizations committed to supporting senior citizens, and community programs across their 29-county, two-state service areas.

"Columbia Gas has a long history of serving as a leading corporate citizen in the communities we serve and in which our employees live," Columbia Gas president Carol Fox said. "We are committed to maintaining that position by investing in a new corporate giving program that mirrors the communities and customers we serve and aligns with and supports our mission of providing customers with safe, reliable natural gas service."

The company's new charitable contributions program will focus on three areas of giving:

Life-Savers Grants

Columbia Gas will commit up to $125,000 in 2011 to support volunteer fire departments by providing them with the financial and training resources to help keep communities safe. The Life-Savers Grant program includes opportunities for volunteer fire departments to apply for a grant awarding an individual firefighter with funding to purchase personal fire protection equipment.

Columbia Gas also has pledged to bring back its "Columbia Gas Fire School," which in the past has provided hundreds of volunteer firefighters with the opportunity to gain hands-on experience on how to safely respond to natural gas odor calls and other events.

"We recognize the role that volunteer fire departments play in our communities and applaud them for their efforts as many of our employees proudly serve their communities as volunteer firefighters," Fox said. "Between our Life-Savers Grant program and the fire school, we hope to provide the resources they need not only to do their jobs safely but keep our communities safe.

Supporting Seniors

Columbia Gas will provide five $10,000 grants to non-profit organizations that are focused on providing meaningful and beneficial services to senior citizens within the company's operating area. Through the "Supporting Our Seniors" grant program, Columbia customers and employees can nominate local, senior-focused charities to receive a $10,000 grant. One grant will be awarded annually in each of Columbia's five operating areas across Pennsylvania and Maryland.

"Seniors comprise a large percentage of our customer base and many of the service providers can use all the help that they can get," Fox said. "Columbia's 'Supporting Our Seniors' grants will provide financial support to some of these organizations in order to help them fulfill their mission, whether that takes on the form of providing nutritious meals, teaching seniors how to use energy wisely and safely, or other enrichment activities."

Community Programming

Fox says that Columbia Gas will "underscore its commitment to the communities it serves" by supporting community events and programs with up to $100,000 in grants annually. Community programming grants will be awarded to communities in which Columbia Gas will be replacing and upgrading its natural gas infrastructure. This support is in addition to the company's annual United Way employee campaign.

"Over the last two years, Columbia Gas has invested more than $165 million in replacing and upgrading our natural gas infrastructure," Fox said. "Our new community grant programs are an extension of these efforts, providing Columbia Gas and our employees with an opportunity to have an even greater and more meaningful impact on our communities."

Columbia's new charitable contributions grant programs will begin January 1, 2011, with applications and program details available in December online at www.ColumbiaGasPa.com and www.ColumbiaGasMd.com.

Columbia Gas of Maryland serves approximately 33,000 customers in Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

XYLITOL IN CHEWING GUM

By Dr. Tom Sheahen

Q. A lot of chewing gum these days mentions Xylitol. The web says Xylitol can make the pH in your mouth rise, and "when pH is above 7, calcium and phosphate salts in saliva start to precipitate into those parts of enamel where they are lacking." Is this really true? Does this mean chewing this gum can refortify my enamel?

A. Xylitol is a sweetener that voids some of the negative side effects of sugar. Chewing gum that has been sweetened with Xylitol leads to fewer cavities than from traditional sugar-flavored gum. There is good medical-testing evidence for that. But whether it can build up calcium in your tooth enamel is a less certain claim.

One of the standard advertisements for Trident gum over the years has been that "dentists recommend it for their patients who chew gum." That is, if you're going to chew gum anyway, then it's better to go with the Xylitol-sweetened kind. That recommendation is not the same as urging people to take up chewing Xylitol gum. But if the gum weren't sweet, nobody would want to chew it.

Any dentist will encourage you to reduce the amount of sugar hanging around your mouth – whether via gum, soda pop, candy, etc. Here is a quotation from a Wikipedia article about sugar:

"Sugars such as sucrose are known to contribute to tooth decay, and it is impossible to develop cavities in the absence of fermentable carbohydrates. The role of starches is disputed. Lower rates of tooth decay have been seen in hereditary fructose intolerance."

Tooth decay involves losing minerals such as calcium. When the pH is lower than 7, the mouth is slightly "acidic," and calcium can more easily exit your tooth enamel. A pH above 7 means "alkaline" or "basic," and the calcium stays put. Baking soda would work just as well to raise the pH, but that wouldn't improve the taste of the chewing gum.

Xylitol is a member of the alcohol family of chemicals, as contrasted to the sugars (sucrose, fructose, glucose, etc.). Xylitol reduces the ability of bacteria such as streptococcus mutans to make an acid that deteriorates teeth. Indirectly, Xylitol tricks the bad micro-organisms and starves them. In turn, that reduces tooth decay. But it's still very important to brush and floss your teeth.

Xylitol has a chemical formula of C5H12O5, while glucose is C6H12O6, but there's a big difference in structure. Biological baddies may be able to tell the difference. Xylitol won't fix things that are already wrong, but it does promote the conditions for making things right; it gives the desired "sweet" taste of gum without lowering the pH.

About Xylitol, Wikipedia says, "Recent research confirms a plaque-reducing effect and suggests that the compound, having some chemical properties similar to sucrose, attracts and then "starves" harmful micro-organ-isms, allowing the mouth to remineralize damaged teeth with less interruption." (Your phrase "refortify my enamel" means "remineralize.") It also says that research from Finland indicates that Xylitol may improve bone density. It's not that Xylitol itself is restoring your teeth; rather, it makes the conditions better for the enamel to remineralize.

Xylitol has a number of other advantages beyond dental care, notably its low glycemic index and low impact on blood sugar; plus it's non-toxic, safe for diabetics, and the side effects are minor. It's preferable to Sorbitol in nearly every way. Children of nursing mothers benefit because of Xylitol. But don't let your dog have Xylitol! It's very harmful to dogs.

Our moods, our interests, our longings... all play a part in determining our happiness. What we believe makes a difference, too. There are those for whom happiness arises from faith, believing and trusting in God. There are others who lack this faith and wonder why they aren't happy. You don't have to search for faith alone. At your house of worship you can find a community of love and support. Go and find faith this week!

SMILE AND GET BACK TO WORK

When Armando Galarraga, the pitcher for the Detroit Tigers, was deprived of a perfect game this past June by a bad call from umpire Jim Joyce in the last inning with one out to go, instead of protesting or walking off the field indignantly, he smiled and went back to work. His display of self-control and his willingness to forgive the bad call was perhaps a better example to all of us than his perfect game would have been. After the game it was apparent that Mr. Joyce was mortified by his bad call, saying that he had botched what should have been the final out in Galarraga's gem of a game. But, what was really admirable in this whole affair was Armando Galarraga's willingness to say, in effect, "No problem, we all make mistakes" and Jim Joyce's willingness to admit the mistake, express regret and personally apologize. Given the good example that was exemplified by both men, maybe this was a perfect game.

Put on then, as God's chosen ones, holy and beloved, compassion, kindness, lowliness, meekness, and patience, forbearing one another and, if one has a complaint against another, forgivingeach other.

How to Prevent Osteoporosis

Osteoporosis is a condition of weakened bones. Low levels of certain minerals in the body, such as calcium and phosphorous, can lead to the condition. This condition typically appears later in life. Persons over 40 years of age are at an increased risk. Although women are more commonly diagnosed with osteoporosis, both women and men may be affected. Tobacco or alcohol use also may increase the risk of developing osteoporosis.

Bisphosphonates used for the treatment of osteoporosis include alendronate, ibandronate, risedronate, and zoledronic acid. Bisphosphonates reduce bone resorption and increase bone mineral density and strength. These medications work to reduce the risk of fractures. Raloxifene is another medication that may be prescribed for women with osteoporosis who are unable to take bisphosphonates. Raloxifene is a selective estrogen receptor modulator that works to prevent bone loss by mimicking some actions of estrogen. Adults should obtain 1,000 to 1,500 mg calcium each day, along with vitamin D, as a preventative measure against the development of osteoporosis. A healthy diet and regular physical activity are also recommended for the prevention of osteoporosis and promotion of bone health.

Good luck, 'Chuck': Season four is near

By Jay Bobbin

Zachary Levi

Q: Is the show "Chuck" returning? And if so, when? –Terri Spoonemore, San Antonio

A: Give it one more week. On Sept. 20, the Zachary Levi-starring comedy-adventure actually will become the first series in NBC's lineup to present a new fall episode. The fourth year will introduce Linda Hamilton ("The Terminator") as the mysterious mother of Chuck and Ellie (Levi, Sarah Lancaster), though Levi himself told us recently that you still shouldn't expect to see the character for a while, since the season's early episodes will involve the search for her.

Q: I really enjoyed "Men of a Certain Age." Is it going to be brought back? –Anita Bravin, Islip, N.Y.

A: It is. TNT is slated to launch season two of the Ray Romano-Scott Bakula-Andre Braugher series – which will consist of 12 new episodes – on Nov. 29.

Q: A friend and I disagree on where "Dexter" started. He says it started on Showtime, and I say it was on CBS for a season or two before moving to Showtime. Please set us straight. –Jan Osborne, Shoreline, Wash.

A: Your friend "wins," though there is an explanation for your perception. "Dexter" began on Showtime in the fall of 2006, but when the writers strike bogged down series production during the 2007-08 television season, corporate cousin CBS decided to make use of the first-year "Dexter" episodes to fill a programming gap. CBS says it hasn't considered using any subsequent seasons of "Dexter" in the same way.

Q: Please tell me happened to the show "The Bridge." I really enjoyed it. –Kay Shelton, Winnsboro, Texas

A: It became the series that broke the success ratio of police dramas from Canada on American television lately. Unlike another such CBS show – "Flashpoint" – and "Rookie Blue" on ABC, "The Bridge" had ratings problems from the start in its U.S. run (not helped by being on Saturday, not a high-rated viewing night anyway), and CBS pulled it after three of its 13 episodes. For what it's worth, the show has fared much better in Canada, that country's CTV network has renewed it for a second season.

• The record for the longest space flight in history is held by Russian cosmonaut Valeri Polyakov. In 1995 he completed a 438-day stay aboard the Mir space station.

• It's commonly believed that Eskimos have 50 or more words for different types of snow but no word for just plain snow. In point of fact, that statement is misleading, as the Eskimo language is composed largely of roots and suffixes that can be combined in virtually unlimited ways.

• A traditional groom in Norway wears short pants, knee socks, and a silk shirt along with a vest and topcoat.

• Everyone knows that China is the most populous country on Earth today, with nearly 20 percent of the world's population. But you might not realize that there are now more people living in China than lived on the entire planet 150 years ago.

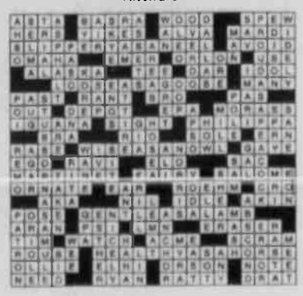

• A recent item in this column stated that Henry Heimlich believed peanut butter to be the food upon which people most commonly choke. As it turns out, that quotation did not come from Dr. Heimlich. Don't be mistaken, though — according to the American Academy of Pediatrics, peanut butter is a high-risk food.

Thought for the Day: "I believe in evidence. I believe in observation, measurement, and reasoning, confirmed by independent observers. I'll believe anything, no matter how wild and ridiculous, if there is evidence for it. The wilder and more ridiculous something is, however, the firmer and more solid the evidence will have to be." — Isaac Asimov

• On Sept. 15, 1858, the new Overland Mail Company sends out its first two stagecoaches, inaugurating government mail service between the eastern and western regions of the nation. Overland later competed with the Pony Express until May 10, 1869, the day the first transcontinental railroad was completed. On that day, the U.S. government canceled its last overland mail contract.

• On Sept. 17, 1884, Judge Allen disposes of the 13 criminal cases on his Oakland, Calif., docket in only six minutes. Although he apparently set a new record for speed, defendants in Oakland's criminal court did not stand much of a chance of gaining an acquittal. In a 40-year period at the turn of the century, only 1 defendant in 100 was acquitted.

• On Sept. 14, 1901, U.S. President William McKinley dies after being shot by a deranged anarchist during the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo, N.Y. When McKinley was operated on after being shot, doctors had failed to find the bullet, and gangrene soon spread throughout his body.

• On Sept. 16, 1940, Selective Service is born as Congress passes the Burke-Wadsworth Act, imposing the first peacetime draft in the history of the United States. By the end of World War II, approximately 34 million men had registered, and 10 million served with the military.

• On Sept. 13, 1971, a four-day riot at Attica Prison in New York comes to a violent end as law-enforcement officials open fire, killing 29 inmates and 10 hostages and injuring many more. The prison insurrection was the bloodiest in U.S. history.

Q. I have a $20 bill printed by the Confederate States of America in Richmond in February of 1864. Does it have any value? — Albert, Ormond Beach, Fla.

A. The value of a piece of currency, like most collectibles, is based on several factors, including both condition and rarity. All genuine Confederate currency has some value, but most of the smaller bills are extremely common. An exception is the $500 note, which generally is worth from $200 to $400 depending on condition. To find out how much your $20 note is worth, you should consult an established coin dealer in your area. If that is not possible, one of the better references is Confederate States Paper Money: Civil War Currency From the South by Arlie R. Slabaugh, available for $21.27 at amazon.com. If you have access to a computer, you also might check out questions and answers about Confederate money at ask.com.

Rally Sunday At St. Mark's Lutheran Set

St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland will host Rally Sunday on Sept. 12, kicking off its new "Second Sunday" Sunday school. The theme for the day will be "Glow in the Dark Sunday."

After Rally Sunday, the teachers will host Sunday school activities and events on the second Sunday of the month for all students. On the other Sundays of the month, teachers will be available for students who wish to attend weekly.

The lessons, snacks, decorations, activities, and crafts for the day will all tie into the following theme: "Light should come from within us. We need to glow even if it's dark all around us. That's how we show Jesus to others."

Children of all ages are invited to arrive anytime between 8:30 and 8:45 a.m., dressed in neon or white (so they'll glow in black light).

Rally Sunday will feature theme-based activities and lessons, and will conclude with a snack. Because the staff is trying something new with the "Second Sunday" schedule, parents of the children are strongly encouraged to stay for the morning.

Parents are invited to become involved in regular Sunday morning activities throughout the year, whether it be getting together with other parents for breakfast, starting a month-ly discussion group about topics of their choice (such as parenting issues), or attending Pastor Scott Robinson's weekly Bible study group which meets during the Sunday school time. Parents are also invited to teach a class.

On Rally Sunday, parents may help plant mums in the churchyard for fall. Nursery care will be provided for the youngest of children. All members, guests, and visitors are welcome to attend.

Worship follows Sunday school at 10 a.m.

For more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-2668. St. Mark's is located at the corner of Center and South Second streets, across from the Ruth Enlow Library.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN DONATE TO SCHOOLS – The Southern Garrett County Republican Women's Club (SGCRWC) is continuing its school supplies program and has donated student supplies to seven county elementary schools and one middle school. Supplies such as backpacks, folders, calculators, rulers, pens, pencils, paper, notebooks, and other items were purchased, packaged, and delivered to the schools. The items will be distributed to the students at the principals' discretion. The club spent nearly $900 on the supplies, with that money raised in a raffle for a stained glass lamp made by Lou DiCarlo and sold to the club at a discounted price. Shown above left are students from Crellin Elementary School receiving the donated items. In the front row, from left, are Madison Crosco, Carly Friend, Jazlyne Poling, and Lacey Miller. In the back, same order, are club member Pat White, and students Chris Mersing, Tia DeGiovanni, Wendy Tichinel, Nathan Spiker, and Dean Holland. The picture below left was taken at Southern Middle School, where member Judy Wilt delivered supplies. From left are Sunni Royce, Ethan Bittinger, Wilt, Camden Nichols, Jacob Rawlings, and Nicole Pysell. In the photo above right at Broad Ford Elementary School are Brenda Buser, school secretary, and club member Ann Rebele. The photo below right was taken at Dennett Road Elementary School. Pictured from left are Ann Wilson (a retired Arkansas school teacher who volunteered to help with the project), Nita Roberts (club co-president), students Emily Gregory, Nicholas Davis, and Lana Holler, and principal Gary Galloway. More SGCRWC donation photos will be published next week.

VFW #10077 Launches Two Essay Contests

The Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) Post #10077 in Deer Park announced that this year the VFW will conduct two contests for local students in grades 6-12. These contests are sponsored annually by the VFW and its ladies auxiliary. The contests allow students the opportunity to win cash, bonds, and scholarships at the local and national levels.

The local winners are recognized in the local newspaper, and their entries are sent to the district level for competition against other district winners.

Last year, two students, Coy Ozias and Shannon Warnick, won second and third places respectively at the district level. It is then possible to advance to the state or the national level.

Prizes for the local winners are $300 for first place, $200 for second, and $100 for third in both contests.

The first contest is the Voice of Democracy contest for high school students in grades 9-12. Entries should consist of a short typed essay, an audio recording (3-5 minutes) of the essay, and a completed entry form. The theme for this year is "Does My Generation Have a Role in America's Future?" The deadline is Nov 1, by which time the entries should be at Post 10077 in Deer Park.

The second is the Patriot's Pen contest, which is for students in grades 6-8. In this contest students prepare an essay of 300-400 words and complete an entry form. The theme for this year is "Does Patriotism Still Matter?" The deadline is also Nov. 1.

All Garrett County students in grades 6-12 are eligible to enter the Voice of Democracy and Patriot's Pen contests. The county's two high schools and middle schools are participating, an organizer said. Students who are in those schools or are home schooled are invited to enter the contests directly by contacting Post 10077 at 301-334-9109 or by calling the contest chairman Wayne McCaughey at 301-387-3225.

Man Sentenced To One Year In Jail For DUI

A Maryland man was recently sentenced to one year in jail by Judge Leonard J. Eiswert for a charge of driving while intoxicated. Michael Wayne Wilt, 36, was found guilty in Garrett County District Court on a charge that stems from a July stop by Maryland State Police. He was not prosecuted on a charge of driving under the influence.

In related court news, Scott Allan Carr, 41, Md., was found guilty on a DWI charge and sentenced to 60 days with all suspended. He was placed on two years of supervised probation, to be monitored by the Maryland Division of Parole and Probation, and fined $257.50. Carr was stopped by a Garrett County sheriff's deputy in May. He was not prosecuted on a charge of DUI.

Kevin Lee Meyers, 23, Md., was given a probation before judgment verdict on a DWI charge and sentenced to 30 days with all suspended. He was placed on 10 days of unsupervised probation and fined $257.50. Meyers was not prosecuted on a charge of DUI. Charges stem from a May stop by a Garrett County sheriff's deputy.

William Glenn Cook III, 22, W.Va., was given a PBJ on a charge of DWI and not prosecuted on a DUI charge. He was sentenced to 30 days with 30 suspended, placed on 10 days of unsupervised probation, and fined $207.50. Cook was charged by a Garrett County sheriff's deputy in May following a traffic stop.

In other recent court news, Abraham S. Falah, 25, Brooklyn, N.Y., was found guilty of theft of $500-plus value and sentenced to three years with two years and 10 months suspended. He was also placed on three years of supervised probation and fined $307.50. He allegedly used forged American Express traveler's checks to purchase numerous items at Wal-Mart businesses in the Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania areas and then returned the items for cash at the Oakland Wal-Mart. He and a second man were captured on video surveillance before an arrest was made. A total of $1,098.16 was given by Wal-Mart to Falah and his partner by exchange.

Nicholas Lockhart Gwiazdowsky, 22, Oakland, was given a stet verdict on CDS (controlled dangerous substance) possession of not marijuana and conspiracy CDS possession with intent to distribute narcotics. He was a passenger in a car that was stopped by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force in March. A search of the vehicle revealed 28 capsules of heroin in a purse located in the trunk of the car. The conditions of his stet are that he continue treatment at the Western Maryland Health System.

Fisheries Biologist To Be Speaker For Meeting Of SRWA

The Savage River Watershed Association (SRWA) will hold its bimonthly meeting next Thursday, Sept. 16, at 7 p.m. at Route 40 Elementary School. The guest speaker will be Alan Klotz, a regional fisheries biologist with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Inland Fisheries Management Division.

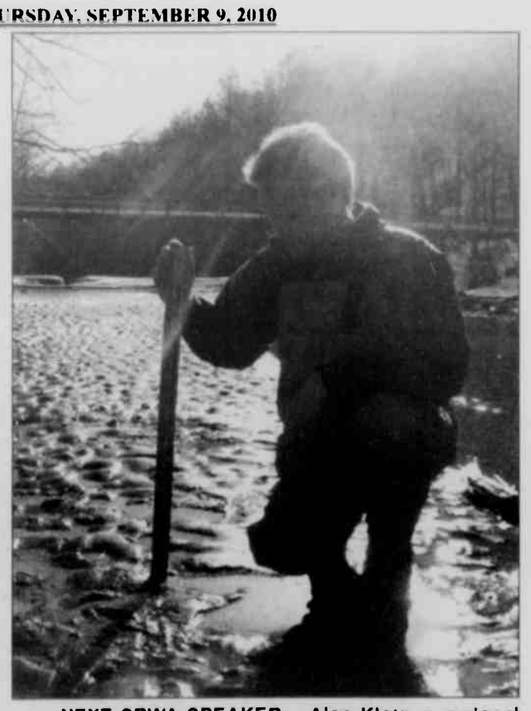

Klotz will give a presentation titled "Savage River Reservoir and Savage River Tailwater Fish Restoration Plan." He will report on the status of fish populations in the reservoir and the downstream trout fishery after the draining and subsequent refilling of the Savage River reservoir following necessary dam repairs. The presentation will be followed by a question-and-answer session about fisheries resources of the Savage River reservoir and tailwaters.

Klotz, a 1988 graduate of East Stroudsburg University with a bachelor of science degree in biology, has been a fisheries biologist with the DNR since 1988. He has also been an adjunct instructor for Garrett College's Natural Resource and Wildlife Technology Program, teaching fisheries management and biology as well as the water quality lab since 1990. He is actively involved with local non-profit conservation organizations and he volunteers considerable time with the Garrett County school system, teaching children about aquatic ecology and fishing.

SRWA is a group of local landowners and other citizens dedicated to preserving and enhancing the rural nature and natural resources of the Savage River watershed. Members assist interested landowners and public land managers with environmental stewardship efforts and educational outreach. Anyone who is concerned about the Savage River watershed is invited to join.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

From the post-game wrap-up, I missed a really good game Friday evening. The Pirates really put together the kind of offense that they are capable of. They are still pretty young. This game showed what Pirates fans can hope for in the next decade when their talented boys come into their prime.

Today I can watch the unveiling of the new Mazeroski statue, reminding us about the Glory Days beginning in 1960 when the Pirates upset the New York Yankees. That was something that no one expected to happen, as were the World Series of 1971 and 1979 against the Baltimore Orioles.

Speaking of Orioles, there was no sign of my orioles this summer. I was pretty disappointed because they are such beautiful wild birds. In all the years that I've lived on this farm, it is only in the last 20 years or so that I ever saw one here. I remember seeing an oriole's nest in one of our big maple trees.

There is no doubt on this Labor Day weekend that summer is gone from Bittinger. Caitlin and Meredith are in shock at the very cool weather after a week in Morgantown where it was unbearably hot. Luckily for me, they both had to work at their lake jobs this weekend. Friday evening was the happiest evening for me for a very long time, because while Caitlin was busy working at the Black Bear Tavern, Meredith was here with me. She loves her courses in geography, and everything is just fine with her in every way.

The same thing goes for Caitlin. She is enjoying her upper level social work classes. She is excited about her future career doing what she is very committed to: helping people in trouble. I wish she would try to find her first job close enough to home so I could enjoy a little more of family life, and it is nice to have someone who is on the same page as I. She is interested in many cultures and has an open and inquisitive mind.

I am so angry at this early taste of autumn. It's cool; almost cold. Last evening when I was already in bed, my girls came home from their evening shift at Black Bear, and they wanted me to get up and go outside with them to see a splendid star show. It looked tempting outside, but you couldn't see the very chilly wind blowing.

I got a lovely surprise Sunday when Claire paid an unexpected visit. So for part of Sunday I had all three girls home together with me.

Then another big surprise: my Aunt Dorothy Quintance of Schenectady, N.Y. She was here for cousin Courtney's Labor Day picnic, which I skipped because of the chilly weather and enjoying the company of my girls. But Dot had a piece of exciting news about her younger granddaughter Hannah, daughter of her son Jay. The college where she plans to start her freshman year has a campus in Florence, Italy, and believe it or not, it's a much lower cost.

I am getting more and more frustrated that when you hear about something you would like to see on TV, it does not appear when it's supposed to. Or, I requested a channel for Direct TV months ago, but it still has not appeared yet. All I can get is a college football game between teams I don't give a hoot about. But not the unveiling of the statue of Bill Mazeroski.

At least my Internet connection is at last up and running, but I still don't know how to find the things I want on it. I was counting on Caitlin to show me the ropes, but she already had a full plate of things to do today.

I am reading an extremely interesting book – the biography of Edward Kennedy. Very few people believe their childhood was nearly perfect. And it appears that it wasn't perfect to grow up as the child of Joe and Rose Kennedy. Although they were very privileged children, their parents and older siblings demanded excellence in just about everything. Joe deeply hoped that his son would become president, something that was unthinkable when Joe and Rose's parents immigrated to America among a massive wave of Irish immigrants. They met quite a bit of prejudice.

I dare you to go online to South Poverty Law Center and contribute at least $20 to them. Besides their doing such important work that requires a lot of courage, you would get a book in return. I wish I had a dozen copies of it, so I could lend it out to as many people as possible.

So many of my most treasured books are in boxes in the basement, unreachable to me, and probably getting moldy and ruined. I can't stand it! Which one of the many busybodies "did me a favor" by taking my most treasured possessions and removing them from my access? I don't know if it's too late to rescue my precious copy of The Strategy for Peace by JFK and signed by him.

The highlight of today was when Cindy Richard son brought her 1-year-old grandson Owen to show off to me.

I saw an ad about stroke prevention. You can get some kind of screening for $139. They said, "If you could prevent a stroke, why wouldn't you?" Well, because I do not have $139 to spare.

Ah, it wasn't Saturday when the Mazeroski statue was unveiled. It was Sunday. I can't believe he was only 24 when he hit the home run that won the 1960 World Series. It was Oct. 13. It was not just that home run, but also his over a dozen Golden Gloves. Maz, now 75, was the greatest second baseman in the history of the major leagues, so it was very strange that it was not until 2001 when he was inducted into the Hall of Fame.

No one of the Pirates' Nation who is a minimum of at least my age will ever forget that moment when that ball cleared the wall. And now the very beautiful statue immortalizes him forever to future fans.

Maz was and is a man of few words, and mostly he shies away from limelight. But he deserved all of the big celebration of his career today. Before today's game, they showed a film of that home run, which I never saw before. And then Maz and his wife rode a 1960 convertible around the bases while they played the song that we all remember: "The Bucs are going all the way, all the way this year...." That was when Pittsburgh could first claim the nickname, the "City of Champions."

Then the 1970s Steelers cemented that title. And the Penguins did their part, too. Point Stadium was packed today with passionate Pittsburgh sports fans, and it was a very moving celebration.

To me, 1960 was one of the few years in my life that was an almost perfect year. It was a time of outdoor play and being perfectly comfortable with school life. But I was never as happy during school time as during the summer when I could pretty much run wild on our farm and in our woods, mounted on my beloved Pinto Shetland pony Misty with Cindy Beachy Stanton on her bay Welsh pony, Tony. Every summer, Misty gave birth to sweet new foals. Her first one, Flicka, became Carol's mount.

My life was full of wild strawberries, wildflowers, and lots of books. That year was when my mother held her first fulltime job, but it was only temporary doing the 1960 census. I was always most happy when Mommy was home when we got home from school. And we were able to look forward to a new baby in December, which was always an exciting event for all of us.

But it did not go perfectly, and my mother had to stay in the hospital due to a blood clot in her leg which migrated to her lungs. That was a very scary time for us. But we were lucky enough to have two wonderful sets of grandparents who could take care of us.

The day my mother went into labor, there was the worst weather that Garrett County can hand out. She had to ride a tractor for several miles to where the road was open, then they borrowed a neighbor's car to make the trip to Memorial Hospital where my littlest brother Scott arrived safely. He could come home in a normal time frame, but not Mommy. I don't now how long she was stuck in the hospital, but it was too long. But finally, she came home! It was a happy day for everyone. Every day, I still miss her so much.

It was also about 1960 that I started to be aware of the national and international state of affairs. It was easy that year when the election was between Richard Nixon, the former vice president for Eisenhower, and John Kennedy. It ushered in a new America, and the beginning of the Camelot era. We had a beautiful family in the White House. Everyone knows where they were when they heard the unthinkable news that someone cut off a life full of promise and representing hope for America's future.

I was struck by some surprising similarities between my father, a dairy farmer with many children, and Edward Kennedy. Both desired a decent life for all of God's children. And I am sure my Dad would have gladly embraced the role of second father if his sister's life was cruelly ended because of her work for social justice.

One of the most moving things about the biography of Edward Kennedy was how passionately he performed the role of father to his many fatherless nieces and nephews. And he was truly beloved by his ordinary neighbors and people who used to work for him. They rushed to the Kennedy compound when he saw the first sign of brain cancer, which of course later ended his life.

Some people you can't replace, including my father, who was eulogized by our pastor James Mitchell, who said, "He never met a stranger." It seems to be the same kind of personality and character shown by Teddy. Of course, Teddy made one terrible mistake, but he tried to earn redemption for that mistake.

Labor Day was a nice day, not so cold that it was unfit to be outside. That's good. But today all three of my baby birds will fly away. That is very sad for me. But it was nice to have them here with me. I am afraid those times will become more and more rare. But that is something almost every parent must face sooner or later.

My parents were unusually lucky. At least our first jobs after college were in Garrett County. But later, I must have really trialed my parents when I went to many states for jobs: Ohio, then New Jersey, then Manhattan. I'm sure that must have caused them some worry. But I felt very safe and happy living in an almost slum. I had lots of close friends in Manhattan, and was very closely bonded with work colleagues.

Where else could I turn down a ride home from work in a limousine belonging to one of my generations most iconic musical performers: Paul Simon. But I didn't think it would be good for my image in my

Local Attorneys Support
Rita Watson
For Garrett County Register of Wills

An Open Letter to the Citizens of Garrett County
From Members of the Garrett County Bar Association

As attorneys who practice and live in our community, we have a unique perspective on the internal workings of the courthouse offices, and daily interact with the people behind the scenes who faithfully serve the public.

This year the voters of Garrett County have the privilege of electing a Register of Wills due to the retirement of Joe DiSimone, who competently executed the duties of his office for more than 30 years.

Register of Wills is a position that requires a substantial knowledge of the ever changing laws and regulations of the State of Maryland in order to competently administer estates. In smaller counties such as ours, the Register is just not an elected position, but it's a job that requires, from day one, the knowledge and understanding of probate law and procedure to adequately serve the residents of Garrett County.

Our current Register, Rita Watson, is the only candidate who is qualified to serve in this position. After serving 30 years in the office as Chief Deputy, she faithfully asssumed the duties of the office when Joe DiSimone retired last July 1, has successfully undergone a strenuous State audit, which is required by Maryland law to be conducted of all Registers' offices every three years, and still efficiently, and with empathy, performed the duties of her office.

The laws of probate are ever changing and complex, and as attorneys we rely upon Rita Watson's opinion and guidance. Her ability to guide many citizens through probate procedures has saved individuals thousands of dollars in fees and expenses.

We, the following attorneys of Garrett County, without reservation, urge the voters to elect and retain Rita Watson for Register of Wills. She is the only qualified candidate.

Terra Alta PTO To Host Second Annual Festival

Students, parents, and all other interested citizens are invited to attend the second annual Terra Alta/East Preston PTO Fall Festival at Terra Alta Park on Saturday, Sept. 18.

"This is a true community and family event," said school principal David Murray. "We hope that the community will join us in having a great time together in support of TA/EPP's children and families."

The festival will feature carnival games, prizes, food, and musical entertainment from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. All are invited to participate in the pie baking contest, as well as the pumpkin decorating/carving contest. Pies and pumpkins are to be registered the day of the festival no later than 11 a.m.

"This year we have some great local entertainment lined up," said Joleen Haskell, PTO president. Paul Burger will perform at 11:30, followed by Ann Nine at 12:30.

"We also have several students who will be taking the stage throughout the day," Haskell added.

There will also be an applebutter-making demonstration.

Craft and flea market vendors are welcome to set up in the park that day for a fee of $10 and may register by telephoning 304-789-5890.

All proceeds will benefit the students at Terra Alta East Preston School. Persons with questions may telephone 304-789-5303 or 304-789-6240.

Number Of Run For It Teams Still Growing

With just weeks to go, the number of teams planning to Run For It in Davis on Saturday, Sept. 25, continues to grow, according to organizers. Twenty-five teams from around the region have registered for the 2-kilometer/5-kilometer walk and run to raise support for their community via grants from the Tucker Community Foundation. More are expected to register before the Sept. 15 deadline.

Racers and teams are competing for more than $23,000 in cash prizes to donate to their individual causes. Race proceeds will benefit civic groups, nonprofits, and local charities around the region. Cash awards are provided by the foundation, with support from match donors, which include community organizations, businesses, and individuals.

Six libraries from three counties will be represented: Mountaintop Library of Thomas, Belington Public Library, Philippi Library, Tygart Valley Community Library of Mill Creek, Pioneer Memorial Public Library of Harman, and Five Rivers Library of Parsons.

Environmental and beautification efforts will be represented by Team Northfork, raising support to clean up acid mine drainage in the North Fork of the Blackwater River. Riverfront Ramblers (Davis Riverfront Project), the reigning team champions for the past two years, are expected to make another strong showing.

The 2010 lineup includes a number of teams representing youth and education. Creative art projects will be represented by the Randolph County Community Arts Center Team and Team Fresh Canvas (Dutch Easton Fund). The Maple Spring Church Choir team plans to use race proceeds to help defray the cost of copyrighted music.

New to the race, a group that makes weekend visits to Tucker County has formed the Deerfield 74 team to help raise money for EMS training.

Mountain Hospice Team will be raising operational funds.

Hendricks Sisters are returning for the third year in a row to raise funds for the McNeeley Cemetery Fund, paying tribute to the memory of loved ones buried there.

Teams have until Wednesday, Sept. 15, to register. Participants may raise funds and awareness for community causes from Barbour, Grant, Mineral, Preston, Pocahontas, Randolph, and Tucker County in West Virginia, and Garrett County in Maryland.

COMMISSIONERS: Retire all three!

We need these good men, so we can retire the three present commissioners who have been building monster buildings – yet say their budget is too tight to buy kids text books! (see Times paper of 4/22/10 which had two big headlines: "$23 million facility will include two indoor pools" — 66,000 square feet we will have to heat, maintain and pay for over the years! Just below that big headline same day, "Bleak budget won't allow for new textbooks").

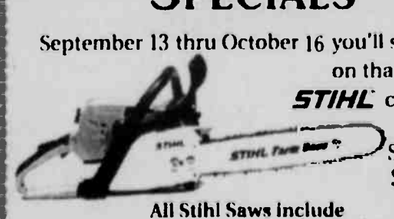

Where has the sanity gone in our "leaders"? Retire them and let's get back to listening to the citizens of Garrett County.

We need men who will listen to us, the taxpayers, who must pay for these wild spending binges they have been on, yet they tell us they are conservative!! Help!

Renewable Energy Funds Available Through USDA

U.S. Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack announced this week the availability of funding under the Rural Energy for America Program (REAP) to conduct feasibility studies for renewable energy systems for agriculture producers and rural small businesses.

"Renewable energy production represents a promising revenue source for America's producers while meeting the nation's need for new sources of renewable energy," Vilsack said. "These grants will help encourage the development of viable renewable energy projects across the nation and help small business owners, farmers, ranchers, and agriculture producers conduct feasibility studies that identify renewable energy opportunities."

Eligible feasibility studies for renewable energy systems include projects that will produce energy from wind, solar, biomass, geothermal, hydro power, and hydrogen-based sources. The energy to be produced includes heat, electricity, or fuel. For all projects, the system must be located in a rural area, must be technically feasible and must be owned by the applicant. More information is available by going online to http://www.rurdev.usda.gov/BCP_ReapGrants.html

Under this notice, USDA is making $3 million available to conduct feasibility studies. Grants are limited to $50,000 per study, and the application deadline is October 5, 2010.

The funding announced is authorized under the Food, Conservation and Energy Act of 2008. More information on how to apply for funding is available in the August 6 Federal Register, page 47525. The Federal Register can be found at the link above.

Last year, Cascia Vineyards in Stevensville was the recipient of a $2,500 grant to conduct a feasibility study for an energy replacement system consisting of wind and solar. Cascia operates a 3,000-gallon winery and 6,500-square-foot production facility.

"We are hoping that more Delaware and Maryland small businesses and farmers take advantage of this grant opportunity," said Jack Tarburton, USDA Rural Development state director. "All agricultural producers, including farmers and ranchers, who gain 50% or more of their gross income from the agricultural operations are eligible. Small businesses that are located in a rural area with a population of 50,000 or less may also apply."

For additional information, persons may contact Bruce Weaver, USDA Rural Development loan specialist, at 302-857-3629 or bruce.weaver@de.usda.gov.

USDA, through its Rural Development mission area, administers and manages more than 40 housing, business, and community infrastructure and facility programs through a national network of 6,100 employees located in the nation's capital and 500 state and local offices. These programs are designed to improve the economic stability of rural communities, businesses, residents, farmers, and ranchers, and improve the quality of life in rural America. Rural Development has an existing portfolio of more than $142 billion in loans and loan guarantees.

USDA ANNOUNCES LOAN PROGRAM

U.S. Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack has announced the launch of a Conservation Loan (CL) program that will provide farm owners and farm-related business operators access to credit to implement conservation techniques that will conserve natural resources.

"This will give farmers who want to implement conservation measures on their lands a chance to do so by providing assistance with their up-front costs," said Vilsack. "In return, these producers will help to reduce soil erosion, improve water quality, and promote sustainable and organic agricultural practices."

CL funds can be used to implement conservation practices approved by the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), such as the installation of conservation structures; establishment of forest cover, installation of water conservation measures; establishment or improvement of permanent pastures; implementation of manure management; and the adaptation of other emerging or existing conservation practices, techniques, or technologies.

Direct CLs can be obtained through the Preston County Farm Service Agency (FSA) office with loan limits up to $300,000. Guaranteed CLs up to $1,112,000 are available from lenders working with FSA.

For more information on the Conservation Loan program, persons may visit the Preston County FSA office, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, or telephone farm loan manager Matt Briggs at 800-707-1298, or visit the FSA web site at www.fsa.usda.gov.

run-down neighborhood. That was something I was reluctant to sacrifice – the status of being just another poor person like the rest of my neighbors, which is one reason I felt pretty safe.

I am watching my first college game this season, between Maryland and Navy. Maryland was leading most of the game, but when it came down to the last few minutes left on the clock, Navy was only three points behind and in the red zone. Luckily, Navy fumbled the ball, so Maryland survived a too-close call. I tried to watch the first game of WVU, but I couldn't find it. Not surprisingly, WVU beat Coastal Carolina easily.

My brother Barry dropped by to see me on his way back to Thurmont. Another regular guest of Labor Day in Garrett County, Jim Fay of Washington, D.C., also dropped by and told me about a great bird sighting. A pair of ravens did a show of synchronized flying above my cousin Courtney's farm in the Cove. Then a pair of red-tailed hawks followed the same pattern soon after.

Jim was sad that all of our kids are too grown up for their annual walk: a snake hunt, which is an essential part of Labor Day weekend. But he did see Meredith and Caitlin before they headed back to Morgantown.

I wonder how Steve and Patty Diehlman are, living on a small island off the coast of Maine. I wonder if they got hit hard by the last of Hurricane Earl. They used to live on the Stephens farm on Peat Moss Road. It was so nice to have friends so close by, especially since their daughters and mine were close friends.

They had a golden retriever, and of course we had our dear Boo. She is showing more gray around her muzzle. I hate to see any signs of age in her, because she is already 15 years old, which is fairly old for a large breed dog. She sometimes suffers from what I guess is arthritis. It makes it hard for her to get up on her favorite couch. And she used to get up on my bed, too. Yes, it was a little crowded. But that is way too hard for her now.

We do have many small-ish signs of real progress in reviving our economy, but not enough or fast enough. Yes, many Americans are still hurting, but does anyone have any better ideas?

Sunday School for children at Emmanuel Lutheran Church will resume this Sunday, Sept. 12. All children are welcome, and classes begin at 9 a.m.

The Bittinger Parish will study the ELCA draft social statement on genetics on Sept. 12, 19, and 26. All meetings will be at the parsonage, and will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Care packages for members of the parish attending college or serving in the military will be assembled on Sept. 19. Anyone wishing to donate toward this project is invited to bring non-perishable snacks and other items to the church office.

Confirmation classes will begin on Sept. 19 at 1 p.m. at the parsonage.

The 4th annual "Tri-to-Win" SavageMan Triathlon Festival will impact upon the regular worship schedule at Emmanuel on Sunday, Sept. 19. Those attending service are asked to be aware of this race, and to allow extra time for the participants to pass through the area of the church. Volunteers are also needed at the intersection of Maynardier Ridge and Brenneman roads on race day to help with the race.

NOTICE OF REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS FOR ENGINEERING SERVICES
Town of Accident, Maryland

Project Information:

The Town of Accident will accept sealed proposals from qualified engineenng firms for preparation of a preliminary engineenng report examining the feasibility and probable cost of alternatives for addressing arsenic levels in the Accident-Bittinger Road well.

The town currently utilizes two groundwater wells to supply 100% of the system's demand. Well No. 2 and treatment facility is located at 122 Accident-Bittinger Road and well no. 1 is located at 219 S. Main Street. In 2009, the yearly average for arsenic in well no. 2 exceeded the current maximum containment level of 0.010 milligrams per liter (mg/l). The yearly average was 0.011 mg/l for well no. 2. Test results for well no. 1 currently indicate non-detected arsenic.

Scope of Services:

Engineering firms should examine the town's water system and evaluate the following alternatives:

1. Blending of the two current water sources to achieve arsenic levels within the proposed 0.005 mg/l maximum containment level.

2. Development of a new water source to replace well no. 2 including a hydrological evaluation.

3. Development of arsenic treatment alternatives for well no. 2. Proposed technologies must be capable of meeting the proposed 0.005 mg/l maximum containment level.

The alternatives must be evaluated on feasibility, constructability, life cycle cost analysis, and the ability to meet the long term needs of the system as well as current and proposed drinking water standards.

All consultants interested in being considered for this project must submit six (6) copies each of (1) Letter of Interest (2) Statement of Qualifications and Technical Expertise, (3) Expenence of management and personnel who will be in charge of the project, (4) Examples of Previous Experience as it relates to the scope of services in this request for proposals, and (5) References.

The goal of the competitive process is to objectively select the firm that will provide the highest quality of service for the specified project. Accordingly, technical qualifications and experience will be weighed heavily. The firms judged most qualified will be invited to meet with the Town of Accident to discuss the project in greater detail.

Please submit all requested information to
The Honorable Richard W. Carlson
Mayor, Town of Accident
Town Hall, 104 S. North Street

no later than 2:00 p.m., local time, on Monday, September 27, 2010. Bids will be opened on Tuesday, September 28, 2010, at 6:00 p.m. by the Accident Mayor and Town Council. Qualification packets submitted after this time and date will be returned to the submitting firm unopened.

Attention is directed to the fact that the proposed project could be financed with various state and federal government grants and loans, and that all work will be performed in accordance with the regulations issued by those agencies. The selected firm will be required to comply with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Executive Order 11246, Section 109, of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1974, Section 3 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, Conflict of Interest and Statement and Access to Records provisions and any other agency-specific requirements, and all other requirements as they relate to HUD-funded projects.

The Town of Accident will afford full opportunity to disadvantaged and minority business enterprises to submit a show of interest in response to this invitation, and will not discriminate against any interested firm or individual on the grounds of race, creed, color, sex, age, handicap, or national origin in the contract award.

Custom Cable Locking Mechanism for Car or Rack Use

Great kayak for beginner or expert. Has wide enough beam to be comfortable and steady but narrow enough profile, with length, to also be fast. Rudder pedal controls installed but no ruder - I never needed it. Two water tight dry compartments makes gear storage easy and boat virtually unsinkable. Kayak has been used very little, perhaps only a dozen or so times total, just light lake and river use - no ocean. The boat has been stored inside for the last few years and was stored on a boat rack beforehand. Boat and gear are all clean and in excellent shape. Total package was more than $3K when bought new, asking $1,300 for all, obo. Call Rick at 301-334-1444

TO THE WONDERFUL VOTERS OF GARRETT COUNTY

I am 92 years old and proud to be one of Garrett County's oldest voters. I love Garrett County with a passion and want only the best for the county in the future as it has been in the past. Garrett County has been good to me and my family.

I am very impressed with the service I have been given over the past years in the Register of Wills Office and that especially by Rita Watson. I have needed the services of that office, and I know what it requires to effectively operate that office. I remember the mighty wonderful people who have worked in that office and how graciously I have been treated by all of them.

I am asking you to vote for Rita Watson as she is the most qualified of the four candidates and is the one we need. At my death when my estate is probated, I want to know Rita Watson, Tom Matthews and Heather O'Brien will be there as I want someone who knows what they are doing to protect what I have worked for all my life.

BRINGING IN THE SHEAVES – It is indeed the time of the year when sheaves of cereal plants are gathered and stored for the winter. This bucolic photograph was captured by Lisa Broadwater near Grantsville this week. The activity of sheaf-gathering can be witnessed throughout Garrett County now, as the days grow shorter and the nights cooler. A long dry spell that has left the plants dry was broken with a few showers over the weekend, and then finally more rain this morning. The danger of fire is high as a result of the continued dry weather, and all residents are to be cautious with any outdoor burning.

SWAN MEADOW'S 61ST HARVEST SALE SET – This Gortner history quilt is one of the many unique items to be auctioned this Friday, Sept. 17, at the 61st annual Swan Meadow School Harvest Sale. The event will be held at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, located along Joni Miller Road south of Oakland. Sales of dinner, doughnuts, apple cider, and homemade items will begin at 5:30 p.m. The auction of farm produce and handmade items will start at 7 p.m. The quilt shown by the students in this photo was made by students and parents to celebrate historic events and traditions of the local Gortner community. Five copies of the softcover book Piece a Quilt of Gortner, which is part of the ALTA (Achievement in Living Traditions and Arts) Award winning Gortner Oral History Project, will be available for sale. A rustic hutch made from antique oak by Jeremy Martin and the 8th graders of 2002 will also be among the auction items. All proceeds will benefit the school. For more information, persons may call 301-334-2059.

Possible School Closings Proposed At Board Meeting

The Garrett County Board of Education met last night at Southern Middle School for its regular monthly meeting. Approximately 80 community members were present for the meeting, as superintendent of schools Dr. Wendell Teets gave his proposal on possible school closings.

Bloomington and Kitzmiller elementary schools were recommended for closure, with the final decision set to be made in March. The proposal was an information item on this month's agenda, and board members did not comment.

"I deeply regret these actions, but it is my job to make decisions based on the welfare of the entire student

MLP Man Loses Life In Single-Vehicle Accident

A Mtn. Lake Park man was killed in a single-vehicle accident Sunday on I-68. Maryland State Police investigated the 5:50 p.m. accident that occurred at the 54-mile marker

Marc William Burns, 25, was the rear passenger in a Chevrolet truck driven by Michael Sisler II. Sisler was traveling east, when he lost control of the vehicle, causing him to hit a guardrail and flip the truck end over end. Burns was ejected from the vehicle and then pinned under it when it came to rest. Sisler was trapped inside the truck. Both were transported to Western Maryland Regional Medical Center, where Burns succumbed to his injuries. A second passenger, Michael Sisler Sr., was reportedly treated at the scene.

Fire and rescue units from Flintstone, Baltimore Pike, and the Cumberland fire department, along with the MSP Trooper 5 medevac helicopter, responded to the scene. The eastbound lanes of I-68 were closed for approximately two hours following the accident.

Sisler has been charged with negligent driving.

A full obituary for Mr. Burns appears in the A-section of today's issue

Two Garrett Co. Commissioners Unseated In Tuesday's Primary

Two of Garrett County's three commissioners were defeated in their bids to retain their seats during Tuesday's primary election. The third incumbent won his party's race by about 10 percent.

According to Garrett County Board of Elections unofficial results, 6,431, or 39.56 percent, of the county's 16,256 voters cast ballots on Tuesday. About 730 of those primary voters cast ballots at the county's designated early voting site, the Oakland Community Center, Sept. 3-9.

Gregan Crawford received 55.49 percent of the Republican votes, defeating longtime county commissioner Ernie Gregg in the District 1 race. Crawford will now face Democrat Eric Robison in the Nov. 2 general election. Robison ran unopposed.

Republican Jim Raley received 61.42 percent of the votes in the District 2 county commissioner race, easily defeating three-term incumbent Fred Holliday. Barring a successful write-in campaign, Raley will be unopposed in the general election.

One-term county commissioner Denny Glotfelty fended off three Republican challengers in an effort to retain his District 3 seat. Glotfelty received 41.44 percent of the votes, while Robert Gatto had 31.74 percent, Louis Newcomb had 15.89 percent, and Timothy Thomas had 10.93 percent.

Glotfelty will face Bill Welch in November. Welch defeated George Falter with 75.72 percent of votes on the Democratic ticket.

In another competitive local race, Republican Rita Watson fended off three challengers to retain her job as register of wills. She received nearly 64 percent of the votes. Traci Royce was her closest competitor with 22 percent. John Sines had about 10 percent, and Bryan Paugh received about 4 percent.

No Democrats ran, so Watson will most likely be unopposed in the general election. Watson has served in the register of wills office for more than 30 years, and was assigned to the register's position last year following the retirement of longtime incumbent Joe DiSimone.

In the county sheriff's race, Robert Corley received about 58 percent of the Republican votes, while Larry Gnegy had 42 percent. Corley will run against Democrat Skyler Hebden, who was unopposed in the primary.

One-term sheriff Gary Berkebile did not run for re-election. He narrowly defeated Gnegy, who waged a strong write-in campaign, m the 2006 general election.

Oakland Man To Spend 10 Years In DOC

A 29-year-old Oakland man pleaded guilty last week in Garrett County Circuit Court to second degree burglary. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Ronald Eugene Tasker Jr. to 10 years in the Division of Corrections for second degree burglary.

Related charges against him, including conspiracy to commit burglary and theft, were not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

The charges stem from the Dec. 19, 2009, break-in and burglary of a Wood Products warehouse in Oakland. According to court records, a laptop computer, GPS, miter saw, and various other tools and hardware were taken. The value of the items totaled $2,020.

Video surveillance showed two men taking the

Seasonal Flu, Pneumonia Clinics Scheduled By Health Department

The Garrett County Health Department will be offering seasonal flu and pneumonia immunizations in September, October, and November at walk-in clinics at senior center sites throughout the county, and at the two health department sites at 1025 Memorial Drive, Oakland, and 28 Hershberger Lane, Grantsville.

The health department now has a vaccine supply available to immunize individuals for protection against seasonal influenza. Garrett County health officer Rodney Glotfelty encourages individuals to take advantage of the flu clinics scheduled in the community and recommends the vaccination of all individuals, especially those at increased risk for complications related to the virus.

Updated recommendations from the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) are to vaccinate as soon as vaccine is available and to vaccinate all persons 6 months of age and older, according to a release from the health department. This year's seasonal vaccine includes the component to protect against the H1N1 strain, which was given as a separate shot last year.

All children 6 months to 8 years of age who receive seasonal influenza vaccine for the first time should receive two doses approximately one month apart. Additionally, children in that age group who did not receive at least one dose of H1N1 vaccine last season should receive two doses of 2010-11 seasonal vaccine.

The following persons at higher risk of complications from influenza or likely to

FROM SUMMIT TO SEA – Jesse Shimrock is the first person to climb the highest mountain in North America (Mt. McKinley) and kayak the rivers that the mountain births, from its highest navigable source, all the way to the ocean, in one continuous push. Shimrock, Garrett County native, renowned athlete, extreme kayaker, and adventurer, will present his epoch "Summit2Sea" journey on Wednesday, Sept. 22, at 7 p.m. in the Garrett College auditorium. FIRST LADIES COME TO SHANKSVILLE – First Lady Michele Obama and former First Lady Barbara Bush were within 25 miles of Garrett County Saturday, both taking the podium in Shanksville, Pa., to speak at a ceremony commemorating the 9th anniversary of the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, 2001. The women both lauded the courage and fortitude of the passengers of United Airlines Flight 93. About 5,000 people attended the ceremony. Obama said Americans "were proud. We were awed. We were inspired" by the heroism of a group of passengers who tried to wrestle control of the plane from the hijackers, while others onboard were "giving comfort instead of seeking it" before the plane crashed. Bush said the passengers helped prevent further disaster by thwarting what officials believe was the hijackers' plans to ram the jetliner into a target in Washington. "Nine years ago, in the skies above this field, and in Washington and New York City, we saw the worst of our enemy, and the best of our nation," she said. "We saw that there is evil in the world, but also good at the heart of our country." Although the two first ladies were invited to speak at the ceremony separately, they opted to share the stage. Bush complimented Obama for serving the country "with such grace," while Obama thanked Bush "for being such a source of love and support for the families of Flight 93 and for all her work to help our nation heal in the days and months after the attack." Ginseng Hunters Found Guilty In District Court

Gary Lee Farris, 50, Westernport, and John Darryl Mayhew, 48, Piedmont, W.Va., stood trial in District Court of Maryland in Garrett County on Sept. 8 for a variety of charges for hunting ginseng, according to a release from the Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP).

Farris and Mayhew were found guilty of harvesting ginseng out of season, collecting ginseng without a permit, removing and damaging plants from state lands, and using property of state wild lands for commercial gain.

Farris and Mayhew were fined $500 plus court costs, which were suspended pending a successful completion of one year of unsupervised probation. They were each ordered to pay $500 restitution to NRP for the cost incurred during the search.

The charges were placed by the NRP after they responded to the Savage River State Forest on June 6 for an initial report of a lost hiker, 72-year-old James Lewis Alt, Piedmont.

Further investigation revealed that Alt, Farris, and Mayhew were hunting for ginseng while the season was closed. Alt became separated from Farris and Mayhew at 4 p.m. on June 5 and was located on June 6 at 8:30 p.m. Approximately 65 searchers looked through 6,000 acres of the Savage River State Forest on foot and horseback to find Alt.

Alt was also charged with harvesting ginseng out of season, collecting ginseng without a permit, removing and damaging plants from state lands, and using property of state wild lands for commercial gain. These charges have not yet been scheduled for trial.

Celebrating 10 Years of sewing Garrett County

Election, Protection...

No doubt there has been exhaustive "analysis" of Tuesday's local election results shared by folks throughout Garrett County and beyond since Tuesday's primaries, as the power of incumbency seemed almost non-existent. Two county commissioners did not survive their races for re-election, and the third garnered only about 40% of the vote, meaning about 60% of his party members did not support him.

In neighboring Allegany County, all three incumbent commissioners were ousted by the voters. In the national political arena, many other long-time incumbents are biting the dust.

It seems that the general level of frustration among members of the voting public has reached such a high point, mostly because of the struggling economy, that they really are getting rid of the incumbents in what could be record numbers come November. There is likely an element of unfairness toward certain elected officials, whose actions and/or inactions are really not to blame for the state of the economy. It is hardly the fault of the Garrett County commissioners that the economy of the state and nation is in such a mess. In fact, when comparing Garrett County's financial situation to those of most other counties in the state, we are in relatively good shape, and much of that is thanks to the management of the current commissioners.

One must wonder, though, if there are other factors that brought about the removal of the current commissioners, such as their handling (or, in the opinion of this writer, mishandling) of the wind turbine issue, or perhaps their support of the recreation center at Garrett College (in the opinion of this writer, a very good thing). Could their resistance to any form of county-wide zoning be part of it? Maybe, maybe not.

However, with at least two new commissioners (a majority) assuming those chairs, it is hoped that one of their first orders of business will be taking necessary steps to controlling (or prohibiting) the pending drilling/harvesting of natural gas from Marcellus shale lying under the county via the process known as fracking. The horror stories of this industry are just now starting to surface, some just next door in Pennsylvania, and they are terrifying.

With every well drilled (32,000 per year are planned), a couple million gallons of fresh water are transformed into highly toxic fracking fluid. At this rate, by 2012 100 billion gallons per year of fresh water will be turned into this fluid. The technology to transform it back to drinkable water does not exist, and even if it did, what is to be done with all of those pollutants? Already there have been a number of water sources destroyed in drilling areas.

Money, as usual, is the primary motivation, even greater than the desire to cut our dependence on foreign energy sources. The Marcellus shale shelf has been referred to as "the Saudi Arabia of natural gas." Money was the primary motivator in our county being opened to wind turbines, with virtually no safeguards in place. If the same thing happens with Marcellus shale drilling, the harmful effects of wind turbines will truly pale in comparison to the potential for devastation wrought by fracking.

Much more on this topic in future editorials.

To the Editor:

Claud and I (Brenda Hartsell) would like to thank everyone for their help and prayers during the brush fire on our hill in Eglon. There were fire companies from Aurora, Mt. Grove, Terra Alta, Oakland, Davis, Thomas, Gorman, Rowlesburg, and Bayard, and ambulances from Union and Terra Alta there, plus many wonderful family members, friends, neighbors, and people from our church. Each of you are angels, and words just can't begin to tell you how we feel. Many thanks, and God bless you all.

We have an awesome God, who sent ram Saturday night and, I believe, made my fully charged phone go dead at the time so I didn't receive the message about the fire and then drive home upset.

It was not how I expected to spend my birthday (Claud was to take me out), but our all-night picnic on the hill together, held so we could keep checking for hot spots, was awesome!

To the Editor:

Thirty New York City children found out once again this year just how special summer is in Western Maryland. Fresh Air Fund hosts, volunteers, and local supporters dedicated their time and efforts to help these inner-city youngsters experience simple summertime pleasures, including afternoons of swimming, fishing at sunset, and making s'mores over a campfire.

None of this would be possible without Alice Orendorf, your local Fresh Air Fund volunteer leader, who works throughout the year to make sure host families and children have the opportunity to enjoy memorable summertime experiences together. I invite you to join Alice and the local Fresh Air Fund committee to help spread the word about the wonderful opportunity of hosting next summer.

The Fresh Air Fund, an independent, not-for-profit agency, has provided free summer vacations to over 1.7 million New York City children from low-income communities since 1877. For more information on how you can help to continue this wonderful tradition of volunteering, please call Alice Orendorf at 301-245-4326 or go online to www.freshair.org.

To the Editor:

Animal hoarding is a serious abuse problem that affects not only our Garrett County community, but also communities everywhere.

In a recent case called in to the officers of the Garrett County Humane Society by a concerned citizen, an animal hoarder was found to have abandoned eight dogs without food or water, in days of unbelievable heat. The animals were within hours of dying, and some may be beyond healing since they had been malnourished from birth, such as a 9-month old boxer, which should weigh 40 to 50 lbs., but weighed 17 lbs. when rescued.

Animal hoarding is often a result of obsessive compulsive disorder, or it can be a symptom of the initial stages of dementia. Unfortunately, most hoarders can function quite well in normal situations and because of mental illness, may actually believe they are "saving" animals. Many of them are well educated and possess good communication skills, which allow them to attract sympathy for themselves, even while they are actually mistreating or neglecting the animals. They simply have too many animals to feed and care for. Without psychiatric treatment, animal hoarders have a recidivism rate of 100%.

We ask the public to help us stop the needless suffering and dying of the animals "collected" by hoarders. Residents should be aware of the signs of animal hoarding:

•Unwillingness to let visitors and even family members see the facilities where animals are kept,

•Unwillingness or inability to say how many animals are actually present,

•Little effort made to adopt animals out and much effort focused on acquiring more and more animals, including "finding" and then keeping other people's pets.

Animal hoarders need help. If you know of someone who is hoarding animals, please call the Garrett County Humane Society at 301-334-4470 or the Garrett County Animal Shelter at 301-334-3553. To the Editor:

The annual Art & Wine Festival was held Saturday at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. The festival is sponsored by the Art & Wine Committee, with proceeds going to the American Red Cross.

The Knights of Columbus, Council 1771, Oakland, opens their booth at the fairgrounds during the festival each year, serving their legendary pit beef sandwiches, and donates their profit to the Red Cross.

The Knights and the Red Cross have, for the past few years, pooled their efforts for the benefit of both. For example, to operate the Knights' booth the week of the county fair requires over 200 slots – or people – of five hours each during the course of the week. This year the Red Cross offered to fill the evening shift with eight people on both Monday and Friday, this expenditure of manpower by the Red Cross greatly enhanced the Knights' success during the fair.

So, before the end of the Art & Wine Festival last weekend, Past Grand Knight Daniel Clark, representing Council 1771, sought out Bill Crawford, executive director of the Western Potomac Chapter, American Red Cross, to present the Red Cross a check for $600, which is the estimate of the booth profit during the event.

It is hoped that this collaboration between the Knights and the Red Cross will continue for many years.

Respectfully,
William F. Schrider

To the Editor:

The White House released a presidential proclamation on Sept. 1 declaring September as National Childhood Obesity Awareness Month. With about one in every three American children being obese, it is time that something is done about this problem we are facing.

Obesity is associated with many health risks, including heart disease, diabetes, cancer, and a number of other serious conditions. Predisposing our children to these health risks through obesity is setting them up for a lifetime of medical conditions and expensive medical costs. This is a future I don't think any parents want for their children.

The Task Force on Childhood Obesity was also created to make recommendations on how to deal with the crisis. It has already developed a report that outlines suggestions like "... providing healthier foods in schools, ensuring access to healthy affordable food, increasing opportunities for physical activity ..." These, among various other steps, will help our nation get back on track for healthier lives.

I am glad something is finally being done. I am surprised that it took a third of the American children to be affected by this for something to be done, but it's better late than never. Nutrition education is so important for children. If we start them at a young age with good, stable, and nutritious eating habits, it will follow them throughout life. If we teach them that eating pizza and drinking soda every day is a healthy way to live, well, it's hard to break bad habits. Not impossible, but hard. And don't forget that your local office of the University of Maryland Extension can help!

To the Editor:

Having worked in the field of education all of my adult life, I have seen many trends come and go. I've even been around long enough to see some old trends reappear in new packages.

Current buzz words in education include Differentiated Instruction and Universal Design for Learning. Differentiated Instruction (DI) involves providing students with different avenues to acquiring content; to processing, constructing, or making sense of ideas; and to developing teaching materials so that all students within a classroom can learn effectively, regardless of differences in ability.

Universal Design for Learning (UDL) is a framework for designing educational environments that enable all learners to gain knowledge, skills, and enthusiasm for learning. This is accomplished by simultaneously reducing barriers to the curriculum and providing rich supports for learning.

To summarize DI and UDL in layman's terms, it comes down to good old common-sense teaching. It's all about accepting each student exactly where he or she is and doing what needs to be done to take that student toward an individual goal.

As the principal of Accident Elementary School, I see examples of great teaching on a daily basis, but this summer I had the opportunity to experience the principles of Differentiated Instruction and Universal Design for Learning from a different perspective. I had the very fortunate opportunity to be a student in Jen Sober's running class through Garrett College's Continuing Education Program. The skill level of the students in this class ranged from marathon trainers to beginning runners and everything in between. Jen individualized the class for each student and personalized the program to ensure that individual goals were met. There were no buzzards or bluebirds in the group. It was simply a group of people working together at very different paces (pun intended!) toward meeting individual goals. That's good old common-sense teaching at its best!

To the Editor:

Would someone please explain the Liberty Mews development on Liberty Road in Oakland?

According to press reports, these elegant-looking townhomes are supposed to be "workforce housing," courtesy of the infamous American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, better known as the "Stimulus." In other words, it's funded out of taxpayers' wallets.

Arguably two years ago there was a pressing need for workforce housing in Garrett County. Home construction was booming, there weren't enough laborers to fill the need. Anyone can see that's hardly the case today. The only thing being built is Liberty Mews.

This project is providing a few dozen short-term jobs at the most. At the same time, there are a lot of folks in Garrett County who don't qualify for workforce housing and whose mortgages are under water.

I have nothing against affordable housing, but is this really the best use of millions of dollars in taxpayer money as Maryland faces a $2 billion budget deficit? Next year's budget is likely to include teacher layoffs and other draconian measures.

It's too late to stop Liberty Mews now, it'll be finished soon. But the next time you drive by, blow it a kiss! After all, you paid for it.

To the Editor:

I'm just thinking, on this lovely day, that no matter how many roads, oversized houses, electric power lines, cell phone towers, wind turbines, or heavy snows cover our landscape, this is a wonderful place to live. Just reading the local paper lifts my spirits – from good news of the schools, companies going green, creative events and creative giving, corporate funding of events and programs, special people doing special things, to the editor's column. It's good to see people sharing their ideas, too, helping others to learn and understand different perspectives. This helps us all to grow and to seek cooperation for the good of the community.

It's nice to see so much interest in this election cycle – more candidates for more dialogue and helpful media based information. I know change comes hard to many, but I think our county commissioners have done very well by the county for years. Change has usually brought blessings – including more business and jobs.

I'm glad we have benefitted from federal monies lately that helped out with various county needs. I wish more people knew of the work the CCC men did for our county – the parklands they created bring us bountiful good. That federal program from President Roosevelt during the Depression brought jobs to many, including my dad, a project superintendent. Franklin Roosevelt was criticized for being Catholic and a socialist – he was neither.

Actually, Germany, a social democracy, is ahead of us economically, with plenty of manufacturing jobs, good wages right now. That does not mean they are socialists. But, it does mean their form of democracy is doing well by its people.

Our capitalist system needs to do better. Our corporations and our elected officials need to do better. Let's all pull together and say a great big "Yes" to moving forward with an attitude of "we're all in this together," so we can all do better.

Your great editorial brought to mind the following quote: "First they came for the Communists, but I was not a Communist. Then they came for the Socialists and the Trade Unions, but, I was neither, so I did not speak out. Then they came for the Jews, so I did not speak out. And then they came for me. There was no one left to speak for me." It was a quote of Dietrich Bonhoeffer, committed Christian, who died in 1945 in a Nazi concentration camp. Thanks for speaking out.

Incumbent Lisa Thayer Welch had no Republican challengers in the state's attorney race. There were also no Democratic candidates on the primary ballot.

Republican Sondra Buckel also ran unopposed in her bid to keep her seat as clerk of the Garrett County Circuit Court. Buckel is the court's former chief deputy clerk and was assigned the position of clerk following the death of Dave Martin.

No Democrats ran on the primary ballot, and barring a write-in campaign Buckel will be unopposed in the general election.

One-term Republican incumbent Wendell Beitzel will face Democrat James Stanton in November for the District 1-A Maryland House of Delegates seat. Both candidates ran unopposed in the primary.

Sen. George Edwards faced no Republicans in the primary and will have no Democratic challengers in November in his effort retain his District 1 state Senate seat.

U.S. Sixth District Congressman Roscoe Bartlett easily defeated his Republican challengers in his bid for a 10th term. Bartlett received nearly 78 percent of the local votes for his party. Steve Taylor had about 9.2 percent; J. Kyryszto?orski, 5.52; Seth Wilson, 5.2; and Dennis Janda, 2.37.

Bartlett now faces Democrat Andrew Duck, who received 64 percent of his party's local vote, defeating opponent Casey Clark. Bartlett faced Duck, an Army veteran, in 2006.

The longest-serving woman in the U.S. Senate, Barbara Mikulski, easily defeated her fellow Democratic opponents. The Baltimore native got about 73 percent of the local votes. Her closest challenger, Christopher Garner, received about 12 percent of the local votes.

Mikulski will face Eric Wargotz, a Queen Anne's County commissioner, in November. Wargotz was one of 11 candidates vying for GOP approval.

Locally, he received 32.47 percent of the votes. Wargotz's closest opponent, Jim Rutledge, had nearly 15 percent, while Joseph Alexander received 13.09 percent, or 495 votes.

Current Maryland governor Martin O'Malley, a Democrat, will have a rematch with former governor Robert Ehrlich in November. The two squared off in 2006.

In Tuesday's primary, O'Malley and Lt. Gov. Anthony Brown received nearly 77 percent of the Democratic votes. J.P. Cusick had 16 percent, and Ralph Jaffe had 7 percent.

Ehrlich and his running mate, Mary Kane of Montgomery County, received more than 74 percent of the local Republican vote, while their opponents, Brian Murphy and Mike Ryman, had only about 26 percent.

Incumbent comptroller Peter Franchot ran unopposed on the Democratic ticket, and will face Republican William Campbell in the General Election. Campbell, a former Amtrak financial officer, received about 61 percent of the local vote.

Democrat Douglas Gansler will retain his job as Maryland's attorney general. He ran unopposed in the primary and will have no GOP challengers in November.

Early voting for the general election is set for Friday, Oct. 22, through Thursday, Oct. 28, at the Oakland Community Center, 14 N. Eighth Street, Oakland. The hours of operation will be 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. every day during that period except Sunday.

GC Farm Queen Receives Maryland Dairy Scholarship

A $4,000 Maryland Dairy Scholarship was recently presented to Andrea K. Steyer, Oakland, at the Maryland State Fair during the dairy awards program.

A graduate of Garrett College, Andrea is in her junior transfer year at West Virginia University, where her major is animal nutritional sciences and agribusiness management. While at Garrett College, she was inducted into the National Honor Society and earned her associate in applied science degree with a major in mathematics and science.

At WVU, Steyer will be working in the Davis College of Agriculture, Natural Resources, and Design, and she plans to become involved in Dairy Club, dairy judging, and collegiate FFA. She has been active on her family's farm, and involved in 4-H, FFA, and Holstein activities. She was the 2008 Garrett County Farm Queen and has exhibited many reserve champion and champion animals at the Garrett County shows.

She plans to become certified to write nutrition management plans in the state of Maryland, and she is taking classes that will be needed to apply to veterinarian school. The agribusiness classes will allow her to apply for various agriculturally related businesses in her local area. She also plans to continue helping her parents Randall and Kay Steyer on the farm as well as showing her cattle.

Scholarships are available to all Maryland dairy youth who belong to a junior breed association and who has/is carrying a dairy project. Funding is provided by a friend of 4-H and the dairy industry.

Applications are due by July 1, and it is encouraged that all eligible youth apply. More information can be obtained by contacting Arthur and Peggy Johnson, co-chairs, at 301-972-8274.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

I can't believe my eyes! I saw the first blush of autumn color on the trees in my woods.

I had to go back and forth between the Pirates game and the Steelers game. Neither was a great game for either Pittsburgh team, but they were able to win both. It is very sad to watch baseball be replaced by football. It is another sign that our lovely summer has slipped into our equally lovely autumn. But I'd rather have summer last longer.

Even though it's a bright sunny day, the air temperature has dropped sharply, especially when you add the Bittinger wind chill. Well, there's nothing I can do about it but just get more depressed. Facing a long, cold, snowy winter is not something to celebrate, unless you are a skier.

One of my favorite things about this time of year is the taste of fresh Concord grapes from the vines I planted myself many years ago. Naomi Beitzel said I have a good crop this year. Dark-colored fruits are very good for you.

This coming weekend is an important one for my daughters and their cousins. Saturday afternoon is the big football game between the University of Maryland and West Virginia University in Morgantown. We expect that a big gang from downstate Maryland, including the Bass kids – Emma, Scotty, and Matthew – and also Zach Beitzel and Brook DuBose, will go over to Morgantown to meet and greet my Mountaineer girls, Mere and Caitlin. It's possible that Claire may come up. I hope so. No doubt Bill and Sheila Southerly will go over to cheer on West Virginia, and Kevin Bass is also an alumni of WVU.

Another somewhat divisible issue around Bittinger is which professional football team people support. I think the majority root for the Steelers, but a handful of people like the Redskins, including Claire and Gary Buckel. But Claire is wavering between the Redskins and the Baltimore Ravens. The Steelers got a victory over the Atlanta Falcons, and the Redskins were able to beat the Dallas Cowboys, my least favorite team.

I don't know which university has the stronger team this year. Most times, it is pretty much an even match.

Various non-profit groups are facing lower resources because people just do not have much money to donate to them. I am so sad to throw away fundraising mail from organizations like Feed the Children or other similar groups.

I couldn't walk past a Salvation Army bucket without putting in as much money as possible. And I always used to give something to too many homeless panhandlers. But a wealthy person is much less likely to donate to anyone, because they believe they earn their money and they deserve to keep all of it.

Most of them believe that they are Christians. They might go to church regularly and try to keep the Ten Commandments; except that the greatest commander Jesus Christ said, "Love your neighbors as you love yourself." Some claim a loophole that if someone is somehow inferior to them, they don't qualify as a neighbor. Or they think, "Well, they have some family or are members of some church. They should bear the primary responsibility for someone who has nothing or almost nothing."

If you think it couldn't happen to you – I mean being really poor – you would be surprised at how fast things can really change if, God forbid, you were suddenly hit with an unexpected serious health crisis. That is what I believed about my life 15 or so years ago. I felt completely secure, and I imagined I would be able to support myself and my girls for a long time.

But I am facing uncertainty about whether I can afford to buy heating oil or if I can pay my next income taxes. I had to withdraw some money from one of my life insurance policies so I could pay my property taxes, and maybe I will qualify for Medicaid, although Medicare is a huge help for me. But it doesn't cover everything, and I don't feel like I can afford to go to the doctor. Anyway, I'm afraid that if I go to a doctor, he or she might find something seriously wrong with me. Then I would face going into bankruptcy.

I don't believe in tax cuts for the wealthiest Americans, those 2 percent of Americans who hold 95% of the wealth. That lopsidedness is clearly the reason our economy is so weak. I don't believe that if they keep taxes cut that for some reason or in some way they will create jobs. And will there be any stimulus effect if they can spend money? They don't need anything. Another car? Or redecorate their already luxurious living quarters? They are pretty maxed out as consumers, or they should be by this time.

The rest of Americans are just barely scraping by, with 20 percent who are really impoverished.

A lot of the East Coast members of the Oral Glotfelty family will head to the Pacific Northwest for the wedding of my first cousin Penney Hummel of Portland, Ore. But the wedding will be at the home of her parents Roth and Betty Hummel in Olympia, Wash. I am sure it will be a wonderful reunion and family get-together.

I enjoyed a visit from my dear high school friend Marla Frickey. She spent most of the weekend with her mother, stepfather, and big sister Bernice in McBrag, Pa., which is near Harrisburg.

Although it's a beautiful day this Sunday, it definitely feels more like football than baseball weather, especially when our wind is blowing this hard.

If you believe America could use more tolerance of different kinds of people, other races, or religious cultures and ethnic backgrounds, you can do something about it. We will never return America to the country it was during the 1950s and 1960s when most rights and opportunities went to the white middle class, or the America often referred to by the Tea Party people when they say, "I want my America back."

They are mistaken that they actually own America. Remember, the European settlers took away the home that the Native Americans had for millions of years by genocide or driving them to a small piece of undesirable land called a reservation, where America's opportunities are out of their reach. And now they are enduring serious prejudice. That is as bad a stain on our national character as slavery. Both were terrible.

We can't change our past, but we can try to build a better America: more tolerant and just. One way is to donate money to the Southern Poverty Law Center at 400 Washington Avenue, Montgomery, AL 36104. Besides their original mission to fight against hate crimes, now they provide educational material to help our teachers to teach tolerance.

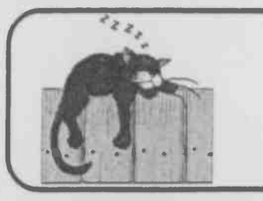

If you send at least $20, you will get one of the finest books I ever read, A Lawyer's Journey. It is the story of one young lawyer who chose law to help victims of hate crimes. He risked his life with the KKK. It is unusual to see many people who are willing to sacrifice their own best interest to benefit the wider best interest. Believe me, you can't find a better use of your $20.

The three churches of the Bittinger Lutheran Parish are collecting items for the Bittinger Food Pantry, specifically personal care and breakfast items. All donations will be appreciated, and may be dropped off at the church.

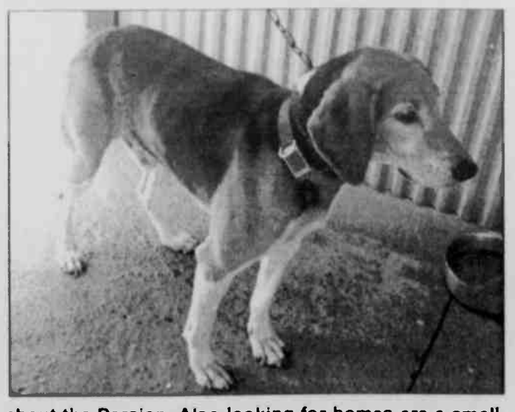

The Bittinger Parish has been studying religions of the world, and this series is presently looking at the Islam religion. This study meets on Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m., and all are invited to participate.

Adorable Adoptables

GARNER A GOOD FATE by adopting this very hyper, male Jack Russell mix named Karma, above left, who was given up by his owner. Also available for adoption at the Garrett County Animal Shelter are a rust colored male Lab mix, above center, who was picked up as a stray; a very docile male hound, above right, and male yellow mix canine, below left, who were brought in together as strays; and a white female Persian feline, below right. "She looks sad, but is very friendly and needs a warm loving home and someone to brush her," said a Humane Society spokesperson about the Persian. Also looking for homes are a small white/black dog named Bandit, a rusty chow mix named Bear, a young female black/white tuxedo feline, and a female longhaired orange/white tabby cat. "One dog was adopted last week; one dog was reclaimed this week; and some kittens were taken to rescue groups by HART," said the spokesperson. "But there are still many homeless pets." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday.

Special Events Set At Church At Bear Creek

The public is invited to attend special events at the Bear Creek Church of the Brethren, scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 25, through Wednesday, Sept. 29. The church will sponsor a community dinner of chicken and dumplings from 5 to 7 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 25. There is no charge for the dinner, but donations will be accepted.

Sunday's 10:30 a.m. worship service with Pastor Kevin Staggs presiding will be preceded by Sunday school at 9:30 a.m.

Revival services will be held at 7 p.m. each evening from Sunday, Sept. 26, through Wednesday, Sept. 29, with Rev. Lewis Beachy as guest revivalist. Rev. Beachy serves as pastor of the Mountain Dale Church of the Brethren. Special revival music will be provided each evening.

The music will be provided by the following: Sunday, Carl Fike; Monday, Anchored; Tuesday, the Mt. View School; and Wednesday, the Remley Family.

Pastor Staggs and the congregation invite the public to attend these special events and services. The church is located at 1088 Brethren Church Road just past Accident Elementary School.

Bittinger Church To Host "Living Well" Workshop

A new Living Well with Chronic Conditions workshop will begin on Monday, Oct. 4, from 9:30 a.m. until noon at Emmanuel Lutheran Church in Bittmger. All are welcome.

Living Well with Chronic Conditions is a free six-week series sponsored by Garrett County Area Agency on Aging/Community Action to improve health management.

"Folks with chronic conditions such as diabetes, depression, heart disease, stroke, arthritis, and lung disease suffer with common problems and symptoms, including pain, loss of energy, sleep problems, depression, breathing problems, and concern for the future," said a spokeswoman.

She noted that the workshops teach participants to manage symptoms, communicate effectively with doctors and caregivers, lessen frustration, fight fatigue, make daily tasks easier, and "get more out of life."

Participants will meet for 2½ hours, once a week for six weeks. Two trained instructors will introduce new material each week and facilitate group discussions.

The Living Well Program is made possible by funding under the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 and with funds granted to the Maryland Department on Aging by the Federal Administration on Aging.

To register for the workshop, persons may call Cathy Paine at 301-746-8232 or e-mail her at cpaine@garrettcac.org.

Garrett College Classes Are Not Just For Kids

by Peggy Santamaria

On a sunny September afternoon, Garrett College students spill from the classrooms to begin the weekend. Among those heading for the parking lot after a long week of classes are William Goldsborough and Zelma Neary, who carpool to the campus each day. What sets these classmates apart from the others is that Zelma is William's grandmother.

Though Zelma is following a different curriculum than William, they are both in the same history class this semester. William admits that at first it seemed a little strange to have his grandmother in school with him, but that he quickly adapted to the idea.

William also sees his grandmother in a new light.

"I am very proud of her," he said. "She wants to learn, and that's great. It is good to see her able to adapt to all the new technology that wasn't there before when she was in school," he said.

READY TO CARPOOL HOME after classes at Garrett College are fellow students William Goldsborough and his grandmother, Zelma Neary.

Since 1995, Zelma has enrolled in Garrett College classes whenever possible.

"I married young and had three children. It wasn't until I got older that I was able to go back to school," she explained while sitting in the Lakers' Café on a lunch break.

At first Zelma wanted to earn a certificate in early childhood education, which she accomplished in 2000. Later, when an associate's degree was offered in this program, she completed the coursework for that.

"I would love to work in early childhood education some day, perhaps in a Head Start program," she said.

In addition to earning her degree, Zelma says she learned something about herself: Once she had started back to school, she just didn't want to stop

"I just love to learn, and there is so much that I want to know about," she said. "I think that when you get older you can appreciate more and understand that there are so many interesting things out there."

Earth science was one of Zelma's favorite classes. She found that she could apply what she learned in the classroom to the world around her

"I could look at the woods and valleys and see mist, and I understood what caused it. It was fascinating just to learn about the things we see every day," she said.

Growing up in Essex, England, Zelma studied mostly English and European history.

"I guess because it is new to me, I find American history fascinating. But I think all history is so interesting. It is the story that is never finished being written," she said.

Her zeal for learning has kept Zelma's grades above average. The lowest grade she has received at Garrett was a B. She also credits the faculty at the college for the comfortable and supportive atmosphere they foster in the classrooms.

"The teachers are all so helpful when you have been out of school for a long time," she said. "My math teacher really had a lot of patience with me. I couldn't even use a calculator when I started," she said with a laugh.

Zelma believes that older students have much to contribute to the classroom.

"We have a lot to offer the younger students because we see things differently as a result of living longer," she said, adding, "and the younger ones have a lot to offer us."

Wilt Will Teach Personal Finance Class For Youth

SARAH WILT

Garrett College is offering a two-session course titled "The Real World of Credit Cards, Checking Accounts, and Loans" designed to help prepare high school students and other young adults for the real world of finances.

Sarah Wilt, certified bookkeeper, certified QuickBooks ProAdvisor, and payroll administrator, will instruct students in the basic concepts of managing personal finances. The classes will be offered Wednesday, Sept. 22, and Wednesday, Sept. 29, from 6 to 9 p.m. on the McHenry campus.

"This is a very important class for young people who are entering the world of personal finance," said Maney Gale, GC program coordinator for Continuing Education & Workforce Development.

The class will explain bank accounts, check books, credit cards, and loans, including student loans.

"Learning how to manage money can help students to avoid credit problems that can follow them for years to come," said Gale.

Wilt, who is currently serving as the interim small-business advisor for Garrett County, teaches a variety of courses for the college, including bookkeeping, QuickBooks, and budgeting. She lives in Grantsville with her family

For more information on this class or others offered at Garrett College, persons may contact Maney Gale at 301-387-3086 or via e-mail at: maney.gale@garrettcollege.edu

The Arts

"BLUES, BLING, AND BLUE JEANS" is a fundraiser being held this weekend by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival. The unique table setting for the dinner dance is pictured, highlighting the theme of the evening. Guests are invited to wear their blue jeans and their best "bling," a GLAF spokesperson said. The event will be held tomorrow evening, Sept. 17, at the McHenry Lodge at Wisp Resort. The music will be provided by the Bobby Nicholas Band, a group from Pittsburgh specializing in styles of contemporary, country, rhythm and blues, and jazz. Hors d'oeuvres will be served at 6 p.m., with dinner at 7 p.m. Tickets are $75 per person with a cash bar. A portion of each ticket is tax deductible. "This event is GLAF's fundraiser to wrap up our 2010 season," the spokesperson said. "Proceeds from this dance will help Garrett Lakes Arts Festival continue to present high-quality performing arts for Garrett County audiences." Persons may reserve tickets by going to the web site at www.artsandentertainment.org or by calling the GLAF office at 301-387-3082.

Reservations Now Open For OTT's Children's Play

Reservations are now available for Our Town Theatre's first production of the new season, which is a 30- to 40-minute children's play called The Stone in the Road.

The play was adapted for the stage by Jane Avery and the cast comprises 24 youngsters from ages 5 to 13.

"It is a particularly wonderful presentation for children," Avery said, "but adults will find it charming as well."

All tickets are $2 per person. Performances are scheduled for Oct. 1 and 2, both at 7 p.m., and Sunday, Oct. 3, at 2 p.m.

To make reservations, persons should call the theatre at 301-334-5640, ext. 1, and follow the directions on the answering machine.

WHOSE LIVE ANYWAY?* COMING TO WVU – Fans of the former TV series Whose Line Is It Anyway? now have the opportunity to see a reuniting of the cast live on stage. The show, titled Whose Live Anyway? and featuring original members of the television program, will be given at the West Virginia University Lyell B. Clay Concert Theatre, Creative Arts Center, on Friday, Sept. 24. Whose Line Is It Anyway? was a British television show in the late 1980s and was featured as an American spinoff years later with mostly different performers, with Drew Carey as host. The cast in the live show will feature comedians Greg Proops, Chip Esten, Jeff Dawes, and Whose Line mainstay Ryan Stiles. The event is the result of the collaboration between Joshua Williamson, WVU's Division of Theater chairman, and WVU theatre division alumnus and illusionist Josh Knotts. Although the troupe is scheduled to perform at WVU's premiere theatre, it is not a WVU Box Office event, but instead is a special charity performance to raise money for WVU's Division of Theatre. Tickets are available online at www.ticketweb.com, by calling 304-479-0987, or through e-mail at morgantowntickets@gmail.com. Prices range from $40 to $70.

items. Garrett County sheriff's deputies identified one of them as Tasker, based on their knowledge of him from a previous theft case.

Recovery of the stolen computer implicated a 30-year-old Oakland man as Tasker's alleged accomplice. His trial is scheduled for Jan. 5, 2011.

In an unrelated case, Jarrod Olin Wilburn, 28, Grantsville, pleaded guilty in the Circuit Court last week to possession of heroin. Related charges were dismissed upon his plea.

Judge Sherbin then sentenced him to three years in the Division of Corrections. Wilburn was also ordered to forfeit $173.

He was arrested and charged by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force in May. Investigators executed a search and seizure warrant at his Grantsville apartment and located a quantity of heroin, drug paraphernalia and the cash.

In other court proceedings, charges including child abuse, third and fourth degree sex offenses, and assault against Jeremy Colt Moyers, 27, Accident, were dismissed by the state last week. State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch cited "evidence that has been obtained since the charges were filed" as the reason for the dismissal.

School Closings

population," said Teets. "These schools have the highest costs of operation and the lowest attendance."

The estimated loss of state funding, based on the 99-student drop in enrollment, is approximately $1 million. It is projected that this decline will continue for the next 9 to 10 years. The board also had a carry-over of $700,000 last year that it will not receive this year, and $350,000 in retirement funds will possibly change this year depending on state and local funding.

Garrett County schools will receive about $832,000 over the next four years from Race to the Top, but those funds are dedicated specifically to innovation and improvement programs.

Teets estimated that approximately $835,166 will be saved by closing both Bloomington and Kitzmiller schools. If the schools close, students currently at Kitzmiller will attend Yough Glades Elementary School, and students currently attending Bloomington will be absorbed into Broad Ford Elementary School.

He stated that the advisory boards, made up of administrative staff, parents, and community members, will be organized within the next week. Public hearings will be scheduled for November and announced at the October board meeting. It is the job of the advisory boards to evaluate the pros and cons relative to each area and school. All elementary schools will be evaluated. The finals reports will be given in December.

Four individuals were given the floor to present public comment on the proposal. One of the points made was that classroom size would greatly be affected at the two schools absorbing these students. Also mentioned was the affect these closings will have on the communities of these small towns.

"We need to give families a reason to stay, not a reason to leave," slated former Bloomington resident Greg Harvey, who operates a basketball league at Bloomington School, which

Personal Interest Courses Slated At Northern Center

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division has announced a variety of personal interest courses being offered in October through its Northern Outreach Center (NOC) in Grantsville.

They are Grant Writing, Cake Decorating I, Conversational Spanish, Basic Genealogy Techniques, Creating Coiled Yarn Baskets, Estate Planning: The Importance of Wills and Trusts, and Stress Relief: A Workshop.

• Grant Writing will be held on Mondays, Oct. 4 and 11, from 6:30 to 9 p.m. This introductory workshop is for those who are unsure of how to write a grant, approach funding sources, or make grant dollars work for their needs.

Participants will learn how to find and track federal, state, and local grant programs as well as foundation grants and corporate giving.

The instructor, GC dean of administration Jo Gilman, will present methods of writing effective grant proposals, which concentrate on the following: the essential components of a grant proposal package, how to customize a proposal to match a grantor's interest, how to initially approach a funder, and the differences between government and foundation proposals.

In addition, the course will demonstrate ways to report on a grant's progress and impact, how to develop working relationships with grant makers, what to do if a proposal is denied, and the types of decisions that determine proposal acceptance and denial.

• Cake Decorating I is set for four consecutive Tuesdays beginning Oct. 5 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Bonnie Goebel, a Wilton instructor, will teach the basics of cake decorating, including icing, preparing the bags, cake preparation, three essentials of decoration, tips, coloring the icing, star fill-in, basic borders, writing and printing, shell border, figure piping, leaves and vines, and the Wilton rose.

The instructor will decorate a cake during the first lesson and show the equipment that is to be purchased for the succeeding lessons. Students will bring cakes to class to decorate for the last three weeks of the course. A supply list is available upon registration.

• Conversational Spanish is slated for six consecutive Wednesdays beginning on Oct. 13 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Instructor Lizeth Jaramillo, assistant coordinator of residence life at Garrett College, will provide an introduction to Spanish pronunciation, basic vocabulary, and common phrases for simple conversations.

Jaramillo graduated from William Paterson University in northern New Jersey, where she took various courses in Latin American history, Spanish language and grammar, and literature. She is fluent in Spanish and familiar with Latino culture.

• Basic Genealogy Techniques will be held on six consecutive Thursdays beginning on Oct. 14 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The course will be taught by Hannah Gnegy, a native of Garrett County who is the genealogy specialist for the Ruth Enlow Library.

Gnegy will explain family and home sources for genealogical information, how to read and understand records and census information, and methods of investigating vital records. In addition, students will be shown the difference between computer and book-based research.

• Creating Coiled Yarn Baskets will be held on Wednesdays, Oct. 20 and 27, from 6 to 9:15 p.m.

Coiling is a traditional basket making technique practiced around the world in which natural plant materials including reeds, grasses and pine needles have been used. In this course, students will use yarn, rope, and needles to create baskets of various sizes and shapes.

The instructor will provide needles, needle threaders, rope, and scissors. Students will provide one skein of smooth variegated yarn and/or two to three solid colors (no chenille or boucle type fuzzy yarns).

• Estate Planning: The Importance of Wills and Trusts will be held on Mondays, Oct. 18 (part one) and Oct. 25 (part two), from 6 to 9:15 p.m.

An estate plan provides the legal mechanism for disposing of property upon death in a way that recognizes the individual's wishes and the needs of survivors, while minimizing taxes.

This type of planning can also include the desired methods of handling of affairs in case of disability, as well as the personal medical choices to be made as life nears its end. This course will address common questions regarding wills and trusts.

Part one will center on wills and probate. The class will focus on such issues as what a will is and what does it does, how to draft a will, how to choose an executor, and what percentage of assets do are needed as a commission for the executor. The probate process will also be explained. Rita Watson, register of wills for Garrett County, will be the instructor for this part of the course.

Part two of the course will focus on trusts. Included in the discussion will be trust basics with a definition of terms and its variations. Some other topics will include comparing living trusts, testamentary trusts and wills, disposition of property outside of probate, some related tax issues, and specialized trusts and estate planning tools.

This portion of the course is being instructed by local lawyer Danny Staggers, who specializes in trusts and elder care law.

• Stress Relief: A Workshop will be held on Saturday, Oct. 30, from 9 a.m. to noon. Local certified yoga instructor Peggy Santamaria will be the instructor.

Participants will examine personal stressors in their lives and then focus on their own physical and mental responses to stress. Once each person has identified major stress factors and their impacts, a variety of options will be explored for mitigating the negative effects of the stress response.

Techniques explored will include simple stretches to relax muscles and breathing skills to reduce the effects of stress.

The workshop will also consider the effects of music, guided imaging, and quiet on the stressed mind and body.

For additional information, persons may contact Terry Beachy, Northern Outreach Center director, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for these courses, one may call the Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

Rams Score 55 Unanswered Points To Exterminate Jackets

The Southern High School varsity football team scored 55 unanswered points to manhandle host Moorefield, 55-7, last Friday.

It was the Yellow Jackets who stung first, taking a 7-0 lead in the first quarter via a Brandon Cassell six-yard TD run and successful conversion boot by Brian Mitchell. But that would be the end of the scoring for the home team, as the Rams controlled the remainder of the game on both the offensive and defensive sides of the football.

"We were able to control the line of scrimmage; that was the key," said Southern head coach Steve Savage. "We controlled both the offensive and defensive fronts, and Ryan Bennett and Bubba Scheffel really played well for us on both sides of the football."

Southern's defense was impressive, coming away with three turnovers on the evening. Joe Kisselovich also picked off a pass and returned it for a 30-yard touchdown late, and Logan Stewart and Tim Glotfelty both recovered fumbles for the Rams.

Zack Knotts put the first Ram points on the board, scoring on a seven-yard carry early in the second quarter. Jake Bramande booted the first of seven extra points for the game to knot the score at 7-7.

Knotts gave the Rams the lead for good on their next possession, receiving a 30-yard TD strike from Scheffel, and just before halftime, Mason Dick hauled in a 10-yard scoring pass from Scheffel. Bramande's subsequent extra points gave Southern a 21-7 lead at intermission.

The third quarter featured a pair of touchdowns by fullback Kody Sanders, the first on a 33-yard carry and the second with a three-yard run. Bramande hit one of two extra points to give the Rams a comfortable 34-7 lead going into the final quarter.

It was early in the fourth that Kisselovich recorded his 30-yard interception return for a touchdown. That was followed by a four-yard scoring run by Ryan Bennett, and a 39-yard TD carry by Kurt Gangler, which put the mercy rule into effect. Bramande successfully hit all three extra points.

"Everything went our way Friday night," said Savage. "We caught all the bounces, and the turnovers went our way. We got down 7-0 right off the bat, but then we settled in and played Southern football. We ran the football well, which enabled us to mix in the pass."

Knotts, Sanders, and Scheffel led the offensive onslaught, with Knotts reaching the century mark with 106 yards via the rush. Scheffel tacked on 89 more markers on the ground, and was 5-for-7 through the air, with two of those tosses ending up in the end zone. Sanders finished with 95 yards on just nine carries.

Trae Smith had an interception for the Yellow Jackets, accounting for Southern's lone miscue in the contest.

Southern (1-1) will host its home opener this Friday against 2-0 Hampshire. The Trojans rolled through its first two opponents, Bishop Walsh and Preston, as head coach Darren Grace continues his turn-around of the Trojans.

"Hampshire is very good," said Savage. "I think they will be the best team we have faced up front, even better than Allegany. They are a well coached, disciplined team, and they have incredible team speed."

In a rare Thursday night game, Brent Walter rushed for 198 yards on 23 carries and scored two touchdowns to lead a Trojan offense that amassed 539 total yards in a 47-28 blowout over Bishop Walsh in Romney.

SOUTHERN (55)
MOOREFIELD (7)
Southern 0 21 13 21 - 52
Moorefield 7 0 0 0 - 7

First Quarter
M - Brandon Cassell 6 run (Brian Mitchell kick).

Second Quarter
S - Zack Knotts 7 run (Jake Bramande kick).
S - Knotts 30 pass from Bubba Scheffel (Bramande kick).
S - Mason Dick 10 pass from Scheffel (Bramande kick).

Third Quarter
S - Kody Sanders 33 run (Bramande kick).
S - Sanders 3 run (kick failed).

Fourth Quarter
S - Joe Kisselovich 30 interception retum (Bramande kick).
S - Ryan Bennett 4 run (Bramande kick).
S - Kurt Gangler 39 run (Bramande kick).

Hampshire had three players rush for over 100 yards. Denard Hartwell, a backup, ran for 129 yards and two touchdowns on only eight carries. Fullback Joe Spalding touched the football only 11 times, but still came away with 119 yards.

"Those backs are faster than any we have faced so far, and add in a line that averages about 230 up front, and they cause some real problems," said Savage. "Then they send a 220-pound fullback at you to change the pace and pound you."

The Trojans used that trio of backs to rack up 539 yards on the ground and to eat up over 28 minutes of clock. All but three of Hampshire's 61 offensive plays were hand-offs.

Defensively the Trojans will run out of a base 4-4 and, according to Savage, the scout team should not have many problems mimicking Hampshire this week.

"They do a lot of the same stuff we do on offense and defense," he said. "Watching them on film kind of felt like we were watching ourselves. The scouting truly has been like breaking down our own films."

Friday's kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

Baker-Bosley TD Pass In Final Seconds Gives Huskies A Win

Northern High School's Alex Baker connected with Jake Bosley on a 16-yard touchdown pass with just 27 seconds left in the game to lift the Huskies to a 21-16 win and hold off a comeback by visiting Williamsport at the Cove Friday night in Accident.

It was the second straight week the Wildcats (0-2) lost a game in the final seconds, but Bosley ended the contest in much the same fashion it began to give the Huskies (1-1) their first win of the season in their home-opener.

Bosley caught eight passes for 70 yards in the contest, but none were bigger than his first and last. He tipped a pass to himself and came up with a circus-catch TD for the game's initial score at the 2:46 mark of the first quarter.

The aerial from quarterback Patrick Sines was batted by the Wildcats' Tyler Shank, but Bosley was able to maintain control and the football. Zach Meyers' kick made it 7-0.

Northern's effective running game opened up the pass all night long, and the Huskies got all three of their touchdowns through the air – and all were in long-yardage situations.

The second big pass play capped a 17-play, 66-yard drive, with Sines causing the defense to hesitate with a pump fake, then finding Cody Rodeheaver for a 10-yard score on fourth-and-goal with 6:14 left in the second quarter. Sines ran in the two-point conversion to give the Huskies a 15-0 lead.

Williamsport dodged a bullet late in the second quarter when Josh Miller intercepted Sines inside the Wildcats' 10-yard line, wiping out a third scoring opportunity for the Huskies, or the first half could have been much worse for the Wildcats.

"We didn't get off the bus in the first half, and I take full responsibility for that," Williamsport head coach Randy Longnecker said. "As the head coach, it's up to me to have them prepared to play, and they were not. Northern came out and played with heart, and that's something we didn't do until the second half."

Wildcat QB Tyler Wise went to the shotgun for most of the second half, and connected on three of seven passes in Williamsport's initial possession. The visitors also took advantage of a pass interference call on the drive, which culminated with a four-yard touchdown run by Alex Fridley at the 6:43 mark of the third. Wise connected with Nate Willis on the two-point conversion to pull Williamsport within a score at 15-8.

Neither team was able to move the football much from there, with the next five drives stalling and ending up with punts.

With Northern's ground game muddled, Wise moved the Wildcats from their own 22 to the Northern 36 with two long scrambles midway through the final frame. Reggie Russ connected with a wide open C.J. Ezidemina for a 32-yard gain on a halfback pass, then finished the drive himself with a 4-yard scoring run.

Wise and Willis hooked up again on the conversion to give Williamsport a 16-15 lead with 5:12 left.

As the clock ticked down, it appeared that the Huskies were going to sustain their second defeat of the young season, but then Coach Phil Carr called a halfback pass with less than 30 seconds to play, and Bosley came up big to seal the victory.

"We didn't tuck our tail with five minutes to go when we got down," said Coach Carr. "I liked the way we responded."

Josh Mason led the Huskies mush 127 yards on 26 carries, while Baker added 81 more yards on 19 touches, besides tossing the game-winning touchdown.

Defensively, Northern was paced by Jason Opel with nine tackles, including three sacks, plus a fumble recovery. Nick Owens finished with six tackles.

The Huskies will travel to Tornado Alley this Friday to take on the winless Golden Tornados (0-2) of Keyser.

Keyser is coming off back-to-back blowouts in its new stadium to Wayne and Fort Hill.

In fact, the Tornados have dropped the last three regular-season games, the only losses they have suffered on their home field, starting with a season-ending defeat at the hands of arch-rival Frankfort last year.

Fort Hill was able to bottle up Keyser almost entirely, limiting the Keyser running game to 96 yards on 33 carries and 112 yards total offense in the 24-0 defeat.

"They have played two very tough teams," said Carr. "They are not your typical 0-2 team, and our kids know that. Both of those teams (Fort Hill, Wayne) are going to get pretty deep in the playoffs."

Carr hopes the return of Jason Opel on the defensive line will continue to work this week.

"We looked like a totally different team defensively with him back there," said Carr. "We knew he would be effective."

Opel, who missed the opener, had a trio of sacks and nine tackles versus Williamsport. The Huskies will need him to slow down Keyser this week.

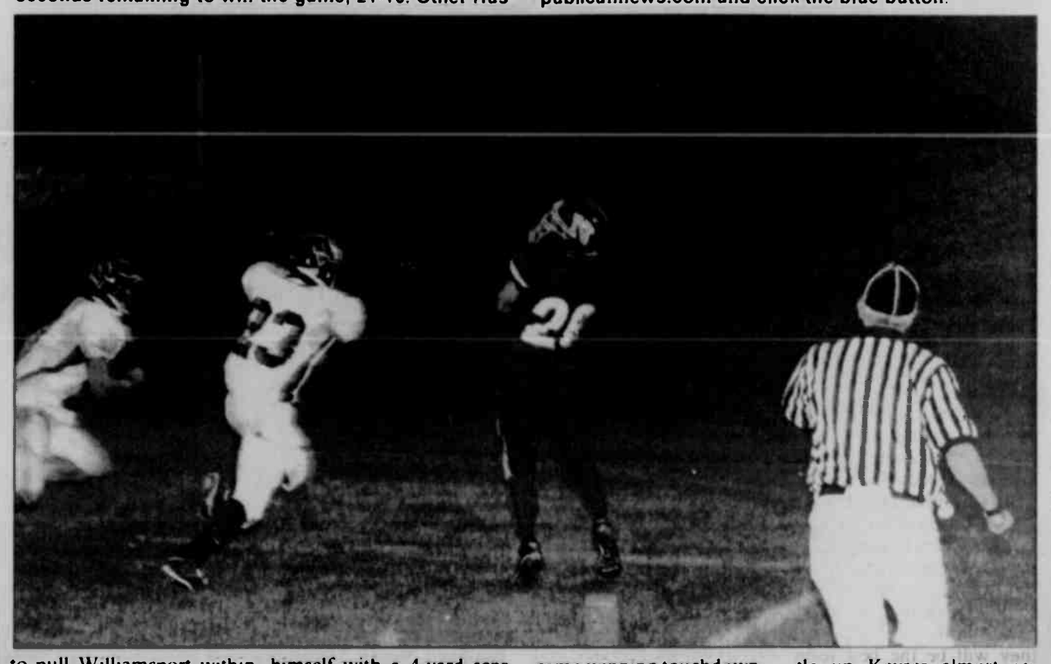

"Their size is going to give us some issues, but they have excellent team speed as well. We will have to deal with that on that turf," said Carr.

"But our kids are in the right mindset. It is amazing what a win will do," he added.

Friday's kickoff at Keyser is set for 7 p.m.

ONE OF 26 CARRIES by Northern running back Josh Mason (#5) is captured in the photo above, as he takes the handoff from quarterback Patrick Sines during last Friday evening's game against visiting Williamsport. Mason finished with 127 yards rushing. The Huskies took a 15-0 lead, fell behind in the second half, 16-15, and then scored a touchdown with just 27 seconds remaining to win the game, 21-16. Other Huskies identifiable in the photo are Alex Baker (#24), who gained 81 yards, Kyle Rosenberger (#23), and Nick Owens (#79). Steelers Edge Warriors With Late Touchdown

A 9-yard touchdown run by Trevon Jones with just 43 seconds remaining in the game gave the Division I Northern Steelers an 18-14 victory over the Knippenberg Insurance Warriors in Cumberland Area Youth Football League action Saturday at Northern High School.

Jones, who finished with 92 yards on 13 carries, gave the Steelers their first lead when he scored on an 8-yard run in the second quarter. The conversion kick was no good.

Meshach Metz then teeled in a 12-yard TD pass from Tyler Giles later in the same quarter to give the Steelers a 12-0 lead at intermission.

After a scoreless third period, Blake Milburn broke loose early in the fourth quarter and raced 60 yards for a Warrior touchdown. Derrick Kerns' conversion kick cut the Steeler lead to 12-8.

A 5-yard TD carry by Raen Smith midway through the final stanza gave the Warriors a 14-12 lead, but Jones' touchdown in the final minute sealed the win for the Steelers.

Leading the Steeler defensive unit was Meshach Metz, who finished with 10 tackles. Other defensive standouts were Kendell Schrock and Cody White.

The Division II Steelers were also victorious over the Warriors, 22-6.

After a scoreless first half, the Steelers' Aaron Rodeheaver recorded a pair of touchdowns in the third quarter on runs of 48 and 50 yards. Jake Vernon booted the two-point conversion on the second one, making it 14-0.

The Warriors cut the lead to 14-6 via a 57-yard scoring run by Darian King late in the third, but Rodeheaver added an insurance touchdown for the Steelers in the fourth quarter on a 29-yard run. Vernon kicked the conversion.

Rodeheaver finished with 231 yards on 19 carries. Defensive standouts were Kyle Beard, Logan Yommer, and Brady Fratz.

It was the third win in as many starts for the Division II Steelers.

The Steeler teams will host the Ridgeley Rams this Sunday, with the Division I game to kick off at 2 p.m., and the Division II contest set to get under way at 4 p.m.

The score came at the 21:41 mark of the first half.

The match was close from beginning to end, with the Huskies finishing with a 14-12 edge in shots on goal and a 5-1 advantage in corner kicks.

Morgan Brosnihan recorded 11 stops in goal for Northern, while Vicki Stevens had 13 saves for the Rams.

Southern Girls Top Sentinels Before Being Edged By Huskies

The Southern varsity girls recorded a 4-1 Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference soccer victory over host Fort Hill at Greenway Avenue Stadium last Thursday evening.

Southern was then nipped in another AMAC clash by visiting Northern on Tuesday, 1-0 (see other story).

Sophie Schwab scored a pair of goals in the second half to pace the Ram offense against Fort Hill.

An unassisted goal by Madi Storey put the Rams up 1-0 at the 20:42 mark of the first half.

Fort Hill knotted it at 10:07½ minutes later when Leah Yurko scored an unassisted goal.

The score remained knotted until Jill Yant connected with an unassisted goal for the Rams just 3½ minutes into the second half.

The duo of Schwab and Ali Shaffer teamed up to score the next two SHS goals, with Schwab hitting her first at the 17:16 mark, and the second, also off a feed from Shaffer, with just 1:03 remaining in the match.

The Rams finished with a 13-4 lead in shots, with Heather Frank turning away nine of Southern's attempts, and Southern keeper Vicki Stevens recording two saves.

Fort Hill won the jayvee match, 1-0, behind a goal by Taylor Hoppert.

The Rams will play again next Tuesday at Hampshire.

Southern Volleyball Squad Defeats Huskies, But Then Falls To Falcons

The Southern High varsity volleyball team topped county rival Northern last Thursday before falling to host Frankfort on Monday.

Pacing Southern against the Huskies was Alycia Horner, who finished with 12 points, 8 kills, and a block in the 3-0 sweep. Teammate Corinne Fike added 6 points, 8 kills, and a pair of digs, as the Rams recorded scores of 25-18, 25-21, and 25-21.

Maddy Whittemore and Miranda Beasom led the Huskies, as Whittemore contributed 8 points, 4 aces, and 3 kills, and Beason had 6 kills, an ace, and 1 point.

The Northern jayvees were victorious, 2-1. Brittany Williams served up 8 points, 7 of which were aces, for the Huskies, and Ashley Brenneman added 8 service points as well. Derrica Friend finished with 7 points.

Southern took the first game 25-23, but Northern bounced back to take games two and three, 25-19 and 15-11.

Brooke Spiker led Southern's jayvees with nine points and seven assists, while Brittany Knotts and Natalie Arnold each finished with five points, and Arnold adding six kills.

Frankfort jumped all over Southern in game one on Monday, 25-3, and rolled from there to take the match 3-0.

Katie Bush led the Falcons with 21 points, including 15 aces, and had eight kills, and two blocks. Maddie Shambaugh added 12 points, 3 of them aces, and 6 digs. Stephanie Bills also turned in a good all-around defensive performance for Frankfort, recording eight kills and a pair of blocks.

The efforts of Southern's "A-team" of Alycia Horner and Alyssa Cowgill were not enough, but the duo combined for 10 tallies, with the former scoring 6of those.

Frankfort swept the jayvee matchup as well, 2-0.

Brooke Spiker scored 5 points and had 5 assists for Southern, Janessa Bassford had 3 points and 2 digs, Sara Sweitzer served up 3 points, and Natalie Arnold added a trio of kills.

Mikala Miller scored 8 points and threw in 3 aces, and Alexis Rice added 7 points with 3 aces, and dished out 15 assists to lead the Falcons.

Defensively Autumn Dishman came away with 8 digs, Stephanie Cornachia had 7 kills, and Autumn Miltenberger added 4 kills.

Southern will host Hampshire this evening and Fort Hill next Tuesday night before returning to the road next Thursday with a match at Mtn. Ridge.

Northern Netters Drop Matches To Frankfort, Southern, And Keyser

The Northern High girls' varsity volleyball team dropped three matches this past week, falling to both Frankfort and Southern 3-0 last Thursday on the Huskies' court, and then dropping a 3-0 match to host Keyser on Monday.

Frankfort won by scores of 25-22, 25-14, and 25-11. The Frankfort jayvees also topped the NHS junior varsity, 2-1.

See SHS volleyball story for details of the Huskies' loss to the Rams.

Northern kept it close against Keyser on Monday, but not quite close enough, as the Golden Tornados swept a trio of games, 24-22, 24-22, and 26-24.

Maddy Whittemore continued her strong play for Northern, finishing with 8 points, half of them aces, and 6 kills. Kerah Umbel served up 7 points, and Tabitha Beasom tacked on 6 points and had 9 kills.

The Northern jayvees won their match behind the play of Amanda Monahan, Natalie Johnson, and Derrica Friend. Monahan served up 6 aces, had 9 points overall, and added three kills. Johnson had 8 points, and Friend, 7, including a trio of aces.

The Huskies (0-3) will play this evening at Mountain Ridge, next Tuesday at home against Bishop Walsh, and on Wednesday at Allegany.

Laker Netters Open With A Win Before Being Blanked By Trojans

The Garrett College women's volleyball team managed to do something they failed to do all season last year – win a match, and they did so in their very first outing this season, edging out Chesapeake College in five sets in Maryland JUCO action on Monday at Wye Mills.

The celebration was brought to an end last night, however, when the Lakers dropped a match to visiting Allegany College of Maryland, 3-0.

Alyssa Rounds, Jessica Yoder, and Jalesa Johnson had big nights for the Lakers against Chesapeake, with Yoder running the offense, handing out 56 assists, and recording 16 digs. Rounds had a team-high 19 kills and 14 digs, and Johnson was the defensive standout, digging out 35 balls and killing 14.

The Lakers dropped the first game, 25-14, then won the next two, 25-18 and 25-17. Chesapeake tied it at two games apiece with a 25-13 win, but Garrett won the match by claiming the fifth game, 15-13.

The Lakers were topped last night by the AC Trojans, 25-6, 25-18, and 25-19.

Garrett was led by Johnson with 16 digs and 10 kills, while Yoder finished with 19 assists and 3 aces.

The Trojans were paced by Katie Athey, who made good on all 12 of her attacks and recorded 7 kills and 6 aces. Cherie Webb was 11-for-12 on attacks and had two blocks, Lindsey Fisher had 17 sets and five digs.

The Lakers will play again this Friday at home against Essex.

APPLES AND ORANGES
If you are among the growing number of hearing-impaired individuals who could derive benefit from a hearing instrument, you owe yourself a fresh look at these devices and their capabilities. Those who rejected the use of a hearing instrument in the past as being unnatural are likely to be impressed by the new technology. While older-style "analogue" hearing instruments could not distinguish between sounds (and amplified all sounds equally), newer "digital" hearing instruments are far more discriminating. Instead of being fed sounds that are too loud or difficult to hear, listeners with digital instruments are treated to digitally processed sounds that are tailored to the wearer's hearing ability. The sound quality of the newer instruments is impressive.
Although more sophisticated and technologically advanced than ever before, today's hearing instruments still keep one simple goal in mind—helping the hearing impaired hear better by making the most of the hearing they have. Come find out what's new at AUDIBEL. You just may hear some things you haven't heard in a long time.
P.S. Digital hearing instruments translate sound to digital code, change it, and retransmit it by using mathematical calculations.

ture gear, the following appears on their FirstAscent web site, "Jesse Shimrock has set out to be the first person to climb the highest mountain in North America (Mt. McKinley) and kayak the rivers that the mountain births, from its highest navigable source, all the way to the ocean, in one continuous push."

"In February I developed the Summit2Sea proposal, and when I received the phone call accepting my proposal my exhilaration went through the roof as you can imagine," said Shimrock. "Just as I burst through the shingles, the cold air of preparation anxiety immediately cooled me off." Shimrock, who is no stranger to challenges, as he is among Garrett County's most acclaimed athletes, holding a 1998 wrestling state championship, wrestling for Northern High School, has competed in numerous extreme kayaking competitions over the past 10 years. At age 19, he became a professional extreme kayaker, representing and competing for Wavesport Kayaks.

Within two years, Shimrock had risen to the top of the professional ranks. A personal goal was realized in 2001 when in Durango, Colo., he reached the final three in freestyle kayak competition, going head-to-head against two of this nation's best kayakers, Andy Reddingfield and Eric Jackson. In the final results, Shimrock had doubled Andy's score and tripled Eric's. In that same year, he took a bronze medal in the North American Championships and qualified for the U.S. Freestyle National Kayak Team.

Graduating with a degree in marketing from West Virginia University, Shimrock worked as a marketing manager for both Phenix Technologies and later for the Adventure Sports Center International. But the desire to return to his passion for challenge, both mentally and physically, led him back to paddle sports.

In 2008, he became the head coach of the World Class Kayak Academy, an organization that operates worldwide. This opportunity took him to China and Tibet. Perhaps the sight of the world's greatest mountains, the Himalayas, sparked his desire to craft his Summit2Sea proposal.

The Rams were edged out of second place by the Sentinels via a one-hole playoff between Southern's Billy Gindlesberger and Fort Hill's Nick Meneghini.

Gindlesberger led the Rams with a score of 46.

In Tuesday's match, Doerr carded an even-par 35, Camen Feller had a 42, Jeff Bittinger a 43, and Adam Warnick a 45 for the Huskies.

Southern placed second behind 38s scored by Gindlesberger and Evan Friend.

The Huskies will compete again today at Canaan Valley Golf Resort.

PINK GLOVE SPIRIT – Staff members of the First United Bank & Trust are pictured above displaying their support for the Pink Glove Dance campaign, now under way throughout Garrett County. Brenda's Body Shop is the official sponsor of this community-wide campaign to heighten awareness for the importance of early cancer detection. Businesses and individuals are encouraged to purchase boxes of pink gloves over the next several weeks. Brenda Brosnihan, owner of the body shop, will be presented the famed "Pink Glove Dance" at several locale venues and events, including performances during the Autumn Glory Festival. Persons who wish to purchase the gloves or learn the dance routine are encouraged to call Brenda's Body Shop at 301-334-1275. The goal is to distribute thousands of gloves prior to the AGF parade and encourage spectators to wear and wave the gloves as the dancers pass by. Pictured in the front row, from left, are Nichole Bittinger, Margo Savage, Sarena Rodeheaver, Wendy Glotfelty, and Deb Hetrick. Second row, same order: Jamie Mersing, Fran Roth, Connie Savage, Kristy Rhodes, Deanne Foy, Annette Chapman, and Fran Martin.

Flu Clinics

need medical care should receive vaccine for their protection: anyone with long-term health care problems (such as heart or lung disease, asthma, kidney disease, metabolic disorders including diabetes, anemia and other blood disorders, certain neuromuscular disorders that can cause breathing problems, or weakened immune systems because of HIV/AIDS; those who have received long-term treatment with drugs such as steroids or cancer treatment or radiation); persons who have direct contact with at-risk individuals, such as health care providers, nursing home staff and residents, household members of those in the high-risk groups, household contacts and caregivers of children less than 6 months of age; and women who will be pregnant during the influenza season.

In addition to the injectable influenza vaccine, the Garrett County Health Department has a supply of FluMist®, the live, attenuated (weakened) nasal spray influenza vaccine. It is recommended for healthy persons from age 2 through 49 years of age and who are not pregnant.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) recently approved a safe new high-dose influenza vaccine for persons age 65 and older. According to the manufacturer, this vaccine offers greater antibody protection against influenza in this age group; however, it has not yet been tested clinically for effectiveness in reducing influenza illness. This vaccine may have a slightly higher occurrence of local reactions, such as pain and low grade fever.

The health department does not have any high-dose vaccine. A person can check with his/her doctor to see if this new high-dose vaccine is available.

The walk-in clinics will be held at the following locations and times:

•Flowery Vale Fitness Center and Swanton Senior Center, Sept. 27, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.;

•Grantsville Senior Center, Sept. 28, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.;

•Bloomington fire hall, Sept. 29, 2 to 6 p.m.;

•Friendsville Senior Center and Kitzmiller Senior Center, Sept. 30, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.;

•Garrett County Health Department, 1025 Memorial Drive, Oakland, Oct. 1, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.;

•Grantsville Community Outreach Center, 28 Hershberger Lane, Grantsville, Oct. 15, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.;

•Garrett County Health Department, 1025 Memorial Drive, Oakland, Oct. 29, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.;

•Garrett County Health Department,1025 Memorial Drive, Nov. 4, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and;

•Grantsville Community Outreach Center, 28 Hershberger Lane, Grantsville, Nov. 12, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The charge for either influenza vaccination is $25, although no person will be denied vaccine because of inability to pay. The pneumococcal vaccination will be available for $50.

For those who are covered by Medicare Part B, the health department will bill Medicare for the service. Medicare is the only insurance approved as a payer. The health department will not be responsible for billing private insurance or Medical Assistance, and payment will be due at the time of service. Vaccine(s) will be available for free for children and if the children are Vaccines for Children (VFC) eligible (age 6 months through 18 years).

Persons who have questions about either vaccine are advised to contact their physician or the local health department at 301-334-7777 or 301 895-3111. More information about the flu vaccine clinics can be found online by visiting http://www.garretthealth.org/clinicians/seasonal.htm or by calling the Flu Information Hotline at 301-334-7697 or 301-895-3113.

Free Vaccines To Be Available For School Children

The Garrett County Health Department is partnering with the Garrett County Board of Education to make free influenza vaccinations available to all qualifying elementary students in Garrett County this fall.

"Influenza is a serious disease," said Garrett County health officer Rodney Glotfelty. "The number of deaths from influenza varies each year. Revised estimates range from 3,000 to as many as 49,000 per year.

"It's also serious in children and results in high fevers, chills, and muscle aches, requiring bed rest and numerous days away from school.," he added.

Nasal spray flu vaccine (FluMist™) will be administered by the health department staff to qualifying elementary school-age children free of charge at each elementary school on the following dates:

Oct. 4 – Bloomington, Crellin, Kitzmiller, and Swan Meadow elementary schools.

Oct. 6 – Accident, Friendsville, Grantsville, and Route 40 elementary schools.

Oct. 7 – Dennett Road Elementary School.

Oct. 12 – Yough Glades Elementary School.

Oct. 14 – Broad Ford Elementary School.

"With FluMist® we have a very safe and effective product that can be administered without the pain of a needle stick, making it much more acceptable to children," Glotfelty said. "School-based immunization can also protect other family members and reduce the spread of influenza in the community-at-large."

A second dose of the vaccine will be given four weeks later to students under the age of 9 who have never received a flu vaccination in previous years. Flu vaccine consent forms and information sheets explaining the benefits, risks, and side effects of the vaccine will be sent home to parents in the next several weeks.

To be eligible for the vaccine, students must be in good health and meet the following criteria:

•2 years of age or older (enrolled in an elementary school within Garrett County),

•No medically significant chronic or long-term illness or immune system problem,

•No history of severe allergy to an egg product,

•Not receiving medicine containing aspirin,

•No past history of Guillian-Barre syndrome,

•No previous allergic reaction to nasal flu vaccine,

•Not receive any live virus vaccines for the month prior to, or month after, vaccination, and

•Not living with anyone who has severe immune problems because of bone-marrow transplantation, intense chemotherapy, or advanced AIDS/HIV infection.

Students who do not meet the requirements for nasal spray flu vaccination may be able to receive injectable flu vaccine from their health care provider or from the health department.

Additional information about this project can be accessed by calling the health department's Flu-Mist® Hotline at 301-334-7698 or 301-895-3113. Additional information about the vaccines is also available online at www.garrett-health.org/clinicians/seasonal.htm.

His Journey's Just Begun

by Ellen Brenneman

Don't think of him as gone away–
His journey's just begun
Life holds so many facts
This earth is only one.

Just think of him as resting
From the sorrows and the tears
In a place of warmth and comfort
Where there are no days and years.

Think how he must be wishing
That we could know today
How nothing but our sadness
Can really pass away.

And think of him as living
In the hearts of those he touched....
For nothing loved is ever lost–
And he was loved so much.

Miss you very much.
Love,
Mom, Dad and Sisters and all your families.

MEASURING SIX INCHES in length was this monster caterpillar photographed by Sandi Nazelrod, Oakland. While we have no caterpillar experts in the newsroom of The Republican, after a bit of Internet research it has been concluded (perhaps incorrectly) that this fellow is a cecropia moth caterpillar, which during some time spent in a cocoon will ultimately transform into a (what else?) cecropia moth. We invite our caterpillar-expert readers to correct us if we are in error.

READY FOR A LONG JOURNEY – During a PTO meeting on Tuesday, Friendsville Elementary School parents, staff, and students met to tag Monarch butterflies. Caroline Blizzard, director at the Discovery Center, gave a presentation about the migration of the Monarchs. The program gave the students the opportunity to tag the butterflies and follow them on their migration to Mexico. People in Mexico will then identify the butterflies from their tags and call in their identification number. Pictured above, from left, are Nadine Grabania, Caroline Blizzard, and Daria Umbel, surrounded by Friendsville Elementary students.

Maryland Students Make Big Gains On National AP, SAT, And ACT Tests

Maryland students continue to rise above their peers across the nation on the SAT, Advanced Placement (AP), and ACT national assessments, according to newly released data.

Improving achievement by Maryland students is being tallied even as diversity among test-takers has reached an all-time high, according to the Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE).

Maryland's composite SAT score jumped from 1497 in 2009 to 1502 in 2010, a five-point increase on the 2400-point scale. That was the largest increase tallied by any state with more than 60 percent of its students taking the SAT.

Scores in the mathematics portion of the SAT jumped four points, from 502 to 506; critical reading jumped one point, from 500 to 501; and writing held steady at 495.

"Maryland's students are taking seriously the goal of being college- and career-ready after high school, and today's data release bears that out," said Gov. Martin O'Malley. "This news is a tribute to the hard work going on in our schools each and every day, and the record investments we've committed as One Maryland, even in tough times, for the teachers and students of our public schools."

"Our state's students continue to improve across the board, with some of the biggest gains coming from minority students often underrepresented on national tests," said Maryland superintendent of schools Nancy S. Grasmick. "Maryland's students, teachers, administrators, and parents deserve another round of applause for this remarkable achievement. Big improvement can be found in schools throughout our state."

College Board president Gaston Caperton also lauded Maryland's achievement.

"Both the number of minority students in Maryland who plan to go on to college and the number of students who will be the first in their families to seek a college education is on the rise," he said. "For the U.S. to maintain its leadership position in an increasingly competitive world economy, we must commit ourselves to preparing all students for the challenges of higher education."

The recently released reports include a variety of positive information for Maryland students. For example:

- The number of Maryland students scoring at the college mastery level (scores 3-5) on the AP tests increased 4 percent in 2010, according to data released this week by the College Board. The number of students taking the exams jumped 7.8 percent over that of 2009. This came on top of already impressive data for the previous two years, which led Maryland to be recognized as the nation's leader in the percentage of students scoring at high levels.
- Scores on the increasingly popular ACT exam,, released last month, also showed improvement and a dramatic increase in participation. The state's 2010 graduates earned an average composite score of 22.3 on the college admission and placement exam, up from 22.1 last year. The national average of 21.0 actually fell over the previous year. The exam is scored on a scale of 1-36.
- As Maryland scores on the SAT composite rose by 5 points, the national composite was flat. The state has the 11th highest participation in the exam, with seven in 10 seniors in the state taking the SAT.

Maryland officials say they are particularly gratified by the increase in participation. For example, AP participation is up by almost 7.8 percent over 2009, with an additional 3,564 students taking one or more AP exams. Maryland student participation in the AP program has grown nearly 40 percent in the past five years.

For African American and Hispanic students, the increases in Advanced Placement participation are even more dramatic, according to the MSDE. African American student participation increased by 12.7 percent from 2009 to 2010, while Hispanic student participation grew 10.9 percent. Over the past five years, African American participation has jumped 110 percent and Hispanic participation has increased 73 percent.

Maryland's AP program has been fueled by a partnership between MSDE and the College Board, which has brought expertise into schools without a history in AP participation. The result is that Maryland now has the highest percentage of schools offering AP in four core subject areas. Nearly seven in 10 Maryland high schools (68 percent) offer AP in four core subjects, compared to the national average of 33.9 percent.

"Our partnership with the College Board has resulted in a more rigorous curriculum for more Maryland students," said Dr. Grasmick. "This helps us meet our goal of graduating more students who are ready for college or the workforce."

Participation also is increasing in other assessment programs. Public school student participation in the SAT grew by 4.7 percent in 2010, with increases in all ethnic groups. Meanwhile, the increase in participation on the ACT exam has been pronounced. The number of Maryland students taking the ACT exam increased 9.4 percent in 2010, and has jumped from 7,758 students in 2006 to 11,924 this year.

Scores on the SAT Reasoning Test nationwide were altered when the tests were redesigned in 2005 by the College Board. Changes to the test included the addition of a writing section, third-year college preparatory mathematics, and a critical reading section, altering what once was a verbal segment. Once scored on a 1600-point scale, the 2400-point test now takes nearly four hours to complete.

Northern Grads Recognized For AP Exam Success

Two graduates of Northern Garrett High School have earned the designation of AP Scholar by the College Board in recognition of their exceptional achievement on the college-level Advanced Placement Program® (AP®) exams.

Daniel Beitzel and Cara Stough qualified for the AP Scholar Award by completing three or more AP exams with grades of 3 or higher.

The College Board's Advanced Placement Program offers students the opportunity to take challenging college-level courses while still in high school, and to receive college credit, advanced placement, or both for successful performance on the AP exams. About 18 percent of the more than 1.8 million high school students worldwide who took AP exams performed at a sufficiently high level to merit the recognition of AP Scholar.

Students took AP exams in May 2010 after completing challenging college-level courses at their high schools. The College Board recognizes several levels of achievement based on students' performance on AP exams.

The College Board is a not-for-profit membership organization, the mission of which is to connect students to college success and opportunity. Founded in 1900, the association comprises more than 5,600 schools, colleges, universities, and other educational organizations.

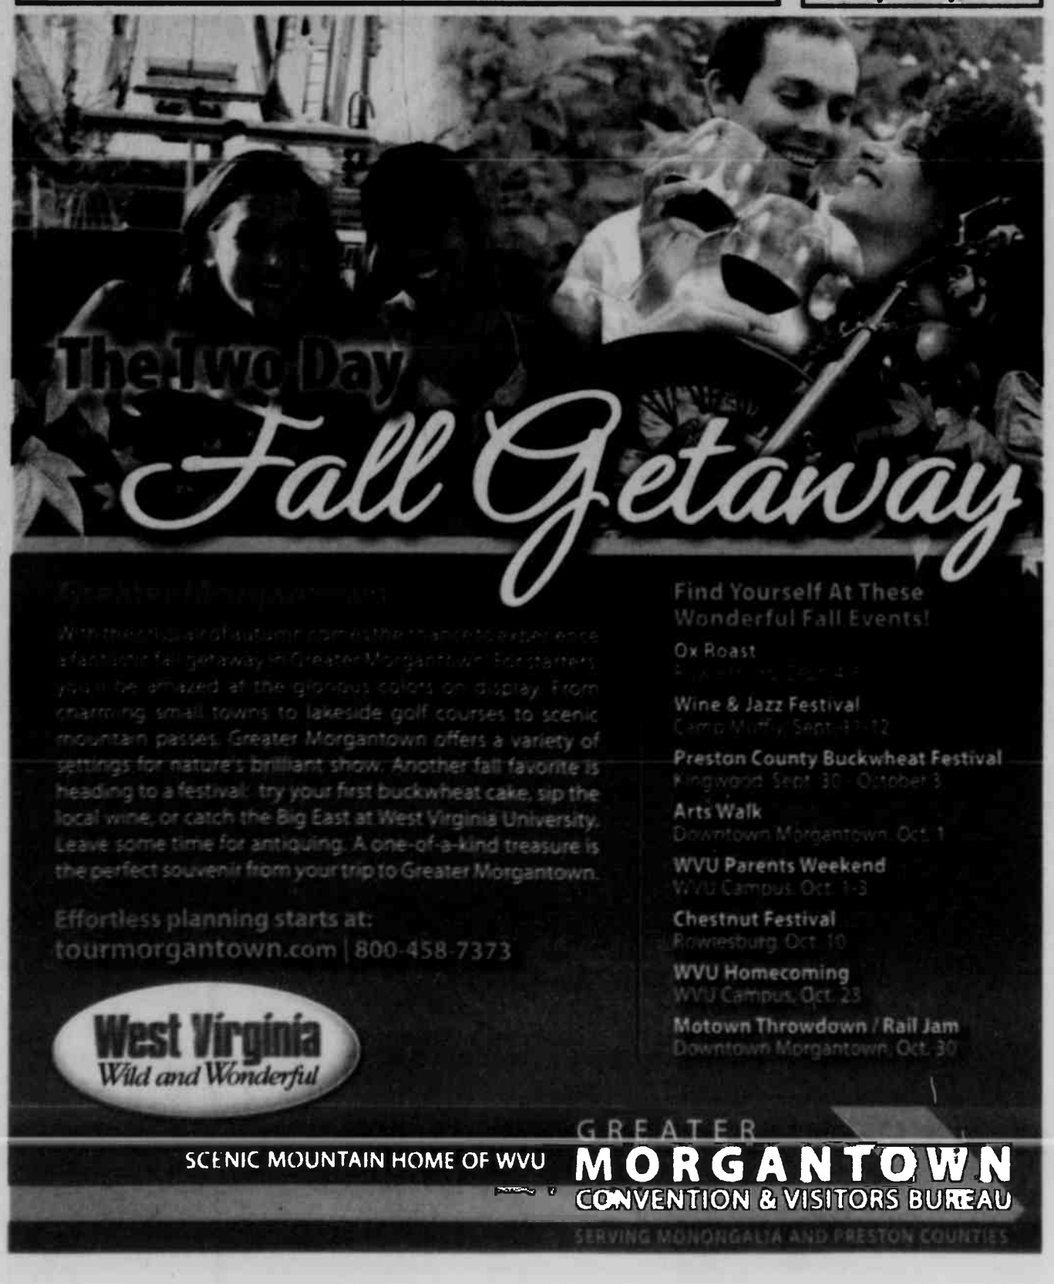

Each year, the College Board serves 7 million students and their parents, 23,000 high schools, and 3,800 colleges through major programs and services in college admissions, guidance, assessment, financial aid, enrollment, and teaching and learning. Among its best-known programs are the SAT®, the PSAT/NMSQT®, and the Advanced Placement Program.

BUBBLES IN BEVERAGES

By Dr. Tom Sheahen

Q. When a can of soda pop is opened, after the initial fizzing, bubbles come out slowly for a long time. If it's pressurized, why don't all the bubbles come out at once?

A. This is a good example of the difference between "equilibrium chemistry" and the non-equilibrium state of a packaged product.

When a carbonated beverage is initially canned, conditions are such that a lot of CO2 is dissolved in the liquid. The temperature and pressure of the canning operation are such that when the lid is slapped on and sealed, that can will stay unchanged until the can is opened at some different combination of pressure and temperature conditions. The shelf life is measured in years. A truly modern bottling operation will give seals as tight as canning.

Once the can is opened, the equilibrium condition is for most of the CO2 to escape, leaving the soda "flat." How it gets from one state to the other is at the heart of your question.

If all the CO2 did escape at once, it would be an explosion. There are times, under faulty storage conditions (too hot in a warehouse or too cold in a freezer), where beverage cans do distort, expand, and split at the seams, allowing high-pressure liquid to escape, and the result is a mess. The cans are manufactured so as to break safely, below any pressure where shrapnel would go flying around. Happily, the normal outcome for a canned beverage is that someday someone opens the tab on the top.

Upon opening the can (and perhaps pouring the liquid into a glass containing ice cubes), the march toward equilibrium begins. The surrounding pressure is one atmosphere, and the temperature of the surroundings is usually well above freezing. So the amount of CO2 dissolved in the liquid is too great for the conditions, and some of it is going to leave at the earliest opportunity. Ideally, we want that "earliest opportunity" to drag out for a while, an hour or so.

CO2 is constantly moving around in the liquid, bumping into other molecules, and for the most part, nothing changes. But sometimes CO2 bumps into other CO2 molecules, and they may stick around. At the high pressure inside a sealed can, the CO2 molecules go back into solution right away, and this continues all the time.

However, when the pressure is somewhat lower than it was in the closed-can state, a huge collection of CO2 molecules will form a tiny bubble. The bubble is less dense than the liquid, and so it tends to rise toward the surface. It takes time for enough CO2 to come together in one place to form even a microscopic bubble. It also takes time for that bubble to move upward, because it is being knocked around by collisions as it diffuses through the liquid, and the "direct" path to the surface is blockaded. Countless tiny bubbles of CO2 accumulate into a bubble big enough to see. If you stare at a glass of soda pop, the time for such a bubble to break loose from the wall is perhaps 10 seconds, plus another second or so to rise. When the bubble reaches the surface, it "pops" and the CO2 escapes into the surrounding atmosphere. That's one small step toward equilibrium.

This very simple molecular process repeats itself multiple times: CO2 diffuses around, accumulates into bubbles, and slowly the amount of CO2 remaining in the liquid diminishes. Simultaneously, the temperature of the beverage is usually getting warmer, and the heat coming into the liquid is the engine that drives the process.

You can stop the process midway by closing the container and lowering the temperature. Thus a 2-liter bottle capped and put back in the refrigerator will still have some fizz tomorrow. But don't plan on really long-term storage. Even in the refrigerator, CO2 bubbles continue to form and burst, leaving the air inside the bottle enriched in CO2. Then as soon as you unscrew the cap, a fair percentage of the CO2 escapes. Do that a few times and the soda is flat. There is no way to recover the original carbonation once the container is opened.

Drunken-Driving Fatalities In Md. Increase In 2009

by Justin Karp
Capital News Service

Deaths from alcohol-related traffic accidents in Maryland jumped 12 percent from 2008 to 2009, from 145 to 162, the U.S. Department of Transportation reported this past week.

Maryland is one of 18 states to see an increase in drunken-driving fatalities. It's the state's first increase in drunken driving deaths since 2006.

The jump came despite a drop in total deaths in Maryland from motor vehicle accidents. They declined by 7.4 percent between 2008 and 2009.

Nationally, fatalities from motor vehicle accidents dropped by nearly 10 percent that year, transportation officials said.

"Drinking and driving is a behavioral issue," said David Buck, a spokesman for the Maryland State Highway Administration. "People choose to drink and get behind a wheel. Now, we have to continue to change that behavior."

David Strickland, administrator of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, said people think impaired driving is a serious problem, but not enough of them do anything about it.

"This isn't any sort of discretionary notion of risk," Strickland said. "This is a crime, and it has to be stopped."

Strickland said that in a 2008 NHTSA survey, 17 million Americans admitted to driving under the influence of alcohol that year.

Caroline Cash, executive director of the Maryland chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving, said the state's lack of an ignition interlock law is keeping the number of alcohol-related deaths from falling.

An ignition interlock is a device that forces a driver to blow into a breathalyzer before starting a car. If it detects a set level of alcohol on a person's breath, or, in some cases, any alcohol, the car will not start.

Thirteen states mandate that anyone convicted of driving under the influence have the device installed in their car.

"I'm throwing down the gauntlet to our leaders in Annapolis," Cash said. "We want this to be the first law they pass in January," when legislators return for the 2011 session.

"It's extremely frustrating when you know that there are families losing members to a 100 percent preventable crime," she said.

Motor vehicle fatalities in Maryland overall dropped by more than 16 percent from 2006 – when auto-related deaths were at a five-year high – to 2009, according to the NHTSA. In 2009, 547 people died in Maryland in vehicle-related accidents.

Transportation Secretary Ray LaHood said distracted driving is also a growing problem nationwide. He said that his department will continue to take strong action to stem this trend, he said.

"Distracted driving is an epidemic," he said. "Just about everyone in America has a cell phone, and they use it while they drive. They don't drive safely when they do that."

Computer Courses Slated In October At Outreach Center

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division has scheduled two computer courses at the Northern Outreach Center in Grantsville next month: "Managing and Maintaining Your Computer" and "Buying and Selling on eBay."

"Managing and Maintaining Your Computer" is set for Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 5 and 6, from 6:30 to 9 p.m. It is designed for individuals who want to learn the fundamentals of personal computer care.

Topics to be covered include system maintenance, basic troubleshooting, managing files and folders, and cleaning the computer inside and out.

"Upon completing this course the student should be able to perform system maintenance, including scan disc, disc defragmentation, and back-up; manage files and folders, evaluate error codes and decipher; demonstrate the process of cleaning the computer inside and out; evaluate computer viruses and implement proper techniques to eliminate them; and explain the usefulness of uninterruptible power supply and surge suppressors," explained Terry Beachy, director of the Garrett College Northern Outreach Center.

"Buying and Selling on eBay" is scheduled from 6:30 to 9:45 p.m. on Oct. 19, 20, and 26. This course is for those who may want to learn how to buy and sell online.

Online auctions match buyers with sellers in a global marketplace for almost any item, Beachy noted. The course will suggest ways to create titles that get noticed, offer tips on crafting effective advertising copy, and demonstrate how to upload photos of the items to be sold.

"The course will also inform students on how to safely conduct online financial transactions, how to accept credit card payments, and how to pack and ship any item hassle free," Beachy said. "Buyers will learn how to value items on auction, how to get the best possible price, how to protect against fraud, and how to compete effectively against other bidders."

Coming in November to the center are the following courses: "Make and Take for Fall and Christmas Crafts," "Cake Decorating II – Flowers and Cake Design," "Stress Relief: A Workshop," "Networking for the Multiple Computer Home or Small Business," "Microsoft Access 1," and "Enhancing Office Productivity Using Microsoft Word and Excel."

For additional information, persons may contact Beachy at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for these courses, one may call the Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

Spotlight on Garrett County Non-Profits:

The Work They Do, The People They Serve

APPALACHIAN CROSSROADS

This column, sponsored by the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland, is one of a series of articles about local non-profit organizations. The purpose is to inform citizens about the services offered by the organizations, and to let them know the volunteer opportunities available within these groups.

What Is Appalachian Crossroads?

Appalachian Crossroads is a private non-profit organization founded in 1979 that primarily serves adults who have developmental disabilities. The agency values meaningful age-appropriate activities, choice, the dignity of risk, and interdependence. The agency seeks to assist people to have meaningful days and to enjoy the benefits of being in the community.

The 100+ individuals served range from being profoundly handicapped to very mildly handicapped, from young adults to seniors, and from being in good health to having complex medical needs. To meet the needs of such a diverse group, the agency provides a full continuum of services aimed at assisting individuals to have the supports necessary to live, work, and socialize in the community according to their preferences and abilities. Each program offered is designed to accommodate individual preferences and choices to the highest degree possible.

Services Offered

The agency's Community Living Support Services include residential homes, individual supports, social/recreation, and respite care. Nine attractive homes serve individuals who need high levels of assistance and supervision. A nurse monitors the health of individuals and provides training to staff. Rooms are individually decorated, and people acquire the mementos that come with their outings and activities which reflect their personal interests, friendships, and religious affiliations.

Individual Support Services helps people live in their own apartments by providing assistance with money management, menu planning, grocery shopping, transportation, and needed medical services.

Social/Recreational Services provide transportation and assistance for people to get out and do things with their friends, or to go on a trip or vacation.

Respite Services provides parents with some time to themselves or to deal with important family or health matters.

Work Opportunities

Appalachian Crossroads believes work is fundamental to adding value to people's lives. Work provides meaning to the day, self-esteem, and money. Therefore the agency offers a wide blending of work opportunities in food service, custodial services, grounds maintenance, and mailroom services that can be tailored to individual preferences, abilities, and tolerances.

Sheltered crews work in-house and community crews leave the centers each day to perform their work in the community. Job placement, coaching, and follow-along services help people to gain competitive employment with local businesses. One person was assisted to start and run his own vending machine business.

A School to Work program in partnership with the Garrett County Board of Education, the Division of Rehabilitation Services, and local businesses helps juniors and seniors with special needs build work experience and transition successfully from school to work.

Years ago individuals with intellectual disabilities were often placed in state-run institutions when families could not care for them. Appalachian Crossroads has its roots in helping developmentally disabled individuals to live in the community and helping families keep their sons and daughters at home.

Volunteers are desired to assist with group or individual activities.

Our Changing Lives

Each new season reminds us that we can't hold onto time...how do we let go of one season and successfully move onto the next? We can share the joys and sorrows with others on the same journey. With help, we can embrace each phase of our life and prepare for the next. God's wisdom can guide us through our seasons and help us be prepared. Worship at His house this week and find fellowship and faith to help you on your way.

LIVING A PRINCIPLED LIFE

John Wooden, the legendary basketball coach of UCLA who died Jun 4, 2010, carried around a card with advice given to him by his father. The advice was as follows: 1) Be true to yourself; 2) Help others; 3) Make each day your masterpiece; 4) Make friendship a fine art; 5) Drink deeply from good books, especially the Bible, 6) Build a shelter against a rainy day; and 7) Give thanks for your blessings and pray for guidance every day. Those who knew Wooden knew that he lived by these principles and encouraged his athletes to live good and principled lives themselves. Though he was often referred to as a genius, he preferred to be thought of simply as a teacher because he considered coaching to be essentially teaching. He expected his players to show up on time and work diligently. His practice sessions were known for their clockwork regularity where players would move rapidly from one drill to another, honing their skills under the watchful eye of a coach who knew how to turn ordinary boys into champions. We would all do well to follow his example of a principled life with a commitment to hard work and simple virtues.

I have always tried to make it clear that basketball is not the ultimate. It is of small importance in comparison to the total life we live. There is only one kind of life that truly wins, and that is the one that places faith in the hands of the Savior.

Some Medications Can Affect Potassium Levels

Hypokalemia (low potassium) is a reduced amount of this mineral in the blood. Certain medications that are prescribed for high blood pressure may cause a loss of potassium as a side effect. Thiazide diuretics (such as hydrochlorothiazide and chlorthalidone) and loop diuretics (such as furosemide and torsemide) may cause this effect. However, potassium-sparing diuretics, such as spironolactone and triamterene, could cause the opposite effect, or an increase in potassium, known as hyperkalemia (high potassium). Although a small reduction in the amount of potassium will not typically cause symptoms, abnormal heart rhythm, muscle spasms, or paralysis may result if the reduction in potassium is too large or uncontrolled. Fatigue or constipation could also occur with hypokalemia.

Hypokalemia can be prevented by increasing the intake of certain fruits and vegetables rich in potassium (e.g. broccoli, and sweet potatoes). The DASH (Dietary Approaches to Stop Hypertension) eating plan is recommended for persons with hypertension. Potassium supplements are also available for the prevention of hypokalemia. Other medication types that may lead to hyperkalemia include the angiotensin-converting enzyme (ACE) inhibitors and angiotensin receptor blocker (ARB) medications.

Ringing a Bell: Where 'Burn' co-star came from

By Jay Bobbin

© Zap2it

Coby Bell

Q: What series did the new person on "Burn Notice" star in previously? His name is Coby Bell, and I know I have seen him, but I can't remember where. –Dar Stein, Pueblo, Colo.

A: Bell had been a regular on several other shows before landing his USA Network gig. He spent three seasons on the CW sitcom "The Game" (which reportedly will be revived by BET), he co-starred throughout the six-year run of NBC's "Third Watch," and he had his first continuing television job on CBS' short-lived "L.A. Doctors." In real life, Bell is the father of two sets of twins.

Q: I have been watching "Becker" reruns, and I cannot determine from the credits who plays office clerk Linda. Has she done anything else that I can watch? –Chuck Young, Maple Valley, Wash.

A: She sure has, if you can stomach the "Saw" series. Beyond "Becker," Shawnee Smith probably is best known as the sinister Jigsaw's ally Amanda in those horror movies; she appeared in the first three chapters, then returned for "Saw VI." You'll be able to see her again very soon, since Smith has a guest part in what is slated as the Sept. 29 premiere episode of the NBC series "Law & Order: Los Angeles."

Q: I really like the show "The Good Guys." What is the status of the show? Will it be renewed? –Dee Staggers, Weirton, W.Va.

A: It already has been. Though it got a pretty late start in terms of being considered for the new season's lineup – having started its regular run in June – the Fox action-comedy starring Bradley Whitford and Colin Hanks (Tom's son) has landed a Friday berth, with new episodes scheduled to begin this week (Sept. 24).

Q: What does the future hold for the CBS drama "Flashpoint"? –Bob Roberts, Grove City, Ohio

A: At this writing, there was no certain read on that. When she met with television writers – including this one – during the summer, CBS programming chief Nina Tassler said she hadn't made a decision on ordering more episodes beyond the Canadian-made police show's latest run. However, some "Flashpoint" stories already produced haven't been aired yet by CBS, so there could be another "season" of the show in U.S. without the network actually having to invest more money in the production.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was existential psychologist Rollo May who made the following sage observation: "It is an ironic habit of human beings to run faster when we have lost our way."

• Two countries are tied for the nation encompassing the most time zones. It's no surprise that Russia is one of them, but it seems odd that the other would be France. It's true, though; once you take a look at a map of French territories around the world, you'll see. There are French Polynesia in the Pacific Ocean, the island of Reunion off the east coast of Africa, various holdings in the Caribbean, and New Caledonia off the east coast of Australia, among others.

• If you had to choose, would you rather be bitten by a skunk or sprayed by one? The creatures can't do both things at once.

• Yes, there is a word for it: The plastic tips you find on shoelaces are known as aglets.

• If you're a professional flute player, it's likely that your instrument is made from sterling silver, 14-carat gold or platinum.

• A snail's teeth are located in rows along its tongue.

• It's a commonly held belief that the Coriolis effect causes water to drain out of sinks and toilets in one direction in the Northern Hemisphere, while it drains in the opposite direction in the Southern Hemisphere. As it turns out, this isn't true. Drains are so small that the Coriolis effect has no measurable influence at all. It's the shape of the sink and whether or not it's level that determines the direction of the drainage.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Sept. 25, 1789, the first Congress of the United States approves 12 amendments to the U.S. Constitution, and sends them to the states for ratification. The amendments, known as the Bill of Rights, were influenced by the English Bill of Rights of 1689.

• On Sept. 23, 1846, at the Berlin Observatory, German astronomer Johann Gottfried Galle discovers the planet Neptune. The blue gas giant, which has a diameter four times that of Earth, was named for the Roman god of the sea. It completes an orbit of the Sun once every 165 years.

• On Sept. 21, 1938, without warning, a powerful Category 3 hurricane slams into Long Island and southern New England. All told, 700 people were killed by the hurricane, nearly 9,000 homes and buildings were destroyed and nearly 3,000 ships were sunk or wrecked.

• On Sept. 26, 1945, Lt. Col. Peter Dewey, a U.S. Army officer with the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) in Vietnam, is shot and killed in Saigon. Dewey was the head of a seven-man team sent to Vietnam to search for missing American pilots. He was the first of nearly 59,000 Americans killed in Vietnam.

• On Sept. 22, 1953, the first four-level (or "stack") interchange in the world opens in Los Angeles, at the intersection of the Harbor, Hollywood, Pasadena and Santa Ana freeways. It consisted of 32 lanes of traffic weaving in eight directions at once. Today, the interchange's cost of $5.5 million would pay for just 250 feet of urban freeway.

• On Sept. 24, 1969, the trial of the "Chicago Seven" begins. At the height of the antiwar and civil-rights movements, young leftists had organized protest marches at the 1968 Democratic National Convention and were thus accused of conspiring to incite a riot. In 1970, the convictions and contempt charges were overturned on appeal.

• On Sept. 20, 1973, Billie Jean King defeats Bobby Riggs, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3, in a widely publicized exhibition tennis match dubbed the "Battle of the Sexes." The match was set up after the 55-year-old Riggs routed Australian star Margaret Court four months' earlier on Mother's Day.

Q. I have a $20 bill printed by the Confederate States of America in Richmond in February of 1864. Does it have any value? — Albert, Ormond Beach, Fla.

A. The value of a piece of currency, like most collectibles, is based on several factors, including both condition and rarity. All genuine Confederate currency has some value, but most of the smaller bills are extremely common. An exception is the $500 note, which generally is worth from $200 to $400 depending on condition. To find out how much your $20 note is worth, you should consult an established coin dealer in your area. If that is not possible, one of the better references is Confederate States Paper Money: Civil War Currency From the South by Arlie R. Slabaugh, available for $21.27 at amazon.com. If you have access to a computer, you also might check out questions and answers about Confederate money at ask.com.

Due to the large volume of mail he receives, Mr. Cox is unable to personally answer all reader questions. Do not send any materials requiring return mail.

Comptroller Seeks Feedback On Wine Shipment Proposal

As his agency collects data from wineries, wholesalers, retailers, and trade organizations for a report on direct shipment of wine, Maryland comptroller Peter Franchot announced this week an opportunity for the public to weigh in on the public policy issue. Consumers can now complete a survey on the agency's web site, http://www.mary-landtaxes.com/comptrol-ler/wine_survey.asp and provide feedback on the proposed idea of shipping wine directly to consumers.

"In the past, the issue of direct shipment has been debated vigorously by retailers, wineries, and others in the alcohol community," said Franchot. "It's time for the public's voice to be heard on the issue."

Currently, consumers can purchase wine directly from an out-of-state winery if the winery obtains a direct wine seller's permit, and delivers the wine through a Maryland wholesaler to a retailer for store pick-up. The Maryland Winery Modernization Act (Senate Bill 858), passed last session by the Maryland General Assembly, calls for the comptroller's office to conduct a study on the effects of direct wine shipment, including its impact on consumers. The comptroller is the chief regulator of alcoholic beverages in the state.

The direct wine shipment report will evaluate the best practices of the 37 states and the District of Columbia which currently permit either wineries or retailers, or both, to ship wine directly to consumers in their states.

Additionally, fiscal, tax and other public policy and regulatory issues will be examined. A determination will also be made about how direct wine shipment in Maryland would affect alcoholic beverage licensees, underage access to alcohol, and the benefits and costs to consumers. The comptroller will issue the direct wine shipment report at the end of 2010.

During the study process, Maryland alcoholic beverage licensees have been invited to provide data about fiscal impact, wine availability, and other public policy issues. Separate surveys have been issued to Maryland wineries, nonresident wineries, wholesalers, and retailers soliciting data and commentary.

Maryland consumers are asked to complete the survey by September 30.

Crosses Erected By Rev. Coffindaffer To Be Refurbished

The Whitedale Brethren Church of Terra Alta is sponsoring the refurbishing of three crosses that stand in the field along Rt. 7 between Kingwood and Terra Alta. These crosses were placed all over the state by the late Rev. Bernard Coffindaffer, formerly of Craigsville.

Coffindaffer's ministry began in 1984, during which he erected 1,864 sets of three crosses in at least 27 states, the District of Columbia, Zambia, and the Philippines. The Whitedale Church of the Brethren will have a rededication of these crosses this Sunday, Sept. 19, at 5 p.m.

Those attending are encouraged to bring a chair and a beverage. Parking for the event will be behind Ruth Ann Lipscomb's house (a beige modular with green shutters).

Those attending should RSVP by contacting Maureen Anderson at 304-789-6264. Persons are asked to leave a message if she cannot be reached.

PRESTON COUNTY FARM BUREAU

The annual dinner and business meeting for members and guests of the Preston County Farm Bureau was recently held at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building. President Phillip Gregg gave reports concerning upcoming events and items for consideration as the federal and state governments tighten up regulations placed on farming.

Dr. Larry Parsons, county superintendent of schools, gave an optomistic view of the progress being made in the facilities program. He also felt that his assembly of buyers for the festival sales and the use of some of the community meals has been a success.

A "railroad" election reinstated Gregg as president and Becky Montgomery Shackelford as secretary/treasurer. Anyone wishing to join the Farm Bureau and its effort to retain farming as a way of life should contact Shackelford at 304-864-5462.

PERSONAL

A Sunday evening accident killed Terry Delaney of Eglon. He had been working at his Horse Shoe Run farm, when his tractor overturned, pinning him beneath it. He was not discovered for a few hours.

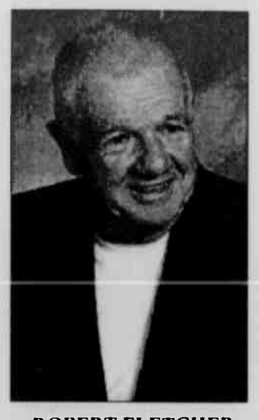

An electrical fence and dry vegetation started what could have been a disaster early Saturday afternoon. The dry weeds were ignited on Claude and Brenda Hartsell's farm, south of Eglon. Area fire departments helped to extinguish the fire. The Hartsells extend thanks to the following fire department: Aurora, Mt. Grove, Terra Alta, Oakland, Md., Thomas, Gorman, Md., and Rowlesburg, and the Union and Terra Alta ambulances who responded. Many, family, friends, and church family members also came to offer help. This happened on Brenda Hartsell's birthday.

Weekend visitors with Claude and Jean Winters, Eglon, were their son and daughter-in-law, Carl and Nancy Winters, Manassas, Va. They were accompanied by their daughter Suzanne and her sons Owen and Hayden Sapp, Denver, Colo. The Sapps will be joining husband and father Brian in Slovakia, where they will be moving for a two-year period of his employment with JohnsManville.

Jackie and Alma Snyder vacationed this week in Pennsylvania, where they went to the Sight and Sound Theater for a performance of Joseph, then to Stewartstown, Pa., for a visit with Alma's brother Lawrence Donham and wife Peggy. On Saturday morning, they visited with Bruce Snyder in Manchester before returning to their Aurora home.

There were about 35 in the Aurora section of senior citizens to attend the countywide picnic at Big Bear Lake. Entertainment was provided by the Hoppers while the group enjoyed a "super-sized" meal.

Earns Chiropractic Neurology Degree

Dr. Stephen Herto of Kingwood has become the state's first and only chiropractic neurologist, having completed course work in six different cities across the U.S. and Canada. There are currently only 380 active doctors worldwide who hold this degree.

The American Chiropractic Neurology Board (ACNB) requires a minimum of 300 hours in functional neurology before one may sit for the two-day written exam and one-day practical exam. The ACNB is accredited through the same organization that qualifies medical neurologists. Upon passing the examinations, doctors are conferred the title diplomate of the American Chiropractic Board of Neurology (DACNB).

The certification indicates a higher degree of specialization in care of neurological conditions, including multiple sclerosis, stroke rehabilitation, severe spinal pain, migraines, vertigo, dyslexia, and neuropathy. These conditions are treated using advanced functional neurology techniques and procedures.

Dr. Herto has practiced in Kingwood for the past 18 years.

TERRA ALTA NEWS

TERRA ALTA PUBLIC LIBRARY

A local author, Ashlee Mohamoud, from Terra Alta has published her first book. She will be at the Terra Alta Public Library on Monday, Sept. 27, from 4 to 8 p.m. to sign and sell her book, which is titled Brown is Beautiful.

The Summer Reading Program, "Make A Splash," was deemed a success at the library, with many students ranging from kindergarten through 8th grade taking part. A recognition day was held in August for all participants.

More than 400 books were read and reported on throughout the summer. Alexis Hart, a kindergarten student, was the top reader with 91 books. Ashley Cole, a 6th grader, came in second reading 80 books, and third place was taken by Mikey Hart with 59 books.

The Dolly Parton Imagination Library was also a success for Preston County children. The launch was held in July at the Craig Civic Center. This evening's events were free for all residents. All children, from infants to age 5, who signed up for this program will receive books free of charge.

Assisting in the event were members of the Terra Alta Library board of directors, Preston County WIC, Early Childhood, Head Start, and several others.

West Virginia Education and the Arts provided a performance by a magician and handled the sign-up for the children. That evening 174 children were registered for this.

The Terra Alta CEOS (Community Educational Outreach Service) worked through the summer months with children, offering story hours with crafts and activities at the library on the first and third Wednesday of each month.

Bill and Betsy Harper from Oakland brought their dog Ira, a Rottweiler, for his second visit to the library. Ira is a therapeutic dog that is taken to hospitals, nursing homes, schools, and other locations where he interacts with people. The children read to Ira, and celebrated his birthday.

Several memorial books were recently given.

Gail Rosa instructed a knitting class at the library on Monday evenings this summer.

The annual book sale will be held the first week of November. The library will not be accepting any more donations of books until next spring.

Thanks were expressed to all those who have donated books, periodicals, DVDs, or reading materials.

BUSINESS MEETING

The Terra Alta Business Association's next meeting will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 21, at the Terra Alta City Hall board room, beginning at 7 p.m.

The meeting will include the election of officers. All business owners are encouraged to attend.

Farm Tour Set For Saturday At Bruceton Mills

The West Virginia Forest Stewardship Program is sponsoring a series of "Walks in the Woods" throughout the state this summer and fall. These informal tours are open to anyone who currently owns forest land, hopes to own property some day, or simply enjoys spending time outdoors, according to Ellen Voss, outreach and education coordinator for the West Virginia Forest Stewardship Program, WVU Division of Forestry and Natural Resources. The tours are led by state forestry personnel, who Voss said are experts on the issues facing West Virginia's forests.

There will be a Walk in the Woods near Bruceton Mills this Saturday, Sept. 18, starting at 10 am. Bill Slagle will lead a tour of his Walnut Meadows Farm, where he has a 10-acre black walnut plantation and a two-acre paulownia plantation. He also grows seven acres of ginseng and raises shittake mushrooms.

Voss said that this type of forestry is called agroforestry, and it requires intense management.

In addition to agroforestry, the Slagles have created a nature trail on their property, and they gather mosses and greenery for the floral industry. Slagle also has a collection of antique farm machinery, a sawmill, and a large woodshop. Native brook trout have recently returned to his stream.

To register for the tour and/or obtain more information, persons may contact Voss at 304-293-5741 or evoss@mix.wvu.edu. Persons may also go online to www.ahc.caf.wvu.edu/stewardship for more details, or visit http://wvstewards.ning.com for a list of additional forest-related events.

The Forest Stewardship Program offers private woodland owners technical and financial assistance to maintain and enhance the value of their forested land. Assistance is available to improve soil and water quality, wildlife habitat, recreational opportunities, aesthetics, protection of endangered species, management of invasive species, and timber and wood product potential, while ensuring the forest's capacity for self-renewal. The WV Division of Forestry manages the program, with assistance from WVU Extension Service and WVU Division of Forestry and Natural Resources.

3. Development of arsenic treatment alternatives for well no. 2. Proposed technologies must be capable of meeting the proposed 0.005 mg/l maximum containment level.

The alternatives must be evaluated on feasibility, constructability, life cycle cost analysis, and the ability to meet the long term needs of the system as well as current and proposed drinking water standards.

Prijon Kodiak Touring/Sea Kayak 17'
Two Lendal Paddles, One Carbon Fiber Made in Scotland
High Mobility Life Vest
Spray Skirt for Cold Weather Use
Custom Cable Locking Mechanism for Car or Rack Use
Great kayak for beginner or expert. Has wide enough beam to be comfortable and steady but narrow enough profile, with length, to also be fast. Rudder pedal controls installed but no ruder - I never needed it. Two water tight dry compartments makes gear storage easy and boat virtually unsinkable. Kayak has been used very little, perhaps only a dozen or so times total, just light lake and river use - no ocean. The boat has been stored inside for the last few years and was stored on a boat rack beforehand. Boat and gear are all clean and in excellent shape. Total package was more than $3K when bought new, asking $1,300 for all, obo. Call Rick at 301-334-1444

Prostate Cancer: Making An Informed Decision About Being Screened

by Diane Lee, GCHD

Prostate cancer is the second leading cause of cancer deaths in men in the United States. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, one in six men in the U.S. will be diagnosed with prostate cancer during his lifetime, and one in 33 will die from it.

In its Cancer Facts and Figures 2010, the American Cancer Society (ACS) estimates that 4,010 men in Maryland will be diagnosed with prostate cancer, and 650 will die from it in 2010. In the U.S., approximately 217,310 men will be diagnosed, and 32,050 will die from it in 2010.

Experts on prostate cancer disagree about whether men should be screened regularly for prostate cancer. The Garrett County Health Department is educating men about prostate cancer and encouraging them to speak with their doctor or health care provider to learn about their personal risks for prostate cancer, options for screening, and potential benefits and complications of diagnosis and treatment in order to make an informed decision about their health. It is very important that men communicate with their doctors to make an informed decision about whether to be screened.

The main risk factor for prostate cancer is age, as the chance of a man getting prostate cancer increases with age. Approximately 63% of prostate cancer is diagnosed in men over the age of 65 years. Other risk factors are race and family history.

Prostate cancer affects a disproportionate number of African American men who are, according to the ACS, more likely to be diagnosed at an advanced stage of prostate cancer and are twice as likely to die from it as white men. Prostate cancer is less common among white, Hispanic, Latino, Asian/Pacific Islander, American Indian, and Alaska Native men than in African American men. Family history of prostate cancer is another risk factor, and about 5% to10% of men with prostate cancer have a family history of prostate cancer.

Having a risk factor means that a man has a higher chance of getting the disease than a man without the risk factor, but most men with risk factors do not get prostate cancer.

The symptoms for prostate cancer may include blood in the urine, the need to urinate frequently, especially at night, weak or interrupted urine flow, pain or a burning feeling while urinating, the inability to urinate, and constant pain in the lower back, pelvis, or upper thighs. Men should consult with their health care provider if any of these symptoms occur.

Prostate cancer screening is done with a blood test that looks at the level of prostate specific antigen (PSA) and with a digital rectal exam (DRE), where your doctor feels the prostate gland with a gloved finger. Most health insurances pay or help pay for the cost of these tests.

It is not yet known how to prevent prostate cancer. However, the key behaviors in cancer prevention, which are not smoking, healthy diet, physical activity, and healthy weight, can help to lower the risk of many types of cancer, while also reducing the risk of heart disease, diabetes, and stroke.

For more information about prostate cancer screening, call the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7770 or 301-895-3111. You may also call the 24-hour line of the American Cancer Society's Cancer information specialist at 1-800-ACS-2345 (1-800-227-2345).

"Wind Energy 101" Class To Be Held At Garrett College

Garrett College and St. Francis University of Loretto, Pa., will offer "Wind Energy 101," a two-hour course designed to share information and facts about the applications, history, and economic and environmental impacts of wind and wind energy.

The course is scheduled for Friday, Oct. 1, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. This presentation is open to all ages, including school groups.

The cost of the course is $5 per participant. Discount rates are available for groups of 10 or more participants.

"St. Francis University established the Renewable Energy Center (REC) in 2005 as a reflection of its commitment to improving the environment and serving our communities," noted Maney Gale, program coordinator for GC's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division. "The REC identifies the barriers to renewable energy use and sets up programs to overcome them."

The staff of the REC educates around 2,000 people, schools, municipalities, and businesses a year, according to Gale.

"As wind energy continues to be a controversial topic, the staff of the REC provides services to promote a better understanding of the facts in an unbiased manner," she said.

They have provided wind education at town meetings, conferences, and classrooms; assisted in developing township wind ordinances; analyzed wind project investment; consulted on wind project development; and they maintain Pennsylvania's "Renewable Energy Online Business Directory," which provides resource information for consumers, according to Gale.

Persons may call Gale at 301-387-3086 or e-mail her at maney.gale@garrettcollege.edu for more information.

To register for the course, one may call 301-387-3069.

Three FireFly Farms' Cheeses Earn Top Honors

FireFly Farms, producer of artisanal goat cheeses from Maryland's Allegheny Plateau, recently announced that three of its aged goat cheeses received top honors at the American Cheese Society's (ACS) annual conference and judging held in Seattle, Wash.

The 2010 Judging & Competition saw a record number of entries: 1,462 cheeses and cultured milk products from 225 different producers in the United States, Canada, and Mexico. A total of 350 ribbons were awarded in 107 different distinct categories.

"The increase in this year's entries mirrors the fantastic growth we're seeing in the industry. As more people strive to make excellent cheese, they are turning to ACS for feedback about their products," said ACS president Christine Hyatt. "The vision of our founders was not only to recognize the best cheeses in our industry, but also to offer feedback and guidance that will improve the quality of all cheeses produced in the Americas. This philosophy is still at the heart of our judging process today."

FireFly Farms' aged goat cheese, Black & Blue™, received the first place ribbon competing in a class against other blue-veined cheeses made from goat's milk. This ribbon is the fourth individual honor received by FireFly Farm's Black & Blue. These honors now include consecutive first place finishes in the ACS judging for 2008, 2009, and 2010.

FireFly's aged goat cheese, MountainTop Bleu™, received the second place ribbon competing in the same class against other blue-veined cheeses made from goat's milk. This ribbon is the 12th individual honor received by FireFly Farms' MountainTop Bleu, which includes selection by Saveur Magazine editors as one of their 50 favorite American cheeses.

FireFly Farms' aged goat cheese, Bella Vita™, received the first place ribbon competing in an open class against other cheeses made from goat's milk. This ribbon is the fifth individual honor received by FireFly Farms' Bella Vita, including 2007 Reserve Best-In-Show selection by the American Dairy Goat Association judging.

"We are ecstatic," said FireFly's head cheese maker, Matt Cedro. "This is a great honor for us, and we are humbled to have our cheeses recognized on this national stage. We are very proud of all our cheeses –

FINISHED! WHAT A FEELING! Local athlete Elizabeth Green is pictured as she reaches the ultimate goal in the SavageMan Triathlon — crossing the finish line. She came in third Saturday in the woman's 19 and younger category with a time of 3:29.37. Nicole Walch, another Garrett Countian, placed second in that group with 3:19.16. More than 1,000 runners, swimmers, bikers, and those who do all three came across the line, completing what Triathlete magazine has crowned the hardest triathlon in the world. The SavageMan Festival took place over the weekend, with the 30.0 race held on Saturday and the grueling 70.0 on Sunday. The competition began and concluded in Deep Creek Lake State Park. The results and multiple photographs can be viewed online at savagemantri.org. Greg Safko, director of the race and president of the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation, the recipient of the race proceeds, said this year's event was "an incredible race in a multitude of perspectives — from registration of 1,100+ athletes, many drawn to western Maryland for the first time to experience the beauty and savage challenge — to the hundreds of highly valued and praised volunteers from within the communities hosting athlete guests from throughout the country and the globe." He said the fundraising for the melanoma foundation "far exceeded prior years." See additional pictures in today's issue. Photo by C. Kellyann Green.

"But For The Grace Of God Go I": Garrett County's Hidden Homeless

by Glenn Tolbert

In Garrett County they're known as "the hidden homeless."

You don't see them pushing shopping carts filled with possessions, or holding out signs requesting money or a place to sleep. But the homeless are very much here.

They're temporarily staying with friends or relatives who want them out of the house. Or they're the victims of domestic abuse who may literally be fleeing for their lives.

Ask Carrie Getson about the homeless in Garrett County. As senior case manager for Garrett County Community Action's (GCCAC), she has aided 515 persons this year living in 149 households. The assistance can be anything and everything from the first month's rent to security deposits, eviction prevention, and utility shutoffs.

How do people in this area, where the long, brutal winters make it impossible to live on the streets, get to be homeless?

"Many have burned their bridges with family members," Getson says. "They may have also had rocky relationships with previous employers and landlords. This makes it very difficult for them to get into housing that they can afford."

Getson points out that while there is money available to the homeless population to help initially get them into housing, ongoing assistance has a waiting list of several years.

"Currently, we have funding to provide one night's shelter in three motels in the county," she says. "This really doesn't help the situation too much."

However, on a somewhat brighter note, Getson and others in her area of expertise, point out that there is very good collaboration among several agencies in the county to help tackle the homeless problem in Garrett County.

One such group is the Garrett County Core Service Agency. It has oversight of Public Mental Health Services in the county, and as part of this function, has funding available for people who are receiving public mental health services and are already homeless or at imminent risk of being so.

United Way Honors Charity Golf Committee, Sincell Publishing Inc.

Steve Lantz, Janet Marsh, and Cindy Hall of the Charity Golf Tournament Leadership Team and Sincell Publishing Company Inc. were recently named the recipients of the United Way of Garrett County's individual and business Community Caring Awards for 2010, which were presented at the annual campaign kickoff and awards banquet at Allegany College in Cumberland.

In order for an individual to be nominated for this award, Garrett County criteria states that he or she must reside in the county and demonstrate a long-time commitment to volunteering and donating to the community (United Way and/or other community organizations) without compensation. The business selected must meet the same criteria, in addition to encouraging workers to support the United Way or other non-profits by suggesting volunteer opportunities and/or conducting an employee campaign for contributions through payroll deduction.

According to Mary Beth Pirolozzi, executive director of County United Way, the Charity Golf Tournament Team and Sincell Publishing have each demonstrated "extraordinary commitment to community."

The Charity Golf Tournament, sponsored for the past 12 years by First United Bank and Trust and chaired by Lantz, Marsh, and Hall, has raised over $353,180. These funds have supported a number of community projects and raised community awareness.

In his acceptance remarks, Lantz said that the mission and vision of the tournament is that monies raised "will assist Garrett County residents who need it the most." A number of different programs and charities have been the beneficiaries of the tournament proceeds throughout the years.

In presenting the award, Robin Murray, who was last year's recipient of the individual award, acknowledged and credited "the hard work and dedication of this leadership team for their years of commitment

Sex Solicitation Charge Against Lax Is Dropped

A charge of sexual solicitation of a minor filed against an Oakland man was dropped Monday because the alleged victim and her family chose not to pursue the investigation, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, Garrett County state's attorney.

Timothy Brandon Field Lax, 23, was arrested July 19 after he allegedly used a public library computer to solicit sexual favors from a 13-year-old Kentucky girl, according to a report of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office

Welch said that that the state did not have sufficient evidence to pursue the case.

It was also reported that the 13-year-old informed Lax via e-mail that she was in her 30s.

ARC Awards Grant To Study Tourism At Deep Creek Lk.

The Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) has awarded a $20,000 grant to Garrett County to conduct a study of tourism at Deep Creek Lake, allowing local residents, businesses, and government to better plan for future development in the area, according to U.S. Senators Barbara A. Mikulski and Benjamin L. Cardin. In addition to ARC funds, local sources will provide $20,000.

"This federal funding will help Garrett County boost its tourism and its economy," Mikulski said. "This funding is a federal investment in jobs today and jobs tomorrow in western Maryland. I'm so proud that Garrett County will be able to use these funds to continue to develop and grow."

The ARC funds will be used to study lake visitors by demographic and season, analyze second home/rental property revenues, and define spending by category and season at lake-area businesses. It is anticipated that the information will provide a better understanding of the lake's economic importance and provide a framework for future allocations to protect and preserve this environmental asset.

Oakland Man Is Badly Injured While Shooting Fireworks

Maryland State Fire Marshals are currently investigating an illegal fireworks incident that severely injured a man last Friday evening.

Bryan Dean Crosco, Oakland, had reportedly been shooting fireworks from the back porch of his Hutton Road residence. He was using a handheld PVC tube to shoot them from and after one successful launch, a second charge failed and detonated inside the tube while Crosco was holding it.

He sustained severe damage to his hands, power burns and shrapnel to his abdomen, and mild burns and shrapnel to his face and neck. At the time the press release was received, he was listed in serious condition at Allegheny Hospital, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Maryland Municipalities Rally For Critical State Road, Police Funding

The Maryland Municipal League (MML), representing 157 municipal governments and two special taxing districts serving 1.5 million people in Maryland's cities and towns, recently passed a statewide resolution urging Maryland Governor Martin O'Malley and members of the General Assembly to restore critical Highway User Revenues and Police Aid for municipalities in the FY 2012 state budget.

In addition, municipalities are passing similar local resolutions to call attention to the issue in their communities and to urge residents to contact their state elected officials and candidates before important decisions about the budget will be made next year.

"Significant state funding cuts, combined with reduced property tax revenues and increased operating expenses, has resulted in the loss of millions of dollars used to provide basic, quality-of-life services for people living in Maryland's cities and towns," said Scott A. Hancock, executive director of the MML. "Highway User Revenues and Police Aid make up considerable portions of most municipal budgets – especially those of small towns."

In FY 2008, Highway User Revenues for municipalities was fully funded at nearly $45 million. In April 2009, it was reduced to $6.1 million and then further cut by the Board of Public Works in August 2009, after municipalities had already passed their budgets and had started work on some road projects.

In the current fiscal year, it is estimated municipalities will receive only $1.6 million to be shared among Maryland's 157 cities and towns, which is more than a 90 percent reduction in state shared revenues from 2008.

According to Hancock, all municipalities use these funds for transportation projects, street repair, and snow removal. He said that the cuts came at a particularly difficult time for municipalities, especially given the significant costs incurred in responding to several major snow storms last winter.

The significant reduction in state Police Aid is also an issue for 88 municipalities that maintain their own police departments, he said. In 2008, funding for municipal Police Aid was nearly $12.1 million. In FY 2011, it is predicted to be reduced by 35 percent from that 2008 figure.

"We know that cuts must

Additional Funding Awarded To Cherry Glade Road Proj.

The Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) has awarded an additional $384,000 to Garrett County to complete the construction of the Cherry Glade Access Road in Oakland, Senators Barbara Mikulski and Benjamin Cardin announced Tuesday.

The new road will provide improved access to a new commercial site, ease congestion, and create new jobs, according to Mikulski.

"Transportation infrastructure is critical to future economic growth of a region," said Cardin. "This grant will allow Garrett County to complete the Cherry Glade Access Road so that the new commercial development will be fully operational, providing jobs for area residents."

The Maryland State Highway Administration will administer the project, and the Federal Highway Administration will serve as the basic federal agency. In addition to ARC funds, Garrett County will provide $96,000 toward the $480,000 project.

The road will cross the former Garrett County Roads Department property, connecting Rt. 219 and Fourth Street. A fast-food restaurant recently opened at the site, and a bank is scheduled to be built in the near future.

"I'm so proud that these funds will help the region attract new businesses, new jobs, and new economic development to Oakland," Mikulski said about the ARC grant.

The ARC is a federal-state partnership that works with the people of Appalachia to create opportunities for self-sustaining economic development and improved quality of life.

There is no registration fee for the event, and all volunteers will receive a commemorative T-shirt, a light breakfast, and a box lunch.

The United Way of Garrett County has worked to make the Day of Caring and Sharing an annual event that brings recognition and service to local charities, and non-profit agencies and organizations. Businesses and employees are encouraged to participate in the event and can register for the event by calling toll free 877-597-2700.

For more information about the Day of Caring and Sharing and the United Way of Garrett County, persons should call the office at the above-mentioned number or visit www.garrettunitedway.org.

For more information, or to apply for an AmeriCorps member for a nonprofit organization, persons should contact Frostburg State University's Office of Leadership and Civic Engagement at 301-687-4210.

GC Homeless

Working in partnership with GCCAC, Social Services, and the Dove Center, even Core Services personnel point out how financially prohibitive, obtaining and maintaining housing can be.

"If there are no rental assistance programs available or housing vouchers available, it can easily take close to $1,000 to move into an apartment," says Fred Polce, agency director. "If utilities are not included, security deposit charges for electric, gas, water, and telephone service need to be added."

Garrettland Inc. is easily the county's largest owner of rental properties. Out of the more than 500 units the company owns, 200 are subsidized and around 350 are rented at full price.

Cindy Byers, senior regional manager, says the largest reason for renters being forced out is domestic violence. Other reasons for homelessness in general include "overcrowding, people selling the homes and renters having to leave, and families getting tired of having everyone come live with them."

Tom Rosser, assistant director for family investment at Garrett County Social Services doesn't often deal directly with the problem of homelessness, but some of the people do require his services.

"As of September first of this year, we have 3,990 individuals receiving food stamps in Garrett County," he says. "It's never been higher."

In addition, 6,459 Garrett Countians receive a medical assistance card, which pays for most medical visits and procedures, according to Rosser.

"If it wasn't for the incredible number of medical cards out there, we wouldn't have as many doctors in the area," he says.

The state of homelessness in the county is also reflected in the number of women living at the Dove Center. This women's protective group has seen a steady increase over the past two years "and a lot of it has to do with not enough affordable housing in place here," says director Heather Hanline.

Affordable housing has been foremost on the agenda of Garrett County Community Action Committee president Duane Yoder.

"Homelessness in Garrett County has been substantially mitigated by the affordable housing development in the community," says Yoder. "But it will always be difficult for those persons whose income is less than 30 percent of the rent or even those with no income."

There have been almost no rent subsidies coming into the area in the past decade, and there is often a long waiting list, necessitating a year or more before the rent assistance is available, according to Yoder.

"In most of these cases, the person is disabled or is just released from an institution or has a substance abuse problem," he says.

Oakland Police chief John Sines oversees a small force of men who patrol Garrett County's seat and its environs. Sometimes in his patrolling, Sines or one of his officers comes across someone living in the woods or under a bridge.

Sines, known for his gentle approach to enforcing the law, says he is never hard on the rare homeless person he might come across, either within Oakland or its environs.

"I just tell them that if they're on private property that they have to go," he says. "And then I pray out loud that famous saying, 'There but for the grace of God go I.'"

Better than Money...

One of the obvious effects of the continued slow economy is the reduction in the supply of extra funds that are earmarked to make charitable donations. This is true for individuals, as well as churches, organizations, and businesses. The need for funds never seems to go away, but the supply of available funds waxes and wanes with the economy.

However, there are other ways to contribute to worthy efforts and causes that do not cost a dime, and Garrett County residents of all ages and income levels will have not one, but two opportunities within the next week or so to make such a contribution.

The first Garrett County Volunteer Fair, sponsored by Garrett College and three local women's organizations, will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. this Saturday at Garrett College. Representatives of over 30 organizations are expected to be in attendance to share all kinds of information on how folks can get involved in volunteer service.

The second event is the seventh annual Garrett County Day of Caring and Sharing, which is sponsored by the United Way of Garrett County and slated for Friday, Oct. 1, beginning at 8 a.m. A variety of opportunities for volunteer service will be offered that day to all who show up at the Oakland fire hall, and the day will be spent out in the community aiding and assisting with various projects that need attention.

As has been advocated in this column before, one does not need money to get actively involved in literally hundreds of volunteer opportunities, whether with a church, an organization, or some kind of community project, and thereby truly make a positive difference. In many instances, the volunteer service is considerably more valuable than monetary contributions. Buying house paint for a low-income senior citizen is not nearly as valuable as painting the house.

So it is hoped that the two aforementioned events will not only attract a good response, but more importantly that they will also help encourage the participants to continue to pursue avenues of volunteer service in the community the other 363 days of the year.

To the Editor:

Again, thank you to everyone who made the SavageMan Triathlon Festival possible. Every single one of us who competed in either of the races was able to do it only because of your contributions in every capacity.

Garrett County was well-represented by local athletes, and I look forward to reading the results of their achievements in The Republican. Triathlon is one of the few sports where amateurs compete in the same race with elites and professionals – something you don't have very often!

The Westernport Wall Block Party was its typical raucous blast, with 90 minutes of cheering and bell-ringing as cyclists tested their mettle against the pitted, pot-holed, 31% grade of Rock Street. Unfortunately, the professional videographer suffered an equipment malfunction; therefore, any spectators who took any video of this notorious stunt, no matter how short or long, are asked to contact the race organization at info@savagemantri.org.

Thank you, everyone! Two more epic days are entered in the history of triathlon and Garrett County's lively active-sport reputation!

To the Editor:

Every juvenile appearing in court in the last year for illegal possession or distribution of prescription pills reported that they or a friend had taken them from a relative. That is one reason why I, with the Garrett County Health Department, am supporting the participation of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office in the DEA's National Prescription Drug Take-Back Day.

This Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., expired, unused, and unwanted medications can be dropped off at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office in Oakland or at Grantsville Town Hall. All participants will remain anonymous – you will be asked to remove identifying labels at the site before you drop your medication into the DEA box.

I urge all residents to participate. You don't want to become an unwitting contributor to another person's drug abuse.

Sincerely,
Lisa Thayer Welch
GC State's Attorney

P.S. Each of the first 75 people appearing at each location will receive a $5 gift card.

To the Editor:

Many of you saw my letter to the editor this past July regarding the lack of availability of the Baltimore/Washington D.C. television stations to us here in Garrett County. I have received considerable support in this effort, and I want to thank each and everyone of you for this support.

I created a petition that has been circulating around in various places, and want to give you an update. Marta Schroyer, editor of the Deep Creek Times web site, put an abbreviated form of my petition on her web site, and I continue to receive copies of the petition from her readers. For those who have not had a chance to sign it, I am very happy to continue to receive them via mail.

A couple of additional notes for everyone: Copies of the petition are now available in all Garrett County libraries, and the county has also made copies available in each of the county department offices. Persons should also be able to find copies in the Christian Crossing Thrift Store, as well as the Episcopal Church's Nearly New Thrift Shop.

I have received an e-mail of support from the Garrett County commissioners, and today I received a letter of support from the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. Thanks to everyone for your support. I also know that many have written letters to our legislators in support of this effort, and I appreciate that very much.

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to the Garrett County commissioners requested that it appear in this column.

Commissioners:

In light of September 14, we ask that you consider closing the "whitewater project" on top of the Wisp mountain. The maintenance costs are extreme and if the large pumps and equipment are sold (while they have value), some of the taxpayers' $10 million in costs will be reduced. This, as you know, is the worst man-made environmental hazard the county has ever had. The water ways could be filled with solid waste, after which grassed over and returned to close to natural.

The volumes of water drawn from the lake for this monumental disaster would end and save both extreme electric (to operate pumps) and water waste.

It would also greatly assist the taxpayers if the planned $23 million, 60,000-square-foot buildings (with the swimming pools) be put on hold. Please help the taxpayers who must pay for all expenditure decisions of the commissioners.

For those who do not like math, the cost of $33 million works out to a cost of $1,100 for every man, woman, and child in Garrett County, just for those two projects. So, if there are four in your family, the cost to you is $4,400. Understand that this expenditure comes from local, state, and federal; however, the money must come from Garrett County via taxes to these governments, and then back to Garrett County. The commissioners still make the decisions, whether to spend or not. We could use this money to either reduce taxes, or eradicate all poverty in our great county.

To the Editor:

We are pleased with the level of research effort Deep Creek Lake is receiving these days. The WQWG (Water Quality Working Group), a group of agency scientists and water monitoring experts, had a 4½-hour meeting on various research efforts under way.

MDE staff and consultants presented the WQA (Water Quality Assessment) study, finding the lake and watershed are not impaired for phosphorous.

DNR reported on the 2010 water monitoring program, as well as the new component on SAV (submerged aquatic vegetation) mapping work under way. Another DNR employee reported on the fish kill, with final analysis pending.

The lake manager responded to questions about the new DNR sediment plan.

Dr. Kelsey from the University of Maryland Center for Environmental Sciences explored research issues relating to the forthcoming State of the Watershed report.

So, for now, is the lake healthy? Recently it was reported DNR Secretary Griffin provided "a resounding yes." His actual answer at the State of the Watershed Forum is a more measured view. It is presented verbatim below.

"From everything we know the lake does not have any imminent problems. There are some warning signs, if you will, that we want to pay more attention to.

"We will learn more to verify our preliminary assumption when this work (ongoing research) is done. I don't see any smoking guns, thankfully, in terms of lake health that would cause alarm at the moment.

"All the better reason to get ahead of the problem as opposed to letting it develop and then have a major price tag which no one seems to be able to fund and a declining lake and declining economy around it. I can assure you that none of us or you want to see this to happen.

"We are in a good position, if we just work together, to be better stewards, do things we all need to do – government, citizens in this watershed."

We need to take Secretary Griffin's statement to heart. We must move beyond denial or easy statements of concern. We all – residential and commercial stakeholders, local, state, and federal government – need to work together constructively and proactively to be better stewards and undertake the tasks needed for protection of this wonderful watershed.

To the Editor:

Why do Californians know more about what is good for Maryland than we do? Consider these excerpts from the Los Angeles Times September 14, 2001:

"Don't move mountains" and build unwanted power lines like PATH.

"Mountaintop removal comes at too high a cost – for the land, the water, and the taxpayers, who end up footing the bill for environmental damage."

"Mountaintop removal projects should be stopped."

"Mountaintop removal is a form of surface mining. The tops of mountains, often in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Wyoming, are stripped of their trees and then blasted off to get at the coal underneath."

"And that's not the worst part. The rubble, sludge and other detritus are dumped into the valleys and rivers below, where they bury tributaries and pollute streams."

"Mining companies should be proposing environmentally acceptable ways to pull coal from the ground – until the country reaches the point where it doesn't need this fuel and its dirty footprint."

Again, we in Maryland need to wake up to the fact that coal mining is no longer a positive for our nation's energy creation. Consider the other impacts on our mountains and the countryside we love by having new high-power transmission lines like PATH built miles across sections of our state just to move coal-generated power to the East Coast.

1. Does authorization of the PATH transmission lines discourage otherwise competitive renewable energy resources, including development of the East Coast off-shore wind resources advocated by Secretary of the Interior Salazar and governors of 10 eastern states? Yes!

2. How soon will we as a nation, not just Marylanders, West Virginians, and Virginians, wake up to the need for unobtrusive sources of energy like heavy ion fusion currently under development in California by Fusion Power Corporation in Santa Cruz, Calif.? Fusion power plants can be located near the needs for energy and will not require the building of any kind of interstate transmission lines like PATH. And they do not use fossil fuels.

3. How does PATH's long transmission line affect the expressed concerns of many East Coast states about the high economic and environmental costs and adverse impacts of long distance transmission lines from the Ohio Valley and Midwest to the East Coast?

We need to wake up to the fact that the cost of coal power and PATH is too high for us to pay!

To the Editor:

On September 25 people will have the opportunity to dispose of unwanted prescription and over-the-counter medications in a safe and environmentally friendly location.

The Garrett County sheriff's office, along with the health department and state's attorney's office, are partnering in the first National Prescription Drug Take-Back Day. This effort is being held to get potentially dangerous medications out of medicine cabinets and disposed of without harming the environment.

The event also raises awareness of the fact that prescription drugs are being abused at an alarming rate. While we benefit from medications that are used properly, keeping expired and unused medications, especially pain killers in our medicine cabinet, is a bad idea. Unfortunately, many people get addicted to prescription drugs inadvertently because they are not following the directions of their doctor or pharmacist.

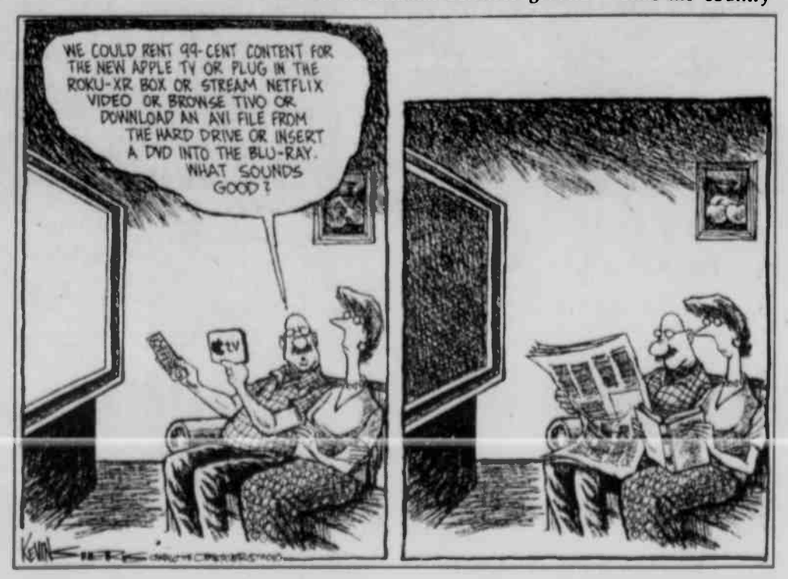

Also, many school age children obtain drugs to misuse by taking them from the medicine cabinets of parents, grandparents, friends, and others. Addiction counselors are seeing an increase locally and nationwide of cases where hard-core addiction was the result of first experimenting by using prescription drugs. Sadly, many overdose deaths are the result of persons abusing medications that are prescribed to heal.

In Garrett County, prescription and over-the-counter drugs can be dropped off at the Garrett County sheriff's office, 202 S. Third Street, Oakland, and also at Grantsville Town Hall, 171 Hill Street. A deputy sheriff along with a local health official will oversee the process, but no questions will be asked. The service is free and anonymous. Identifying information will be removed from bottles and containers, and the drugs will be deposited in a sealed box that DEA officials will transport to a disposal site.

One of the biggest problems is how to safely dispose of medications without the risk of contaminating the environment. That problem will be eliminated because the DEA will incinerate the drugs in specially designed incinerators. This should be a big help since we often get a message that we should not keep old medications, while also being told to not flush them or throw them out.

As the chairperson of the Garrett County Drug Free Communities Coalition, I would like to thank the sheriff's office, state's attorney's office, and health department for supporting this effort. I also encourage everyone to participate on September 25 in order to make our community a safer place to live.

Sincerely,
Anna Bishop, Chair
GC Drug-Free Communities Coalition

be made during difficult economic times, but a 90 percent cut in Highway User Revenues and a 35 percent cut in Police Aid is more than we can absorb," said Gaithersburg mayor Sidney Katz, chairperson of the MML Municipal Revenue Strategies Workgroup.

Our municipal residents contribute to these funds through state-mandated fees and taxes, but our share of the money is not being returned to be used in our communities."

Among specific impacts noted by the MML was that of the town of Mountain Lake Park, which has a population of about 2,000. Since 2008, the state has reduced the town's share of Highway User Fees by more than $236,000, or 45 percent, of the town's General Fund/Highway User Revenues budget, according to Mayor Leo Martin. Among the major expenses that the town council cut in order to balance the budget and continue to provide basic transportation services were: $60,000 from capital projects reserve/sewer, $40,000 from paving, $20,000 from equipment replacement, $15,000 from storm drain capital outlay, and nearly $24,000 from contingency funds.

"There were additional cuts to repair and maintenance of town buildings, the town security system, and wetlands acquisition," Mayor Martin said.

In addition, the town manager and contract deputy sheriff positions were eliminated. Overall, Martin said that this has amounted to extremely limited street paving and equipment maintenance in an area of Maryland where severe weather impacts road conditions.

The MML noted that the situation in Mtn. Lake Park was just one example of what has happened in numerous other small towns throughout the state.

MML is also asking the General Assembly for more options for raising revenues. Currently, municipalities rely heavily on property taxes, Hancock said, which make up nearly 60 percent of municipal budgets. These revenues are decreasing based on the current downturn in housing values.

"Unlike counties, Maryland municipalities do not have the authority to levy transfer, recordation, energy, or telecommunication taxes," said Hancock, adding that municipalities need enabling legislative authority to be able to utilize new revenue tools to make up for lost state shared revenues.

Headquartered at the Phipps Municipal Center in Annapolis, the MML was founded in 1936. A voluntary, non-profit, nonpartisan association controlled and maintained by city and town governments, MML works to strengthen and support municipal government through advocacy and the development of effective leadership.

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

East Preston Floral

A celebration will be held at East Preston Floral m Terra Alt, W.Va., on Friday, Oct. 1, in observance of the business's 25th year in operation. The shop is located at 601 East State Avenue and is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., and on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

"I am proud to be the current owner and able to invite you to our anniversary celebration," Loretta Wotring said. "Join me for cake and punch, 25 percent off everything in the shop, door prizes to the first 25 customers, drawings for special gifts, and a day of fun. Help me celebrate our silver anniversary at East Preston Floral."

Harold and Sandie Kisner and their daughter Cynthia opened the first East Preston Floral on Oct. 1, 1985, along East Washington Avenue in the former 5&10 Store building in Terra Alta.

But Cynthia got married and moved away, and the Kisners sold the shop a year later to Edna Britton and her daughter, Janice Feather. They owned the store for eight years.

Loretta credits Edna for starting the tradition of holding Christmas open houses at the shop.

In 1995, Edna and Janice sold the business to Angie Freeland and her mother, Liz Frazee, who moved the shop to 406 East State Ave.

In 2000, Dori and Daniel Braniff purchased the business and moved it to its bigger, present location along East State Avenue. The Braniffs continued to hold open houses and also built a parade float to advertise the business.

After eight years, however, they sold the floral business to Loretta, who operates the shop, and her son, Jocelyn Wotring.

Loretta received training in floral design at a community college and has 27 years' experience in craft, textile, and floral designing.

She does flower arrangements, wedding displays, sympathy and remembrance arrangements, and sympathy throws and illumanarias. Also available are silk flower arrangements, home decor items such as wreaths, swags, and garlands, exclusive Hillbilly Snax Pac buckets, and made-to-order fruit, treat, and gourmet baskets.

4-H Club News

EGLON MOUNTAINEER 4-H

Nine members of the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club, plus leaders and parents, met Sept. 13 at the Farmers' Wildlife Park in Horse Shoe Run for a catch-and-release fishing activity. Helping with the event was former member Craig Remsold. Only a few fish were actually caught, then released. Winners of door prizes provided by Craig were Jesse Schalker and Jonathon Blamble.

The regular monthly meeting of the club was held following fishing. Devotions were given by the Conservation Committee. Tyler Pomeroy led the pledges.

The Buckwheat Festival was an item of business. Haley Rocha reported on the Lamb Dressing Contest committee. Exhibits for the Memorial North Building need to be brought to the leaders next Monday, Sept. 27.

National 4-H Week, Oct. 3–9, will be celebrated by the club with a display of exhibits at the Aurora School, and with members wearing 4-H pins and T-shirts during the week.

Livestock project record books are due to Linda Lewis no later than Oct. 6, as well as treasurer's and secretary's books.

It was announced that there will be a county 4-H Field Day on Oct. 16 starting at 2:30 p.m. and running through council circle that evening. A day for new 4-H members will be held Nov. 2 at the Extension Office in Kingwood from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The cost at registration will be $8.

The club will be serving the Mtn. Lions Club on Oct. 21 at 6:30 p.m. at the Eglon Memorial Building.

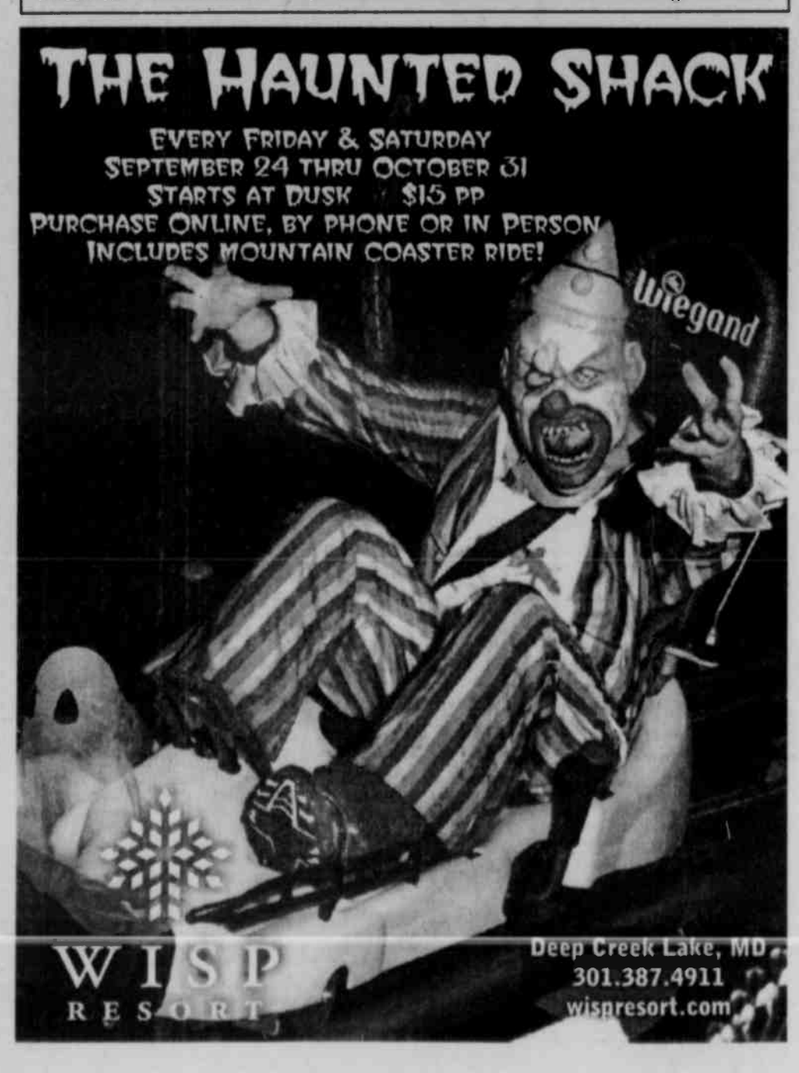

The next meeting, Oct. 11, the club will observe Halloween by dressing up in costumes, and bringing Halloween themed desserts to share. The election of officers will also take place.

Camp T-shirts were given out, as were photos that went on to the West Virginia State Fair from the county photo, then state photo contests. All won blue ribbons.

Attending were Savannah Arnett, Danielle and Jonathon Blamble, Sierra Evans, Tyler Pomeroy, Jesse Schalker, Trevor and Wesley Spaid, and Haley Rocha.

OTT Holding Auditions For Play Little Foxes

Our Town Theatre is planning to cast the fall play The Little Foxes, written by Lillian Hellman. Auditions will be held in the OTT basement, located at 121 Center Street, Oakland, on Sept. 26 from 1 to 3 p.m. and Sept. 27 from 7 to 9 p.m., or by special appointment.

To arrange a special appointment, persons should call the theatre at 301-334-5640, ext. 3.

The show will be presented at the theatre on Nov. 17-21. Jane Avery, director, noted that few rehearsals will be held before the Autumn Glory Festival.

The play, which calls for six men and four women, is about the prosperous, despotic Hubbard family, Avery said. The director described the roles as follows: Ben; possessive and scheming; Oscar, cruel and arrogant; Ben's dupe Leo, weak and unprincipled; Regina, wickedly clever.

"Each of these characters is trying to outwit the other," Avery said. "In contrast, there is lonely, intimidated Birdie, whom Oscar wed for her father's cotton fields; wistful Alexandra, Regina's daughter; and Horace, ailing husband of Regina, between whom a breach has existed for years. The conflict in these lives has been caused by Ben's ambition to build a cotton mill."

The leads in the show are Regina, who is in her 40s, and Ben, in his 50s. Supporting roles are Oscar, 40-50; Leo, early 20s; Birdie, 40-50; Alexandra, late teens to early 20s; and Horace, in his 50s. The minor roles are Mr. Marshall, 40s-50s; Cal, an African-American; and Addie, also an African-American.

Southern, Northern Garrett Marching Bands Now Engaged In Competition

The competition season for marching bands is well under way across the country, and Garrett County's two high school groups are now engaged in Tournament of Bands (TOB) contests each weekend.

Northern Garrett and Southern Garrett marching bands have so far participated in two field show competitions, with several more scheduled into November. The students have been rehearsing for months, beginning practices last spring. Both groups engaged in band camp in August, which is a weeklong, all-day program during which the members learn their field show for the season.

Northern Garrett is under the direction of Duane Salisbury, and Southern is directed by Joshua Elmlinger. The assistant director at Northern is Danny Reynolds, and Southern's assistant director is Heather Poe Roth. Both bands are in the TOB Group I division. The groups in the circuit are based on the number of playing members in each band.

Northern Garrett's 2010 Field Show

Northern Garrett's show this year features the music of the popular musical Les Miserables, composed in 1980 by Claude-Michel Schonberg and based on the novel by Victor Hugo. The band plays five songs from the musical: "I Dreamed a Dream," "The Attack of Rue Plumet", "Work Song/ At End of Day," and "One Day More."

The field commander this year for Northern is Keesha Jo Fazenbaker. She won the specialty award for Best Drum Major on Saturday at the Preston High School Marching Spectacular.

"Northern is turning a corner this year," Salisbury said. "We have dedicated members who are ready to take the field."

The first show for Northern was on Sept. 11 at Elizabeth Forward (Pa.) High School. NHS finished in second place in Group I with a score of 69.65. Steel Valley took first in that show with a score of 70.15, and Avonworth came in third with 67.50.

This past Saturday at Preston, Northern placed third in Group I with a score of 69.50, and won the drum major award.

Northern's band is currently soliciting funding for new band uniforms.

"This year was a challenge, as the band uniforms are in poor condition and piecing them together to make sure all of our students had uniforms was difficult," said band parent Kellyann Green. "Outfitting the entire band with new uniforms will be a large expense, as each uniform costs $450."

Persons interested in supporting the effort may mail donations to Salisbury at NHS, 86 Pride Parkway, Accident, MD 21520.

For additional information regarding the band uniform effort, persons may contact Green via e-mail at cgreen@railey.com.

Salisbury said he was disappointed by the slight drop in score from the first show to the second, but felt the students performed well, and will improve this week as they go against several Group I bands at Allegany High School on Saturday.

"I am very proud of our student musicians," Salisbury said. "We are still building our show. Having finished the drill, we are now adding color guard work and band visuals. I did have a number of compliments on the painting that was featured in the backfield of our show. This painting was done be two of our students, Keesha Fazenbaker, our drum major; and Cory Spiker, our percussion captain. There are a couple more pictures that will be added to the show in coming weeks."

Southern Garrett's 2010 Field Show

For the second year in a row, Southern Garrett Marching Band's field show has been composed by the director, Joshua Elmlinger. He said the process of composing the music takes several months, but he finds it helpful to write the music specifically for the musicians he has, knowing what instruments he has, as well as each student's capabilities.

The show this year is titled "Bailar con le Muerte" and is about, simply put, death.

"The music explores our feelings about death and how our perception of it changes through our experience of it," Elmlinger said. "We are exploring these ideas in the musical context of Latin American dances. The show begins with a tango and ends with a Day of the Dead celebration."

The four songs composed by Elmlinger and performed by the band are titled "Fear," "Grief," "Rage," and "Celebration." In the background of the field, a series of large masks depicting these emotions are shown at the right. The masks were created by Christie Elmlinger. On the left is a crypt, constructed by band parent Bob Fike, assisted by Randy Sisler and Judy Fike. Student Elizabeth McClean also assisted in the set design, among others.

Elmlinger intentionally writes difficult music, with complex time signatures and rhythms. When the band performs the music well, the score is higher because of the level of difficulty.

This year the bar has been raised even further for Southern by the director's decision to have no drum major. The students must listen intently to the drum line and each other in order to keep the music together, and to avoid "phasing," or going out of tempo with one another. This, too, results in a higher score when executed well.

Southern's first competition was also on Sept. 11, but was at Elkins. There the group won first place in the Group I Open Class with a score of 70.05. Sissonville High came in second with a 69.25.

The second show for Southern was also at Preston, where the group took first place with a score of 72.05. Magnolia came in second with 70.30, followed by Northern Garrett. Richie County came in fourth, followed by Hurricane High School.

"The kids did an excellent job this weekend," Elmlinger said. "They performed technically better during the show than they have in practice, and the show was energized and exciting to watch. We still have a lot of work to do this season, but we've had a great start."

This Saturday Southern will travel to Somerset, Pa., where the group will be up against five other Group I Open Class bands.

Guests, Participants Invited To Sixth "Rethink Recycling" Sculpture Contest

The Garrett County Solid Waste and Recycling Division and the Garrett County Arts Council will hold the 6th annual regional "Rethink Recycling" Sculpture Contest on Saturday, Nov. 6, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Garrett College in Room 201.

"Garrett County residents are encouraged to attend this free event," said recycling coordinator Kim Madigan, adding that light fare and beverages will be served.

She is also encouraging Garrett County high school students to enter the contest. They are invited to create sculptures made from recycled or recaptured materials.

"The unique and imaginative sculptures are judged on creativity, workmanship, and use of recycled materials," Madigan noted.

The variety of recycled materials will also be considered in the judging. There will be three judges to determine first and second place winners in each grade.

Prizes will be provided by corporate and non-profit organization sponsors.

Four sculptures will be chosen by the local judges to represent Garrett County in the state sculpture contest, to be held in Baltimore on Nov. 19.

Additionally, recycling sculptures will be shown at the council's Gallery Shop in Oakland from Nov. 20 to Dec. 4.

To obtain an entry form to compete in the regional contest or more information related to the sculpture contest or recycling in Garrett County, persons may contact the Solid Waste and Recycling office at 301-387-0322 or kmadigan@garrettcounty.org.

The "Rethink Recycling" Sculpture Contest is made possible in part by an opportunity grant funded by the Garrett County Arts Council.

FRANCS OFFERING BENEFIT CONCERT – The Garrett County Historical Society (GCHS) will host a fundraising concert by Muriel and Marc Franc on Saturday, Oct. 16, at 7 p.m. The concert will follow a public showing of the GCHS's new (and under construction) Museum of Transportation, located along Liberty Street in Oakland. The public tour of the facility will be held from 6 to 6:45 that evening. Museum committee members will be present to answer questions about the new building and to supply details regarding its function and its completion. The casual concert will follow in the sanctuary of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, located next door to the new museum. The hour-long concert by the Francs will feature WWII love songs, Big Band tunes, and selections from Broadway shows. A freewill offering will be taken at intermission to benefit the furnishing of this new addition to the GCHS museum complex. The new building is a gift to the people of Garrett County and its neighbors from the Howard and Audrey Naylor Family Trust through the Community Trust Foundation. Student Council Of SHS To Present "Haunted" Hayride

The student council of Southern High School will be operating "haunted hayride" weekends throughout October at Broadford Park.

The fundraising hayrides, which are designed for youth 13 and older, will be held from 6 to 10 p.m. on the weekends of Oct. 15-17, 22-24, and 29-31.

Traffic will be directed through the Broadford Road entrance of the park (the Little League side), with parking in the lot by the Little League baseball field.

In the parking lots by the boat launch, the students will host games, man a concession stand, and supervise the loading and unloading of the hayride, according to their advisor, teacher Ryan Wolf.

Wolf noted that the organizers will work to keep the traffic at a minimum in the area where the ride participants will be concentrated.

The "haunted hayride" will begin near pavilion #1 and travel down the access road leading to the beach. At the beach house, the ride will proceed up the hill into the main parking lot. The wagon will then continue past the basketball court and up the hill to the gate. Finally, the wagon will go down Recreation Lane and back to the loading/unloading station.

McGee Presents Concert On Famed West Point Organ

Local organist Jerry McGee gave a virtuoso performance on Sept. 12 on the 23,500-pipe organ at the Cadet Chapel of the United States Military Academy at West Point. The organ is the largest in a house of worship in the world. The event was designed to honor those who died on Sept. 11, 2001.

Designed and built by the Möller Organ Company of Hagerstown, its installation began in 1911. The four-manual console supports over 800 stops. Organ pipes surround the interior of the Gothic-style building.

McGee gave a two-hour concert, with pieces by Mendelssohn (Prelude and Fugue in G Major), Bach (Fantasy in G), and modern composer Olivier Messiaen, In honor of the 9/11 victims, he played "Adagietto" from Mahler's Symphony No. 5, and dedicated it to West Point's "long grey line" of graduates and to all the women and men who have served the country in the military services.

The program also included pieces by Sibelius, Franck, and Gordon Balch Nevin. It concluded with a Fanfare by Anglo-American composer John Cook.

The audience gave McGee a standing ovation and he responded with a light encore piece, "Pastorale" by Arthur Foote.

A native of western Pennsylvania, McGee earned his bachelor's degree from Westminster College, with a major in organ performance and church music. He then attended Union Theological Seminary, where he earned a master of sacred music degree in organ and choral conducting. He also pursued postgraduate study at Washington University and the University of Washington in Seattle.

Over the years he has held positions as head of the music department and school organist, Mary Institute in St. Louis, organist and choirmaster, St. David's Episcopal Church in Wayne, Pa., cathedral musician, St. Luke's Cathedral, Portland, Maine, lecturer in music, Bowdoin College; municipal organist in Portland; and associate organist, St. Paul's Cathedral, Pittsburgh, Pa.

For the past 12 years he has been the organist and music director at St. John's and St. Matthew's Episcopal churches of Oakland.

McGee has played recitals at the National Cathedral, Washington, D.C.; on the Kotzschmar Memorial organ in Merrill Auditorium, Portland; St. Thomas Church, New York City; Trinity Church, Boston; and Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris. His hobbies include bagpiping and he is the pipe major emeritus of the Garrett Highlands Pipes and Drums.

Sanders, Knotts Lead Rams To 35-14 Victory Over Hampshire

Southern High School's Kody Sanders and Zack Knotts scored a pair of touchdowns each last Friday night at home to hand Hampshire a 35-14 defeat, its first setback of the season.

The win upped the Rams' record to 2-1, while the Trojans dropped to the same mark.

"It was the most exciting game I have seen at Southern in 10 years," said Ram head coach Steve Savage. "Our kids played hard. I can't say enough about them."

It was a comfortable margin of victory for the Rams, despite the fact that they were outgained by the visitors by 63 total yards.

Sanders put the first Southern points on the board when he reached the end zone via a 27-yard carry at the 4:23 mark of the first quarter. The kick for the conversion was no good.

The Trojans took the lead on their next possession and less than a minute later when Brent Walter raced 56 yards for a touchdown and Dave Smith booted the extra point to make it a 7-6 game.

Sanders, who would finish with 101 yards on 13 carries, gave the Rams the lead for good with 2:08 remaining in the second quarter when he scored on another 27-yard carry. Derek Papa ran successfully for the two-point conversion.

Big Joe Kisselovich extended the Rams' lead with just 10 seconds to play before halftime when he caught a 45-yard TD pass from Bubba Scheffel. Jake Bramande's conversion kick put the Rams up 21-7 at intermission.

The Trojans rallied for a touchdown in the third quarter when Walter completed a drive with a three-yard touchdown run. Smith's conversion kick narrowed the Rams' lead to 21-14.

Southern put the game away in the final stanza, as Zack Knotts scored a touchdown just five seconds into the period on a five-yard run, and Bramande booted the PAT to give the Rams a 29-14 advantage.

Knotts tacked on an insurance touchdown when he picked up a fumble and returned it 76 yards with just 15 seconds left in the contest. Bramande's conversion kick concluded the scoring.

Scheffel ended up with 68 yards through the air. Kurt Gangler set up the Rams' third touchdown with an interception.

Walter led the Trojans' rushing attack with 116 yards on 17 carries.

A 28-yard run for a touchdown by Hampshire's Walter was nullified by a penalty.

Scheffel led the Southern defensive attack with a dozen tackles, while teammate Ryan Bennett added nine.

"Bubba played a heck of a game for us defensively," said Coach Savage. "Jacob Creech also had two of the biggest hits I have seen in a high school football game and caused two fumbles. Joe Kisselovich had 2½ sacks, too. They all really played a heck of a game defensively as a team."

Southern will next play at Rappahannock, Va., a team that the Rams blew out last year. But the trip into the Old Line State has Savage a little concerned.

"We are certainly a favorite, but I am a little worried about that trip," he said. "Four hours on a bus is a long time, and then to have to get off and play, well, we will just have to act like it is business and go in there and get the job done."

Savage describes the Rams' next opponent as "young, but talented." Even at 0-3 and with losses to Fast Hardy, Hancock, and Prince Royal, Savage does not expect a pushover.

"Their head coach, Terrence Johnson, played at WVU, and they do a lot of the things they do at WVU. He played for [Rich] Rodriguez in his first year there, and they run a 3-5 defensively like the Mountaineers did under Rodriguez."

Huskies Stay Close, But Fall To 1-2 With 19-7 Defeat By Keyser

by Branden Wilt

It was a lot closer than the 19-7 score showed, but in the end it was Keyser who came out on top of the visiting Northern High Huskies, winning a defensive battle of evenly matched teams, 19-6, Friday evening at Alumni Field in Keyser.

The tandem of Tyler Biser and Jamison Jones proved to be the difference-makers for the Golden Tornados, as they took advantage of the Huskies' propensity to line up the free safety, unbalanced.

Jones simply lined up on the side the free safety was not roaming, and with the extra space Biser was able to connect with him five times for 131 yards. Biser completed just one other pass, and ended up with 136 stripes through the air. Biser added 50 more yards of offense via the rush.

Things started off badly for Northern when the Huskies coughed up the ball on the kickoff at their own 30-yard line, but was able to make a defensive stand and keep the Tornados out of the end zone on fourth-and-goal from the two-yard line at the 7:00 mark of the first quarter.

"Our kids played well," said Northern head coach Phil Carr. "We were able to change the momentum a few times. The kids stayed in the right mindset. We didn't get down after we turned the football over on the kickoff. We moved the ball well, and overall it was a pretty even game. They just made more big plays. It was that simple."

After the teams traded three-and-out possessions, Northern's Garrett Raynor committed grand larceny when Tombley stood up Biser, and Raynor stripped him of the football, as the scoreless first quarter came to a close.

Both teams continued to stall and could not get much going offensively in most of the second stanza.

The Huskies were able to pick up a few first downs late and almost scored on a fourth-and-two of their own, but Patrick Sines' pass was caught just out of bounds at the goal line, and the Huskies turned it over on downs with 2:20 to play in the first half.

The Tornados started their first scoring drive from their own 25. On a third-and-long fade from Biser to Jones, the football was moved across midfield and down to the Northern 35.

The Huskies were able to get to Biser in the backfield to record a sack and force an incompletion on back-to-back plays, but Biser picked up a first down with his feet on third down again, and followed that up a play later with an 18-yard touchdown strike to Jones on another fade route. Levi Ebert tacked on the PAT, and with 33 ticks to play in the half, Keyser led for the first time all season, 7-0.

"We gave up that big play at halftime," said Carr. 'Those fades, the third down conversions... Biser really had a good overall game. We moved the ball well and it was pretty even. Ball-possession wise and time-wise we felt very good about what we did overall."

Northern came right out of the locker room and got back in it, as the Huskies began an 11-play scoring drive. Alex Baker got things going with a big gain that put the football on the Northern 40, and came back with another first down seconds later.

Sines then went to the air and found Baker across midfield, who took it all the way to the Keyser 39. Baker ran for six more yards to move the football to the 33.

Second Quarter

K - Jamison Jones 18 pass from Tyler Biser (Levi Ebert kick), 0:33.

Third Quarter

N - Jake Bosley 24 pass from Alex Baker (run failed), 4:26.

Fourth Quarter

K - Biser 1 run (kick failed), 10:00.

K - Kodie Evans 5 run (kick failed), 7:31.

A few plays later and needing three yards for a crucial first down, Baker took the handoff from Sines and fired a halfback pass to Jake Bosley for a 24-yard touchdown strike. The run for the two-point conversion failed, and the Huskies trailed 7-6 with 4:26 to play in the third period.

Austin Tombley saved a sure touchdown on the ensuing kickoff when he tripped up Kadeem Garland, but Keyser was still able to get into the end zone four plays later on a one-yard dive by Biser. The PAT was blocked, leaving Northern still within a score, 13-6, with 10 minutes to play.

However, the Tornados tacked on a final TD after a pass to Jones and a nice run by Garland put the football inside the Northern 20. Biser got the Tornado a first-and-goal inside the five on a keeper, and Kodie Evans pushed his way into the end zone from five yards out on the next play with 7:31 left in the fourth.

Keyser finished with a 290-235 edge in total yardage, and the teams were separated by less than a minute in time of possession, 24:20-to-23:40.

The 1-2 Huskies will return to Mineral County this Friday to take on Frankfort at Short Gap.

"They run a typical wing-T," said Carr, "but they are more run-oriented for a Frankfort team this year.

"Without James Jones and those receivers, they look to (Joey) Luciew a lot more," Carr continued. "They have a good fullback, too. I think they are a little better on the defensive line than Keyser. Defensively we are going to have to find a way to stop the run. If we do, I like our chances."

Shaffer, Schwab Lead Rams To Easy 7-1 Victory Over Hampshire

Alli Shaffer and Sophie Schwab each scored a pair of goals to lead the Southern varsity girls' soccer team to a 7-1 Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference victory over Hampshire Tuesday in Oakland.

The Rams were scheduled to play Allegany last night in Cumberland, but that match had to be postponed because of lightning.

In Tuesday's match against Hampshire, Shaffer scored the first Southern goal off a pass from Claire Wilkinson just over two minutes into the match.

Schwab followed with an unassisted goal at the 29:28 mark, Jill Yant connected for an unassisted score at with 19:50 to play in the half, and Schwab got her second tally of the evening at the 4:19 mark to give the Rams a 4-0 lead.

Hampshire avoided a shutout when Brittany Maphis scored off a direct kick just under three minutes before intermission.

In the second half, the Rams received goals from Shaffer, on an assist by Schwab; Lexi Botterbusch, unassisted; and Ayla Fulmer, on an assist by Chloe Anderson.

Southern finished with a decisive 21-12 lead in shots, but Hampshire had a 4-3 edge in corner kicks.

Southern's Vicki Stevens had 11 saves.

Alicia Roth scored the only goal in the jayvee contest, giving Southern a 1-0 win.

While last night's varsity match at Allegany had to be postponed, most of the junior varsity match was played, and when it was halted because of the threatening weather, the Rams were on top, 2-0.

Kelsi Graham scored the first goal for the Rams off an assist by Cara Brack, and then Brack recorded the second goal, unassisted.

The Ram varsity, which is 4-2 overall and 3-1 in AMAC matches, is scheduled to host Fort Hill this Saturday in a noon start, and travel to Northern next Tuesday.

Ram Booters Hammered 11-0 By Fort Hill, Then Whip Trojans

Fort Hill's Mike Moyer and Andrew Amoruso combined for eight goals in an 11-0 shutout of Southern in Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference varsity boys' soccer action Saturday at Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland.

The Rams were able to rebound Tuesday, however, by handing host Hampshire a 6-3 defeat in another AMAC contest.

In the loss to Fort Hill, Moyer scored five goals for the Sentinels, while Amoruso finished with a hat trick.

The Sentinel duo went to work quickly, scoring four goals in the initial 19 minutes of the match.

Moyer recorded the first two off assists by Cullin Brown and Eric Yutzy, Amoruso made it 3-0 with an unassisted goal, and Moyer completed his hat trick with a third goal, also off a feed from Brown.

Alex Parker put the Sentinels up 5-0 with a goal off an assist by Moyer with 12:05 left in the half, and Amoruso scored just 34 seconds before intermission off another assist by Brown.

Moyer recorded personal goals #4 and #5 in the first eight minutes of the second half, the first off an assist by Yutzy and the second unassisted.

Paker upped the lead to 9-0 with his second goal of the night, unassisted, at the 21:53 mark.

Amoruso completed his hat trick with a goal off a feed by Yutzy, and then got an assist on the final goal, which was scored by Hunter Tipton with 3:48 to play.

Fort Hill finished with a commanding 25-3 lead in shots on goal, and a 5-1 advantage in corner kicks 5-1. James Johnson made three saves in goal for Fort Hill, and Seth Ingram had nine for Southern.

The win improved the Sentinels' overall record to 2-1-1.

In the jayvee game, Jesten Smith and Jarrett Wolfe scored goals and Austin Parker and Kirk Yutzy had assists to lift Fort Hill to a 2-0 win.

Jake Bramande recorded a hat trick plus one in the Rams' victory over Hampshire on Tuesday. All of his goals were unassisted.

The Rams took a 1-0 lead via Bramande's first goal, which came with about nine minutes remaining in the first half.

The Trojans tied it about five minutes later on a goal by Jonathan Hotchkiss, assisted by Ethan Taylor, but Pramande gave the Rams a 2-1 halftime lead with his second goal just before intermission.

An unassisted goal by Andrew Cvetnick early in the second half put the Rams up 3-1.

Hotchkiss got his second goal off another feed by Taylor to make it 3-2, and Bramande answered again about 12 minutes into the half with a goal.

Hotchkiss earned a hat trick with his third goal of the night, off yet another assist by Taylor, to cut the Rams' lead once again to 4-3 with about 11 minutes to play.

Bramande and Aryne Riley put the match away for the Rams, each with unassisted goals within a two-minute span.

The Rams finished with a 29-13 lead in shots, while each team had a pair of corner kicks. Seth Ingram had six saves for Southern, and Isaak Lambert recorded 14 for winless Hampshire (0-11, 0-5).

The Rams are scheduled to host Mountain Ridge this evening, travel to Preston for a multi-team tournament next Wednesday, and host Keyser next Thursday.

Fratz Records Two Hat Tricks In NHS Wins Over Trojans, Spartans

Northern junior Kaitlynn Fratz had a hat trick and the Northern High girls' varsity soccer team remained unbeaten, blanking host Hampshire, 6-0, on Saturday.

Fratz then repeated that effort on Monday to pace the Huskies to an easy 8-1 win over visiting Bishop Walsh Monday night.

The pair of victories upped the Huskies' perfect mark to 6-0. They are 4-0 in Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference matches, and were to have played at Mountain Ridge last night, but that match was postponed until this evening because of lightning.

Fratz's three-goal performance against Hampshire also included an assist, as she took passes from Callie Vernon and Whitney Murphy for two of her goals in the second half. Her initial goal came unassisted in the first period, following two unassisted goals by Sydney McFarland within just two minutes after the opening kickoff.

Amanda Paape accounted for the Huskies' fifth goal, scored in the second half off a feed from Fratz.

Northern dominated the game in all phases, including shots on goal, 25-5, and in corners, 9-1. Rachel McBride made five saves and Shelby Kaiser had four for the Trojans. Morgan Brosnihan and Alex Diehl had two each for the Huskies.

Fratz pulled out her second straight hat trick on Monday to pace the Huskies to their lopsided win over Bishop Walsh on Monday.

McFarland and Murphy assisted Fratz on her first two goals, and the third was unassisted, giving the Huskies a 3-0 advantage at intermission.

Murphy scored her own unassisted goal to open the second half, and then Fratz fed McFarland for a goal to make it 5-0.

Vernon would put the final two goals on the board for the Huskies, both scored off passes from McFarland.

BW's lone goal was recorded in the second half, unassisted, by Katherine Dwyer.

Rebecca Winner had 13 saves for the Spartans, while Alex Diehl recorded one for the Huskies. Northern finished with a 2-0 advantage in corner kicks.

After tonight's match against Mountain Ridge, the Huskies are scheduled to host Southern next Tuesday and travel to Fort Hill next Wednesday.

Northern Boys Top Alco In Double OT, Whip Trojans, Fall To Miners

Cody Brenneman scored with less than two minutes to go in double overtime to lift Northern to a 3-2 victory over Allegany and snap the Campers' 13-game Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference winning streak last Thursday at Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland.

The Huskies then recorded a 6-0 shutout over Hampshire on Saturday, but then saw their five-match win streak come to an end Tuesday when they were blanked by visiting Mountain Ridge in another AMAC contest, 2-0.

The results left Northern with a 5-2 overall mark and a 4-1 conference record.

The Huskies led most of the match against Allegany last Thursday, but the Campers were able to come from behind twice to force overtime after falling behind 1-0 in the first half and 2-1 in the second. The loss dropped Alco to 3-1 overall and 2-1 in AMAC matches.

Northern took a 1-0 lead when Jaymes Kelly scored unassisted with 14:09 left in the first half. The lead lasted barely over two minutes, as Matt Class tied it with an unassisted goal for Allegany at the 12-minute mark.

Steven Holtschneider put the Huskies back on top, 2-1, scoring off a direct kick less than four minutes into the second half. But the Campers tied it again behind a Darion DeHaven goal on a pass from Class with 16:55 left in regulation.

Following a scoreless first OT period and most of the second, Brenneman's unassisted game-winner came with only 1:17 to play.

Northern dominated the Campers in shots on goal, 16-6, and in corner kicks, 8-3. Northern keeper Justin Shaw made five saves, while Scott Long had six for the Campers.

Allegany won the jayvee match, 3-0. Michael Biser had two unassisted goals.

Austin Doerr To Make Return Trip To State Golf Tournament

Northern High School's Austin Doerr will make his second straight trip to the Maryland state high school golf tournament after qualifying with an overall low score of A 3-under-par 69 Tuesday in the Maryland 1A/2A District Golf Tournament, played at Black Rock Golf Course in Hagerstown.

Doerr edged out North Hagerstown's Aaron Staley by a single stroke to take the top-medalist honors. Staley shot a 2-under 70.

Doerr will now make his second appearance in the Maryland State Golf Tournament at the University of Maryland golf course, where the semifinals will take place Oct. 26. With success there, Doerr would advance to the 1A/2A state high school finals which are to be played the next day.

Playing in the same foursome with Staley, Doerr was 3-under through the first nine to take a 2-stroke lead. He started the back nine with a pair of bogeys, however, falling a shot behind Staley, who birdied the par-4 12th hole.

Doerr made a comeback, however, carding birdies on 15 and 16, with Staley bogeying both 17 and 18. Doerr clinched the title when he chipped in from the hill beyond the 18th green, hitting a perfect wedge.

The top three teams from the district – North Carroll with 316, North Hagerstown with 321, and Smithsburg with 327 – all qualify for the state tournament. As a team Northern finished 13th with a 362, Mountain Ridge was 15th at 378, Southern was 19th with a 403, and Fort Hill placed 21st at 420.

Northern Boys and Kerrigan Clark scored the other on an assist from Josh Marchmi.

The Northern boys scored four goals in a 20-minute span of the second half against Hampshire on Saturday after holding a 2-0 advantage at halftime.

Cooper Corley and Zach Beal gave the Huskies a 2-0 lead, with Corley scoring off a feed from Jordan Evans about midway through the half, and Beal getting an unassisted goal at about the 10:00 mark.

Steven Holtschneider began the second-half, four-goal barrage by scoring off a pass from Cody Brenneman in the 46th minute.

Alex Daniels made it 4-0 via a feed from Jared Fike in the 52nd minute, Holtschneider converted a penalty kick in the 62nd minute, and Jaymes Kelly recorded the final goal, unassisted, four minutes later.

The Huskies dominated in shots on goal, 26-4.

It was the Trojans' ninth loss in as many starts this season.

Mountain Ridge's Chris Ranker broke up a defensive struggle in Monday's match against the Huskies by scoring a pair of second-half goals after a scoreless first half.

There was no score until almost halfway through the second half when Ranker put the ball in the net off an assist by Montana Bradley with 21:13 left in the match.

That would be all the Miners would need for the victory, but Ranker tacked on an insurance goal off a pass by Jacob Bittner at the 7:34 mark.

Mountain Ridge led 12-7 in shots on goal, while Northern had a 3-2 edge in corner kicks. Both keepers were solid in the net, as Connor Eberly had four saves and a shutout for the Miners, and Shaw stopped five shots for Northern.

The win lifted the Miners to 4-1-1 overall and 4-0-1 in the AMAC.

Mountain Ridge eked out a 1-0 win in the junior varsity match, scoring an unassisted goal in the second half.

The Huskies, coached by Lynn Lais, will be back in action this evening when they host Fort Hill. They will entertain Bishop Walsh next Wednesday and host Fort Hill next Thursday.

The Miners tood the lead for good with a time-consuming 65-yard drive for a touchdown to make it 20-14, and then tacked on another TD on their next drive.

Jeffery Eddmgton led the Ram offense with 106 all-purpose yards and one touchdown. The defense was led by Jordan Dixon with nine solo tackles and four assists.

Steelers Stopped By Ridgeley In Youth Contest

The Division I Northern Steelers (1-4) were whipped 40-8 by the Ridgeley Rams on Sunday at Northern High School in Cumberland Area Youth Football League action.

The Rams took control of the contest early by scoring three touchdowns in the first quarter. The first was via a 52-yard run from scrimmage by Quade Railey, the second was a 55-yard punt return by Kirk Robinette, and the third was on a 15-yard pass from Gage Shaffer to Trent Hamilton. Shaffer booted all three conversions, and the Rams led 24-0.

After a scoreless second quarter, the Rams went to work again in the third, scoring on a one-yard run by Brady Watson and a six-yard carry by Robinette. Shaffer again kicked the PATs, making the score 40-0.

The Steelers avoided a shutout when Meshach Metz fired a 30-yard touchdown pass to Brady Bittinger. Trevon Jones booted the two-point conversion.

The Division II Steelers rolled to a 28-0 win over the Rams in the other game of the afternoon to keep their record perfect for the season (4-0), as Aaron Rodeheaver scored two rushing touchdowns and another by pass, and rolled up 176 yards rushing on just 14 carries.

Rodeheaver scored on a 54-yard run in the first quarter, and tossed a 22-yard scoring strike to Austin Evans in the second. Jake Vernon made one of two conversion kicks, and the Steelers held a 14-0 lead at halftime.

Rodeheaver broke loose on a 51-yard TD run in the third quarter to make it 20-0, and then Vernon scored on a one-yard carry in the fourth quarter, and also booted the PAT to conclude the scoring.

Defensive standouts for the Steelers were Noah Werner, Logan Fratz, and Saylor Wampler.

The Steelers have a bye week this weekend, and will return to action on Oct. 3.

DNR To Begin Stocking Trout For Fall Season

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will stock approximately 20,000 trout into freshwaters across the state in October. This total includes 19,400 rainbow trout weighing an average of one pound each, and 600 brown trout, averaging two pounds each.

"Streams and rivers across the state are currently very low, and the dry weather pattern that we have been experiencing is expected to remain unchanged for the next week or more," said Charlie Gougeon, manager of field operations for Inland Fisheries. "Our regional managers will continue to assess each stocking location for adequate flow and will focus stocking efforts on the larger rivers, ponds, and lakes where stocking conditions are most favorable."

Anglers are asked to be patient, as a sudden change in weather pattern that brings some rain can often improve the fishing conditions overnight, Gougeon said.

Although stocking dates and locations are dependent on water flow and temperature, suitable conditions can generally be found in many areas beginning the second week of October, and stocking is usually completed by the end of the month. In most years, cool water temperatures in the fall allow trout stocking to occur in Delayed Harvest Trout Fishing Areas and locations such as the North Branch of the Potomac and Bear Creek in Garrett County.

Gougeon also advises anglers to clean their gear between streams or outings to prevent moving around unwanted invaders like didymo and whirling disease. He advises washing their gear with dish soap, a 5% salt solution, or one of the convenient wader wash stations at some locations.

DNR's trout stocking information telephone line, 1-800-688-3467, will be updated weekly beginning October 1 so that anglers may find out if their favorite area has been stocked. Stocked areas will also be posted online at http://www.dnr.state.md.us/fisheries.

GOP WOMEN SUPPORT LOCAL SCHOOLS – The Southern Garrett County Republican Women's Club (SGCRWC) operated its annual school supplies program again this year, and has donated student supplies to eight county schools. Supplies such as backpacks, folders, calculators, rulers, pens, pencils, paper, notebooks, and other items were purchased, packaged, and delivered to the schools. The items will be distributed to the students at the principals' discretion. The club spent nearly $900 on the supplies, with that money raised in a raffle for a stained glass lamp made by Lou DiCarlo and sold to the club at a discounted price. Shown above from left are SGCRWC representative Traci Royce, Jacob Strosnider, Chase Mason, teacher Sue Hillen, Madison Shaffer, Quinn Thomas, and principal Janet Gregory. The photo above right was taken at Swan Meadow School, where the supplies were presented by SGCRWC rep Bea Crosco, shown in back. The photo below was taken at Kitzmiller Elementary School. Shown from left are Richard Stevens, president; Rita Watson, SGCRWC rep; student Brandon Lucas; and Joe DiSimone.

The Maryland National Guard will have a climbing wall available for all ages.

"We will have games for the kids, information for military families, free goodies – something for everyone," said a group spokesperson. "Look for us walking in the parade, too."

Local veterans will also be riding on Action Towing's rollback during the parade.

"Please show them your support for protecting and serving this great country when they pass you in the parade," the spokesperson added.

In addition, the group is holding a raffle for a hand-carved wooden eagle statue to raise money to send "care packages" for Christmas to local troops serving overseas. Monetary donations will also be accepted to help pay the postage to send the packages.

"If you have family members or friends who are serving in the military, we invite you to stop by our booth with their information, and we would be glad to add them to our mailing list," the spokesperson said. "We can also offer you support and information about our group."

be various stations where scary scenes will unfold," Wolf said.

Because the ride is to be considered "PG-13," Wolf said, the student council members will also host a "haunted house" for younger participants.

The cost for the ride will be $5. The students have secured non-profit volunteer groups to operate the ticket booth for each of the nine evenings, and to serve as helpers on the ride. The volunteer groups will receive $2 of each ticket purchased.

Wolf said the student council wishes to offer a fun and safe activity, with the opportunity to generate funds for the various groups involved.

"It is my hope that the Haunted Hayride will become a yearly event," Wolf said.

Thank You!

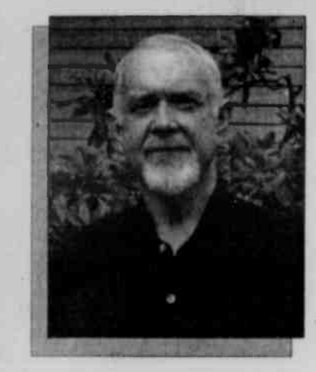

Thank you very much to all of my supporters. We accomplished many great things during our campaign, and because of this experience I will be eternally grateful. You reconfirmed in me what I and many others take for granted: that we are very blessed to live in Garrett County. We have beauty that is unmatched and people that are second to none. Our towns, our schools, our businesses, and our volunteers need to be supported and praised for the jobs they are doing. Please take the time to look around and say, "thanks," and don't ever be afraid to get involved and make a positive difference.

ELECT BILL WELCH

"Business as usual" is often described as unresponsive, disrespectful to new ideas and can be intimidating toward nonconforming views.

• • • • • • •

Six in ten Republicans and almost all Democrats just voted to end business as usual in District 3. In fact voters favored a fresh start across the board.

Elect me Nov. 2 and Garrett County will have three new commissioners ready, willing and able to be accountable, to open up government, and to stop wasteful spending.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

It is always sad to receive a fundraising phone call from an organization. Most times I contribute to them, because I back their work 100 percent, including the Christopher Reeve Spinal Cord Injury and Paralysis Foundation, which was started by Christopher Reeve, who died from a spinal injury from a fall off a horse. His group joined the Paralyzed Veterans so they can combine their resources for research to find a solution for many Americans who are fully paralyzed, including many veterans.

But I always think about a beautiful young woman at Health South Rehabilitation Hospital in Morgantown. It looked like she would always be stuck in a wheelchair. She happened to be in the physical therapy department when I first succeeded to walk. She called out to me, "You look beautiful!" Not as beautiful as she would be if she could walk again, because she was only in her 20s; at her dawn of life.

And then there is my old friend Stan Steyer whom I often caught a ride with back to College Park. About a year ago ago, he had an accident while using an inversion apparatus. It turned upside down and dropped him, causing serious spinal injuries.

I am much luckier than many, since I am only partly paralyzed. Just my left arm is totally useless, but my legs allow me to walk some. I still use a wheelchair more than I wish, because when I fall it is impossible to get up by myself. Then I have to crawl to the phone and try to find someone who will actually answer their phone, not just let their voicemail pick up. And most people rarely check their messages, at least I hope that is the reason I do not get a return call from them.

Today's call was from a very important non-profit group, the Southern Poverty Law Center. Their mission is to fight hate crimes. Their first case was helping a group of South Vietnamese immigrants to America when our troops withdrew. They inspired me to fight against intolerance.

But my brother Barry handles my financial affairs, and he told me that I don't have any money to contribute to anyone.

When you choose to go to some of the big box stores to save a few dollars, you are choosing that it's more important to save a few bucks than American jobs, or to support a factory system in China in which the workers are virtually slaves. They are forced to work sometimes 35 hours without a break for 31 cents per hour. And they are forced to live in crowded dormitories. Some factories are starting to put something around them so that workers who jump out of the windows trying to commit suicide don't die. This is even for top of the line consumer goods like iPhones and other high-tech gadgets. This is very disturbing. I suggest that we all buy American, even if it costs a few more dollars.

Does anyone seriously believe that the American people will be better off if our young people are kept away from real ideas? But that is what some conservatives want. They are now claiming that it is a waste of money to go to college or a university, because they say it will not result in making that much more money.

The long-range promising jobs are not available to high school graduates, and even to some students without a bachelor's degree. In many career fields, a master's degree is essential, at least for any somewhat well-paying job.

That is not the only advantage of higher education. You meet and get to know so many people from other parts of the country, even other nations, and some of them someday could play a positive role in your opportunities. So it is just stupid to believe that higher education is counterproductive.

An associate's degree from a two-year college like Garrett is a start toward a higher goal. And for the many kids who don't have any goals, they will find something interesting, and who knows where that may lead someday?

It does not take a high math education to realize that what is wrong with the American economy is simply that the top 1 or 2 percent of America have a huge percentage of the income. And a growing percentage of Americans are living in poverty. Many Garrett Countians live below the poverty line, and they can't feed a family just by hunting.

I think there are many Americans who consider the term "social justice" to be something to hate and oppose.

Look at two of the most glamorous girls who are included in that top 2 percent. Lindsay Lohan and Paris Hilton. They both enjoyed very light sentences from previous convictions of cocaine possession. They are both in court today because they got caught messing up.

They are usually able to walk away almost scot-free. But if the average poor kids had their records, they would be facing big sentences in a real jail without second changes. Seem fair? Of course not. But let's face it, America is not a fair place any more.

At the Economic Town Meeting, one thing that Obama mentioned was having a discussion about how to balance what comes in with necessary spending. Does anyone support cutting veterans' benefits? Or forcing people who depend on Social Security to eat cat food?

I remember one time I was in line in a supermarket in Manhattan. In front of me was a very elderly woman who only bought many cans of cat food. I was getting concerned about whether she had enough money to buy food for herself, and I asked her if she did. This is a true story. It was one of the many times when I felt very helpless, because I didn't have enough money to adequately help people who were in deep need.

The belief of some is that if you ignore such problems, perhaps a miracle will happen. But how many of the many self-proclaimed dedicated Christians bother to pray for America or for peace on Earth?

Where do people get the pitiful idea that Obama's form of governing is based on some kind of tribal Kenyan system? The truth is that he was very influenced by Harvard University, which is pretty mainstream in America. And Harvard is not a secular anti-American institution. It is just about the finest university in America, maybe in the whole world.

Do you think that Denver and Naomi Beitzel were horrified when they learned that their son Terry would transfer from Garrett College to Harvard? I don't think so. They recognized it as a stunning accomplishment for a boy from Bittinger. And he was able to earn two PhDs at the same time from Harvard. That is the highest accomplishment possible. I am proud to say that Terry even earned wide praise from his professors at Harvard for his writing skills.

I had trouble finding the televised big game between my Maryland Terrapins and my daughters' West Virginia. I also had trouble deciding whom to root for. But just before the game, I decided to go with WVU, because I knew Claire and Mere were there. And I would have liked it if they had a perfect afternoon. Certainly, the weather could not have been better. It was a perfect football game day, mild without much wind.

I am not a natural football spectator. I don't enjoy it as much as either baseball or basketball, except for the late '70s Steelers. I liked them because I knew all the players, and let's face it, that was a very special team, with Franco Harris, Mean Joe Green, Terry Bradshaw, and a Lynn Swan, who was as graceful as a real swan.

It looked like the game was in the bag for West Virginia. They were in the lead for the whole game except Maryland got moving in the third quarter. I did not see the final score, but it definitely went the way of the Mountaineers. They have a very promising running back who looks almost like a sure thing for a good career in the NFL.

Wow, what a great idea for creating a job for yourself. At least in Washington, D.C. There are quite a few people operating a pedicab – an open taxi propelled by pedaling. It supplies an income, and at the same time you get fit while giving tours of the monuments. That sounds like fun. It sounds like just the thing for Manhattan, too.

Altar flowers at Emmanuel Lutheran Church were provided by Lottie Brenneman and family in memory of Bruce Brenneman.

The annual Appalachian Sunday celebrating the music, traditions, and heritage of the mountain area will be held on Sunday, Oct. 3, at 10 a.m. at Emmanuel Lutheran Church. Pastor Randy Richardson invites everyone to attend this service and worship with traditional songs and settings. There will also be choir practice following the worship service at Emmanuel this Sunday, Sept. 26, in preparation of this service.

The births of two babies were announced this week, both boys.

A son, David Vaughn Tressler III, was born to Kirsten Friend and David Tressler Jr., Oakland, on Sept. 13 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

A son, Cooper Clark, was born to Wayne and Erica (Stahl) Mayfield, Terra Alta, W.Va., on Sept. 8 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Adorable Adoptables

LOTS OF DOGS WITH NO ID TAGS – Several stray canines were recently brought to the Garrett County Animal Shelter. They include (left to right) a young male black Lab that was picked up along Foy Road near Accident, a young female beagle-Bassett mix, and a medium-size light colored female collie mix that was found along Liberty Street in Oakland. Also looking for a home is Rocky, a medium-size, dark colored collie-elkhound mix that was given up by his owner. Many cats are available for adoption as well, including last week's Persian, a black/white tuxedo, and a nice tabby. "One of last week's dogs was reclaimed, and only one went to rescue via HART, leaving many homeless dogs still homeless. Plus, all of the strays that have come in this week were not wearing any tags," noted a GC Humane Society spokesperson. "There is limited room at the shelter, so if your dog becomes missing, you need to reclaim it quickly so there is room for more dogs to come in and stay until they can be adopted or reclaimed." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301 334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday. UNIQUE FUNDRAISER TO BE HELD – Pictured are Kitzmiller Elementary School, Head Start students, and staff, who are preparing for their upcoming Fly-Over Fundraiser. Greg Cromer will fly over the school and photograph students, staff, and community members waiting in the formation of KZ 10/11, which stands for Kitzmiller 2010/2011. The aerial photo will be taken between Oct. 4 and 6 at 12:30 p.m. The exact date of the event depends upon weather conditions. Interested persons can tune in to 104.5 WKHJ or 105.3 WFRB beginning on the morning of Oct. 4 for details. Portraits will be available for purchase, and proceeds will benefit Kitzmiller PTO. Additional information is available by calling the school at 301-453-3101.

COLLINS AND RAILEY – Two well-known McHenry athletes, Jimmy Railey, 49, shown at left, and George Collins, 62, at right, fared well in the weekend SavageMan triathlons. Railey participated in the Savage Double 100.0, which means he raced both days, and took third place in 30.0 age group division and finishing strong in the 70.0 event. Collins was the winner of the Male Grand Masters division in the 30.0 event. Greg Safko, race director, expressed his congratulations to both men, as well as to Lars Finanger and Lyne Bessette for SavageMan 30.0 victories and Philip Graves and Desiree Ficker for SavageMan 70.0 victories. He also noted that four-time SavageMan athletes Zach Ruble had a "spectacular 3rd place finish" and Josh Beck earned a new run course record of 1:18:29. Photos by Yvonne Landis.

DEEP CREEK TEEMED WITH SWIMMERS over the weekend during the SavageMan Festival, a two-day racing event that benefits the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation. A 30.0 triathlon was held Saturday, and the 70.0 on Sunday. The swimmers leapt into a chilly Deep Creek Lake for their part, and bikers embarked on a grueling path that included the infamous Westernport Wall. Runners finished up the threepronged event, ending their trek back at the Deep Creek Lake State Park. Greg Safko, race director, said the festival was hugely successful with more than 1,100 athletes taking part, and was augmented by beautiful weather. Kyle Yost, SavageMan founder and course architect, agreed with Safko's assessment. "More so than any other race, SavageMan is a race for the athlete by an athlete," Yost said. "The primary goal as we grow is to maintain the premise that the participant experience trumps all other concerns. Four years and four successful SavageMan events later, it appears my prediction was correct that an extreme triathlon with extreme beauty and extreme challenges would attract a following." to this project and to the community, even during difficult economic times."

Sincell Publishing Company, which publishes The Republican newspaper and operates a commercial printing division, and has actively participated in numerous community efforts, not only with United Way, but with many others, according to Pirolozzi.

The company was the local founder and has been the primary sponsor of the annual Warm the Children program, which has generated over $250,000 worth of clothing for local children in need. Sincell Publishing provided the tickets, advertising, and articles for United Way's Food, Foolishness, and Fun event; has been a major contributor to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the Dove Center capital campaigns; and has been for many years a season sponsor of Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, Music at Penn Alps, Little Yough Music Festival, and Theatre on the Lake.

The company has been a sponsor of a variety of youth sports programs, and supports Garrett Mentors, Grantsville Days, the Autumn Glory Festival, Our Town Theatre, Habitat for Humanity, Hospice of Garrett County, and Burlington Children's Home, as well as local schools, fire departments, and rescue squads.

Frank Shap, a member of the executive committee of the United Way, presented the award to Don Sincell, company president and editor of The Republican.

Also present were co-owners John and Mary McEwen, Suzanne Sincell, and Hannah Sincell.

"Sincell Publishing is a tremendous corporate citizen to the Garrett County community, and extends their family passion and personal advocacy in support of many organizations and activities," Shap said.

"United Way is honored to recognize both of this year's worthy recipients," Pirolozzi concluded.

"Deep Creek Lake is one of Maryland's greatest treasures, and it has become a great tourist destination, providing jobs and economic growth for the residents of Garrett County," said Cardin, a member of the Environment and Public Works Committee. "This funding will allow for an in-depth study of Deep Creek Lake's future economic impact on the region so that the community can better plan future growth in ways that will preserve this unportant economic asset for the future."

The ARC is a federal-state partnership that works with the people of Appalachia to create opportunities for self-sustaining economic development and improved quality of life.

YOUNG LOCALS TOOK PART, TOO – Several young local athletes jumped into the SavageMan Festival's events, placing exceptionally well among the wide range of competitors. Colin Lynch is pictured above as he starts out on the biking portion of Saturday's 30.0 race. Lynch placed second in the men's 19 and under division with a time of 2:50.13. Other area youth in the event included Nick Fratz-Orr, Sierra Lagear, Sydney Legeer, Zak Thomas, and Nicole Walch. Complete results can be viewed online at savagemantri.org. Frostburg State Attains Highest Enrollment Ever Continuing a steady upward trend over the past four years, Frostburg State University is celebrating another year of increased enrollment, marking a new high-water point of 5,470 in the overall number of students – undergraduate and graduate – at the university, and another record-setting undergraduate enrollment of 4,866 students.

"In the past four years, Frostburg State University has clearly defined itself as a premier, comprehensive, public institution," said FSU president Jonathan Gibralter. "Our research shows that FSU is increasingly the first-choice destination for students where they know they will get the highest quality of education."

The strongest area of growth comes in the 3,299 students who chose to return to Frostburg from the previous semester, 4 percent more than the previous year, which was already a two-decade high point. Nearly 74 percent of students who were first-time, full-time freshman in the fall of 2009 returned to FSU for the fall 2010 semester, a 2 percent larger share than that of the previous year.

Gibralter has set a goal for the university of eventually having nearly 80 percent of freshmen return to FSU the following year.

The fall 2010 freshman class brings with it a higher mean grade point average and SAT score.

"It is very gratifying to see the increased academic quality of our incoming freshman class," said Wray Blair, associate vice president for enrollment management. "Many outstand-ing students are making Frostburg their first-choice institution for their college experience."

More and more students are reporting that they have chosen to come to FSU over any number of schools with "bigger names," in and out of the state of Maryland, Blair said.

More students are choosing to live on campus as well. The university's 11 residence halls are filled to capacity; some lounges have been converted to rooms to accommodate more students.

Edgewood Commons, the public/private apartment complex on the FSU campus that opened in 2003, has only a single vacancy and is at its highest occupancy ever. In all, 2,055 students are living on campus, the most in Frostburg State's history.

With the improvement in enrollment, retention, and academic quality, the future bodes well for the health of the institution, Gibralter said.

"As our enrollment has grown, we have also improved our retention, and, as we continue to develop our academic and residential infrastructure, FSU will become known as an enrollment growth institution for the state of Maryland," Gibralter said.

He noted that FSU is continuing a broad base of initiatives to ensure the success of its students and assist them in completing their education at Frostburg. These include FSU Connections, learning communities that allow freshmen to explore an area of interest with a small group of fellow students; the Center for Advising and Career Services, providing support for transfer students and those who have not decided on a major; a wide array of academic support services and monitoring programs, including tutoring, math and writing instruction, study groups, and career development; assistance with the financial aid pro-cess; and a new tool called MAP-Works, which helps students and their faculty instructors identify particular areas, whether academic, financial, or personal, that might derail an otherwise strong student.

For more information, persons may telephone the office of admissions at 301-687-4201 or go online to www.frostburg.edu.

Grant Available To GC Schools By UnitedHealth

Children and youth across Maryland have the opportunity to become "Health Heroes" by learning about childhood obesity, designing programs to address it, and implementing the programs in their communities.

UnitedHealth Heroes is a service-learning, health literacy initiative designed to encourage young people, working with educators and youth leaders, to create and implement local hands-on programs to fight childhood obesity. As childhood obesity rates are increasing, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, UnitedHealth Group (NYSE: UNH) is taking the fight to Maryland and offering UnitedHealth HEROES grants to schools and youth-focused, community center-based programs.

Grants of up to $1,000 will be awarded to programs that demonstrate a clear understanding of the health risks associated with childhood obesity; propose creative solutions to fighting obesity in their schools and communities; and can be easily implemented, scaled and measured. In addition, each grant also engages participating youth in service-learning, an effective teaching and learning strategy that supports student academic achievement, and helps students develop their workplace readiness skills.

To obtain an application, persons should visit www.YSA.org/HEROES. The web site also contains more information about the program as well as "First Responders: Youth Addressing Childhood Obesity Through Service-Leaning," a step-by-step manual that helps youth, parents, teachers, and other volunteers deploy YSA service-learning models to fight childhood obesity in their communities.

Applications must be submitted online before midnight on Wednesday, Oct. 22. Grant recipients will be notified in December and January.

NHS "SPREADS THE WORD TO STOP THE WORD" – The Northern High School contemporary problems class, under the direction of Barbara Law, is conducting a campaign to end the usage of the "R-word" which people frequently use to refer to people with intellectual disabilities or mental retardation. The students are presenting a video clip to homeroom classrooms, displaying posters in the hallways, and speaking to all teachers, classroom assistants, and students at Northern High School. "The students decided as a group that this is a problem in our society," said Law. "I challenged them to do something about it." Students met with Principal Reichbacher and Vice Principal Edwards to discuss the concern and project. Their goal is to make people understand that the word is hurtful and rude. "Our hope is to end or decrease the usage of this horrible word," said a student spokesperson. "Please support our campaign and help 'spread the word to stop the word.'" NEVER SWERVE

Editor's note: The following column is a repeat from a few years ago; however, given the increase in deer activity this time of year, plus the fact that there have been several local auto/deer mishaps of late, it seems prudent to rerun it.

Q. When a deer runs across in front of your car, what should you do?

A. Never, under any circumstances, swerve to avoid an animal. That's a great way to end up dead!

Hit the brakes, hit the animal, but do not change direction. Any sudden motion of your car to either side is very likely to cause you to lose control, and then you're headed into the ditch or into the trees or into another vehicle. Swerving is the most dangerous action imaginable on a highway.

Some years ago, there was a TV commercial for a luxury car that showed the driver suddenly swerving to avoid an accident. That commercial was a great disservice, and I hope it was banned, because it created the illusion that a good enough car can swerve safely. Not true! The commercial was made by a stunt driver, who whipped his hand left, then right, in one continuous motion. It all probably took place at low speed, and then the film was sped up to add excitement. In other words, it was faked.

When you're driving a car, and the temptation occurs to swerve, don't even think about it!

As your car is going straight down the road, you have a certain amount of momentum, and it takes a force to change that momentum. You also have a certain amount of angular momentum, and you must exert a torque to change that. Moreover, for every action, there is an equal and opposite reaction. Those are laws of physics, and no matter whether you like to speed or not, your vehicle is not going to break those laws.

If you twist the steering wheel suddenly, here's what happens: The tires on the pavement, now facing in a different direction, exert a force sideways on the vehicle. Ideally, the vehicle moves in the new direction. That much is what the driver is trying to achieve by swerving.

However, there is a second effect, and it's very important. The angular momentum of the vehicle is a vector that points along the axles. Changing the direction of the front axle changes the angular momentum vector, and that means that a torque has been created at the point where the tires contact the pavement. But there is an equal and opposite torque exerted back on the vehicle, which tries to restore the angular momentum to its original state – except it can't, because the vehicle is moving in a new direction. So instead, that torque imparts a new rotational motion to the vehicle, and it isn't just the rotation of the tires any more. The whole vehicle starts to rotate about some point other than the axles. In other words, you've put the car into a roll.

If you're a very talented stunt driver and you whip your hand back the other direction with split-second timing before the roll gets under way, you will be exerting an opposite force and an opposite torque, which tend to cancel out the initial force and torque. Except for one thing. You almost surely took your foot off the gas as you started the swerve, and so the momentum is not the same as it originally was. You can't exactly compensate for the initial force and torque. So your car is starting to roll.

Basically, cars just aren't intended to take a sudden sideways force. That's a simple reality about automobile design and construction.

If you roll a car and survive, you can be pretty certain that the car is totaled. By contrast, if you just go ahead and hit a deer, you'll do about $1,000 to $3,000 worth of damage, which is repairable. (Hitting a small black bear of Garrett County size is not a whole lot worse, and anyway, bears are fewer and faster and smarter.)

Sooner or later, nearly everyone hits a deer or two. Young drivers need to be trained for this ahead of time. I would like to see the driver-training films used in simulators in high schools modified so as to include a deer running across the path. New drivers need to learn that truly safe driving demands the steadiness of not panicking at something unusual. A few million deer per year are killed on America's highways. There is absolutely no reason at all why they should be allowed to take the driver along with them.

Woodhill Sanctuary Will Protect Rare Butterfly Species

The Maryland Environmental Trust (MET) last Thursday announced a 15-acre conservation easement in southeastern Garrett County, donated from Woodhill LLC to MET and the Allegheny Highlands Conservancy (AHC). Woodhill Sanctuary contains habitat for several rare, threatened or endangered butterfly species, including the official state butterfly.

"I want to thank Woodhill LLC for their generous donation," said Gov. Martin O'Malley. "By preserving this butterfly sanctuary we are helping ensure that future generations fully experience Maryland's rich wildlife and natural wonder."

The Baltimore checkerspot was designated the official insect of the state of Maryland in 1973, and, while once common in the region, the species has experienced significant declines in recent years, according to the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

Woodhill Sanctuary has now one of only eight known Baltimore checkerspot colonies remaining in Maryland. According to DNR ecologist Jennifer Frye, the protection of Woodhill Sanctuary "ensures the preservation of this critical and uncommon habitat which currently supports at least five butterfly species included on the list of rare, threatened, and endangered (RTE) animals in Maryland."

Woodhill LLC trustee Vlad Dupre and his late wife Elizabeth have stewarded the property for more than 25 years. Though Vlad was unaware of the unique nature of the habitat on the property, he said he was pleased to learn of the option to protect the property with a conservation easement. The easement protects the rare habitat by requiring a habitat management plan to guide the maintenance of the area.

"My family and I are thrilled to contribute to the preservation of these endangered species of butterflies," said Dupre. "We consider it a privilege to be a part of the efforts of the Maryland Environmental Trust to maintain and manage natural habitats for the people of Maryland to enjoy and learn from."

"Maryland Environmental Trust is pleased to be involved in the protection of the rare habitat within Woodhill Sanctuary," said Elizabeth Buxton, director of MET. "The unique qualities of the property are irreplaceable, and Mr. Dupre's forethought in protecting the extraordinary habitat with a conservation easement is commendable."

The higher a climb, the more dangerous it becomes. The climber searches for strength and firm footing with every step and never looks down until he reaches his goal. Life places obstacles before us that appear insurmountable; with God's help we can possess power we didn't know we have, making the impossible possible. Visit your house of worship this week and know that your highest aspiration is as near as a prayer. Look up toward Him...never look down.

JESUS AND THE LAW

Throughout the Gospels there are many instances where Jesus is either accused of breaking a law or is questioned about his view of the law. In the three synoptic Gospels we have virtually identical versions of the incident where Jesus' disciples are accused of violating the Sabbath by plucking grain as they walked through the fields. Jesus defends his disciples by appealing to King David in similar circumstances and saying that the Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath. Shortly thereafter Jesus notices that he is being watched to see whether he will heal a man on the Sabbath, and he responds by asking whether it is permissible to do good or evil, to save life or to take it on the Sabbath. The implication is that we are commanded to do good deeds and so Jesus boldly tells the man to stretch out his withered hand. When Jesus is asked what should be done with the woman caught in adultery, since the Mosaic Law required that she be stoned, he turns the question back on her accusers, saying that he who is without sin should cast the first stone. Finally, when the Pharisees asked Jesus whether they should pay taxes, hoping to trip him up either with the Jewish or the Roman authorities, he answered that we should "Give to Caesar what is Caesar's and to God what is God's." (Mark 12:17). In all of these cases Jesus is cognizant that laws can conflict with mercy and justice, and the path of wisdom is to follow the spirit rather than the letter of the law.

Do not think that i came to destroy the Law or the Prophets. I did not come to destroy but to fulfill.

Treatment Options for Bronchiectasis

Bronchiectasis involves a continuous productive cough due to an infection. There is blockage of the airways as well as inflammation of the airways. Wheezing, difficulty breathing, and chest pain are symptoms of this condition. Bronchiectasis occurs more commonly in women, and the risk of being affected by the condition increases with age. Cystic fibrosis is a medical condition that can lead to bronchiectasis. Cigarette smoking may also increase the risk of this condition.

Antibiotics may be prescribed for treatment of coughing episodes and to reduce the risk for another infection. Fluoroquinolone antibiotics, such as ciprofloxacin, may be used. Tobramycin is an inhaled antibiotic that may also be prescribed. These medications may also be taken at the same time. Inhaled glucocorticoids, such as fluticasone, may be used to reduce inflammation of the airways. For those also affected by cystic fibrosis, dornase alfa may be prescribed. It works to decrease the thickness of mucus, which allows all to flow better through the lungs. Persons with the condition also may be affected by gastroesophageal reflux. A proton pump inhibitor, such as omeprazole, or an H2 blocker, such as cimetidine, may be used for suppression of stomach acid.

Hanks for the memories, in television terms

By Jay Bobbin

Tom Hanks

Q: Has the series "Bosom Buddies" ever been released on video? Wasn't it one of the first introductions to Tom Hanks? –Jean Conklin, Fairfield, Calif.

A: To take the last part first, yes, the ABC sitcom can be considered Hanks' first major credit. Prior to that, he had appeared only in a low-budget 1980 horror film titled "He Knows You're Alone" and in an episode of "The Love Boat."

"Bosom Buddies" was feted on its 30th anniversary at the most recent TV Land Awards, and the show is available on video in several forms. On DVD, it's available in separate first-season and second-season volumes or as a "Complete Series" set. And on VHS tape, four volumes of episodes were marketed. All those iterations can be located and purchased on the Internet.

Q: My wife and I think the voice in the ads for Dodge Ram pickup trucks sounds like Sam Elliott. Please let us know if we are right. –Donald Oldham, Reading, Pa.

A: You sure are ... there is no mistaking that distinctively deep drawl. Elliott will match face to voice again when he has a top-billed role opposite John Corbett and Karen Allen in CBS' next Hallmark Hall of Fame drama, "November Christmas," scheduled to air Nov. 28.

Q: I noticed that at the end of the "Army Wives" season finale, there was no teaser for next season. Please tell me there will be a fifth season. –Anne Vilhauer, Denver

A: It wasn't official at this writing, but there's little doubt there will be a fifth year. The show is Lifetime's highest-rated original drama, plus one of the highest rated in all of cable.

Q: We are big fans of NBC's "Crime Story," which was on in the mid-1980s. The main outlaw was Ray Luca, played by Anthony Denison. What ever happened to him? Is he still acting? –Tim and Larry Wishon, Yadkinville, N.C.

A: He certainly is, and he's been reasonably evident for the past five years (billed as Tony Denison) as Lt. Andy Flynn on the TNT series "The Closer." In recent years, he's also had continuing roles on "Prison Break" and "Playmakers," and he's done guest parts on series from "ER" and "Cold Case" to "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation" and "Criminal Minds."

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was American author and philosopher Eric Hoffer who made the following sage observation: "Rudeness is the weak man's imitation of strength."

• If you were to have a perfectly dry mouth, you wouldn't be able to taste a single thing. Researchers conducted an experiment in which they placed salt on a subject's dry tongue, and the subject reported absolutely no taste at all. Once a drop of saliva was added, though, the taste came through clearly.

• According to the makers of the Stetson, a 10-gallon hat actually holds only about three quarts of liquid.

• During the third century, Saint Lawrence of Rome, a deacon to Pope Sixtus II, was burned to death during a series of persecutions of priests and deacons. Legend has it that while he was on the fire, he turned to his executioners and said, "This side's done; turn me over and have a bite." It was for this reason that he was named the patron saint of butchers, roasters and comedians.

• The average robin reportedly has nearly 3,000 feathers. Makes you wonder who did the counting.

• Most people probably are aware of the fact that Franklin Delano Roosevelt is the only American president who was elected to more than two terms in office — he served three full terms and died during his fourth term in office. Despite the fact that he was an incredibly popular president, however, in none of his four elections did he carry his home county of Dutchess, New York.

• If you have a severe food allergy, peanuts are the most common culprit, followed, in order, by shellfish, fish, tree nuts and eggs.

Open House Set At Local Diakon Adult Day Care

In celebration of its 15 years of service to Garrett County residents, Diakon Adult Day Services has scheduled an open house on Wednesday, Sept. 29, from 2 to 6 p.m. at the center, which is located at 375 Pythian Avenue in Oakland.

"The event is a way for us to show area residents the services an adult day care program offers," stated director Grace Ann Bolyard. "Those services help older adults and those with physical challenges to remain in the community either independently or with loved ones." The open house will include refreshments and door prizes.

The center, which offers daytime care as an alternative to long-term nursing care while simultaneously providing respite for those giving care at home, opened in 1995. The center is currently one of three adult day care programs operated by Diakon Lutheran Social Ministries. Diakon's other Maryland center is located in Hagerstown, and the organization operates Frostburg Heights in Allegany County.

The center has served nearly 300 participants over the last 15 years, says Bolyard. Available services include transportation to and from the center and to physician appointments; health monitoring; physical, occupational, and speech therapies, based on insurance; restorative exercise to increase participants' strength and to maintain range of motion; meals and snacks; and assistance with hygiene, including the availability of bathing.

"In addition, we offer participants interaction with others who have similar interests and experiences," says Bolyard. "The center provides a full schedule of events and activities, including crafts, shopping trips, games, recreational excursions, and learning sessions."

The cost of adult day services is covered if participants have a medical assistance card. If not, the fee is based on the participant's adjusted gross monthly income. Some additional assistance may be available through the center's participation in United Way. As part of its $1 million/month in benevolent care, Diakon also has subsidized center operations over the years.

For additional information about the open house or the center, persons may call 301-334-0585.

The Bittinger Parish first observed Appalachian Sunday more than 20 years ago and had this service annually in the fall since that time. The service celebrates the mountain heritage of the culture and artistic values of the people of the Appalachian area.

Special music will be included in the service, and the liturgy will be taken from the "Of the Land and Seasons" service as written by Stephen and Beth Folkemer to celebrate the different seasons of nature and worship.

Pastor Randy Richardson extends an invitation to all to attend this service and time of fellowship. People attending this service are also invited to wear clothing which would be associated with the Appalachian heritage in the mountaintop area.

OPEN HOUSE SCHEDULED DURING AUTUMN GLORY – Members of the Oakland B&O Station Museum Committee will host an open house in the Oakland Train Station During the Autumn Glory Festival – Wednesday, Oct. 6, through Sunday, Oct. 10 – from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day. The members will be present to conduct tours and discuss their plans to create a branch of the Baltimore B&O Museum in the local station. See story for details.

Train Station To Be Open During Autumn Glory

The Oakland Train Station will be open to the public during the Autumn Glory Festival – Wednesday, Oct. 6, through Sunday, Oct. 10 – from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day.

Members of the Oakland B&O Station Museum Committee will be present to conduct tours and to talk about plans for creating a branch of the Baltimore B&O Museum in the Oakland station. Posters of the changes anticipated with this new status will be on display.

"I anticipate that may local people and out-of-town visitors will take this opportunity to come to our open house and see the interior of this beautiful train station," said committee member Asa McCain, former Oakland mayor. "We are rightfully proud to share this piece of history with the public, and we hope that the public will share our enthusiasm in converting the train station into a museum."

Formed by the Oakland Town Council last spring, the Museum Committee has been meeting regularly under the leadership of McCain and Terry Helbig, a member of the Garrett County Historical Society board of directors. They have been holding discussions with counterparts in Baltimore to assess the needs of the Oakland station and the cost of upgrading it in order to hold museum quality exhibits.

The committee is finalizing a nonprofit status for the project and looking for grants and foundation funds to underwrite some of the work.

The Autumn Glory Festival open house will be the first of several such events to make the public more aware of the status and plans for the station and to involve more people in the fundraising and volunteer work needed in the future. Upcoming events will include a TV raffle, a quilt raffle, and open houses at Christmas time and during Oakland's Winterfest.

"We believe that Oakland will continue to grow as a destination for railroad enthusiasts and history lovers," said Helbig. "When the B&O Railroad Station Museum is ready, it will join three other major sites of interest within one downtown Oakland block: the Garrett County Historical Society Museum, the society's new Transportation Museum now under construction, and the 1860s Church of the Presidents (St. Matthew's Episcopal Church). We think that these attractions will encourage and increase tourism and benefit the entire county's economy."

In addition to McCain and Helbig, the B&O Station Museum Committee members are Robert Shaffer, Bill Nemith, Margo Savage, Jack Riley, Meg Ellis, Oakland mayor Peggy Jamison, Jeannette Fitzwater, Arlene Murray, John Rathgeb, Troy Ellington, Marilyn Moors, Morgan C. France, Duane Yoder, Al Feldstein, and Courtney Wilson, executive director of the B&O Railroad Museum in Baltimore.

The headquarters will have information on the candidates and campaign material available for the public.

Neurologist To Be At Dr. Tuel's Site Semimonthly

Dr. David Tuel and staff have announced that a neurologist, Dr. Alvaro R. Gutierrez, MD, will be offering his services at Tuel's Oakland office, located along Memorial Drive, about twice per month, beginning in October.

Gutierrez operates a private clinic in Morgantown. His satellite office will be located at 880 Memorial Drive, Oakland, in the lower level of Tuel's offices.

Dr. Gutierrez and his staff provide care for adult and child patients with the range of neurological diseases: Parkinson's disease, Alzheimer's disease, MS, epilepsy, headaches, and others.

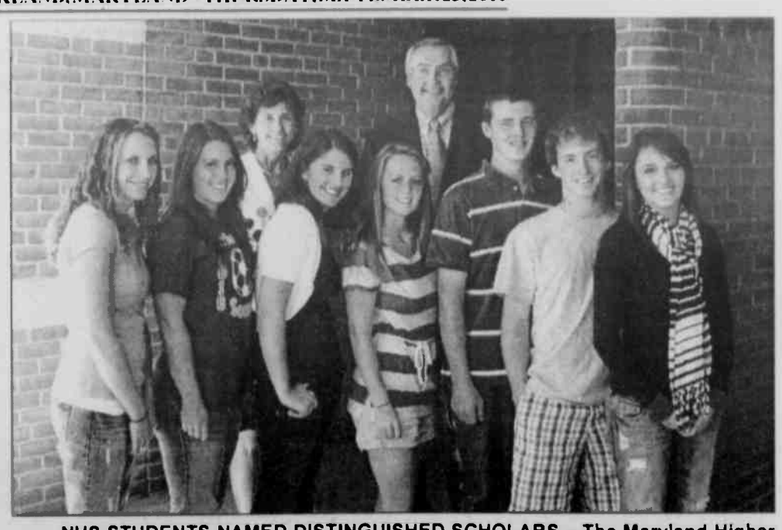

In the Morgantown office the staff offers in-house diagnostic testing, treatments, and multiple services. In the Oakland office, Gutierrez and his staff will focus on providing diagnostic EMG studies, as well as seeing new patients. The neurologist will be in Oakland on Fridays, about twice per month. He accepts self-referrals and most insurances, a spokesperson said.

Dr. Gutierrez has been working as a neurologist in Morgantown area for over 20 years, with the last 10 years in private practice. He graduated from medical school in Argentina and completed residency training and two fellowships (in epileptology and clinical neurophysiology, and electromyography) in the United States. He is board certified by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology. He has served as an examiner for the same board.

The neurologist is a member of numerous societies, including American Academy of Neurology, American Epilepsy Society, and American Headache Association.

He lives with his family in the Morgantown area, although they are frequent visitors to Garrett County, the spokesperson said, where they ski, camp, sail, and hike.

Patients or referring physicians may call the Morgantown office at 304-594-3258. This number is for making appointments in Morgantown as well as in Oakland.

"The students decided as a group that this is a problem in our society," said Law. "I challenged them to do something about it." Students met with Principal Reichbacher and Vice Principal Edwards to discuss the concern and project. Their goal is to make people understand that the word is hurtful and rude. GARRETT COLLEGE NEWS BEAT

www.garrettcollege.edu

Garrett Introduces New Volleyball, Basketball Coach Joanna Pennell

by Peggy Santamaria

A new face has appeared on the coaching roster for Garrett College. Joanna Pennell, an accomplished two-sport athlete, is currently serving as head coach of the women's volleyball team and will also be head coach of the women's basketball team, all the while serving as coordinator of recreational sports.

In her new coordinator capacity, Pennell will not only work with the teams, but also expand Garrett's program of recreational sports, including intramurals for all students. In this endeavor she will be working with Kailee Craig, assistant coordinator of residential life.

Pennell, a native of Delaware, grew up in what she described as "a basketball family."

"My father Josep was a legendary basketball coach in Delaware and was my coach at Ursuline Academy," she said.

Under his tutelage she exceiled in both basketball and volieyball.

While a high school student athlete, Pennell was a two-time first-team all-state volleyball player, as her team won two state championships. In basketball she was a three-time first-team all-state point guard and three-time USA Today All-American.

"We won one state championship my junior year, and were runner-up my sophomore and senior years," she said.

Following high school, Pennell attended American University on a full basketball scholarship.

"My freshman year, we knocked off #3-ranked University of Virginia while I served as a backup point guard," she recalled.

Pennell later transferred to Holy Family University, where she continued her stellar athletic career and was named a two-time first-team all-conference basketball player. She was also twice named the Most Valuable Player of the CACC Basketball Tournament.

"I broke the record in assists per game at the National Tournament with 16 assists," she said. "My senior year, I led the country in assists for NAIA Division II with 9.8 per game. I was also named the Philadelphia News Gleamer College Player of the Year in 2001," she said.

While she was in college, Pennell coached AAU basketball throughout Philadelphia until she was named women's head volleyball coach at Holy Family University in 2003, where she implemented the first volleyball program in the school's history.

After the volleyball program was up and running, Pennell said she wanted to get back into basketball. She began working with players individually throughout the Delaware and Philadelphia regions.

"In 2009, I took the position of head coach of girls' basketball at Padua Academy, which plays in the powerful Catholic Conference in Delaware," she said.

Now on campus at Garrett College, Pennell said she is enthusiastic about her new position.

"Taking over as both the head volleyball and basketball coach at Garrett is a true challenge," she said. "I am looking to instill not only hard work on the court, but also in the classroom. My goal is to assist each of my student-athletes with a smooth transition to a four-year college upon graduating from Garrett.

"I look forward to assisting my players with their goals of playing at the next level," she continued. "I was an extremely competitive player, but feel that I am even more competitive as a coach. I am looking forward to working in such a supportive environment and continuing the rich tradition with both of my teams."

Persons interested in following the progress of the volleyball and basketball teams can do so online by visiting www.garrettcollege.edu. For more information on college athletic programs, persons may telephone 301-387-3048 or send an e-mail to: Joanna.pennell@garrettcollege.edu.

College Expo To Provide Info On Some 40 Schools

Preparations are well under way for the Mountain Top College Exposition, sponsored by the Garrett County Board of Education and Garrett College. The event is slated for Monday, Oct. 11, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the GC gymnasium in McHenry.

"This annual event provides Garrett County students with excellent research tools to help them be better prepared to make decisions about their future," said Rachelle Davis, Garrett College director of admissions, who is one of the Expo coordinators.

"At Garrett we always encourage our students to plan ahead, to research options, and then to choose the direction that will take them to their goals," Davis said. "The Expo also is an ideal opportunity for those who don't yet have a goal in mind for life after high school."

Davis noted that the Mtn. Top College Expo allows students and parents to explore the many options for further education, including technical schools, two- and four-year colleges, universities, and military service.

Representatives from nearly 40 universities and colleges from Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia have registered to attend in order to meet with Garrett County students and parents. Information will be available on a wide variety of programs of study, student life, athletic opportunities, and financial assistance.

A traditional feature of the Expo is the awarding of "door prize" Garrett College scholarships to students attending the event. This year there will be several scholarship prizes awarded throughout the evening. Three students entering Garrett College this fall used the scholarships they won at the Expo last year.

Lora Ashby, a graduate of Southern High School, also won a scholarship while attending last year's Expo. She is pursuing pre-nursing studies.

"I really like Garrett College," Ashby said. "The teachers are very helpful. They want to make sure you understand things and will stay with you until you get it right. I also like that everything on campus is so accessible."

Lora hopes to continue her education beyond Garrett College to become a physical therapist.

"This is a great way to start college," she said.

Taylor Nicklin, a 2010 graduate of Northern High School, is in a pre-nursing program. He said he is enjoying being at Garrett.

"I was glad to have the scholarship to help with the cost of my education. This is really a great opportunity to experience college in a comfortable place. There is a homey feeling at Garrett College," he said.

Laura Schroyer, also a Northern High grad, applied the scholarship she won at the 2009 Mtn. Top College Expo to her first semester. She is majoring in fine and performing arts at GC.

"Garrett College is definitely a great place to begin an education," she said. "The faculty members genuinely care about the students and treat them like more than just a number. I think I'm incredibly lucky to have the opportunity to receive two years of my college education for free. I am also tremendously appreciative of the scholarship I won at the Mountain Top College Expo last year. Every bit helps."

Tree Association Receives Crop Grant From MDA

Two Garrett County Christmas tree farms – Woodlake Tree Farm and Mountain Top Tree Farm – will participate in the Maryland Christmas Tree Association's "Buy Local/Buy Real' marketing campaign, funded by a 2010 Maryland Specialty Crop Grant.

For the second consecutive year, the association was awarded monies from the Maryland Department of Agriculture to promote specialty crops such as Christmas trees, thousands of which are grown on several Garrett County tree plantations for retail and wholesale. The MDA grant, however, will be used to promote fresh-cut trees that are sold on "choose and cut' tree farms across the state.

The majority of Maryland's tree farms cater to the "choose and cut" trade, as opposed to larger, wholesale tree farm operations.

Mountain Top Tree Farm also wholesales cut Christmas trees, as does Pinetum Enterprises, a Christmas tree farm in Swanton. Garrett County is the "birthplace" of Maryland's plantation-grown Christmas trees, which the late R. Thomas Thayer Jr. launched in the 1950s.

For the 2010 holiday sales season, some 100 MCTA tree farmers will connect to a special celebration this year: the 500th anniversary of the first decorated Christmas tree in Latvia. The northern European nation's capital city of Riga has the distinction of being the location of the first-ever decorated tree, so the association decided to market this little-known fragment of history in conjunction with its promotion to buy locally grown Christmas trees.

"I'm so thrilled, I feel like a kid on Christmas morning," said MCTA president Wilma Mull upon obtaining the MDA block grant for a second year. "This will enable the association to expand our marketing efforts."

MDA announced the winners of a total of $387,455 in grants last week, made available from the U.S. Department of Agriculture Specialty Crop Block Grant Program, via the 2008 Farm Bill.

The tree association will use its $43,638 grant for a CBS-based radio and digital campaign and for advertisements on various Web sites, including those of MDA and the American Latvian Association.

With the 2010 grant monies, MCTA will conduct a marketing effort, beginning November 16, which will entice Maryland families to visit local Maryland "choose and cut' farms and to enter a contest for a free week's trip to Latvia.

"To obtain a special code to enter the contest, folks would have to visit a Maryland tree farm," said Roy Eberle, MCTA's chief marketing officer.

MCTA is working with the embassy of the Republic of Latvia and the American Latvian Association to promote the first decorated Christmas tree story. At its annual summer field day and meeting, the association welcomed guest speaker Juris Poikans, deputy chief of mission for the Latvian embassy in Washington, D.C.

Poikans recounted the Christmas tree story: "The first documented use of an evergreen tree at Christmas and New Year celebrations was in a town square of Riga, the capital of Latvia in the year 1510. . . . There is a plaque which is engraved with the First New Year's Tree in Riga in eight languages."

In Latvia, every citizen is entitled to one free evergreen from the country's numerous forests, Poikans said, but Latvians also purchase real trees from street merchants, who import them from Germany and Denmark.

MCTA will donate a large Christmas tree to the Latvian Embassy for this Christmas and also coordinate possible tree exchanges and lighting ceremonies between Annapolis and Riga, according to Eberle.

For more information about fresh-cut Christmas trees, perons may to online to www.marylandsbest.net and www.marylandchristmastrees.org.

Thank You!

The votes are in, and the results are final. The sixth annual Garrett County Art and Wine Festival is a winner once again!

Aided by gorgeous mountain top weather, more than 2,000 residents and visitors voted with their feet when they attended the event at the Garrett County Fairgrounds September 11, and it was clear to the event organizers that their labors had again yielded sweet and plentiful fruit. Festival patrons were treated to a menu of more than 170 wines from wineries across the region and beyond, a variety of great food, outstanding musical entertainment, activities for the kids, and a silent auction that loudly proclaimed the generosity of local patrons.

Proceeds from the event are donated to the Western Potomac Chapter American Red Cross for use in programs in Garrett Country, so the real winners are the people who live here, and who will benefit from the life-saving, family-enriching programs we provide.

When it comes to thanking the people who made this event such a resounding success, we always fear we'll leave someone out, because so many people have been involved in so many ways. But we'd like to recognize the people who were the most instrumental in making this happen, without whom this would be just another really good idea.

The members of the planning committee work literally 12 months of the year to ensure that the festival is a class act, and that word of the event is spread far and wide. Paula Yudelevit and Vianne Bell, co-chairs of the festival, reported that gate numbers and wine sales were both up by 22% over last year, which proves that the committee's efforts were well worth the time and energy they expended!

They were joined by a cadre of capable, creative, dedicated volunteers who spent countless hours and months of meetings striving to make this event successful. The committee coordinators are Rosie Versteegen, Bill Ingram, Marty McGreal, Ben Leaderman, Sam Housley, Linda Carr, Rickie Rubenstein, Roshelle Pavlin, Connie Margison, Bob Carney, Jodi Refosco, Penny McLaughlin, Kathy Meagher, Debbie Archer, Jimmy Flanigan, David Lantz, Meg Ellis, Michelle Harris-Turner, Ruth Beitzel, Lillian Steele and Troy Strieby.

Special thanks also go to the major sponsors of the event, Wisp Resort (Recreational Industries), Tim Prather, Gary Daum, Karen Myers and Steve Richards, Long & Foster Realtors, McHenry Beverage, Constellation Energy, Railey Mountain Lake Vacations, Taco Bell, Maryland Life Magazine, Clear Mountain Bank, Taylor Made Vacations, Knights of Columbus, Foodland Fresh, My Bank First United, Coca-Cola Enterprises, Pepsi Bottling Company, Northwestern Financial Network, Little Mountain Promotions, Lake-Front Magazine, Nu Way Interiors, Good Timber Bed and Breakfast, Junior Woman's Civic Club, Deepcreektimes.com, Marketworks LLC and Phenix Technologies.

Food was expertly provided by Jearbryo's, Archie's BBQ, Arrowhead Deli, Lakeside Creamery and Copper Kettle Popcorn Factory, FireFly Farms, DeBerry Farms and Deep Creek Sweets, and music was professionally supplied by Travis Minnick, Dmitry Kubin, Brother Short, and The Remedy.

Many more individuals and groups contributed to the success of the day, especially the Celebrity Pourers, House of Hope, HART, Forest Canopy, Bill's Marine Service, Bert Triplet, Clay Clayton, Eric Meadows, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce staff, Garrett College's Men's Basketball Team and Baseball Team, High Mountain Sports, Ledo's, Md. Dept. of Corrections, Md. Dept. of Juvenile Services, Md. State Police, Meadow Mountain Youth Center, Piet Versteegen, Pleasant Valley Dream Rides, Pam Trydhal, Ridgeview Valley, Smiley's Pizzeria and Tracy Colton, and those folks we may have missed unintentionally!

On behalf of the thousands of area residents who will be touched by Red Cross services this year, we say thank you for supporting this community endeavor, and thank you Art and Wine Festival committee for bringing such a wonderful event to our part of the world!

SCHOOL BUS TRAINING PROG. CONDUCTED – As part of the Garrett County Board of Education's In-service training program, school bus drivers/contractors recently participated in a demonstration on the proper techniques for school bus evacuations and dealing with weather-related emergencies. Staff from Garrett County Department of Emergency Management and Public Safety, along with volunteers from Oakland Volunteer Fire Department and Southern Rescue Squad, provided the training, which included classroom instruction and a live demonstration utilizing a bus chassis (donated by Harry Martin.) "The demonstration highlighted different methods for evacuating from the various emergency exits depending on the particular scenario a driver may face in a bus accident," said Director Brad Frantz, Department of Emergency Management and Public Safety. Towing and staging of the bus were provided by Hutton Auto. Below, Mike Hoover (Garrett County Public Safety) discusses possible emergency scenarios drivers could face. Below, Oakland Fire Department and Southern Rescue volunteers display proper evacuation procedures from the top hatch of a school bus.

Dear Friends, Supporters and Constituents:

Thank You! I am grateful that I was given a vote of confidence in Tuesday's primary election. I believe our solid showing indicates strong public support for our campaign themes of limited government, lower taxes, traditional values and good stewardship of our natural resources and the environment.

I offer my sincere thanks to all the voters who participated in the primary election and to the volunteers and financial contributors who make our campaign a success.

Now, it's on to the general election in November. I am optimistic that, with your continued support, we will prevail in the general election.

I am honored and humbled to represent you in the Maryland House of Delegates. I have worked hard to earn your respect and trust. I will do my utmost to serve you well if elected to continue in service for another term.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT YOUR DRINKING WATER
Town of Oakland Has Levels of Disinfection Byproducts Above Drinking Water Standards

Our water system recently violated a drinking water standard. Although this is not an emergency, as our customers, you have a right to know what happened, what you should do, and what we are doing to correct this situation.

We routinely monitor for the presence of drinking water contaminants. Disinfection byproducts are formed by a chemical reaction of chlorine with the organic material in the water, such as leaves and algae. Testing results show that our system exceeds the standards, or maximum contaminant levels (MCL) for Total Trihalomethanes and Haloacetic Acids. The standard for Total Trihalomethanes is 80 parts per billion (ppb), and Haloacetic Acids is 60 ppb.

The average level of Disinfection Byproducts over the prior year (January 2008 - December 2008) was:

Total Trihalomethanes	84 ppb
Haloacetic Acids	85 ppb

What should you do? You do not need to use an alternative (e.g., bottled) water supply. However, if you have specific health concerns, consult your doctor.

What does this mean? This is not an immediate risk. If it had been, you would have been notified immediately. However, some people who drink water containing total trihalomethanes and haloacetic acids in excess of the MCL over many years may have an increased risk of getting cancer.

What happened? What is being done? Recently, the State of Maryland, Department of the Environment has made the byproducts limitations more stringent. Oakland has been working to lower the levels of total trihalomethanes and haloacetic acids over the past couple years in anticipation of the new requirements. Unfortunately, we have not able to bring the levels down to meet the new guidelines. As a result, we have completed a study on our water system to determine what changes or improvements are necessary to bring our system into compliance. We recently awarded a contract for the design work necessary to make improvements to our water plants which should bring our levels into compliance, based upon the completed study. We expect to award a construction contract as soon as the design plans have been completed and approved by Maryland Department of the Environment.

For more information, please contact Randy Sharpless, Oakland Water Supenntendent, by phone at 301-334-3836, or his mailing address is: Oakland Water Department, 15 South Third Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550.

NOTE: Please feel free to share this information with all other people who drink this water, especially those who may not have received this notice directly (for example, people in apartments, nursing homes, schools, and businesses). You can do this by posting this notice in a public place or distnbuting copies by hand or mail.

This notice is being provided to you by the Town of Oakland. State Water System ID # 011-0008. 9/23

AMENDMENT TO AGENDA BOOK: CELL PHONES

The administration of Southern High School has instituted a change in the current Cell Phone Consequence Hierarchy. Any cell phones and/or electronic communication devices that are collected by school officials will be returned to a parent/guardian no earlier than the following school day for all offense levels. Parents/students are reminded that the consequence for the first cell phone violation is after-school detention, and all future offenses will lead to in-school suspensions. Examples of the new rule in action: If a cell phone is collected on Wednesday, it may be picked up on/after Thursday. If a cell phone is collected on Friday, it may be picked up on/after Monday. If a cell phone is taken on Dec. 23, it may be picked up on/after Jan. 3.

FUNDS DONATED TO CTP PROGRAM – Kaitlyn Flynn, a 17-ysar-old senior at Southern High School, recently received funding to assist her in transportation to her paid internship at Oakland Nursing and Rehab Center. She attends school for the first portion of the day and then is transported by Garrett Transit Service to ONR. Flynn's pathway at SHS is allied health, and her job is varied at the ONR. She delivers food trays to the residents, helps in the dietary department, and helps with general activities. She hopes to work in a health-related field when she graduates. She needed uniforms in order to work and did not have the resources, so Appalachian Crossroads' employment specialist Michelle Ross solicited the contribution from Dr. Ken Buczynski and Dr. Charles Walch to purchase the shoes and scrubs required. Appalachian Crossroads, who pays for the transportation, participated in a meeting with the school counselors at SHS last spring, at which Flynn was identified as an "at risk" student who would need additional help to transition to work after school. Ross met with ONR, developed the job for her, helped set the schedule so that it would coincide with her class schedule, and stops by work regularly to help solve problems that occur. Ross also stays in close contact with Flynn, her mom, and the school counselors. "ONR was a partner last year and has been very generous to offer the paid internship," said a spokesperson. "The Collaborative Transition Program is unique in the state in that all positions are paid. It requires a commitment by the local businesses and employers, but they also benefit by the opportunity to recruit and pre-train future employees." Other employers participating this year include Naylor's, Wisp Resort, Pillar Innovations, and Perkins Restaurant. The program is funded by the Board of Education and the Division of Rehabilitation. Flynn is one of seven students enrolled this semester. Flynn, pictured above left with Buczynski and at right with Walch, lives with her mom, Lauren Flynn.

A POSSIBLE CONNECTION

In 2007, the Food and Drug Administration warned that men who took Viagra (sildenafil) and similar drugs for the treatment of erectile dysfunction were at risk for developing hearing impairment. Since then, there has only been anecdotal evidence and some laboratory studies to bear out this warning. More recently, however, a new U.S. study (based on a national sample of men over the age of 40) has found that nearly one in three men taking erectile-dysfunction drugs were deaf or hard of hearing. By contrast, only slightly more than one man in six who did not take Viagra-like drugs experienced hearing loss. While more study is needed, this recent finding certainly deserves mention.

If you have questions about a hearing deficits, we want you to know you are always welcome at AUDIBEL. Perhaps you have a hearing aid that you don't wear because it did not live up to your expectations. If so, bring it to us and let us take a look. It may be that a simple adjustment or a switch in styles is all it will take to bring your hearing abilities up to maximum capacity.

P.S. "Ototoxic" drugs (those that are toxic to the ear) include certain antibiotics.

GARRETT COUNTY'S MOST BEAUTIFUL PERSON for 2010 is Debbie Friend, the county commissioners announced on Tuesday. The Mtn. Lake Park resident was nominated for this honor by Janet Browning of Deer Park. Each year the pubic is invited to nominate individuals or groups that have made significant contributions to communities through their unpaid volunteer efforts. A local committee then chooses GC's Most Beautiful Person. "[Debbie] has determination, compassion for others, and her volunteer hours in 4-H make life better for youth in Garrett County and the state of Maryland," Browning wrote about Friend on the nomination form. Friend also volunteers much time for the Garrett County Agriculture Fair and its board, which she has been of member of for 10 years. She is the first woman president of the 24-member board, and has held that office for four years. Friend spearheaded the construction of a $3.5 million exhibit hall, currently being built on the fairgrounds. Sen. George Edwards presented Friend with a proclamation from the Maryland Senate, congratulating her for being chosen the county's Most Beautiful Person. WINTER WEATHER PROGNOSTICATOR? If caterpillars can forecast a mild or severe winter, then what's this white hay bale one seen along Accident-Bittinger Road trying to tell us? That another record breaking snowfall is headed our way or that there won't be much snow this winter? In any event, residents of Garrett County and the surrounding area are a hardy bunch of folks (as proven by their handling of last winter's snowfall) and can tackle just about anything that Mother Nature wants to throw at them. Autumn officially began last week and winter isn't too far behind. So, drag out those wooly sweater, cut some firewood, and have those snow shovels handy, just in case. Photo by Lisa Broadwater. MDE Approves Discharge Permit For G'ville Mine

The Maryland Department of the Environment reported this week that it has made a final determination on the discharge permit application by Maryland Energy Resources LLC for the proposed underground coal mine along Durst Road near Grantsville.

The department published a tentative permit determination on April 15 and conducted a public hearing regarding the proposed draft permit on May 19.

After considering all comments received either in writing or through oral testimony, the department made the final determination to issue the permit with several changes to the tentative determination.

The permittee will be required to include alternate test species in the biomonitoring study plan that also reflects the biological nature of endangered species, including but not limited to rainbow trout and stonefly.

Temperatures will be required to be monitored 24 hours per day between May 15 and Sept. 30, and sulfate will be required to be monitored weekly.

A special condition of the permit has been revised to clarify the permittee's responsibility to comply with all state water quality standards.

The permittee will also be required to perform a feasibility study considering potential options for implementation of real-time re-

State's First Wind Turbine Facility To Officially Start In January 2011

The official start-up date for Constellation Energy's Backbone Mountain wind energy facility is the first week of January 2011. Dave Wagner, the Baltimore-based company's local representative, gave the Garrett County commissioners an update on the 70 megawatt (MW) Criterion Wind Project on Tuesday.

"The project is moving along nicely," Wagner said, about Maryland's first wind turbine project.

Tree-clearing and construction for the initiative began this March in the Eagle Rock area and now stretches over an eight-mile area along the ridgeline. Each of the 28 Clipper 2.5MW Liberty wind turbines will be approximately 415 feet tall, to the tip of a blade rotated straight up.

"As of two weeks ago, all of the deliveries for the project have been made – that is, all of the large, oversize deliveries have been made," Wagner told the commissioners. "In all, we had about 560 large trucks go through Garrett County, escorted by the state police."

He noted that all of the trucks have arrived, all of the loads have been discharged, and many of the loads have been installed.

"Of the 28 turbines, 24 are completely erected; we have four that remain to have the rotors installed," Wagner said. "All the tower sections have been installed, then the cell tops have been installed, and the rotors just need to be lifted. We have

Hearing Slated Regarding Wisp Water Request

A public informational hearing will be held on Oct. 6 at 2 p.m. at the Deep Creek Discovery Center regarding an application made by Wisp Resort to draw water from a well in the Hoyes Run/Fantasy Valley area. The hearing is hosted by the Maryland Department of the Environment, and arguments for and against the proposal will be heard.

The application by Wisp, which was made this summer, is requesting a permit to withdraw ground water from one well in the Greenbrier/Pocono Formation for irrigation at the Lodestone Golf Course. The MDE is considering an appropriation for an annual average of 48,000 gallons of ground water per day and 175,000 gallons in the month of maximum use. The project was advertised in The Republican newspaper on Aug. 19.

Concerns have been raised by citizens in the area of Hoyes Run, who have stated that it is the only stream in Maryland in

Local Athletes Named Grand Marshals For 43rd Annual Autumn Glory Parade

Local athletes Tom Wallisch and Casey Eichfeld have been selected as the Grand Marshals of Garrett County's 43rd annual Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade on Saturday, Oct. 9, beginning at 1 p.m.

Natives of Pittsburgh, Wallisch's parents, Mike and Patty Wallisch, have owned a second home in Garrett County since 1989. Wisp Resort was their home ski resort and Wallisch was a member of the Deep Creek Winter Sports Team.

ESPN named him one of the ski industry's Most Innovative Thinkers in 2010.

In a recent half-hour FuelTV FirstHand episode, Wallisch talks about his skiing, and extensively about Garrett County, Wisp Resort, and the Deep Creek Lake area.

Wallisch returns to Wisp every May to participate in the Tom Wallisch Memorial Day Weekend Rail Jam. He is sponsored by Monster Energy Drink, Verizon, Scott, Sweet Protection Helmets, Full Tilt (which produces Tom Wallisch Hot Dogger Boots), Skull Candy Headphones, and the North Face. He currently films DVDs with Level 1 Productions, Field Productions and 4bi9 Media.

Charged With Sex Offenses Involving 5-Year-Old Child

A Swanton man was arrested this week by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on numerous sex offense charges.

Three District Court warrants were issued for the arrest of Mark Sanford Duckworth, 53, charging him with failing to register as a sex offender, sexual solicitation of a minor, second-degree sex offense, third-degree sex offense, indecent exposure, second-degree assault, and possession of marijuana. The warrants were obtained following an investigation by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

A complaint was made to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office on Sept. 21. Deputies responded to State Street, Kitzmiller, and reportedly identified Duck-worth as the suspect in a sexual solicitation case against a 5-year-old victim.

A search warrant was obtained for Duckworth's residence, where evidence in the case was collected. Duckworth was taken into custody on Tuesday. After an appearance before a District Court commissioner, his bond was set at $120,000.

DECONTAMINATION DRILL CONDUCTED – Emergency responders from several agencies recently participated in a hazardous materials decontamination drill in downtown Oakland. The event was designed to test the capabilities of the responders to set up the decontamination tent, establish a "hot zone," conduct the "decon" operation, and cleanup in a timely fashion. Agencies involved included the Garrett County Department of Public Safety and Emergency Management, Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, Garrett County Sheriff's Office, Garrett County Health Department, and Maryland Emergency Management Agency. Members of the Southern High School Emergency Services Club participated as "victims." "The exercise was very successful, in that the responders quickly identified the hazard and then established and conducted the operation," said Director Brad Frantz, Public Safety/Emergency Management. "There was a marked improvement over previous drills and exercises, and that is directly attributable to the training that has been provided over the past year to many of the fire and EMS companies." Above, Steve Smith, assistant director of Public Safety, oversees setup of the decon tent. Below, OVFD chief John Feather (pointing) establishes a plan to conduct the decon operation. Surrounding him, left to right, are Ginny Smith, GCPS planner, and OVFD members Tom Swiger, Mike Pritt (hidden), Phil Rook, Dakota Pritt, Taylor Crabtree, and Chris Crabtree.

Two New Maryland Traffic Laws Take Effect This Friday, Oct. 1

Effective this Friday, Oct. 1, two new traffic safety laws that were passed during this year's Maryland General Assembly are designed to alter motorists' current driving habits.

The Delegate John Arnick Electronic Communications Traffic Safety Act of 2010 requires motorists in Maryland to use a hands-free device, such as a Bluetooth, to talk on cell phones while the vehicle is in motion, except to initiate or terminate the call, turn off the hand-held phone, or to call 911.

The violation is enforceable only as a secondary offense, meaning that a driver can only be cited if pulled over for another offense, such as speeding. Drivers could be fined $40 for an initial violation and $100 for subsequent ones.

The legislation is in memory of the late Delegate Arnick, who initially introduced legislation to ban text messaging.

"While a hand-held cell phone ban may help reduce the physical distraction of using a cell phone, hands-free is not necessarily risk-free," said Ragina C. Averella, manager of public and government affairs at AAA Mid-Atlantic. "The real distraction is the holding of the conversation, not the holding of the phone, and using a hands-free phone while driving can still impair a driver's reaction time to critical events."

Averella said that studies show that the safest action is to avoid using a cell phone at all while driving. A 2008 study by the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety found that talking on a cell phone while driving, regardless of whether it's hand-held or hands-free, quadruples a driver's chances of being involved in a crash.

"While the new law is a step in the right direction to reduce driver distractions, we still continue to urge motorists to avoid the use of cell phones, as well as avoid any other distracting behaviors while driving when at all possible," added Aver-ella.

The new law applies to fully licensed drivers, so teen drivers with learners' permits and provisional licenses are reminded that they still are prohibited from talking on a cell phone while driving, even if it is hands-free, until they obtain a full driver's license. The only exception is to make a 911 call. Violations may result in a suspension of the teen's driving privileges.

The hand-held cell phone ban is the second piece of distracted driving legislation to become law over the past two years. In 2009, the Maryland General Assembly passed the initial Delegate John Arnick Electronic Communications Traffic Safety Act, which prohibits a person from writing or sending a text message while driving and is punishable with a $500 fine. The law is enforceable as a primary offense, which means a driver can be pulled over solely for this violation.

This year the Maryland legislature failed to close a loophole in the texting ban which allowed motorists to read a text message while driving. According to Averella, AAA Mid-Atlantic, along with other safety advocates, will encourage legislators during the 2011 session to amend the current law to include a provision that prohibits the reading of text messages while driving.

"Both of these laws are riding the growing wave of public sentiment over the safety concern of distracted driving, and rightly so given the alarming statistics," Averella said.

Nearly 6,000 people were killed, and an estimated 515,000 people injured in motor vehicle crashes in 2008 that were reported to have involved distracted driving, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. In Maryland, there were 23,707 inattentive driving-related vehicle crashes in 2008, resulting in 11,636 injuries and 35 fatalities, according to the Maryland Highway Safety Office.

According to the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety's third-annual 2010 Traffic Safety Culture Index, 52% of American drivers said they feel less safe on the roads now than they did five years ago. The leading reason cited was distracted driving, with 88% of motorists rating drivers who text and e-mail as a very serious threat to their safety.

Eighty-four percent of Maryland AAA members surveyed strongly support establishing stricter penalties for distracted driving, based on AAA Mid-Atlan-tic's 2009-2010 Transportation Poll.

"We are hopeful that these findings not only show an increased concern for distracted driving, particularly as the issue is receiving more public awareness, but also that people will make a commitment to focus on the task of driving so that their inattention doesn't lead to an avoidable tragedy," said Averella.

Maryland also now joins 48 other states to enact a "Move Over" law. House Bill 499, sponsored by five legislators, requires drivers approaching an emergency vehicle that is stopped, standing, or parked on a highway and using any visual signals, to make a lane change into an available lane not immediately adjacent to the emergency vehicle, or to slow to a reasonable and prudent speed that is safe.

"This bill will help protect our police officers and other first responders who put their lives at risk every day," said Averella.

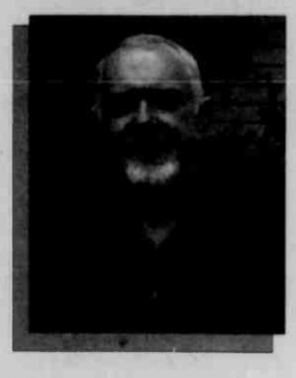

SCHOLARSHIP ENDOWMENT ESTABLISHED FOR ADULT LEARNERS – The Garrett College Foundation recently received a gift of $200 from the Howard and Audrey Naylor Trust through the Community Trust Foundation to establish the Audrey Naylor Scholarship Endowment. According to Jeanne Neff, chair of the GC Foundation board, annual income from the endowment will provide scholarships to residents of Garrett County who are one year or more past the date of their high school graduation or GED completion. The scholarships will assist adult learners to complete either an associate degree or non-credit, industry-recognized workforce training certificate. Recipients of these scholarships must demonstrate financial need and must be prepared to support 10% of the cost their education or training. "This wonderful gift complements the Garrett County scholarships for new high school graduates or GED completers," said Ann Welham, dean of enrollment management at GC. "The commissioners recently announced phase two of the county scholarship program, extending it to students interested in occupational training as well as those pursuing academic study. The Audrey Naylor Scholarships make the same opportunities available to people who have been out of school for some time." The new scholarship program was created in memory of Audrey Naylor, who herself attended college as an adult, completing her bachelor's degree at the College of Idaho and master's degree from Boise State University while rearing a family of five children. The Garrett College Foundation will seek to build the endowment over time by encouraging other gifts in support of adult learners, especially women, who would otherwise not be able to pursue higher education. Audrey Naylor Scholarships will be available for the spring semester, which begins in January. Interested individuals should contact the Garrett College Office of Financial Aid at 301-387-3012.

ELECT BILL WELCH

Thanks...

...to voters in all political parties. Your support is strong and growing every day by telling your friends.

• • • • • • •

Six out of ten Republicans and almost all Democrats agree Garrett County needs a new commissioner in District 3. I am a conservative, willing and able to reduce the size and cost of Garrett County government.

Elect me November 2 and you shall have smaller, open, responsible government. I have been accountable all my life — it is time for public officials to be accountable to the people of Garrett County.

Two Driving On Revoked Licenses Arrested By GCSO

Two men were arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies after they were discovered to be driving on suspended/revoked licenses. The following cases are unrelated.

Barry Eugene Friend, Friendsville, was operating a vehicle on Garrett Highway last Friday, when it became disabled. When police arrived at the scene, Friend was found to be driving on a revoked and suspended license. He was taken into custody to await a bond hearing.

Brandon Philip Warnick was operating a vehicle yesterday on Rt. 135 Maryland Highway, when a deer ran in front of the vehicle. He was unable to avoid collision with the animal. It was determined that Warnick had been driving on a suspended license and had an outstanding warrant from Allegany County. He was taken into custody in lieu of $1,000 bond.

"FOR WHERE TWO OR THREE are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them." Matthew 18:20. This verse from the King James Version of the Bible was exemplified at Northern Middle School last week, where a few students and parents gathered at the flagpole at 7:30 a.m. to participate in the "See You at the Pole" global day of student prayer. The student-led event began 20 years ago, and is observed on the fourth Wednesday of September all over the United States and in 20 other countries as well. Garrett County's annual Autumn Glory Festival landed in the international spotlight three years ago, when the popular travel web site, MSN.com listed it tops among fall festivals in the world. The local event beat out Paris's Festival d'Automne (#5) and Munich's Oktoberfest (#7) – in addition to many domestic celebrations, including San Francisco's Dias De los Muertos.

"Music, parades, and awesome colors are at the center of this festival," noted the site, plugging, in particular, the Grand Feature Parade, the Maryland State Banjo & Fiddle Championships, and the Tournament of Bands.

For the past two years, travelchannel.com has also listed the Autumn Glory Festival and Garrett County as one of "America's Three Best Autumn Road Trips," and in 2008, baltimoresun.com listed Garrett County as one of the top five locales for fall foliage.

For more details about Autumn Glory including a complete listing of Autumn Glory events, one may visit autumngloryfestival.com or contact the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce at 301-387-4386.

Plans For Gov. O'Malley's AG Visit Finalized

Plans are currently being finalized for the visit from Gov. Martin O'Malley to Garrett County during the Autumn Glory weekend.

O'Malley will arrive at Cornish Manor for breakfast on Saturday before the parade. He will be joined there by a cross section of Garrett County leaders. He hopes to meet and talk with representatives from business, government, education, and non-profit agencies.

"It is important, especially during these hard economic times, for elected officials to stay in close touch with all the people," said O'Malley. "In our nation and in our state, hard decisions are being made. In fields of education, health, public safety, transportation, parks, and the work force, needs are great and choices are difficult."

Also attending the morning event will be Joanna Guy to perform musical comedy and the Sugarfoot Stompers, who will play. For more information on O'Malley's appearance and how to get tickets, persons should contact Doris Goldsborough at 301-334-3007.

An Admirable Decision...

As Garrett County commissioners Ernie Gregg and Fred Holliday prepare to clean out their desks at the courthouse, it seems appropriate to recognize these two men for some of their accomplishments during their relatively long time of service as commissioners. One of the most significant decisions rendered by the pair occurred just this week, when they voted to pay off the remaining $1.7 million owed on a bond, a move which makes the county debt free.

Just the fact that the county has the resources to pay off the bond out of "rainy day" funds, and still have $3.6 million left, is testimony to the sound fiscal management of the current commissioners. With the economy of the nation floundering so for at least two years, leading to major cutbacks in state and federal support to the county, to be debt free is a rather amazing feat. We wonder if another county in the state of Maryland is in such a strong financial position. (And remember, we live in impoverished Appalachia.)

Some may allege that this decision by Gregg and Holliday was "politically motivated," but if that were the case, why did they not make the decision prior to the primary elections a few weeks ago? They had the funds then to make that decision, and doing so then might have saved their political careers. About the only explanation then is that they really wanted to leave things in as good a shape as possible for their successors by eliminating the county's indebtedness, and that's admirable. Not many lame-duck elected officials would take such bold action.

Another decision made in 2009 that took some guts was to support the building of the recreation center at Garrett College, a project that was strongly endorsed in this column. After some redesign work on the project, Commissioner Gregg supported it and, after much angst and difficult consideration, Commissioner Holliday also agreed to vote yes on the project. This was against Holhday's extremely conservative nature, yet he had the courage to support it in the face of some strong opposition by some.

It is no secret that this column has also been utilized to criticize actions and inactions of the commissioners, including the allegation that they sold out the county by doing next to nothing to keep the wind industry out of here. That opinion stands. However, they deserve much credit for many of their decisions that have kept the county economically viable even during extremely difficult times.

Please keep printing the great articles by Glenn Tolbert. He chooses topics to write about that are relevant and often controversial, frequently selecting subjects that some people would prefer he not address. I admire his honesty and ability to present the facts, while remaining neutral.

Keep them coming, Glenn!

I want to commend Judy Carbone, Garrett College and its staff, GFWC Civic Club of Oakland, AAUW, Business and Professional Women, WMD Radioworks Broadcasting, Garrett County Board of Education, and Girl Scouts Black Diamond Council for a very successful first Volunteer Fair held on Saturday, Sept. 25. The fair was very well organized and inviting for both volunteers and organization participants. Thirty-five organizations were represented.

The Garrett College Student Government Association members and other volunteers assisted in any way that was necessary. The baseball team helped make the day comfortable for everyone by providing food to purchase. I would like to commend them as well.

Sincerely,
Ellen Fritz

The Garrett Reading Council invites all to participate in Jumpstart's Read for the Record Campaign next Thursday, Oct. 7, and help set a new world record for the number of people reading the same classic children's book on the same day.

It doesn't matter how old you are, though you are encouraged to find a young person to read Ezra Jack Keats's The Snowy Day with you. You will not only help promote literacy by doing so, but you can also help provide a free book to a young child in need of reading skills. How?

At the Garrett Reading Council's first meeting on September 21, one of our speakers was Loretta Tressnall, a representative from Pearson, which publishes some of our textbooks in the county school system. Loretta gave a free copy of this book to each member there and told us the new opportunity for reading this book online at www.wegivebooks.org.

According to the Pearson Foundation and its partner Jumpstart, reading The Snowy Day online is free and secure, and will assure that you are counted as a participant in the worldwide reading of this book. For every book read online, this web site will donate a paperback or hardcover children's book to a classroom with students in need of reading skills.

If you do not read your book online and would like to be counted, please e-mail me at garrettreadingpresident@gmail.com. I'll be happy to send Garrett County's numbers to Jumpstart for you. If you watch The Today Show on October 7, you'll see many folks reading this book with children and learn more about Jumpstart's pre-school literacy programs.

Please participate in this worthwhile event, connect with millions of people around the world, and put a book in a child's hands. Thank you.

Yours truly,
Liz Rees Gilbert

To the Editor:

The deadline for registering to vote is October 12.

Anyone who will turn 18 before November 2 may register to vote for the first time in this election. High school seniors should take note. Or, for anyone who voted in 2008, if you've moved since the 2008 election, you still have a week to become properly registered.

Garrett County voters who don't think there is much at stake in this election should think again. Beyond county offices, the importance on the national level of state and federal campaigns is very great. This year's election is predominantly a referendum on the last two years of the way America has been governed. Your voice needs to be heard.

It may be of some interest to know that the privilege of voting (hard won through many wars) is not so lightly brushed off in some other countries. In Australia, for example, voting is mandatory – you may leave every space blank, but at least you have to show up to vote, or face a stiff fine. Americans would do well to take voting equally seriously.

It should also be remembered that there is no longer any need to struggle to physically reach the polling places. Anyone at all (not just the aged and infirm) can have an absentee ballot with no reason required, plus there will be early voting between October 22 and 28 at the former Armory in Oakland.

Don't let it slide. Voting is important!

To the Editor:

October is National Domestic Violence Awareness Month. This past fiscal year, the Dove Center assisted 543 adults and children who were living in fear within their own homes. Of that number, 523 were unduplicated, that is, did not receive services at some other point in the year. Of the 20 who were duplicated, only seven presented a second time with the same issue. The other 13 had different victimizations when served the second time.

These numbers certainly debunk the myth that domestic violence agencies serve the same few people over and over again.

Each of those individuals had backgrounds and stories of survival as unique as the changing leaves we see gracing the branches of the trees these days. Much like the leaves, they eventually found themselves vulnerable and falling, under the pressure of a harsh, brutal environment.

The Dove Center was able to soften their falls by providing shelter, hotline, counseling, advocacy, and accompaniment. We are grateful to be here as a resource to those who need us, and we recognize that serving 543 individuals is quite an impact on the community. However, we feel that it is likely the tip of the iceberg of individuals needing our assistance.

This is where the community's help is needed. Please take time to learn about the signs of domestic violence, so that if you know someone who needs help, you can direct them to available resources. Though it is hard to accept, everyone knows someone who has been affected by domestic violence. It is important that we, as citizens, become actively involved in preventing it. If our neighbor's house is on fire, we do not hesitate to call the fire department, so we should not hesitate to intervene if our neighbor is crying out for help while suffering at the hands of an abuser.

So, as you enjoy the many wonderful activities occurring in Garrett County this month, please take a moment to remember those who have died from domestic violence, to help those who are currently living in fear from it, to celebrate those who have survived it, and to commend those who work on a daily basis to end it.

Anyone interested in learning more about the Dove Center is encouraged to contact the 24-hour hotline at 301-334-9000 or the business office at 301-334-6255.

Sincerely,
Heather L. Hanline
Executive Director
Dove Center

To the Editor:

We at the Internal Revenue Service are concerned because as many as 6,700 small community based nonprofits in Maryland are in jeopardy of losing their tax-exempt status. The loss of this status could greatly impact the organizations' charitable work and their donors' potential tax deductions.

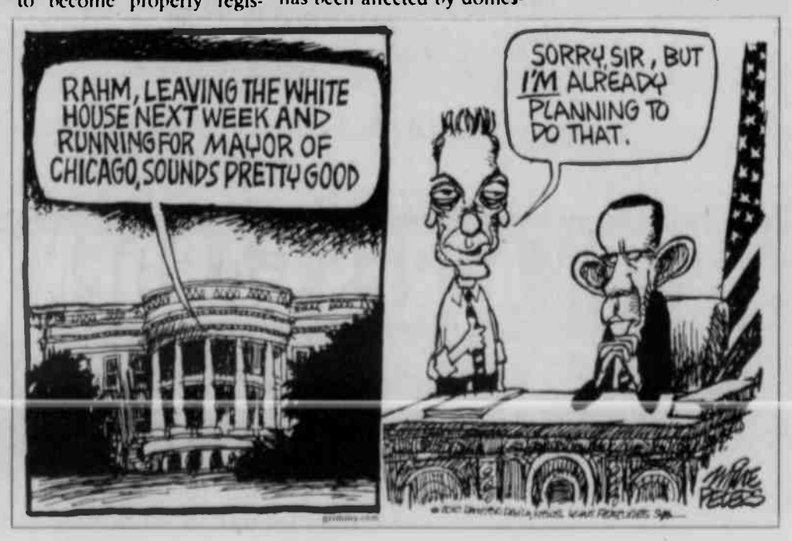

Among the organizations that could lose their tax-exempt status are local sports associations and community support groups, volunteer fire and ambulance associations and their auxiliaries, social clubs, educational societies, veterans groups, church-affiliated groups, groups designed to assist those with special needs, and a variety of others.

The organizations that are at risk failed to file the required returns for 2007, 2008, and 2009, according to IRS records. The requirement to file is the result of a tax law change that occurred in 2006. For many of these small organizations, complying with the new law may be as simple as completing a 10-minute form online. They can preserve their exempt status under a one-time relief program the IRS announced in July, but only if they file by Oct. 15, 2010.

The IRS has made numerous attempts to alert these organizations, but we are concerned that many may not have gotten the word. A list of the organizations that were at-risk as of the end of July is posted at IRS.gov along with instructions on how to comply with the new law.

We encourage everyone who is connected with a small nonprofit community group to make sure that their organization is aware of the law change and is in compliance before the October 15 deadline.

two main erection cranes on -site to complete that work, hopefully this week, weather permitting."

After that, the cranes will be disassembled, demobilized from the site, and sent back to Michigan, where they are based, Wagner said.

"So, with a little bit of luck and weather permitting, at the end of this week, the major construction associated with the Criterion Wind Project will be complete," the representative said.

He also noted that the majority of the structural steel for the substation along Eagle Rock Road has been installed.

"In fact, this weekend, starting on Oct. 1, Friday, we're working with Allegheny Power to actually energize the substation," Wagner said. "So, that will go hot here very soon, which is good. Because without a hot substation, you cannot begin the commissioning process of the turbines."

The next phase of the project involves inspecting all the turbines, completing all the mechanical connections inside the towers, wiring the towers, and, finally, commissioning the towers, Wagner told the commissioners.

"One of the other major activities, in addition to the work inside the towers to connect them to the grid, is site restoration," the representative said. "That consists of, at each wind turbine site, doing our best to restore the site conditions back to original. Now, obviously, we're not going to reinstall trees, but we will remove some of the sedimentation and erosion features, in consultation with the county building permit office, to bring it back to as natural a state as possible and reasonable."

Wagner said he thought the construction crews were very cognizant of the propensity of bad weather to move in this area in mid-October, adding that he was glad to say that the majority of the construction is nearly completed.

"As of last week, we had 200 people on-site, and the statistics indicate about 75 to 85 percent of those folks are locals," Wagner said. "With the construction winding down, that 200-person labor force will be dropping off rather drastically, as the commissioning crews come in, do their thing, and get the units ready for operation."

He said the official completion date for the project is the first week of January 2011.

"But I'm hopeful that we can tighten up that schedule and bring it back to this year," Wagner said. "Although there is nothing official on that."

He indicated a ribbon-cutting ceremony for the project may be held next spring, when the weather is more conducive to that type of activity.

Commissioner Fred Holliday questioned Wagner about county road restoration work.

"I'm just concerned that the roads are in good condition when everything's done," he said. "It leaves a good taste in people's mouths when it is."

Wagner said he did not know if road restoration work had started, but agreed with Holliday.

"Absolutely, we're trying to do our best to be a good neighbor," Wagner said.

The Criterion Wind Project began in 2001. Constellation Energy purchased it from Clipper Windpower Inc. in April 2010. The project has been entered into a 20-year power purchase agreement with the Old Dominion Electric Cooperative for energy and renewably energy credits produced by the wind facility, according to Constellation Energy. The cooperative is a not-for-profit wholesale provider serving public electric cooperatives in Maryland, Delaware, and Virginia.

GARRETT COLLEGE NEWS BEAT

Variety Of Welding Courses Offered At GC Career Technology Training Center

by Peggy Santamaria

Garrett College's Career Technology Training Center (CTTC) is buzzing with activity, as students take advantage of this state-of-the-art facility and the classes currently offered through the Continuing Education and Workforce Development program.

Among these are the welding courses, which provide expert training following the American Welding Society (AWS) SENCE curriculum. Training is broken into three 42-hour classes. These courses are Garrett County Occupational Scholarship eligible.

"We have outstanding instructors for this curriculum and a facility that can't be matched for its advanced design," said Susan Fowler, program director, Continuing Education and Workforce Development. "Garrett College is proud to offer this level of education to our students."

Joe Ashby, instructor for a welder fabricator for Beitzel Corp. in Grantsville.

Ashby, who holds several certifications, began his career with Beitzel as a welder and later began adding safety components to his responsibilities. Because of his skill level and experience, he is frequently an instructor for the company during the annual refresher trainings for Beitzel employees.

Welding I (Stick Welding) is designed for inexperienced welders. The course focuses on an occupational orientation to welding, safety and health of welders, drawing and welding symbol interpretation, shielded metal arc welding, gas metal arc welding, flux cored arc welding, gas tungsten arc welding, thermal cutting process, welding inspection, and testing. Students will be eligible to test for certification at the conclusion of the course for an additional fee.

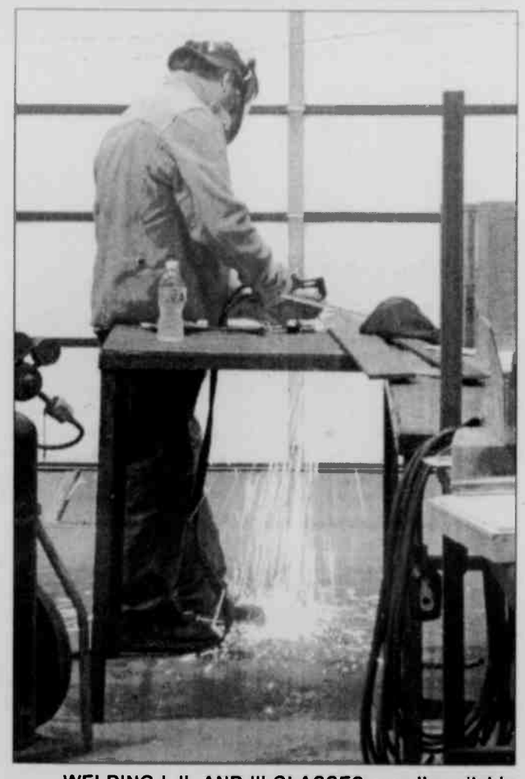

Mike Beachy, who instructs the Welding II classes, has been working as a welder for over 30 years and is recognized as one of the top in his field in Garrett County. He is employed by Garrett Container Systems, Accident, as a welding foreman, and is a certified welding inspector. He has instructed welding classes for the Dean Institute of Technology and has been involved with Skills USA as an organizer and judge of welding competitions.

Welding II (MIG Welding) is designed for experienced welders seeking advanced knowledge and training. The course covers gas metal arc welding safety and equipment setup and operation, gas metal arc welding (MIG), flux cored arc welding safety and equipment, setup and operation, and flux cored arc welding. Students completing the course will also be eligible to test for certification.

Travis Brenneman, instructor of the Welding III classes, is a 1999 Northern High School graduate who has spent the past 11 years as a welder for several businesses in the region. Currently working for Phenix Technologies, he holds multiple welding certifications, including certified welding inspector and AWS certified welding educator.

Welding III (TIG Welding) is for experienced welders seeking more advanced knowledge and training. This course focuses on shielded metal arc equipment, setup and operation, shielded metal arc welding of plate, advanced shielded metal arc welding, gas tungsten arc welding equipment, setup, operation, and filler metals, and gas tungsten (TIG) arc welding of plate. Certification testing is available upon completion.

For more information on classes available through the Continuing Education and Workforce Development program, and the Garrett County Occupational Scholarship, persons may telephone 301-387-3069.

WELDING I, II, AND III CLASSES are all available in the Career Training Technology Center at Garrett College. Pictured above, a student uses a torch to cut steel that he will use while learning to weld. See story for details on each class.

Garrett College Info Booth Will Be Open During Grand Feature Parade

Everyone attending the 2010 Autumn Glory festivities on Saturday, Oct. 9, is invited to stop by the Garrett College information booth, which will be located along Green Street near the food vendors between Second and Third streets in Oakland from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

"We are excited about participating in this Autumn Glory event," said Ann Wellham, dean of marketing and enrollment management. "This is a wonderful opportunity for the college to provide information to residents and visitors about the exciting things going on at Garrett College."

Garrett College representatives will provide information on over 40 degree programs, in addition to classes offered by Continuing Education and Workforce Development, many leading to industry recognized certification.

"People who have not read through a college catalog recently may be very surprised to learn about all the new options in courses of study and locations to take these courses," Wellham said. "Garrett offers credit courses at outreach sites, as well as online. One of our goals as an educational institution is to make learning accessible and affordable for the broadest range of people possible. We truly value the ability of the college to meet the community's needs."

Visitors to the booth can learn about the cutting-edge technology classes offered at the new Career Training Technology Center (CTTC) in Accident.

"I would like for people to stop by and pick up the fall 2010 Continuing Education schedule and learn about classes at the new CTTC and our other sites in the county," said Julie Yoder, interim dean of continuing education and workforce development. They can also find out about the courses planned for the spring semester, which will also be Garrett County occupational."

Garrett County Scholarship Program information will also be available. This scholarship, initiated by Garrett County commissioners, provides educational funding at Garrett College for students pursuing degree programs or training opportunities that lead to an industry-recognized certification rather than a degree.

Fred Learey, executive director of the Garrett College Foundation, said he will be on hand that day to meet with GC graduates and give them the opportunity to join the Garrett College Alumni Association.

"We have had so many positive responses from former students who learned about the reunion held in August that we wanted to provide the time and place for alumni to get more information about what we are planning for the future," Learey said.

Wellham noted that a matter of increasing interest to area residents is the progress of the Community Athletic and Recreation Center (CARC). Visitors to the college booth will be able to see an architect's rendition of the CARC and have an opportunity to ask questions about the new facility.

For more information on Garrett College and the courses of study offered, persons may go online and visit www.garrettcolleg.edu or telephone 301-387-3044.

BULLYING TOPIC DISCUSSED – The Grantsville Involvement Group (GIG) recently held a "Back To School Night" at Little Meadows Camp Ground. Lt. Rob Corley from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office talked to the group about the problems of bullying and his experiences as a child who was bullied, and asked participants to relate their own stories. "Bullying is such a big deal anywhere, anytime these days," said Sharon Menges, outreach worker for the Garrett County Health Department. "Kids need to learn how to take up for themselves and learn that bullying in return does not solve the problem." Pictured above are participants in the back-to-school event. From left to right, front row, are Chris Apuzzo, Jaden Lais, Bradley McKenzie, Hannah Silbaugh, and Ryan Van Nosdeln. Second row: Lisa Deal, Angel Howard, Rosie Wilt, Emily Durst, Lt. Corley, Emily Shugars, Sabrina Silbaugh, Derek Silbaugh, and Rusty Christner. Third row: Micah Rollen, Wesley McKenzie, Kendra Georg, and Andrew Beachy. Winners of door prize drawings were Emily Durst and Jaden Lais. Persons interested in participating in GIG activities are asked to call the Health Department at 301-895-3111 or 301-334-7730, ext. 6528. Activities of GIG are supported in part by funds from the Garrett County Health Department to promote healthy living and prevent risky behaviors.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Well, it is definitely fall both on the calendar and outside. My younger maple tree in the front yard is now about one quarter turned bright yellow. I guess it is a pretty ordinary time for that. Next week will be Autumn Glory, which is probably pretty close to perfect for getting most of the trees in their peak colors.

I am quite honestly scared to death about a really bad election in November. Some of those running for office will destroy every bit of progress we have seen since World War II.

I am in a very vulnerable position. I don't know how I can get along on my monthly income. Last year, I had to pay unbelievably high federal income taxes, and I'm sure I won't be able to heat my house anymore. Not this year, or in the future.

How deeply will they cut Medicare for the disabled? And will the prescription benefit survive? I doubt it, because in the long term, that is an easy way to ensure that more people on Medicare will die soon.

I was so unbelievably delighted to see my Claire this Monday morning. She was in Canaan Valley for some kind of job-related event. But she had to go straight to Arlington that evening because she was scheduled to work the next morning at 10 a.m. But it still was wonderful to see her even for a few hours.

I wish she would have had enough time to take Boo to a vet visit, because I think she needs medication for arthritis before it gets really cold. It really slows her down. And she is definitely getting more hard of hearing.

Do you know anyone who gets calls from the kind of polls that we often see the results from on television? We rarely hear exactly what questions they ask or how they word them. When the polls are conducted, are they done in mostly rural, suburban, or urban areas? In what states, and are they only on land lines, or do they also call cell phones? And do they only call during working hours? If so, they probably mostly get retired people.

Well, the Steelers are as good as ever, even without their top quarterback, Roethlisberger. At least they won all three games so far while he has been on suspension. So it was not a disaster with the back-up quarterbacks.

We did not get as much rain as we could use today, but even a little bit is better than nothing. I am afraid that our lack of rain might result in a shorter autumn color season.

According to Sheila Southerly, we may be in for a bad winter, based on how many acorns are falling from our oak trees. Last year, she saw lots, and the same goes for this year. And we don't want another winter as bad as last year's.

Sheila put a big fence around her garden this summer, but even then she did not get many tomatoes, but the green beans were an excellent crop. Most of the time, they get eaten by deer.

All members of the Oral Glotfelty clan got home safely from the big family wedding of my cousin Penny Hummel. Her sister Elizabeth wrote and performed a special song for her little sister's wedding day. Everyone had a wonderful time.

Naturally, I am very pleased that my distant cousin Denny Glotfelty seems to be in remission from cancer. Even so, I endorse the Democratic candidate William Welch. He is a very old friend, and I always appreciated his intelligence and sense of humor. He has a complete grasp of the issues of Garrett County, and, of course, it would be good to have at least one Democrat on the board of county commissioners. Good luck, Bill!

It is very unreasonable to expect any president, no matter how much he brings to the job as our head of state, to be able to solve the problems of the economy. It took decades to get into the mess we are in, especially since many of the problems resulted from deeply entrenched and powerful special interests, with enough money to damage or prevent real change. Why should they create jobs in America when there is such an advantage to shipping our jobs overseas?

Still, most economic signs are pointing in a positive direction, even if they must follow new regulations to prevent another major financial meltdown. Thank goodness!

As of Sept. 23, some of the key points of the health care reform went into effect. Maybe the most important is the Patient Bill of Rights, so that insurance companies can't refuse coverage for children with some pre-existing positions. There is no more life-limit of coverage, and you can't be refused coverage because you made some small mistake on your application. Also, a new college graduate may remain on his/her parents' insurance.

Some wonder why Obama put health care reform so high among his priorities. It's not a separate issue from jobs, jobs, jobs, and he was stuck with a huge job problem, so he could only enact some emergency measure to address it. But the looming huge crisis about health care has been a ticking time bomb, so he preferred to address it before its collapse. That was just common sense.

Believe it or not, a major part of the progress in the effort to rescue those 33 people who are several miles underground in Chile is a company named Central Stone Inc., from Berlin, Pa., our close neighbor to the north. A spokesman from the company said, "When we heard about the plight of those Chilean miners, we wanted to help, since we have the equipment and know-how to make a real difference."

Berlin has also long been best known as the home of Snyder's potato chips, probably the most delicious of the major potato chips. Central Stone was the first drilling company to arrive at the mine site.

A few years ago, there was another mining disaster at the Quecreek Mine in nearby Pennsylvania, and the Garrett County company Wayne's Water 'N' Wells played a starring role in the rescue of those miners.

These coal mining accidents seem way too common. I hope the proposed mine near Grantsville will have strict oversight. But when jobs are rare, it's pretty risky to try to unionize a mine.

Congress passed the bill in 1961 that gave birth to the Peace Corps. It wasn't the idea of the Senate; they just approved an idea of the brother-in-law of JFK, Sargent Shriver, married to Eunice Kennedy Shriver who started the Special Olympics. The Peace Corps gave a helping hand to newly independent nations, maybe even Kenya. And Kenya did become a successful independent nation.

Some people believe that evolution is a myth. There is quite a bit of evidence that it is a basic scientific fact. Some people ask the question, "Why do we not see monkeys evolving into human beings?"

No one claims that we evolved from monkeys. What they do claim is that some of the great apes like chimpanzees and gorillas evolved from a common ancestor to human beings. That is supported by the fact that chimpanzee and human genetic codes are so close. They are something like 99% similar.

But the same similarity does not exist with monkeys. Monkeys have tails and we don't. We have seen some apes displaying human behaviors while living in captivity, like using tools and basic language skills.

I don't understand why people choose to attack the idea of international organizations, especially the United Nations. It is the most important thing to ensure a worldwide extension to all the people in every place across the globe of the most basic human right: individual dignity.

Altar flowers at Emmanuel Lutheran Church were given by Ethel Buckel, in memory of Ralph Buckel. Ethel is presently living in Fayetteville, Ark., with her daughter, Judith Perkins.

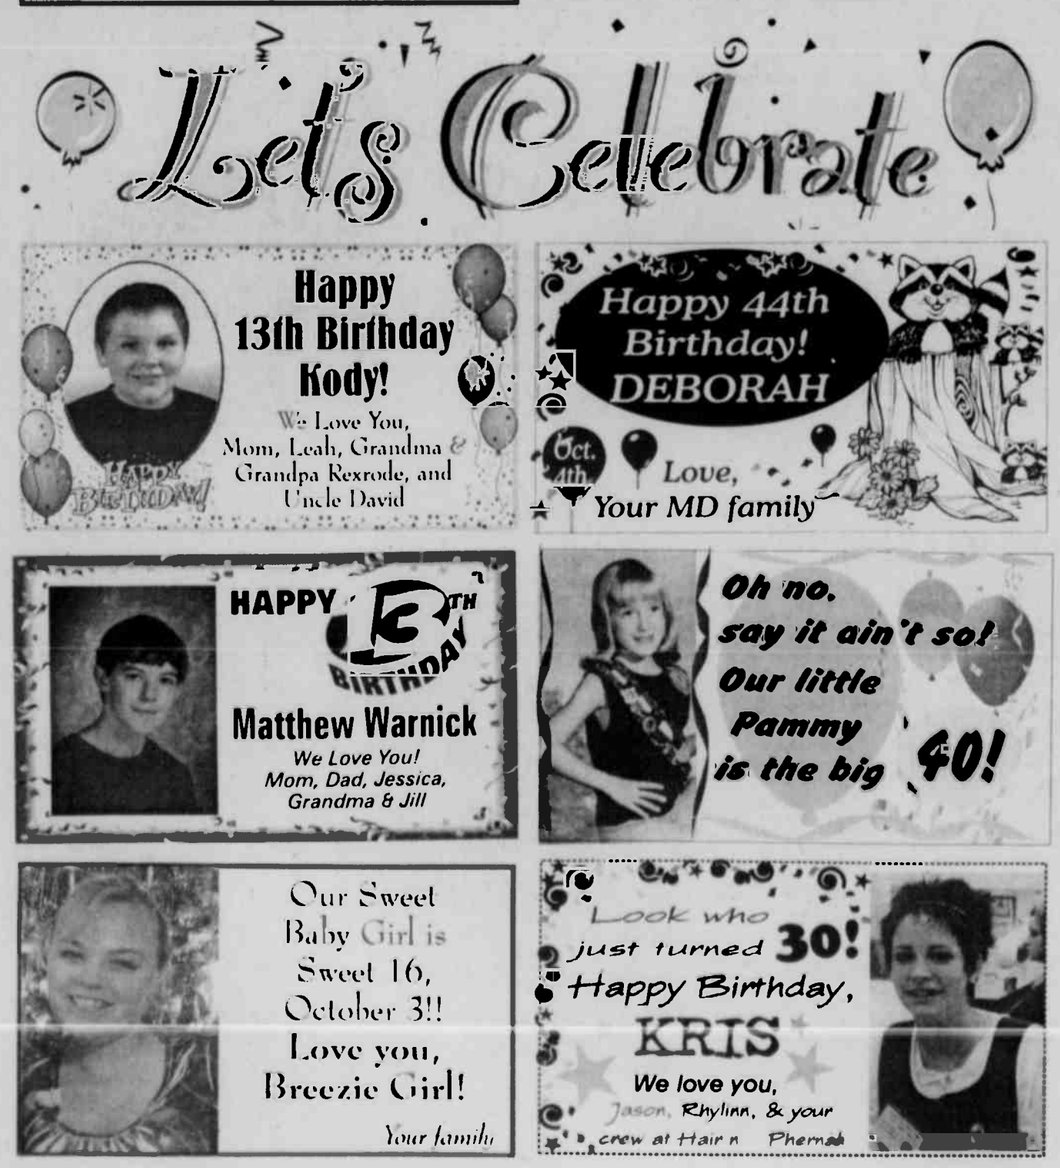

The Women of the ELCA at Emmanuel are collecting breakfast items for the Bittinger Food Pantry. Any donations will be appreciated, and may be brought to the church this Sunday when the parish will be celebrating its annual Appalachian service.

A "Living Well With Chronic Conditions' workshop will begin on Oct. 4 at Emmanuel. This workshop, led by Cathy Paine, will cover many areas, including chronic pain, loss of energy, sleep problems, depression, diabetes, arthritis, communication with medical staff, fatigue, and frustration with dealing with daily tasks. To register, persons may contact Ms. Paine at 301-746-8232 or via e-mail at cpaine@garrettcac.org.

Handmade comforters were recently donated by the Bittinger Parish to Habitat for Humanity residents in Garrett County. The sewing and prayer shawl ministry group continues to meet at Emmanuel every Tuesday morning, and everyone is welcome to come and assist with this program of outreach ministry in the parish.

The 10K (6.2 miles) run is a looped course within Broadford Park. The 5K (3.1 miles) walk is the same course completed one time. Parents with strollers are welcome to race, organizers noted. Stroller participants will begin at the back of the race for safety purposes.

For more information, persons may call 301-334-4007.

Landon's Library has partnered with different organizations to provide children's books to multiple families in Garrett County and surrounding counties. The organization operates with the philosophy that reading well requires reading often, a spokesperson said.

Through monthly playdates at the Ruth Enlow Library, and with the partnership with Dolly Parton's Imagination Library, the Oakland Rotary Christmas Project, and other local initiatives, Landon's Library has distributed nearly 30,000 children's books to the children of Garrett County over the past three years.

BEARS SIGHTED AT NEW GERMANY – Visitors to New Germany State Park are sure to see a bear this season, at least in the form of a carving. The park now features three wood carvings, all donated by local artist John "Sacco" Carter. Carter and his son Christopher created the works of art using a chainsaw and a torch for coloration. "Sacco is an extremely talented artist," said Ranger Erin Thomas. "We are honored that he chose to donate his work to New Germany." Originally from Colorado, Carter started carving about 10 years ago when he received a chainsaw for Christmas. "I donated the carvings to New Germany because I wanted to say 'thank you' to Garrett County and the many people who have made a difference in my life," Carter said. The carvings are located at the park entrance and at the ranger station. Additional carvings, also created by Carter, are available for purchase at the park's gift shop, located inside the Ranger Station. For more information, persons may call the park office at 301-895-5453 or visit www.dnr.maryland.gov. Pictured from left are Thomas, Carter, and maintenance chief Terry Garlitz, with one of the carvings behind them.

The Arts

DEAD MAN'S CELL PHONE is the play currently being presented by the West Virginia University Division of Theatre. The 2007 dark comedy, written by Sarah Ruhl, will be given through Oct. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the Creative Arts Center. There will also be a matinee Oct. 3 at 2 p.m. Directed by theatre professor James Dylan Held, the play centers on a woman who finds a dead man's cell phone. "This is a play about people trying to make connections and even fall in love in a world now inhabited by billions of cell phones and other electronic devices that none of us can seem to live without," said Held. The woman attempts to forge real connections in an electronically linked world, Held said, and this leads to "quirky romance and fanciful adventure." WVU theatre graduate students Audrey Ahern and Gregory Jernigan are pictured in a scene from the play. For tickets, persons should call 304-293-SHOW, or go online to theatre.wvu.edu for more information. Special ticket prices are available for groups of ten or more.

David Peterson Named Bass For San Fran Chorus

Former Garrett County resident David Peterson recently learned that he had been named a member of the bass section of the San Francisco Symphony Chorus.

Peterson, a graduate of Southern High School and West Virginia University (2002), was one of only three basses selected from among scores of auditioners.

Peterson holds a bachelor's degree in music/vocal performance from WVU. He is the son of Susan Peterson, Oakland, and Tom Peterson, Kingwood. He has been a California resident for a number of years.

The San Francisco Symphony Chorus comprises some 140 amateur and professional singers. The chorus presents a minimum of 26 performances each season at Davies Symphony Hall. The current director is Ragnar Bohlin of Stockholm, Sweden.

THE ART OF IT ALL – The competition marching band experience is multi-faceted, to which any band member or band parent can attest. Both the Northern and Southern high school marching bands are now engaged in their respective competition seasons. While music is at the forefront, a range of the other arts are all part of the complete picture, such as the visual and performance arts, as well as dance. Southern's show explores the stages of grief and celebrates the passage of life. To augment the intricate melodies composed by director Joshua Elmlinger, both a crypt and a series of "masks" are visible throughout the field show. The masks were created by Christie Elmlinger, and the crypt by Bob Fike. Northern's field show this year highlights the music of Les Miserables, and students in the band — drum major Keesha Fazenbaker and drum captain Cory Spiker — created the mural shown below to complement the music from that Broadway show. This past Saturday, Northern competed at Allegany High School and scored a 72.5, up from last week's score of 69.5. There were no other bands in Group I at Allegany. Southern traveled to Somerset, Pa., and competed against five other Group I bands, placing fourth with a score of 75.5, up from last week's 72.05. This Saturday, Northern will travel to South Hagerstown and compete against two Group I bands, and Southern will head to Mechanicsburg, Pa., facing three others in Group I. Photos by John McEwen.

SPRINGS COMMUNITY CONCERT SET – A free bluegrass concert featuring the band Lonesome Highway will be the next event in the Springs Community Summer Concert Series. The concert is planned for Saturday, Oct. 18, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Folk Meeting House, which is located at 1711 Springs Road in Springs, Pa. Lonesome Highway is from the Romney, W.Va., area. A spokesperson described the group's sound as "powerful, original, and inspiring, with great picking and awesome singing." More information on the band can be viewed onlin at www.lhway.com. The concert is sponsored by the Springs Community Acoustic Music Association. Admission is free, although donations will be accepted. One more bluegrass concert in the series is planned for Oct. 16, which will feature the group Mountain Therapy.

The BookWorm

MAYBE THIS TIME

by Jennifer Crusie

C. 2010, St. Martin's Press, $24.99; 342 pages

Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

People in love do the dumbest things. In the grip of amore, they'll travel anywhere to be with their beloved, heedless of the price of travel these days. Risking all kinds of communicable disease, they kiss and hug repeatedly. In public – public! – they call one another by mooshy nicknames. It's almost as if they're possessed.

In the new book Maybe This Time by Jennifer Crusie, Andie Miller really is possessed. And it's going to take love to get her out of it.

In the 10 years since Andie Miller divorced North Archer, Andie thought for sure she'd gotten him out of her system. She had loved North passionately back then, but when he inherited his family's law firm, he stopped noticing her and that was intolerable. Now, newly engaged to be married, Andie needed closure and was sitting in North's office to get it.

It surprised her, therefore, when North abruptly asked her for a favor: Would she go to southern Ohio for one month to care for two orphaned children who had suddenly become North's wards? He planned to bring them to Columbus, but there was much preparation to do first.

Eight-year-old Alice and 12-year-old Carter had seen their share of loss. Their mother died giving birth to Alice, their father died in a car accident, their aunt died in a fall, and countless nannies came and went.

Oh, and one other thing: The crumbling, imported-from-England castle in which the children lived was haunted.

Scoffing, sputtering, bull-headed, and unwilling to turn down a challenge, Andie agreed to put her life and her engagement on hold for one month. North was paying her for this favor. How hard could it be to care for two kids?

The answer: very hard.

Alice was given to fits of screaming. Carter rarely spoke. Mealtime was a struggle, the children needed tutoring, hygiene was an issue, and they were weirdly close. Determined, Andie slowly gained their trust as she began to lose her sanity.

What was wrong with her? Her dreams were too vivid, she couldn't get North out of her mind, and she was beginning to see things. Ghosts don't exist... do they?

Okay, so you think you're not a fan of romance novels. All that boy-meets-girl-loses-girl-gets-girl stuff makes your eyes roll. Me too, but I was positively enchanted by Maybe This Time.

In a cute, very different, and genuinely funny departure from other novels in this category, author Crusie presents a whole raggedy castle full of charming rogues, schemers, free spirits, and one creepy doll. Yes, there is a romantic element in this book, but since it's not the only plotline here and there's an air of mystery, too, it fits. Watchful readers may see clues to the ending (and, surely, they'll catch a good-sized continuity error), but neither will ruin the enjoyment of this book.

Autumn evenings always feel a little shivery, which makes Maybe This Time the perfect fall diversion. Grab a warm blanket and this book – it's a good one to have in your possession.

We extend a compassionate helping hand.

Northern Girls Lose First Match To Miners, Then Shut Out Rams

In a battle of undefeated Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference teams last Thursday, the Northern High girls' varsity soccer team went down to a 5-1 defeat to host Mountain Ridge.

The Huskies bounced back on Tuesday, however, by shutting out cross-county rival Southern at the Cove, 4-0.

The split left the Huskies with a 6-1 record.

In the loss to Mountain Ridge, Stephanie Fazenbaker recorded a hat trick for the Miners and assisted on a fourth goal.

Quincy Hegeman put the home team on the board first on a feed from Fazenbaker just three minutes into the match. Fazenbaker made it 2-0 later in the half on an assist from Carlie Lewis.

Northern's Kaitlynn Fratz cut the Miners' lead in half with an unassisted goal at the 3:50 mark of the first half to halt the Miners' four-match shutout streak.

It was all Mountain Ridge in the second half, as Fazenbaker had back-to-back goals, the first on an assist from Hegeman 4½ minutes after the intermission, and the second on a penalty kick with 14:36 left.

Kaylee DeVore recorded the final Miner goal, unassisted, with 3:49 to play.

Fazenbaker and Hegeman were cited for both outstanding offensive and defensive play for the Miners, who upped their perfect record to 6-0.

Kaitlynn Fratz recorded yet another hat trick in Tuesday's win over the Southern Rams.

Sydney McFarland had a big evening as well, as she scored the match's initial goal and then assisted on a pair of Fratz's scores.

The Huskies recorded all four goals in the first half, with McFarland's being unassisted.

Fratz was assisted on her first two goals by McFarland, and then completed her hat trick with an unassisted goal late in the first half.

Southern goalie Vicki Stevens was able to stop five shots, while Alex Diehl stopped all six of the Rams' shots on goal in her first varsity start for the Huskies.

Northern won the junior varsity match in two straight games, 25-15 and 25-14, to improve to 5-2 overall.

Huskies Drop Offense-Dominated Contest To Undefeated Frankfort

by Branden Wilt

Northern and Frankfort combined to score 92 points in an offensive onslaught that featured over 900 total yards, with the Falcons grounding the Huskies, 54-38, Friday night at Short Gap.

The two teams exploded for 58 points over the final 18:51 of the contest. Frankfort finished with 466 yards of offense, while Northern rolled up 453. Seventy-one points were scored in the second half alone.

All of the Huskies' 38 points came in the final quarter-and a-half of play.

Alex Baker led the Northern (1-3) offense, scoring three touchdowns, rushing 19 times for 127 yards, and hauling in four passes for 124 more stripes. Husky quarterback Patrick Sines completed 8 of 15 passes for 234 yards and a touchdown.

The tandem of Joey Luciw and Jeremy Leedom combined for 301 on the ground and six touchdowns for Frankfort. Luciw ran 24 times for 158 yards and three touchdowns, and Leedom added 243 yards and three TDs on 16 carries for the undefeated Falcons (4-0).

"They won the game up front," said Northern head coach Phil Carr. "They were bigger – a lot bigger – and just stronger. We just ran into a case where the other team was better than us."

F - Ryan Chase 48 pass from Thane Cutter (run failed), 1:29.

N - Baker 16 pass from Sines (Sines run), 0:26.

Luciw made it 41-14 as time expired in the third period by way of a 39-yard touchdown trot.

Sines hit Rodeheaver on a 40-yard touchdown pass for Northern in the first minute of the final frame, but Luciw answered with a four-yard run to paydirt with 7:40 to go.

There were three touchdowns scored in the final 2½ minutes. Baker scored on a 60-yard run with 2:24 to close the scoring gap to 48-30.

"We were able to move the ball early," said Carr. "We had a catchable ball in the end zone on the first possession of the game that would have given us a lead. Who knows, that might have changed things.

"When they got up 21-0, that changed things," Carr continued. "We had made adjustments, but it just didn't work. It kind of deflated us. They faked a punt after we called a timeout – even told our guys they were going to, and then moved a man up to stop it. They still did it anyway."

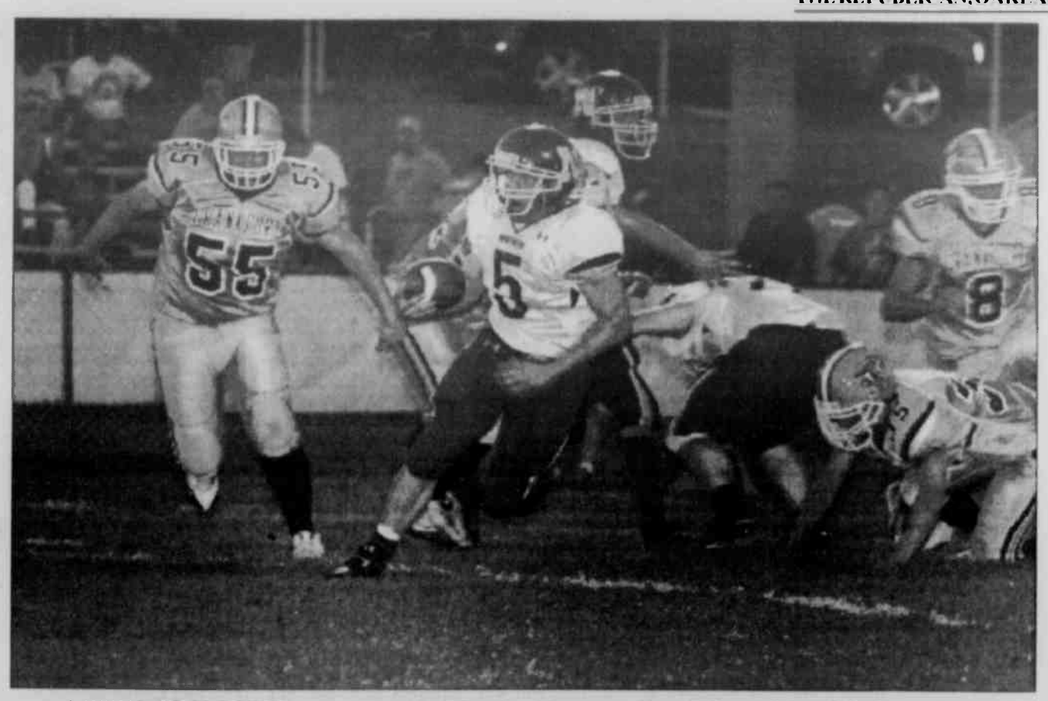

Brian Bills drew first blood for the home team on a 12-yard sprint from scrimmage on the Falcons' initial set of downs, and Leedom's six-yard TD scamper gave Frankfort a 14-0 first-quarter lead.

Luciw tacked on a nine-yard run 38 seconds before halftime following the faked punt to give the Falcons a 21-0 lead at the break.

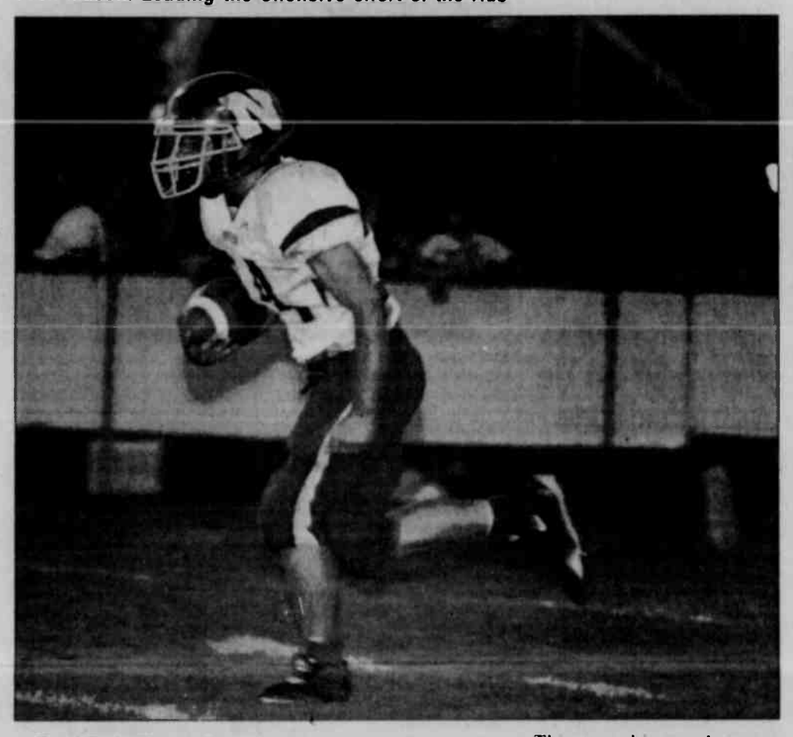

Leedom scored a pair of touchdowns on a three-yard lunge and a five-yard dive in the first six minutes of the third quarter to pad the Falcon cushion to 34-0.

With the offense sputtering, Northern's defense got on the board when Adam Brenneman returned a fumble nine yards for a touchdown with 3:34 left in the period. The Huskies' first offensive score of the evening came less than two minutes later via a two-yard run by Baker, which made it 34-14.

It was a game of back and forth the rest of the way, but Frankfort's lead was too much for the Huskies to overcome.

A TOTAL OF 92 POINTS were scored in Friday's gridiron clash between the Northern Huskies and undefeated Frankfort Falcons at Short Gap, W.Va., but the Huskies ended up with the lower number, as the Falcons remained undefeated with a 54-38 victory, their fourth in as many starts. Penetrating the Falcon defense in the photo above is Husky running back Josh Mason. Leading the offensive effort of the Huskies was Alex Baker, pictured below, who scored three touchdowns, rushed 19 times for 127 yards, and caught four Patrick Sines' passes for 124 more yards. The loss dropped the Huskies to 1-3. Photos by Branden Wilt. To see these photos and others from this event in color, persons may go online to www.therepublicannews.com and click the blue button.

Frankfort's Thane Cutter threw a 48-yard scoring strike to Ryan Chase with 1:29 left, and the Huskies answered on more time, as Baker completed the scoring by hauling in a 16-yard pass from Sines with 26 seconds left.

Zack Bradfield either kicked or ran successfully on six conversions for the Falcons, while Patrick Sines ran for two two-pointers for the Huskies and passed for another.

Luciw also excelled on defense for the Falcons, as he finished with seven tackles and an interception, and teammate Wes Riden had seven tackles and a sack.

While the Falcons go up against Mountain Ridge in a battle of unbeatens this Friday, Northern will entertain winless Bishop Walsh.

"We really need a win," said Carr. "BW has lost some games, but they have some athletic kids. They just have not had enough of them on the roster healthy at the same time."

Former WVU wideout and Fort Hill standout Mike Page will have an extra seven days of preparation following an idle week on Haystack Mountain in Cumberland. Walsh (0-4) last played two weeks ago against St. James, but was shorthanded because of multiple injuries.

According to Carr, the Spartans have had an extra week to get healthy, and to mix things up for the Huskies.

"Mike has done a nice job down there the past few years," Carr said. "We have faced them the past two times and won, and at the time they were undefeated. This year his numbers are down, and he has had a lot of kids hurt.

"[Qunicy] Redmon is one of the best athletes in the area," Carr continued. "Unfortunately for them, they lost [Dylan] D'Atri to injury, and that is going to hurt them. We have been able to be real physical with them, and it has worked. They have changed defenses three or four times already this season. We told our kids to expect anything. We have no idea what we will see."

Game time for the Huskies' homecoming matchup at the Cove is set for 7 p.m. this Friday.

Jenkins Paces Northern Jayvees Past Alco Frosh

Cody Jenkins rushed for 111 yards on only nine carries and scored a pair of touchdowns to lead the Northern junior varsity football team to a 37-7 trouncing of the Allegany freshmen last Wednesday in Accident.

Justin Derato kicked a pair of extra points and a 34-yard field goal.

Tommy Durst gained 83 yards on five carries for the Huskies.

For Allegany, Trenton Birch scored on a four-yard run, and Michael Flowers converted the kick.

Defensively, Northern's Skyler Barkman had nine tackles and intercepted a pass, Shawn Snyder had 11 tackles, and Ryan Van Nosdein recorded eight.

Rams Dominate Rappahannock To Record Third Consecutive Victory

by Branden Wilt

The members of the Southern High School varsity football team spread the wealth around Friday night, as no fewer than six individual Rams reached the end zone in a 47-0 avalanche over Rappahannock in Washington, Va.

Southern improved to 3-1 with its third consecutive victory since dropping the opener at Allegany, and was propelled by a 37-point first-half performance. The Rams are currently sitting behind the undefeated Mountain Ridge Miners in second place in the Maryland 1A West standings, the highest a Southern team has been ranked since 2001, according to head coach Steve Savage. The Rams are presently ranked number 11 overall in the single-A poll.

With Mountain Ridge facing off with 4-0 Frankfort Friday, this week's trip to Tucker County may mean a lot to the Rams and the Maryland 1A playoff picture.

Southern QB Bubba Scheffel did it all for the Rams last Friday, scoring on a kick return, tossing a touchdown pass, and recording 116 return yards on special teams.

Derek Papa got the Rams rolling with a nine-yard touchdown trot on Southern's first drive, and Ryan Bennett came right back minutes later, taking down a Virginian in the end zone to record a safety.

Scheffel continued the barrage when he retuned the ensuing kickoff 68 yards for a score.

Following a Rappahannock three-and-out, Kody Sanders scored on a two-yard dive, and when the dust cleared, the Rams had put together a 23-point first quarter.

The second stanza didn't get any better for the home squad, as Zach Knotts broke loose and raced 80 yards for a touchdown.

Scheffel then beat the Rappahannock defense with his arm on the next Ram drive, connecting with Logan Stewart on a six-yard TD strike still in the second quarter to give the Rams a commanding 37-0 halftime lead.

Soccer player Jake Bramande, who went a perfect 6-for-6 on extra-point kicks, also booted a 35-yard field goal in the third quarter to account for a total of nine of Southern's points.

Kurt Gangler concluded the Rams' scoring with a 10-yard TD run in the fourth quarter.

Knotts averaged over 23 yards per carry, picking up 94 of the Rams' 293 team yards on only four carries.

Defensively, Southern was solid, allowing only 42 yards of total offense from Rappahannock. Logan Stewart picked off a pass to lead the locals.

"Our young kids got a lot of quality reps," said Coach Savage. "Unfortunately, [Tim] Glotfelty got injured and that was why his backup got so many plays. It was good to get them in against a young team, because we will be missing him this week, and possibly next week too."

Southern will travel to Hambelton, W.Va., and

Southern Netters Swept By Miners, But Then Do Likewise To Spartans

The Southern High volleyball team was swept by Mountain Ridge, 3-0, in Frostburg last Friday, but bounced back Monday to sweep host Bishop Walsh, 3-0.

Game scores in the loss to Mountain Ridge were 25-16, 25-19, and 25-12.

Alycia Horner had 10 pomts and five assists for the Rams, while teammate Alyssa Cowgill recorded three kills and seven digs.

Taylor Llewellyn scored 11 points, and had four aces and eight assists for the Miners, while Lindsay Leasure scored 11 points with seven aces and six kills. Amber Alberts recorded 10 points with three aces and two kills.

Mountain Ridge took the junior varsity match as well, 25-12 and 25-17.

Kennedy Logsdon led the victors with 14 points, while Sarah Robinson added nine.

Sara Sweitzer paced Southern with five service points.

The Rams topped the Spartans of Bishop Walsh on Monday by scores of 25-11, 25-11, and 26-16.

Caitlyn Virts had team highs of 13 points and nine digs for the Rams. Tara Marple served up 10 service points for Southern, and Horner handed out a dozen assists. Cowgill added seven kills.

For the Spartans, Morgan Ruppenkamp had four kills and three blocks, Ashley Turnbull added five kills and two blocks, and Giovanna Castiglia recorded six points.

Southern won the jayvee match, 2-1. The Rams took the first game, 25-21, dropped the second, 27-25, and then won the rubber game, 15-8.

Brooke Spiker led Southern with 15 points and six assists, and Sara Sweitzer added eight points. Marissa Sensabaugh led the BW jayvees with 15 points, while Allie Simpson scored seven.

The Rams were slated to host Allegany last night, but that match was either postponed or canceled.

The Southern varsity also competed in the Fort Hill Invitational on Saturday and finished with a 2-6 record. The host Sentinels coasted to the overall team championship with a record of 11-0. Ten teams participated. There were no details on the Ram matches received.

The Rams are scheduled to play at Preston next Monday and at Fort Hill next Wednesday.

A VERY SPECIAL FOOTBALL GAME – The pure fun of playing a game was enjoyed by two teams of kids earlier this month, when the Oakland Rams invited a Special Olympics team to a game of tag football. The team of special players was made up of residents mostly from the Cumberland area, but also some Garrett Countians. The Special Olympics of Maryland requires sports teams to engage in bona fide competition in order to qualify to compete in state contests. To make this happen for the local special team, the Oakland Youth Football League, under the leadership of Anthony Andrews, is making room in its schedules for the team to play up to six times in Garrett County. This will allow them to move on to state competition. The game pictured took place on Sept. 12 at the Southern High School athletic field. Kameron Sanders, son of Tim and Kim Sanders (and brother of Southern football standout Kody Sanders and SHS cheerleader Morgan Sanders), is pictured in the photo above right as he takes part in the contest. Also shown in that photograph, from left, are Cody Beal (and Sanders), and Oakland Rams Mikey Welch, Logan Cvetnick, and Josh Adams. The Rams are coached by Brian Cooper. "It was an incredible afternoon," said Jo Mitchum, mother of players Keshawn Rhodes and Kory Mitchum. "And our kids didn't expect to have much competition. It was so great when one of their players kept breaking away. My boys said they couldn't catch him." Kameron's mother Kim said the afternoon was moving for her and her family. "When Kameron went off the field, the whole crowd was chanting his name. I was completely overwhelmed." Darrin Bosley, coach of the Special Olympics team, said it was a wonderful day for his team. "Everyone was so nice — the players, coaches, and fans. I hope we can do it again next year." The two teams are pictured below after their game. Sanders is not in the photo, his mother said, because she had promised him french fries if he agreed to play. "He went straight to the car, not wanting to wait for the picture," she said, laughing. "He just kept making the hand-signal for french fries over and over." Photos by Cassaundra Corby.

TEAM ONE DONATES TO MTN. TOP SOCCER – Team One will support Mtn. Chevrolet Soccer is a grassroots initiative that establishes a positive relationship between local dealers and the community they serve. Team One is sponsoring the soccer league as a part of Chevrolet's nationwide commitment to support youth sports. "We are looking forward to a great season with Mtn. top Soccer that will be filled with exciting games and an enhanced experience for the teams through the equipment and cash donations," said Wayne A. Scott, Team One. "Chevrolet Youth Soccer is just one example of how committed our dealership is to supporting the youth and families in our community." Southern Jayvees Record 20-20 Tie With Mtn. Ridge

It wasn't the same as a wm, but the Southern High junior varsity football team erased a fourth-quarter deficit and came away with a 20-20 tie against the visiting Mountain Ridge jayvees on Monday.

Reese Haskiell hauled in a pair of first-half touchdown passes from Matt Mayles and finished with 113 yards of total offense to lead the Rams. Mayles' scoring strikes came from 27 and 34 yards.

Haskiell also ran successfully for the two-point conversion on the first touchdown.

Sandwiched in between was a touchdown by the Miners, scored by Bradley on a three-yard run late in the second quarter to cut the Rams' lead to 14-6 at intermission.

The visitors then narrowed the gap to 14-12 early in the third quarter when Whetzel scored on an eight-yard run, and the Miners took their first lead later in the same period when Bradley scored on a four-yard carry, and Whetzel ran for the conversion to make the score 20-14.

A one-yard dive late in the fourth quarter by Garrett Campbell tied the score at 20-20, and the pass for the conversion, which would have given the win to the Rams, was no good.

Campbell led the Rams on both sides of the ball, finishing with 58 rushing yards on offense, and recording 12 tackles on defense. Seth Holler added 10 tackles for Southern.

For the Miners, Whetzel and Hadra finished with 74 rushing yards each.

The Rams (1-2-1) are slated to play at Allegany on Wednesday, Oct. 13.

Southern Boys Hammered By Undefeated Mountain Ridge

Seven different Mountain Ridge players scored, sending the Southern High boys' varsity soccer team to a 7-0 defeat last Thursday, as the visiting Miners remained undefeated in Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference matches.

Chris Ranker, Evan Deckers, Justin Winebrenner, and Montana Bradley all scored first-half goals, while Jacob Kyle, Matt Beeman and Zach Norris ripped the nets after the intermission for the Miners. Jacob Bittner dished out three scoring passes for the visitors, while Winebrenner and Harry Folk each had one assist.

The Rams trailed 20-9 in shots on goal and 7-3 in corner kicks when the final buzzer sounded.

Seth Ingram made 11 stops and Aryne Riley had four more for the Rams, while Conner Everly recorded seven saves for the Miners.

The win gave Mountain Ridge a 4-1-1 overall record and a 3-0-1 mark in the AMAC.

The Rams will return to action this evening when they host Keyser, with the kickoff set for 7 p.m. They will entertain Fort Hill next Tuesday.

Doerr Once Again Paces Huskies As They Win County HS Golf Title

Austin Doerr, who has emerged as the area's most outstanding high school golfer, earned low medalist honors and carded a 43 as Northern defeated Southern last Thursday at the Wisp Resort course in McHenry to claim the Garrett County championship.

The Huskies won the match by 45 strokes, carding a team score of 188, while the Rams finished with a 233.

Caeman Feller shot a 47 and Jeff Bittinger and Dakota Fazenbaker had 49s for.

Evan Friend paced the Rams with a score of 48, and Billy Gindlesberger shot a 50.

Doerr, who won the region championship earlier this week in Hagerstown, will compete in the state tournament Oct. 26-27 at the University of Maryland.

The match concluded the golf season for both Garrett County schools.

attempt to tame Tucker County this Friday evening.

Tucker is riding a three-game wm streak of its own following an season-opening loss to Pocahontas County.

The Mountain Lions (3-1) have reeled off consecutive victories over Tygarts Valley (22-6), Lincoln (34-3), and Moorefield (44-23).

'This week will come down to defense," said Savage. "They have a good quarterback who scrambles a lot, and when he improvises he is at his best."

Tucker County is one of the many teams in the Mountain State that has adopted the spread offense used by the WVU Mountaineers, and Savage expects the Mountain Lions to try to capitalize on their athleticism tomorrow night.

"A lot of folks say that all you need is three good athletes in that offense, and you can win most games," said Savage. "Logan Snyder is a good QB who can run that West Virginia read, and they have an excellent back in Forrest Walker. They have won all of their games by a couple scores. We are going to have our hands full."

Friday's kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

"Jack" Dorsey Remembered By MLP Tennis Club

Family and friends gathered for the unveiling of a plaque that was placed on the fence of Court #4 at the Mountain Lake Park Tennis Club in memory of the late John "Jack" Dorsey, who was a resident of both Wheeling and Keyser

The unveiling was held during the recent 2010 Western Maryland Championships.

"Jack, as he was affectionately known to family, friends, neighbors, and the numerous tennis players with whom he competed for more than 50 years, held a special place in the hearts and minds of the members of the Mountain Lake Park Tennis Club," said Dave DeGrafft, referee and long-time club member. "With his engineering expertise, he enabled the tennis club to plan for and build Court #4."

In addition to winning many championships on the red clay courts of Mountain Lake Park, Dorsey also helped the tournament by recruiting players at the West Virginia Open and other senior tournaments.

After the unveiling, family and friends shared memories of Dorsey's long acquaintance with the Western Maryland Championships.

Dr. John Dorsey, Jack's eldest son, said that Jack enjoyed the corn roast and playing on the red clay courts. Glenn Workman noted the "special relationship" he had with Jack, not only as a frequent fellow competitor, but also as a friend.

"Jack was an excellent player and was willing to share his expertise with younger players," Workman said.

Bill Hannig noted the help Dorsey gave him as "an up-and-coming young player" in Wheeling.

"I always looked up to Jack, and I looked forward to his advice on and off the court," Hannig said.

NHS SOCCER TEAM DONS PINK GLOVES – Via Brenda Brosnihan, her company Brenda's Body Shop, and representatives of Cindy's Fund, pink gloves are cropping up all over Garrett County this fall. Brosnihan is teaching the famed Pink Glove Dance to anyone who will jump into it, and is raising money for Cindy's Fund by selling the pink latex gloves throughout the area. The funds will benefit Cindy's Fund, a local organization in memory of Cindy Kutchman that assists all local people ill with cancer. "Our Pink Glove Dance has evolved into more than just a dance," Brosnihan said. "The awareness side of the campaign is really taking off. People are responding with such enthusiasm and are asking for the gloves, which are being seen everywhere, from fire companies, hair salons, and restaurants to banks, churches, clubs, and even at one wedding reception." The Northern Lady Huskies soccer team members got their pink gloves on, learned the dance, and supported Cindy's fund by purchasing event T-shirts. The team will perform the dance at the American Cancer Society's "Making Strides for a Cure" walk this month in Cumberland. They will then take part in the walk, Brosnihan said. The team is pictured. "It was a rewarding experience to teach the dance to these young women. Before we danced I had an opportunity to share some important breast cancer facts and statistics." The Pink Glove Dance will be performed throughout next weekend's Autumn Glory Festival. Among several performances, the group will provide the final presentation at the Western Maryland Tournament of Bands on Saturday, Oct. 9, at Southern High School's athletic field. The group will perform at approximately 8 p.m. that evening.

Northern Boosters Battle To 1-1 Tie With Fort Hill In AMAC Clash

In an evenly played match, the Northern High School boys' varsity soccer team battled to a 1-1 tie with visiting Fort Hill last Thursday evening in an Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference match.

The Huskies' record moved to 5-1-1, while the Sentinels' mark is now 3-2-1.

Jared Fike put the Huskies on top when he scored off a feed by Cody Brenneman at the 31:16 mark of the first half.

The score did not change until midway through the second half when Mike Moyer scored for the Sentinels off a feed by Hunter Tipton.

The Huskies finished with a 16-15 edge in shots, and held an 11-5 lead in corner kicks. Justin Shaw recorded 10 saves in goal for the Huskies, and James Johnson matched that effort for Fort Hill.

The junior varsity Sentinels won the first match, 1-0, via a goal by Evan Blank off an assist by Kirk Yutzy.

The Huskies are slated to play again this evening at home against Allegany, and travel to Mountain Ridge next Tuesday. Tonight's match times are 6 (Jayvee) and 7:30 p.m. (varsity).

Landowners in the area are pushing for a proper environmental impact statement prior to approving the licenses, and greater protection for this resource, according to Bryan Hubbard, a citizen involved in the process.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

OCTOBER SUN – As October begins, the sun appears in front of the stars of Virgo, moving a degree a day eastward relative to the stars. On Oct. 31, the sun moves into Libra. Both Virgo and Libra are nearly lost in the sun's glare in October. The star group Scorpius to the east of Libra sets after the sun, appearing low in the western dusk. The star group Leo (to the west of Virgo) rises before the sun and is visible low in the eastern dawn. In early October, sunrises in Garrett County are at about 7:15 a.m., while sunsets are about 7 p.m. (11.75 hours of daylight). Around the end of October, local sunrises are at about 7:45 a.m. and sunsets occur at about 6:15 p.m. (10.5 hours of daylight). So during October, the stars are last seen around 6:30 a.m. (early dawn) and then reappear about 7:40 p.m. (late dusk).

OCTOBER MOON – October starts with the moon appearing half full (like a backward D) in the southern dawn sky. On Oct. 7, the moon swings from the morning to the evening side of the sun. On Oct. 9, a very slender crescent moon may be seen low in the west-southwest around 7 p.m. Below the crescent moon will be the brilliant planet Venus. Above the crescent moon will be the dull planet Mars (binoculars are recommended). The evening moon will appear half full on the evening of Oct. 14. This moon shape is best for spotting the moon's craters and mountain ranges with optical equipment. The moon appears near the very bright planet Jupiter on the evening of Oct. 19. The moon is full on the evening of Oct. 22, then appearing in the star group Pisces. This full moon is the hunters' moon, which as last month's harvest moon offers extra evening moonlight for the next four to five evenings. October ends as it begins, with the moon appearing half full in the southern dawn sky.

OCTOBER PLANETS – The five nearest planets are easily seen by eye during the year, four of them shining steadily in contrast to the twinkling stars. Of the five, Mercury is usually the most difficult to see in October, at a low angle to the sun and seen very close to the horizon at dawn in early October. Venus is the brilliant point of steady light very low in the west-southwest, best seen as it begins to get dark in early October. By mid-October, Venus will be lost in the glare of the sun. The dimmer planet Mars may be seen with binoculars till the end of October, when it sets an hour after sunset. The very bright planet Jupiter dominates the eastern evening sky, shining in western Pisces. Late on Sept. 30, the planet Saturn swung from the evening to the morning side of the sun. By the end of October, Saturn can be seen very low in the east-southeastern dawn, rising an hour before the sunrise.

OCTOBER EVENING STARS – The Big Dipper appears low in the north-northwest so it can hold water or soup. The two end scoop stars point rightward and upward to the North Star, a modest star about halfway up in the north. High in the north is Cassiopeia, a tilted M shaped group of five moderately bright stars. The brightest evening star is white-blue Vega, high in the west. The second brightest evening star is golden Capella, seen low in the northeast in the early hours of darkness. To the right of Capella is the 7 Sisters star cluster, resembling a tiny dipper (not the Little Dipper). In the first half of October (when there is no bright early evening moonlight), the Milky Way can be seen as a ghostly arch running high across the northern sky.

OCTOBER PROGRAMS – The Frostburg State Planetarium is open each Sunday, with free programs starting at 4 and 7 p.m. in Tawes 302. The October program is "Time from Stars to Atoms," covering time keeping from stars to mechanical clocks, and then to vibrating atoms. Also included is an introduction to the evening skies of October through December. Persons are advised to come early, as seating visitors after the program starts is difficult. Following the program will be a tour of the Science Discovery Center, where there is a large display of preserved animals from five different continents. To receive a Planetarium schedule (or bookmark), persons may telephone 301-687-7799 and give name and mailing address. Persons may also access the Planetarium section of the Frostburg State web site at www.frostburg.edu/planetarium.

Dr. Doyle writes this column for those who like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards.

Adorable Adoptables

THIS VERY NICE FEMALE HUSKY MIX (above left) was picked up as a stray and is currently housed at the Garrett County Animal Shelter. Also looking for homes are a male Siamese tabby mix (above right) that was trapped as a stray, a male black Lab that was left at the shelter after hours, and a brindle colored boxer-pitbull mix that was given up by his owner. "These and more pets, including several of last week's 'Adorable Adoptables' are available at the shelter this week," said a Humane Society spokesperson

"Several dogs are being taken to rescues by HART, which will alleviate the crowded conditions in the dog kennels. Dog licenses should have been renewed in July. These ID tags will help your dog to be traced back to you if it becomes lost or missing. The tag is not expensive and could save your dog's life." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday.

Special Events

The births of three babies were announced this week, two girls and one boy.

A son, Joseph David Dale Moyer Jr., was born to Kimberly Housley and Joey Moyer, Swanton, on Sept. 16 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

A daughter, Chelsa Grace Rhodes, was born to April Layton and Derrick Rhodes, Oakland, on Sept. 22 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Civilian Christopher K. Lynch, Oakland, recently enlisted in the U.S. Navy under the Delayed Entry Program at Navy Recruiting District, Pittsburgh, Pa. The 2008 Southern High School graduate is the son of Cynthia M. Lynch.

The program allows recruits to enter the Navy and take up to one year to complete such prior commitments as high school. Using recruiters as mentors, this program helps recruits ease into the transition from civilian to military life, according to a Navy spokesperson.

Lynch will report for active duty to undergo basic training at the Navy's Recruit Training Center in Great Lakes, Ill.

Several Events To Honor Area Cancer Patient

BRIAN J. KYLE

An American Red Cross blood drive and a DKMS bone marrow donor drive will be held in honor of Brian "B.J." Kyle in Springs, Pa., on Saturday, Oct. 9, followed by a spaghetti benefit dinner. A silent auction will also be held in Cumberland, on Oct 23.

Kyle, 38, was diagnosed last September with a rare form of leukemia known as large granular lymphocytic leukemia (LGL). According to a spokesperson, there is no cure or regular course of treatment for this cancer. So far it has required chemotherapy, regular cancer center visits, and 30 units of packed red blood cells since Kyle's hospitalization a year ago. He is still transfusion dependent.

The American Red Cross sponsored blood drive will run from 8:15 a.m. to 2:15 p.m. at the Springs Mennonite Church, located at 1686 Springs Road (Rt. 669) in Springs, Pa.

The blood donated is in Kyle's honor, but will be given to help patients throughout the region. At the same time and location, DKMS will sponsor a bone marrow donor drive. For more information, persons may visit www.dkmsamericas.org. A bake sale will also be held to benefit the organization.

The spaghetti dinner will be held at the Folk Meeting House (across the street from the church) from 2 to 6 p.m. The cost will be $7 for adults and $4 for kids ages 5 to 12. Take-outs will be available. Prizes will be raffled at 6 p.m.

The separate silent auction event will be held in Cumberland from 5 to 8 p.m. during the Oct. 23 Arts Walk. It is organized and sponsored by members of the Arts at Canal Place (AaCP), of which Kyle's sister, Mary "Macee" McCunn, is a member.

"I am grateful that my fellow artists, friends, family, and strangers would come out to support my brother during this challenging time in his life," she said.

Silent auction items can be viewed beginning Oct. 2 in the CBIZ window located near 44 Baltimore Street, and bids can be placed in advance by calling the AaCP gallery at 301-777-8199 or by visiting the CBIZ window during the Arts Walk. Persons may also view silent auction items on the AaCP Facebook page online.

A table with refreshments will be set up in front of the window, where bids will be taken. Any items won can be picked up and paid for at the gallery after winners are contacted.

For more information, persons may contact Helen Kyle at 814-662-2511.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

MAKING SPARKS
by Dr. Tom Sheahen

Q. What is the nature of the reaction when a piece of steel strikes a piece of flint and produces very hot sparks? It seems that the mechanical energy of striking the flint is somehow translated rather efficiently into very high temperatures either by energy conversion (from mechanical impact to heat) or by a release of energy that already exists in either the flint or the steel or both.

A. Striking flint to steel is a time-honored way of starting a fire, described in Boy Scout manuals, YouTube videos, etc. The excavation in China that found Peking Man (a million-year-old early hominid) found charcoal evidence of the use of fire. Long ago, soldiers depended on flint to fire their muskets – one spark would set off the gunpowder.

The purpose of striking a flint against hard steel is to dislodge extremely tiny bits of metal, which go flying off and become "sparks."

Many campers still enjoy starting a fire this way, rather than relying on modern conveniences like matches or cigarette lighters. I personally like a "striker," familiar to plumbers and others who light gas torches, it doesn't run the risk of matches getting wet, and when it wears down after a long time, the flint is easily replaced. But purists like to camp out using their primitive-survival skills.

Whether in a "survival kit" or a plumber's striker, nowadays the material called "flint" is actually ferrocerium, an alloy of cerium, iron, and some other rare-earth metals. This special alloy is carefully made for the single purpose of generating lots of sparks. The reason cerium is used is that it ignites at a low temperature, only about 150° C (300° F). Cerium is called a pyrophoric metal because it "carries fire." The rare-earth metals make ferrocerium brittle, so that extremely tiny pieces of metal break off in the scraping motion. You could still use certain natural kinds of flintstone, but this works better.

The striking friction rips away microscopic pieces of material from the ferrocerium. Imagine a microscopic cube that's one micron on a side. That means about 10,000 atoms long. The volume of such a cube will contain $(10^4)^3 = 10^{12}$ atoms = 1 trillion atoms; and its mass will be about 10^{-13} kilograms. That size is certainly "microscopic." The tiny size is what makes all the difference: All at once a surface with a huge number of atoms is exposed to the air, containing oxygen.

At this point, some very interesting chemistry begins to take place.

The friction of tearing off a tiny piece heats it up considerably, enough to get over a threshold and allow a chemical reaction to begin: The cerium begins to combine with oxygen (oxidize, or burn). The heat released makes the tiny particle really hot. Now the clean fresh surface of hot iron will likewise react with oxygen to produce iron oxide, and release even more heat. We call that flying dot of very hot metal a spark. It's enough to catch fire to some torch gas, tinder, or cloth.

Ordinary iron at room temperature oxidizes incredibly slowly in the process known as "rusting," but the heat released is too small to notice. Similarly, a hand-warmer used by skiers contains tiny flakes of iron, and when it's initiated, the oxidation reaction of millions of tiny flakes proceeds fast enough to give off enough heat to keep hands warm for hours. The same oxidation process happens in a spark, but much quicker and at higher temperature.

Your question asks if the energy is already in the steel or flint. Actually, it's the "downhill" nature of the chemical reaction (oxidation) that allows energy to be released. The initial ejection of tiny fragments provides the necessary very clean surface where oxygen and bare metal atoms can react chemically. The role of friction is to heat those pieces enough to overcome a threshold and get the reaction underway swiftly.

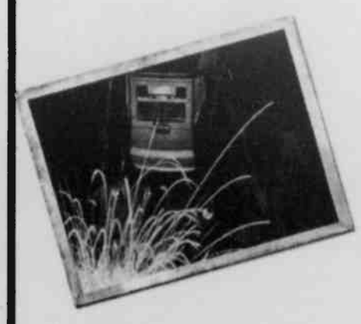

This doesn't work for various soft metals (copper, brass, cast iron, ...) because the metal just deforms instead of breaking off. The reason it doesn't work with steel alone (steel-on-steel) is the higher chemical threshold. Magnesium is a metal that will actually burn in nitrogen if you can ever get it started, but friction with a rock won't do it. In all those cases, no sparks! Hard steel and flint is the right combination to produce sparks and start a campfire.

Dr. Sheahen is a physicist who was educated at MIT. He lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may e-mail them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

Breast Cancer Awareness Month To Be Observed

by Diane Lee, GCHD information officer

October is National Breast Cancer Awareness month, and throughout Garrett County projects are bringing attention to the need for early detection and treatment of breast cancer.

The Garrett County Health Department joins numerous other organizations, businesses and individuals in supporting the "Pink Glove Project." This local project is promoted by Brenda's Body Shop and is designed to highlight the importance of early detection in fighting breast cancer and to support Cindy's Fund.

Cindy's Fund is a Garrett County organization whose purpose is to assist Garrett County residents in the fight against all cancers. The fund, created in 2003 as a memorial to Cindy Kutchman, who was a registered nurse and a cancer victim, supports early screening and evaluation for Garrett County cancer victims.

At their meeting Tuesday, the Garrett County Commissioners signed a proclamation on Tuesday declaring October 2010 as Breast Cancer Awareness Month in Garrett County and showed their support for the Pink Glove Project.

"Designer's Cup Challenge," is another breast cancer awareness project sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department. Entries to this bra art competition are decorated as a tribute to women's wellness and to women who have been a source of inspiration and support for breast cancer awareness, screening and treatment. This year's entries are currently being judged, and the winner will be announced soon.

The Health Department's Breast and Cervical Cancer Screening Program pays for eligible women to obtain their breast exams, mammograms and Pap tests with their own participating providers. The program is open to Garrett County women ages 40-64 who are uninsured or underinsured and fall within the income guidelines.

Persons may call Sharon Rounds, RN, at 301-334-7692 or 301-895-3111 to see if they qualify and schedule an intake appointment.

Computer Courses Slated At Northern Center In October

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division has scheduled two computer courses at the Northern Outreach Center, Grantsville, in October: "Managing and Maintaining Your Computer" and "Buying and Selling on eBay."

"Managing and Maintaining Your Computer" is set for Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 5 and 6, from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

It is designed for any individual who wants to learn the fundamentals of managing and maintaining a computer. Topics to be covered include system maintenance, basic troubleshooting, managing files and folders, and cleaning the computer inside and out.

Upon completion of this course, the student should be able to perform system maintenance, including scan disc, disc defragmentation, and back up; manage files and folders; evaluate error codes and decipher; demonstrate the process of cleaning the computer inside and out; evaluate computer viruses and implement proper techniques to eliminate them; and explain the usefulness of uninterruptible power supply and surge suppressors.

"Buying and Selling on eBay" is scheduled from 6:30 to 9:45 on Oct. 19, 20, and 26.

"This course is for those who may want to earn extra cash from those long forgotten treasures in their attic or garage," said a spokesperson. "Discover how to buy and sell online."

Online auctions match buyers with sellers in a global marketplace for almost any item. Students will learn how to create titles that get noticed, how to craft advertising copy that sells items quickly and for top dollar, and how to upload photos of the items they are selling.

They will also learn how to safely conduct financial transactions, how to accept credit card payments, and how to pack and ship any item hassle free.

"If you're a buyer, you'll learn how to value almost any item up for auction, how to get the best possible price, how to protect yourself against fraud, and how to compete effectively against other bidders," added the spokesperson.

Coming in November to the center are the following courses: "Make and Take for Fall and Christmas Crafts," "Cake Decorating II – Flowers and Cake Design," "Stress Relief: A Workshop," "Networking for the Multiple Computer Home or Small Business," "Microsoft Access I," and "Enhancing Office Productivity Using Microsoft Word and Excel."

Gregg, Oakland, class of 2014. The ceremony signifies that pharmacy education goes beyond the possession of knowledge related to the practice of delivering medication to patients. "Deep in the heart of patient care lie compassion and dedication to the profession of improving healthcare practices and the overall well-being of patients," said a WVU spokesperson. "As each student dons a white coat, his or her commitment to apply an empathetic, humanistic approach to health care is affirmed." Pictured is Gregg, left, being congratulated by Dr. Peter Gannett, professor and Interim chair, Department of Basic Pharmaceutical Sciences.

Women Of Zion Lutheran Church Hold Meeting

Women of the ELCA, Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, recently held their meeting at the church.

The new series of lessons, The People of God Unity in the Midst of Diversity, was begun with the topic "Reading the Bible," led by Leota Baker. The study opened with prayer and the hymn, "Lord, Take My Hand and Lead Me." The lesson was intended to help the group to understand that "Christ is the core and the central message of the Bible leads us to search ways that the text leads us to them."

The study closed with prayer and the hymn "God's Word is Our Great Heritage." Judy Stanton presided over the business meeting. The minutes of July and the treasurer's report were read.

Tribute to the memory of Norman Baker was made through an offering to Women of Evangelical Lutheran Church in America – Churchwide. This gift was designated for the ELCA.

The next project will be Christmas gifts for the children of the Rocky Boy Indian Reservation in Box Elder, Mont. It is requested that all things collected be brought to the church by the meeting in November for early shipment.

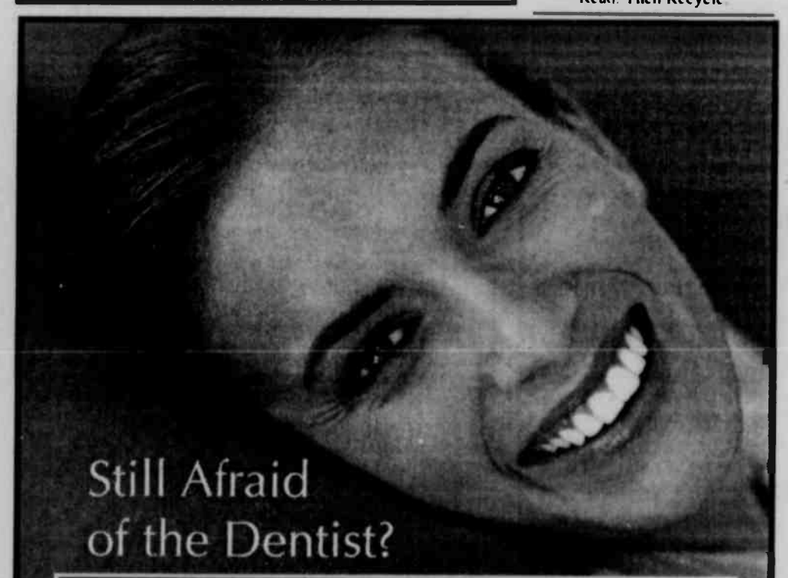

The meeting closed with the missionary benediction.

Management of Cardiac DCM

A cardiomyopathy is a health problem related to the heart muscle. There are several different types of cardiomyopathy; dilated cardiomyopathy (DCM) is one such type. This condition is an abnormality in the contraction of the heart ventricles, and dilation of the heart. Persons with DCM have systolic dysfunction, which results in a reduced left ventricular ejection fraction (LVEF). A diagnosis of DCM may include a LVEF of less than 40 percent. Persons between the ages of 20 and 60 years are primarily affected by the condition; however, persons of any age may be diagnosed with DCM. Symptoms include difficulty breathing while exercising, difficulty breathing at night, and swelling.

Persons who are diagnosed with DCM may be prescribed medications based on symptoms and whether other conditions are present. Angiotensin converting enzyme (ACE) inhibitors, such as ramipril and lisinopril may be prescribed. Beta-blockers, such as propranolol (Inderal), may be prescribed along with ACE inhibitors. Diuretics, such as furosemide may also be prescribed in addition to other medications. Surgery may be needed for those who do not respond to available medications.

CAN WE END POVERTY?

There are several schools of thought on the issue of whether poverty can be ended: One which says that it can; one which says that it cannot; and one which says that poverty cannot be eliminated, but that it can certainly be diminished. Assuming that we can either end or at least diminish poverty, then we need to know the best way to do so. On this issue, one school of thought says that we should give aid and chanty to the poor and thus lift them out of poverty in that way, and another school of thought which says that this kind of aid or charity does more harm than good by creating people who are dependent on others. This latter school of thought contends that we need to help others to help themselves, by giving them training or education which will allow them to then support themselves by getting a job or starting their own business. This is the familiar notion that if you give a man a fish you feed him for a day, but if you teach him how to fish you feed him for a lifetime. More and more economists and social scientists are saying that we need to do the latter. So, teach someone how to fish, or how to run a business, and help to lift them out of poverty.

For you have the poor with you always,and whenever you wish you may do them good; but Me you do nothave always.

A hairy situation for the actress who is Isles

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: Is the actress who plays Isles on "Rizzoli & Isles" the same person who played Caitlin on "NCIS"? Outside of the hair, they look a lot alike. –Judy Gambill, Midwest City, Okla.

A: That's because, hairstyle notwithstanding, Sasha Alexander is the actress responsible for both characters. An interesting fact about her, beyond her changing coiffures: Her mother-in-law is international screen legend Sophia Loren.

Q: Will "Friday Night Lights" be back, or was the season finale the last episode? –Carol Guetzke, Thiensville, Wis.

A: It has a fifth and final season to go, and DirecTV is slated to begin airing those last episodes Oct. 27. As has been the case in recent years, NBC will air them later. The high-school football drama still will remain evident after that: ABC Family recently acquired the telecast rights to the repeats, which already are running, and those should stay around for a while.

Q: Is "Treme" returning? –Charles Quaintance, Jupiter, Fla.

A: It is, and it didn't take HBO long at all to make that determination. Two days after the show premiered in April, the cable network announced that the New Orleans-set drama had been picked up for a second season. When the new episodes will begin running wasn't certain at this writing, but we'd anticipate next spring for the start of them.

Q: I have watched several episodes of an old series called "Crisis," and the credits list Johnny Williams as the man in charge of the music. Is that the same John Williams who did the music for "Star Wars" and other movies? –Carl Gerling, Seattle

Sasha Alexander

A: He is. Williams composed the theme music for the anthology series, which originally aired as "Kraft Suspense Theater" when NBC broadcast it between 1963 and 1965. It was renamed "Crisis" for the syndication market, since Kraft Foods was no longer the show's principal sponsor at that point.

Williams also scored 14 entire episodes of the show. In fact, he did quite a bit of television work during the "Johnny" phase of his career in the 1960s, also encompassing the series "Checkmate," "Lost in Space" and "The Time Tunnel."

Q: I wrote you about a year ago about the series "The Game," and you said it was canceled by The CW. I heard BET is bringing it back. Is that true? –Wayne Johnson II, Pasadena, Md.

A: All of that is accurate. The CW had canceled the football-related comedy, then a deal was made with BET for new episodes. Those are expected to begin airing early in 2011, with the original members of the regular cast – including Coby Bell, seen recently on USA Network's "Burn Notice" – slated to return.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was 20th-century French air force brigadier general and geopolitician — and bearer of the nickname "father of the French atom bomb" — Pierre Marie Gallois who made the following sage observation. "If you put tomfoolery into a computer, nothing comes out of it but tomfoolery. But this tomfoolery, having passed through a very expensive machine, is somehow ennobled and no one dares criticize it."

• Gravity makes you shorter. It's true: gravity compresses your spine — in a weightless environment, you would be 2 to 3 inches taller than you are here on Earth.

• You might be surprised to learn that the first ceiling fan was introduced way back in the 1860s. The lack of electricity was no deterrent; the device was powered by a stream of running water.

• When the bubonic plague, more commonly known as the Black Death, was at its peak in Europe in the 14th century, a wide variety of remedies was prescribed, including smoking tobacco, bringing spiders into the household, inhaling the stench from a latrine, sitting between two large fires, drinking red wine in which new steel had been cooled, and bathing in goat urine.

• Those who study such things say that women are better at identifying smells than men are.

• In 1994, Singapore banned the importation and sale of chewing gum. Ten years later, lawmakers added a revision: Gum that has "therapeutic value" is now allowed.

• Over the past year, in the United States lottery sales have increased by a whopping $1 billion.

• Human skin is about 70 percent water, and the human brain is 80 percent water.

Thought for the Day: "All living souls welcome whatever they are ready to cope with; all else they ignore, or pronounce to be monstrous and wrong, or deny to be possible." — George Santayana

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Oct. 10, 1845, The United States Naval Academy opens in Annapolis, Md., with 50 midshipmen students and seven professors. The curriculum included mathematics and navigation, gunnery and steam, chemistry, English, natural philosophy and French.

• On Oct. 8, 1871, a spark in the Chicago barn of Patrick and Catherine O'Leary ignites a two-day blaze that kills between 200 and 300 people, destroys 17,450 buildings and leaves 100,000 homeless. Legend has it that Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over a lantern and started the fire. In 1997, the Chicago City Council exonerated Mrs. O'Leary and her cow.

• On Oct. 5, 1892, the Dalton gang attempts to rob two banks simultaneously in Coffeyville, Kan., but meets resistance from townspeople. As the gang was about to make their getaway, a throng of townsfolk armed by a local hardware store, surprised them. In the gunfight that ensued, all five men were shot.

• On Oct. 7, 1913, for the first time, Henry Ford's entire Highland Park, Mich., automobile factory is run on an assembly line. This cut the man-hours required to complete one Model T from 12-1/2 hours to six. Further improvements reduced the time required to 93 man-minutes.

• On Oct. 6, 1961, President John F. Kennedy advises American families to build bomb shelters to protect them from atomic fallout in the event of a nuclear exchange with the Soviet Union. One year later, the Cuban Missile Crisis erupted.

• On Oct. 4, 1988, televangelist Jim Bakker is indicted on federal charges of mail and wire fraud and of conspiring to defraud the public. Jim Bakker was convicted and sentenced to 45 years in prison, later reduced to eight years.

• On Oct. 9, 1992, a meteorite crashes into a Chevy Malibu owned by 18-year-old Michelle Knapp in Peekskill, N.Y. The bowling ball-size rock weighed 28 pounds and smelled of rotten eggs. It was confirmed that the object was a genuine meteorite and came from the inner edge of the main asteroid belt in space, between Jupiter and Mars.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q. I have six books concerning World War II, all illustrated and in excellent condition. They include "The Siege of Leningrad" by Alan Wykes, "Luftwaffe" by Alfred Price, and "Sicily — Whose Victory" by Martin Blumenson. All of the books in the collection were published by Ballantine. How can I determine how much they are worth? — Charlotte, Swanton, Md.

A. Heads up, everyone. I get dozens of book questions each month, and my answer is almost always the same. Go to www.abe.com, and type in the title and author. A list of dealers who have the book for sale will pop up, making it easy to determine current values.

Write to Larry Cox in care of King Features Weekly Service, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475, or send e-mail to questionsforcox@aol.com. Due to the large volume of mail he receives, Mr. Cox is unable to personally answer all reader questions. Do not send any materials requiring return mail.

MESSAGE FROM MSAP TEAM

No one is immune to the devastating effects drugs and alcohol can have on those who use. Experimenting can quickly lead to addiction and change a young person's life forever. Any parents who may suspect a son or daughter is usmg should consider Southern High School's Maryland Student Assistance Program (MSAP) team as a resource for help. Passing scores for the four HSA content areas are: algebra data analysis: 412; biology: 400; English: 396; and government: 394. These tests are based on the Core Learning Goals, and the content covered in HSA related courses and on an HSA test is a basic level of knowledge that will be built on as a student continues his/her education. These tests are given in October, January, and May. A special, seniors-only administration will be given in April. Students can retake an HSA as many times as necessary. Special tutoring opportunities are offered prior to each January and May testing session. In addition, tutoring is available in the media center after school throughout the year. The following resources are available to students and parents via the Internet: www.hsaexam.org and http://mdk12.org/assessments/high_school/look_like/. Those with questions about the assessments should contact Susan Henline at 301-334-9447.

HSA TUTORING OPPORTUNITIES

Special tutoring sessions will take place prior to the English and Algebra tests the week of Oct. 4–7 and Oct. 11–13. Students are encouraged to attend. High School Assessments will take place on the following dates: Oct. 5: biology; Oct. 7: government; Oct. 11: English; Oct. 12: algebra; and October 13 and 14: make-ups and arranged sessions.

PSAT

In order for students to qualify for any national merit scholarships they must take the PSAT in their junior year. There is a $14 fee to reserve PSAT test materials. All sophomores take the PSAT on the same day for no charge. Those with questions should see Mrs. Bell in the Guidance Office.

Get some help with these questions by attending the annual Mtn. Top College Expo on Monday, Oct. 11, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. in the Garrett College gymnasium. Approximately 40 colleges will have representatives available to answer questions about anything from programs they offer to athletic opportunities and financial assistance. Recruiters from different branches will also be available for students desiring more information on serving in the United States military. All seniors who come to the Expo will have their names placed in a drawing for up to three $500 scholarships to be used toward college expenses.

AG SIDEWALK SALE of RAM GEAR

Marketing and business students who help run the school store are working to create a Sidewalk Sale to add as a new Autumn Glory event. Students will set up a table with Ram Gear merchandise outside the school entrance (weather permitting) on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of the Autumn Glory week. Alumni, parents, and the general public are welcome to come to the school and make a purchase. T-shirts, sweatpants, and windbreakers should all be available next week. Cash or checks will be accepted. Parents of past and current SHS students and athletes are encouraged to stop by. Marketing teacher Lisa Bender hopes to make this an annual tradition for the school and community.

CHOWING DOWN ON BREAKFAST – Head Start is a sponsoring organization of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Child and Adult Food Care Program, through which children in the Early Childhood Program of Garrett County Community Action Committee obtain healthy meals and snacks. Children in Head Start and Early Head Start receive breakfast, lunch, and a snack every day, which provides two-thirds of their daily requirement. According to an agency spokesperson, the Head Start/Early Head Start programs promote the GCCAC goal of creating a positive attitude about the value of education among working families and young people, thereby increasing the number of Garrett County families who are economically self-sufficient. RECOVERY MONTH PROCLAIMED – The Board of Garrett County Commissioners recently proclaimed September 2010 as National Alcohol and Drug Addiction Recovery Month. According to published studies, more than 74 percent of all Americans have been impacted at some point in their lives by alcohol and drug abuse, whether it is their own personal addiction or that of a family member or friend. "Very often persons are hesitant to seek help or treatment because of the stigma attached to addictions," noted Bob Stephens, director of behavioral and family health at the Garrett County Health Department. The 2008 National Survey of Drug Use and Health reported that 4 million persons received treatment, while also estimating that an additional 19 million Americans needed but did not access drug and alcohol treatment. According to Stephens, there are 159 persons in outpatient treatment, four in intensive outpatient treatment, and 10 attending the driving-under-the-influence education classes at the Health Department. He encourages persons who are in need of treatment to seek out such professional treatment and peer support groups as Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous. Pictured with the commissioners are members of the addictions staff from the Garrett County Center for Behavioral Health and members of the Garrett County Drug Free Communities Coalition. In the front are Commissioners Ernie Gregg, Denny Glotfelty, and Fred Holliday. In the back are Stephens, Rodney Glotfelty, Les McDaniel, Steve Richard, Donna Aspinall, Kathy Beals, and Brooke Schneider. Photo courtesy of the Health Department.

Agape Women To Begin Third Year Of Mtgs.

Agape: A Gathering of Women will begin its third year of operation on Saturday, Oct. 2, at 10 a.m. in the parish hall at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Oakland. The group started with five women, and now the roster has grown to 51.

"The popularity of the group is due to the extraordinary women who participate," said Rev. Pam Fahrner, who facilitates the group. "We've had some wonderful discussions, and that could not have happened if it were not for the willingness to share and read the background material. My blog site shows a whopping 90 percent jump whenever I send out an e-mail notifying women of a post of new background material."

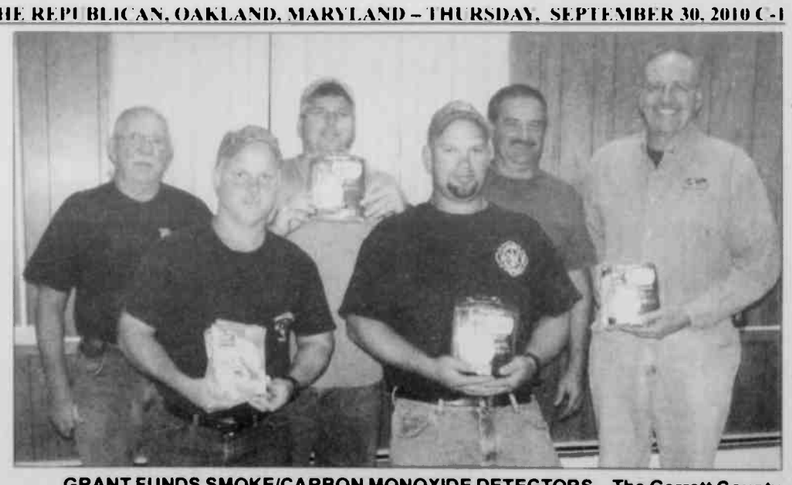

A gathering takes place every six weeks in which women from Garrett County share discussions, fellowship, and refreshments.

All women are welcome to attend and participate in this ecumenical group. Those of all faiths are welcome, as well as those who do not attend church.

Background material is posted approximately one week before each gathering. Those who do not have e-mail receive a phone call, and materials are left at the church for pick-up.

There is no cost to join or participate in this group. Rev. Fahrner said she envisions and hopes for a time when all faith traditions in the county will be represented.

For further information, Fahrner may be contacted at 301-387-6313 or phfahrner@comcast.net. The blog site may be accessed at agapeatheringofwomen.com.

Adult Forum At St. Mark's To Be Held At New Time

The Adult Forum at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland is moving from Wednesday evenings to Sunday mornings at 8:45 a.m., beginning this week, Oct. 3.

According to Rev. C. Scott Robinson, pastor of the church, the move is in response to many people who said they would like to attend, but cannot get away on Wednesday evenings.

The forum is beginning a new series of discussions on the books of the Bible.

"It was suggested we investigate and discuss likely authorship, as well as when and under what circumstances each biblical book was probably written," Robinson said. "Members who suggested this series thought it may give us a better understanding of each book's particular theological slant, and how we can better understand and apply its teaching in our own time and circumstances."

The forum is open to the public. It will be followed by a fellowship time with coffee and snacks, prior to regular Sunday worship at 10 a.m. Nursery care is available.

For more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-6228. St. Mark's is located at the corner of Center and S. Second streets, across from the Ruth Fnlow Library. The church has a Facebook page.

AURORA CEOS

Jeannie Whitehair was hostess to eight members of the Aurora Community Education Outreach Service, who met on Sept. 21. President Opal Myers called the meeting to order and led with devotions, "Thought for a Busy Day."

Whitehair discussed macular degeneration, which has no cure. Preventive methods include eating a diet rich in green leafy vegetables and foods high in antioxidants. Family history, race, cigarette smoking, obesity, and cardiovascular disease have been identified as contributing factors.

Secretary and treasurer's reports were approved, and it was noted that all committee reports are due to all respective committee county chairpersons by November 30. Plans were made on Sept. 12 at Opal Myers' home to prepare the club's Buckwheat Festival exhibit.

The club has invited a community member who has visited China to share the trip with the club. The club has also agreed to participate in the Santa Tree, through which gifts are given to needy community members. The club will also participate in the Active for Life exercise program. Ressie Conrad read some of the reasons the autumn leaves change color.

Congratulations were given to Opal Myers, who was selected as the Preston County Volunteer of the Year.

Financial Focus

Think Twice before Joining the "Gold Rush"

In recent months, you may have heard a lot about investing in gold. But is gold the right choice for you? Actually, many factors are involved in this investment decision —and you'll want to consider these factors before you invest.

Of course, the lure of gold is undeniable. Throughout history, gold has been perceived as having great intrinsic value. And this year, as you may know, gold prices have hit record highs, at well over $1,200 an ounce, as people have sought "shelter" from the stormy financial markets.

But as an investment possibility, gold has some "scratches" to it. First of all, contrary to what you may believe, gold prices do not always go up; instead, they will fluctuate, sometimes greatly.

Furthermore, there are specific risks with the different ways of investing in gold. If you bought a gold futures contract (an obligation to buy gold at a predetermined future date and price), you could lose money if gold falls, because you'll still be obligated to complete your contract at the higher, agreed-upon price. If you purchased gold in the form of coins, bullion or bars, you'd face storage, security, insurance and liquidity issues. You need to do a lot of research before investing in gold mining companies, because some of these companies may still be in the gold-exploring stage — and there's no guarantee their explorations will lead to profitable discoveries.

Also, even when its price is considerably lower than it is today, gold is still a fairly expensive investment compared to other choices. It can be costly to go into the gold futures market. And you'll likely have to spend thousands of dollars if you want to buy a bar of gold or even a bunch of coins.

Given these drawbacks to investing in gold, what can you do to fight back against market volatility? One of the best ways is to diversify your holdings among a variety of investments suitable for your financial objectives. Market downturns often affect one type of asset class more than another, so if you can spread your dollars among a variety of asset classes, you can help blunt the effects of volatility. Keep in mind, though, that diversification, by itself, cannot guarantee a profit or protect against loss.

In coping with volatility, you'll also help yourself by taking a long-term view of your investments' performance. If you look at your investment statement for a given month, you might not like what you see. But holding your investments for the long term may help your portfolio better weather the ups and downs you'll encounter in the investment world.

So try to avoid the allure of gold as a "quick fix" to whatever seems to be ailing the financial markets at a particular time. Other investments may be less glitzy and glamorous than gold, but they can have their own sparkle.

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION

NOTICE OF FINAL DETERMINATION

Garrett County

Application for State Discharge Permit, 09-DP-3667, NPDES Permit MD0070629:

Maryland Energy Resources, LLC, 6015 Ferguson Rd., Indiana, PA 15701, submitted an application for a permit to discharge an average of 500,000 gallons per day of mine drainage and variable volumes of storm water from a proposed underground coal mine, located along Durst Rd., southwest of Grantsville, MD, to the North Branch Casselman River (existing Use III waters).

The Department published a tentative permit determination on April 15, 2010, and conducted a public hearing regarding the proposed draft permit on May 19, 2010. After considering all comments received either in writing or through oral testimony, the Department has made a final determination to issue the permit with the following changes to the tentative determination:

1. The permittee shall include in the biomonitoring study plan, for approval by the Department, alternate test species that also reflect the biological nature of the listed endangered species, including but not limited to rainbow trout and stonefly.

2. Monitoring for temperature is required from May 15th through September 30th. Monitoring shall be performed hourly (24 hours per day).

3. Sulfate is required to be monitored weekly, and the permit includes a reopener to implement limitations based on any new State water quality standards for sulfate.

4. Special Condition N of the permit has been revised to clarify the permittee's responsibility to comply with all state water quality standards.

5. The permittee is required to perform a feasibility study considering potential options for implementation of real-time reporting of effluent flow volume, conductivity, temperature, and pH. The permittee shall also evaluate options for in-stream remote monitoring with real-time reporting. The study is due within one year of the permit effective date after which time the Department may reopen the permit to implement real-time reporting requirements.

6. Special Condition Q.6 requires a plan for addressing identification of and response to the potential occurrence of acid mine drainage seeps, and the condition has been further revised to prohibit discharge prior to approval of the plan by the Department, contingent upon a 60 day decision process by the Department in consultation with the Department of Natural Resources.

7. Special condition Q.7 in the tentative determination has been renumbered to Q.8 and new condition Q.7 requiring a bond or other financial security be established prior to discharge sufficient to pay the estimated costs of post-mining pumping and treatment to control mine pool elevation and water quality and for restoration of the river and affected endangered species in the event that the Department determines that acid mine drainage seepage results from the mining activity and impacts water quality in the Casselman River.

8. Removed footnotes (1) and (2) in Special Condition A.1, which provided opportunity to reduce the monitoring frequency without formally reopening the permit.

9. Removed from footnote (7) in Special Condition A.1 the opportunity to reduce the monitoring frequency for WET testing without formally reopening the permit.

10. Replaced "may" with "shall" in footnote (8) of Special Condition A.1.

All other proposed terms and conditions of the tentative permit determination remain unchanged.

Based upon the terms and conditions provided in the final permit, the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has withdrawn its State Endangered Species Jeopardy Opinion regarding the permit. The Department is providing notice of its intent to continue to consult with DNR regarding any plan approvals required under the permit and any changes in monitoring requirements and discharge authorizations established under this permit.

Any person adversely affected by this final determination may request a judicial review. The judicial review must be filed no later than October 30, 2010, in the circuit court of the county where the proposed activity will occur.

Persons wishing to review the proposed final permit may do so by contacting Mr. Michael Richardson to make an appointment. Copies of documents may be obtained at a cost of $0.36 per page.

GCEMA Meeting Set For Wednesday At Garrett College

The Garrett County Electrical Mechanical Association (GCEMA) will hold a meeting next Wednesday, Oct. 6, at 7 p.m. in Room #311 of the Information Technology Building at Garrett College, Main Campus. All area contractors and their employees associated with electrical, plumbing, and HVAC work are invited to attend the GCEMA meetings.

Mark Watkins of Hotshotz Thermal Imaging Services will be the speaker for the meeting. He will present information on air-tightness testing systems for buildings and how air duct system leakage can affect a building's overall air-tightness.

According to an organization spokesperson, duct systems can produce a positive internal pressure or a negative internal pressure within a building. Each presents a set of comfort problems and energy costs to the building's owner and to the utility grid. Those in attendance at next week's meeting will learn what the contractor's requirements are regarding the new building codes, the spokesperson said.

"Garrett College has scheduled several classes that should be of interest to many of our members," he said, adding that Connie Meyers, program director, could be contacted at 301-387-3084 for more information.

DAR HONORS OFFICERS AT FREDERICK SOCIAL – The Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) of Oakland attended a social in Frederick on Sunday to honor two state officers. Aletta Martz, state librarian and member of the local DAR chapter, and Carol Larkin, state history and member of the Frederick Chapter, were the honorees. The Frederick Chapter arranged and hosted the social event. State regent Ruann George and the other Maryland state officers attended, as well as members of both chapters. Pictured above, left to right, are George, Martz, Youghiogheny Glades Chapter regent Linda Ashby, Larkin, and Frederick Chapter vice regent Teresa Ohler. Below are members of the local chapter who attended the social: Ashby, Sherry Georg, Martz, Ellen Doctor, Sue Webster, and Marilyn Posten. The social was held outside the historic Steiner House along West Patrick Street. The house was designed by architect Stephen Steiner and was built in 1807. Steiner was known for designing many houses and church steeples. "The Trinity Chapel in Frederick has one of his beautifully designed steeples on it," Doctor noted.

HVAC – A three-day Residential HVAC Design Program is scheduled for October 18, 19, and 20 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each day. The program includes residential heating and cooling load calculations using the Air Conditioning Contractors of America's (ACCA's) Manual Jae, residential equipment selection using ACCA's Manual S, and residential duct systems design using ACCA's Revised Manual D.

Electrical – Maryland Master Electrician Test Preparation is scheduled for November 9 and 10, from 5 to 8:30 p.m. each day.

Electrical – 2008 NEC Electrical Calculations is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 20, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. This is a refresher class for all electricians.

The GCEMA is a non-profit, member-driven organization for electrical, plumbing, and HVAC contractors and their employees, established to advance professionalism and represent a collective voice to communicate on local, state, and national levels.

A CAFFEINE CONNECTION?
There is a widespread belief that caffeine consumption is connected with tinnitus (ringing in the ears) and that giving up caffeine can relieve this annoying (and sometimes debilitating) condition. However, recent research rejects this notion. According to English researchers, drinking caffeinated beverages will not make tinnitus worse, nor will giving up caffeine make tinnitus any better. This, of course, does not come as good news to tinnitus sufferers, who would like nothing better than a "magic bullet" remedy. Unfortunately, the fact is that there is no cure for tinnitus. On the other hand, those who suffer from buzzing and ringing in their ears might want to consider the use of hearing instruments and "maskers" that can help minimize the ringing.
Whether you are hearing the sounds of tinnitus or not hearing the sounds of life around you, don't hesitate to make an appointment with a hearing specialist. With the many options available today in the hearing industry thanks to innovative, advanced technology, your ability to hear can be enhanced and so will your quality of life. Stop by soon at AUDIBEL, or call us to find out about having a painless hearing evaluation.
P.S. A tinnitus masker is a device that is worn like a hearing instrument that produces pleasant sounds that drown out or "mask" the annoying sounds associated with tinnitus.

43rd Annual Autumn Glory Festival Scheduled For Oct. 6 Through Oct. 10

by Sarah Duck, GC Chamber of Commerce marketing director

Enjoy the beauty of the fall season in the mountains as Maryland celebrates the 43rd anniversary of Autumn Glory with two large parades, concerts, band competitions, art exhibits, antique and craft shows, and much more from Oct. 6 to 10.

Known for scenic Deep Creek Lake and Maryland's only ski resort, the Wisp, Garrett County is also home to the annual Autumn Glory Festival, a five-day celebration of autumn that celebrates the beauty of the local fall foliage. From Wednesday through Sunday, the area offers a wide variety of things to do indoors or outdoors.

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce's annual Autumn Glory Kickoff Dinner featuring live musical entertainment and recognition of the annual Autumn Glory Golden Ambassador will kick off the festival on Wednesday, Oct. 6.

Thursday features the Oktoberfest dinner and concert by the Oom-Pah Band and a firemen's parade.

The week continues with historic area tours, antique and craft shows, fine arts exhibits, both swing and oldies dances, a farmers' market, 5-K walk, storytelling and book festival, musical concerts, dogsled events, a quilt show, corn maze, art glass exhibits, outdoor adventures, shopping specials, and a wide variety of other activities.

The Official Maryland State Banjo Championship, Friday at 7 p.m., features banjo contestants of all ages competing for top honors.

Saturday, Oct. 9, offers musical entertainment in Oakland at the Front Page Stage, on Second Street near the post office, and on the Box Car Stage at the train station.

The Grand Feature Parade begins on Saturday at 1 p.m. in Oakland. Clowns, floats, bands, and plenty of sidewalk vendors increase the festival atmosphere. That day will also feature the Western Maryland Tournament of Bands at 6 p.m. with high school field show competition, as well as the State Fiddle Championship and Mandolin Contest at 7 p.m.

Antique and craft shows continue Sunday, joined by the Autumn Glory Festival

Car Show in Oakland and a no-hands sundae eating contest at Lakeside Creamery.

Garrett County's annual Autumn Glory Festival landed in the international spotlight last fall when the popular travel web site MSN.com listed it tops among fall festivals in the world. To the delight of locals and visitors alike, Autumn Glory in Oakland beat out Paris' Festival d'Automne (#5) and Munich's Oktoberfest (#7) – in addition to a bevy of domestic celebrations, including San Francisco's Dias De los Muertos.

"Music, parades, and awesome colors are at the center of this festival," noted the site, plugging in particular the Grand Feature Parade, the Maryland State Banjo and Fiddle championships, and the Tournament of Bands.

For the past two years, travelchannel.com has also listed the Autumn Glory Festival and Garrett County as one of America's Three Best Autumn Road Trips, and in 2008, baltimoresun.com listed Garrett County as one of the top five locals for fall foliage.

PINK GLOVES ARE ALL OVER THE PLACE! The Pink Glove Dance, a YouTube.com sensation first performed by the staff of the Providence St. Vincent Medical Center in Portland, Ore., has turned into a fundraising effort for the National Breast Cancer Foundation. Jumping on board with that theme this year is Brenda Brosnihan, owner of Brenda's Body Shop of Oakland, who has invited the community to take part in a related, local fundraising effort to benefit Cindy's Fund, which provides assistance to Garrett County citizens who are ill with cancer. Brenda's Body Shop is the official sponsor of the Garrett County Pink Glove Dance Project, a community-wide campaign to educate, honor, and celebrate those affected by cancer. Her dancers have performed the famed "Pink Glove Dance" at a variety of venues since August, and will present it at several AGF events, such as the firemen's parade on Thursday, downtown at the Boxcar Stage on Saturday morning, during the Grand Feature Parade, and then at the conclusion of the 33rd Western Maryland Tournament of Bands on Saturday night at the Southern athletic field. She is offering Pink Glove Dance classes at Brenda's Body Shop. Persons may call for times and information. "Our goal is to get as many people as possible to learn the dance and distribute the pink gloves to family and friends," she said. Information: 301-334-1275 or brendasbodyshop.com.

Welcome to another great autumn in Western Maryland. It's where my ancestors settled in the early 1800s and the most majestic address to have in the entire Mid-Atlantic region. You will find our elevation of almost 3000 feet refreshing, our mornings a bit chilly and our evenings full of stars, planets and occasional satellites.

As with all of our Autumn Glory celebrations, you will find our neighbors helpful to give directions, our shops friendly and plenty of people wanting to fill your bellies with buckwheat cakes, sausage and assorted other items to warm your tummy. Don't forget to take home some home-made apple butter and maple syrup for your friends back home.

The weather this time of year can be exciting. Prepare for the unexpected. Between the sun, rain and sometimes snowfall, you will find a reason to smile and enjoy all of the festivities that abound.

This time of year is a homecoming for many people. People migrate back to their roots here to witness another fun parade, the ever popular Oakland Volunteer Firemen's Oktoberfest, the Maryland Banjo and Fiddle Championship, a great antique and craft show and a marvelous kick-off dinner where a new Golden Ambassador is named.

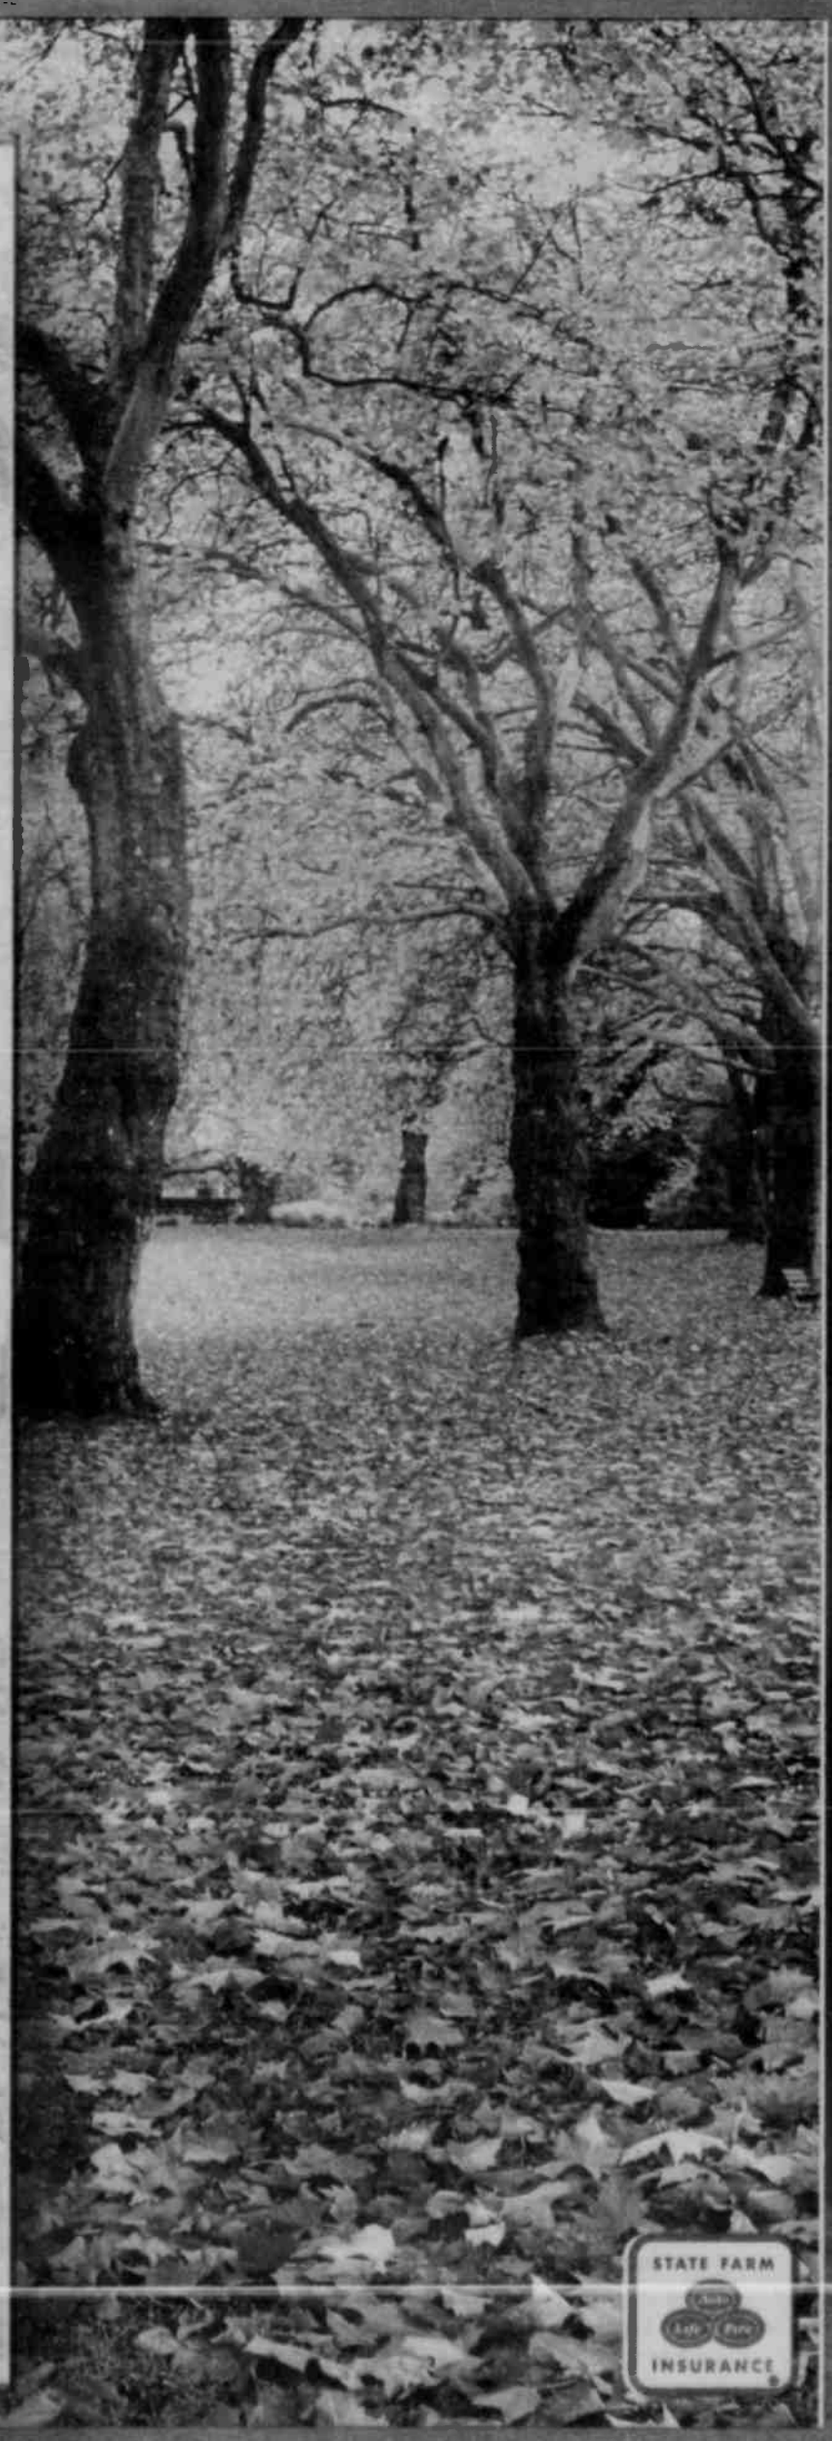

Fall and winter are my favorite seasons here, and I'm glad you have decided to join me and my family to celebrate nature's beauty at its best. It won't be long now before the first mountain snows appear and our leaves will be gone for yet another year. I encourage you to take some time to visit nearby Herrington Manor State Park as well as Deep Creek and New Germany State Parks. A good walk will be good for you.

Come back in the summer and visit with us. There seems to be something always happening and we would love for you to be a part of it. I believe after your visit you will know why we love to live here.

See you during the festival or on Wisp mountain this winter.

Road Closings Announced For Festival's Grand Feature Parade

Several Oakland roads will be closed before and during the 43rd Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade, which begins at 1 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 9.

"The Oakland Mayor and Town Council welcomes visitors to Oakland during Autumn Glory Festival," said Oakland Police chief John Sines. "The festival is the perfect time to showcase all that Oakland and Garrett County have to offer our guests to the area."

Second Street will be closed to traffic from Liberty Street to Center Street at 9:30 am. Both Second and Third streets, from Omar Street to Alder Street, will be closed to all vehicles at 11 a.m. Traffic needing to bypass Oakland will be directed to detour along Fourth Street until the parade ends. Center Street will remain open until 12:45 p.m.

Memorial Drive also will be closed to through traffic from Fourth to Eighth Street. No one will be able to turn onto Fourth Street from Memorial Drive. Barricades and police officers will prevent access onto Memorial Drive from Fourth to Eighth streets. Emergency vehicles should use Kings Run Road or Eighth Street to Memorial Drive.

Parking along the parade route, which includes parts of Second, Third, and Alder streets, is prohibited prior to and during the parade.

Business owners or employees should contact City Hall at 301-334-2691, the Oakland Police Department at 301-334-2100, or the Chamber of Commerce at 301-387-4386 in advance to obtain a pass to gain access inside the parade route; this includes the handicapped parking at the Masonic Lodge along First Street.

The Pleasant View Baptist Church will present music, puppetry, and drama in front of the Oakland Post Office on Second Street at 11:30 am. Food vendors will be set up on Green Street between Second and Third streets by the M&T Bank area by 9:30 a.m.

The Holy Fire Dram group from Loch Lynn Church will perform from 10 a.m. until noon on the Front Page Stage.

The Still Kickin' Cloggers will be performing from 10:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. on the Box Car Stage near the 1884 B&O Train Station, followed the Pmk Glove Dance by Brenda's Bodyshop from 11 to 11:30 and the Country Plus Line Dancers from 11:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies, Maryland State Police troopers, and State Highway Administration employees will be assisting the Oakland Police Department with traffic control during the Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade and Thursday's Fireman's Parade to make this a safe festival for everyone, noted a chamber of commerce spokeswoman.

Chief Sines said he encourages anyone coming to the festival and parade to come early to find a good

Garrett County's annual Autumn Glory Festival landed in the international spotlight three years ago, when the popular travel web site, MSN.com listed it tops among fall festivals in the world. The local event beat out Paris's Festival d'Automne (#5) and Munich's Oktoberfest (#7) – in addition to many domestic celebrations, including San Francisco's Dias De los Muertos.

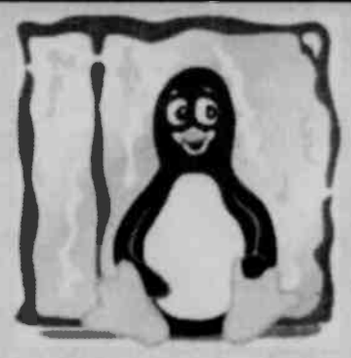

"Music, parades, and awesome colors are at the center of this festival," noted the site, plugging, in particular, the Grand Feature Parade, the Maryland State Banjo & Fiddle Championships, and the Tournament of Bands.

For the past two years, travelchannel.com has also listed the Autumn Glory Festival and Garrett County as one of "America's Three Best Autumn Road Trips," and in 2008, baltimoresun.com listed Garrett County as one of the top five locales for fall foliage.

For more details about Autumn Glory including a complete listing of Autumn Glory events, one may visit autumngloryfestival.com or contact the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce at 301-387-4386.

AAHH THIS IS THE LIFE! What could be better than having your face painted, eating some good food, and relaxing in a comfortable, front-row seat to watch the Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade, set for Saturday, Oct. 9, at 1 p.m. in Oakland. Musical performances, fundraisers, and food booths will be available before the parade. Children of all ages will enjoy regal marching bands, colorful floats, comical Shriners, and mischievous mountaineers during the "grand feature" event. Honeysuckle the Skunk, a perennial crowd favorite, likes to sprays unsuspecting spectators with her own particular brand of "perfume." On second thought, maybe having a front-row seat is such a good idea after all. Photo at left by Angie Sincell. Photo above by Karlo Gesner.

The committee is finalizing a nonprofit status for the project and looking for grants and foundation funds to underwrite some of the work.

The Autumn Glory Festival open house will be the first of several such events to make the public more aware of the status and plans for the station and to involve more people in the fundraising and volunteer work needed in the future. Upcoming events will include a TV raffle, a quilt raffle, and open houses at Christmas time and during Oakland's Winterfest.

"We believe that Oakland will continue to grow as a destination for railroad enthusiasts and history lovers," said Helbig. "When the B&O Railroad Station Museum is ready, it will join three other major sites of interest within one downtown Oakland block: the Garrett County Historical Society Museum, the society's new Transportation Museum now under construction, and the 1860s Church of the Presidents (St. Matthew's Episcopal Church). We think that these attractions will encourage and increase tourism and benefit the entire county's economy."

In addition to McCain and Helbig, the B&O Station Museum Committee members are Robert Shaffer, Bill Nemith, Margo Savage, Jack Riley, Meg Ellis, Oakland mayor Peggy Jamison, Jeannette Fitzwater, Arlene Murray, John Rathgeb, Troy Ellington, Marilyn Moors, Morgan C. France, Duane Yoder, Al Feldstein, and Courtney Wilson, executive director of the B&O Railroad Museum in Baltimore.

THE ANNUAL AUTUMN GLORY CAR SHOW brings together hundreds of automobile fanatics, some there to admire the cars, and others there who are lucky enough to own one or some of these cars. Vehicles including antique, street rod, and classic cars will line up on Second Street in downtown Oakland on Sunday, Oct. 10, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The non-judged show will offer wall plaques to the first 100 registered. Also available will be food, raffles, door prizes, games, and a Chinese auction. Admission is free for spectators. Photo courtesy of Ed Deal.

It's What's Inside That Matters

A Few Questions & Answers

1) Do people have to wait to get their MRI or DEXA scan? No, We can fit you in that day or the next day.
2) If someone is hesitant and claustrophobic, we have a large spacious room and a fan is always blowing in the magnet. It is open at both ends and we can offer music, a wash cloth over your eyes, and we talk to you in between each sequence to let you know how long the scan will last. You can always let your doctor know and he/she can prescribe a medication that you can get filled at your local pharmacy and bring with you to your appointment.
3) If your doctor needs same-day results, we try to accommodate this and make sure your doctor can get results quickly.
4) We offer specialized MRI imaging. We can evaluate your arterial vessels, breast imaging, along with brains, spines and all orthopedic studies. We recognize and value every patient that walks through our doors, and treat everyone as though they were a family member. This is what sets us apart from other MRI Centers. We strive to accommodate every need, from our patients to our referring physicians.

We now currently offer entry through our web site for all referring physicians to see their patient's images and reports. This will be a great value to help continued patient care 24 hrs. a day, 7 days a week.

The founders are co-owners Allegany Imaging and Garrett County Memorial Hospital. This was started by a vision of a local radiologist who cared about what should be offered in the community. We are proud of what he has brought to fruition.

technology classes offered at the new Career Training Technology Center (CTTC) in Accident.

"I would like for people to stop by and pick up the fall 2010 Continuing Education schedule and learn about classes at the new CTTC and our other sites in the county," said Julie Yoder, interim dean of continuing education and workforce development. They can also find out about the courses planned for the spring semester, which will also be Garrett County occupational."

Garrett County Scholarship Program information will also be available. This scholarship, initiated by Garrett County commissioners, provides educational funding at Garrett College for students pursuing degree programs or training opportunities that lead to an industry-recognized certification rather than a degree.

Fred Learey, executive director of the Garrett College Foundation, said he will be on hand that day to meet with GC graduates and give them the opportunity to join the Garrett College Alumni Association.

TAKE A SPIN AT THE FRONT PAGE STAGE – The Front Page Stage, property of the Sincell Publishing Company and located along Green Street, will be the site of musical performances during the festival, chiefly on Saturday morning. And if you feel like dancing to any of the music presented, go for it!

"We have had so many positive responses from former students who learned about the reunion held in August that we wanted to provide the time and place for alumni to get more information about what we are planning for the future," Learey said.

Wellham noted that a matter of increasing interest to area residents is the progress of the Community Athletic and Recreation Center (CARC). Visitors to the college booth will be able to see an architect's rendition of the CARC and have an opportunity to ask questions about the new facility.

Maryland Fall Foliage Hotline Is Reactivated

from the Md. Department of Natural Resources

The Maryland Office of Tourism and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources offer their Fall Foliage & Festival Hotline in late September each year at http://dnr.maryland.gov/fallfoliage.asp

We provide you with two months of detailed reports of where you can go around the state each week to witness the best of Maryland's glorious fall foliage at its peak. In addition, we also offer tips on some of the great seasonal events taking place so that you and your family can plan a tremendous fall outing.

Now that autumn is here, Marylanders have been getting a taste of the change of seasons that comes with the shorter days, first football weekends, and choruses of chirping crickets. But as is usually the case, the leaves lag behind.

Did you ever wonder why leaves change color in the fall? Why a maple leaf turns bright red and where the yellows and oranges come from?

Leaves are nature's food factories. Trees take water from the ground and carbon dioxide from the air and use sunlight to turn these components into glucose, a kind of sugar. This process, known as photosynthesis, creates the energy trees need to grow and put forth new leaves each spring. Chlorophyll helps make photosynthesis each spring. Chlorophyll helps make photosynthesis happen and gives plants their green color.

As the summer ends, the days begin to get shorter, alerting the trees to prepare for winter. They begin to shut down, and the green chlorophyll disappears from the leaves. As it fades, the yellow and orange colors we associate with the season begin to emerge.

The bright reds and purples seen in some species – maples for example – are the result of glucose getting trapped in the leaves, and the shorter days and the cooler nights turning it a vivid scarlet color.

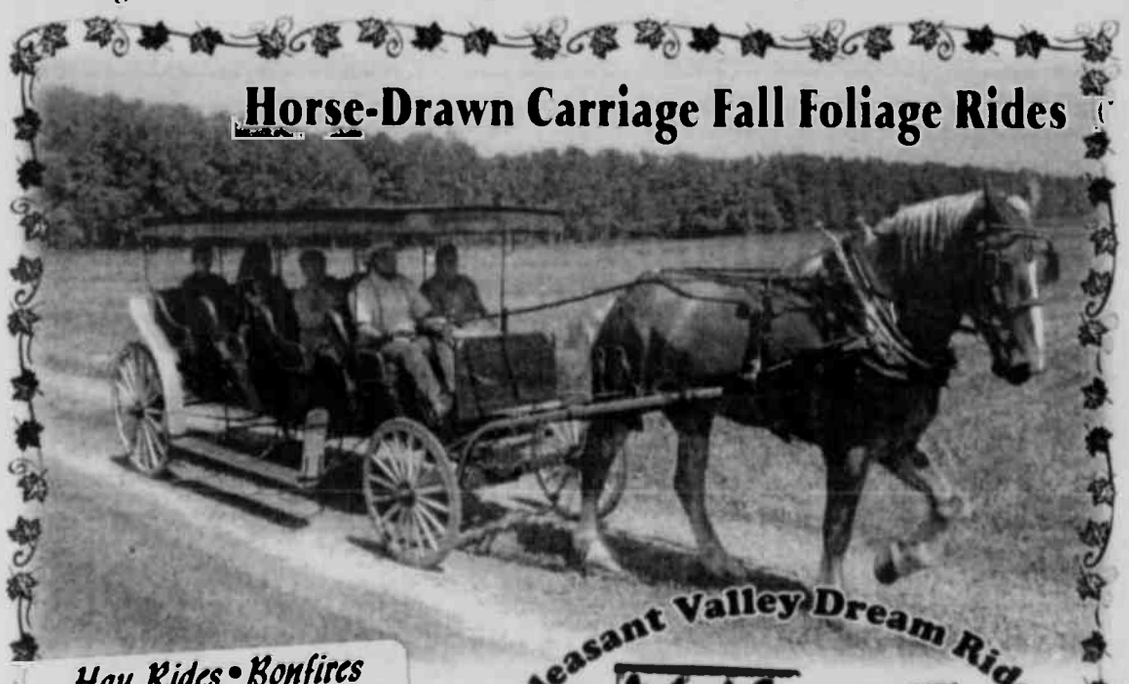

On the other hand, the drab, brown color seen in oaks is a consequence of waste products being left in

LINDSAY STANISZEWSKI
MISS MARYLAND

Miss Maryland Lindsay Staniszewski To Be Among Festival Special Guests

University of Maryland senior Lindsay Staniszewski was crowned Miss Maryland 2010, beating out 21 other women for the title during the weeklong competition held in June. Staniszewski, of Edgewater, will be the 75th woman to represent Maryland at the Miss America Pageant, which will be held in January 2011 in Las Vegas.

Miss Staniszewski will be a special guest at the Autumn Glory Festival. Her visit is being sponsored by Gregg's Pharmacy. She will be part of the Grand Feature Parade on Saturday, Oct. 9.

At Maryland, Staniszewski is pursuing a bachelor's degree in communications, with a specialization in public relations. Following her graduation in December 2010, she hopes to continue her education by obtaining a master's degree in public relations.

Staniszewski's platform is "Beyond Beauty: Building Self-Esteem and Positive Body Image in Girls." She said she believes every girl is "beautiful from the inside out." She hopes to use her title as Miss Maryland and her web site, beyondbeauty-forgirls.com, to help redefine the meaning of beauty.

She frequently speaks about self-esteem and leadership to students, organizations, and at events. She is also active with several nonprofit organizations, including the Queen for a Day Organization and the Children's Miracle Network.

DNR Says Black Bears Are Busier During Autumn

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources reminds Marylanders that cooling temperatures and falling leaves signal the time when black bears begin feeding heavily and increasing their daily movement to prepare for hibernation.

When actively searching for food, bears will take advantage of human-generated food sources such as trash, pet food, and birdfeeders. When bears exploit human-generated food sources they often lose their natural fear of people, leading to conflicts and potentially dangerous encounters between people and bears.

"Simply storing trash and pet food in a manner that will not attract bears is often enough to avoid creating problems for people and bears," said Harry Spiker, game mammal project leader of the DNR Wildlife and Heritage Service. "Hold off on feeding songbirds until December after most bears have entered their den for the season."

"Marylanders typically talk of Garrett and Allegany counties when discussing bears," said Paul Peditto, director of the Wildlife and Heritage Service. "However, Washington and Frederick counties are home to a healthy population of bruins, and dispersing bears have been seen across the state in recent months as they search for suitable home territories. Regardless of the location, we know that the best way to deal with dispersing bears is to allow them to find their own way."

DNR's Wildlife and Heritage Service annually surveys throughout western Maryland to gauge the presence of natural foods available for bears and other wildlife. The 2008 annual survey revealed adequate amounts of hickories, cherries, and apples throughout the region. However, acorns, the black bear's primary natural fall food source, appear to be nearly nonexistent throughout Garrett, Allegany, Washington, and Frederick counties. As a result, bears will have to work harder to acquire the fat reserves they need to sustain themselves during winter hibernation. Research has shown that during periods of natural food shortage, bears are more likely to be drawn to human-generated food sources.

"It is the responsibility of all citizens living in Maryland's bear country to take precautions and prevent bears from accessing and becoming habituated to any human-generated food sources," added Spiker.

Black bear research has shown that Maryland's bears begin occupying dens in mid-November and that most are denned by mid-December.

To report nuisance bear activity, persons may call the Wildlife and Heritage Service at 301-334-4255 or toll-free statewide at 1-877-620-8DNR, ext. 8540.

If there is imminent likelihood that the people or a wayward bear are in harm's way, DNR will respond with appropriate and time-tested mitigation tools and techniques. To learn more about Maryland's black bears, persons may visit www.dnr.maryland.gov/wildlife/bblivingwith.asp.

PAM TRICKETT HONORED AT KICKOFF – The Honorary Golden Ambassador for the 2010 Autumn Glory Festival is Pam Trickett, who was so designated last night at the festival kickoff reception, held at the Wisp Resort in McHenry. Trickett is currently in her third term as a member of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce board of directors and has been on the Autumn Glory Committee for nine years, for which she currently serves as chairman. She has also chaired the festival's banjo and fiddle contests and is the founder of the county's newest festival, the Festival of Trees, held over Thanksgiving. A native of Garrett County, she has been employed by WKHJ Radio for the past 11 years. Pictured above with Trickett are past Honorary Golden Ambassadors who assisted with the presentation. Commissioners Pay Off County's $1.7 Million Debt

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners voted last Tuesday to pay off in its entirety the county's nearly $2 million outstanding general obligation bond debt, officially known as the County Commissioners of Garrett County Public Facilities Bonds of 1996. There was no penalty for paying the loan off early, according to county officials.

The bonds had a 20-year life and were scheduled to mature on May 1, 2016. As of last Tuesday, the principal remaining was $1.715 million, and interest calculated on the remaining principal totaled $358,265, according to the Garrett County Department of Financial Services.

Commissioner Fred Holliday made the motion to pay off the bonds, and Commissioner Ernie Gregg seconded it. Commissioner Denny Glotfelty was unable to attend the meeting.

"The reason I wanted to do that is to leave the county totally debt free," Holliday said about his motion. "We have some new funds coming in next year, and I just wanted to have them (the bonds) paid off."

Except for Enterprise Funds used by the Garrett County Department of Public Utilities, Solid Waste and Recycling, and the airport, the county is now debt free, he and Gregg noted.

The bonds were issued in 1996 for a total of $4 million, and the proceeds were used for construction and improvement of public schools and roads/bridge projects. Specifically, those were construction of Yough Glades Elementary School; the Northern High School classroom addition, auxiliary gymnasium, and stage; Southern High School connecting corridor, gymnasium, foyer, and stage area; Savage River Road and Glendale Road bridges; and Wilson, Rock Lodge, Community College, Shady Dell, and Spring Lick roads.

By redeeming the bonds and paying off this debt, the county will realize a savings of approximately $350,000 in debt service interest, noted county administrator Monty Pagenhardt.

NAYLOR TRUST MAKES MAJOR DONATION TO GC – The Garrett College Foundation recently received a major gift from the Howard and Audrey Naylor Trust through the Community Trust Foundation to establish the Audrey Naylor Scholarship Endowment. The endowment will provide scholarships primarily for adult students. Wind Turbine Rep Issues Correction About Statement

Local Constellation Energy representative David Wagner has issued a correction about a statement he made during an update report he presented to the Garrett County commissioners last Tuesday about his company's Criterion wind turbine project along Backbone Mountain.

As was reported in the last issue of The Republican, Wagner told the commissioners, "As of last week, we had 200 people on-site, and the statistics indicate about 75 to 85 percent of those folks are locals."

After receiving a call from a local resident challenging this statement, Wagner said he reviewed the contractor reports and discovered that his statement was incorrect.

Naylor Trust Provides $200,000 For Adult Learner's Scholarship To GC

The Garrett College Foundation recently received a gift of $200,000 from the Howard and Audrey Naylor Trust through the Community Trust Foundation to establish the Audrey Naylor Scholarship Endowment.

According to Jeanne Neff, chair of the Garrett College Foundation board, annual income from the endowment will provide scholarships for residents of Garrett County who are one year or more past the date of their high school graduation or GED completion. The scholarships will assist adult learners to complete either an associate degree or a non-credit, industry-recognized workforce training certificate.

Recipients of the Audrey Naylor scholarships must demonstrate financial need and must be prepared to support 10% of the cost of their education or training.

"This wonderful gift complements the Garrett County scholarships for new high school graduates or GED completers," said Ann Wellham, dean of enrollment management at the college. "The county commissioners recently announced phase two of the county scholarship program, extending it to students interested in occupational training as well as those pursuing academic study. The Audrey Naylor scholarships make the same opportunities available to people who have been out of school for some time."

The new scholarship program was created in memory of Audrey Naylor, who herself attended college as an adult, completing her bachelor's degree at the College of Idaho and master's degree from Boise State University while raising a family of five children with her husband Howard.

According to Neff, the Garrett College Foundation will seek to build the endowment over time by encouraging other gifts in support of adult learners, especially women, who would otherwise not be able to pursue higher education.

Audrey Naylor scholarships will be available for the spring semester that begins in January 2011. Interested individuals may contact the Garrett College Office of Financial Aid, 301-387-3012, for more information.

Garrett, Allegany Colleges Awarded ARC Grant Funds

The Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) has awarded Garrett College and Allegany College of Maryland competitive federal grant funds to upgrade on-campus facilities, providing better opportunities to students and making them more prepared to enter the workforce, according to U.S. Senators Barbara Mikulski and Benjamin Cardin.

Garrett College was awarded $75,000 to make equipment purchases and train faculty in its Networking Program, enhancing the curriculum to offer multiple, industry-recognized certifications and training in the advanced technical skills necessary to manage computer networks using Cisco, a leading computer networking software.

Oakland Man Sentenced To Five Years For Distribution Of Child Pornography

U.S. District Judge Richard D. Bennett sentenced Matthew Allen Skillman, age 29, Oakland, this week to five years in prison, followed by five years of supervised release, for distribution of child pornography.

The sentence was announced by U.S. Attorney for the District of Maryland Rod J. Rosenstein, special agent in charge Richard A. McFeely of the FBI, Harford County sheriff L. Jesse Bane, Sgt. Dave Betz of the Harford County Sheriff's Office, director of the Harford County Child Advocacy Center, Col. Terrence Sheridan, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, Garrett County sheriff Gary Berkebile, and Garrett County state's attorney Lisa Thayer Welch.

According to Skillman's plea agreement on Aug. 19, 2008, an undercover FBI agent, connected to a network on the Internet, using a file sharing program. The agent conducted a search using terms generally associated with child pornography, which indicated that Matthew Skillman was sharing files associated with those terms.

The agent downloaded 18 of those files, a number of which contained child pornography. A federal search warrant was executed at Skillman's home on Nov. 18, 2008, and his computer was seized. An image scan on that computer, conducted on Jan. 26, 2009, located 34 movies and 45 images containing child pornography, including images of pre-pubescent minors.

This case was brought as

Man Arrested For Several Burglary, Theft Incidents

An Oakland man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies Monday after it was reported that he broke into an occupied residence in the Mansfield Road area, south of Oakland.

Joshua Eugene Tasker, 20, was found to have forced entry into the residence after defeating the locked door. He then reportedly fled into a nearby wooded area after being observed by the homeowner. A description of Tasker was broadcast, and he was located and detained on Underwood Road by deputies, who searched the area.

He is charged with first-degree burglary, theft under $500, and destruction of

Swanton Man Killed In Single-Vehicle Accident

A Swanton man lost his life in a single-vehicle accident last night on Sand Flat Road. Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to the 11 p.m. scene.

James Harold Weeks Jr., 49, was a passenger in a 1997 Chevrolet SUV, driven by Allen Scott Sweitzer, 27. Investigation revealed that Sweitzer had been traveling south, when the vehicle crossed the northbound lane, struck a tree, and overturned. Weeks succumbed to his injuries at the scene. Sweitzer was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue Squad.

Neither occupant was restrained by a seatbelt, and alcohol is believed to be a factor in the accident. The GROUND BROKEN FOR NEW DOVE CENTER – Dove Center staff and board members, supporters, and local officials broke ground last Friday for the construction of a new facility off Memorial Drive in Oakland. The center's executive director, Heather Hanline, called the event a huge accomplishment. "I can't think of a better way to kick off National Domestic Violence Awareness Month than to be breaking ground on our new facility, which is the product of years of time and effort, creativity, generosity, and community support," Hanline said. The center was spearheaded 20 years ago by a small grassroots effort to address the needs of domestic violence and sexual assault victims. Hanline noted the facility had a "humble beginning," with just two staff members in a small office in downtown Oakland. Since then, the center has grown in an effort to meet an increasing need for its services. About two years ago, a capital campaign was launched to construct a new facility, which will include storage space, offices, and safe, secure shelter for victims. The campaign has raised nearly $300,000 in donations and garnered a $800,000 Community Development Block Grant from the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development. Hanline said she hopes be able to move into the new center by this time next year. LITTLE REMAINED of this 12 x 60 foot mobile home after fire broke out in the structure, located along Bethlehem Road, last Friday evening. Owned by Marvin White Sr., the trailer was fully engulfed in flames when the first fire units arrived on the scene. Responding to the 8:44 p.m. alarm were units from the Deer Park, Gorman, Kitzmiller, and Oakland fire departments, as well as the county air cascade vehicle, housed at the Deep Creek VFC. According to Deer Park chief Ken Collins, who submitted this photo, the fire was ruled accidental in nature and was caused by a faulty flue pipe on a woodburning stove. Units remained on the scene for over three hours. Also responding was the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

Top 10 Adventurer Of The Century Slated To Speak At Garrett College

Doug Ammons, who was recently chosen by Outside magazine as one of the top 10 adventurers of the past century, along with other historic figures including climbers Yvon Chouinard, Lynn Hill, and Reinhold Messner, Antarctic explorer Roald Amundsen, and Thor Heyerdahl, known for his Kon-Tiki expedition, will present a program on his adventures and life's philosophy next Thursday, Oct. 14, 7 p.m., in the Garrett College auditorium.

A reception and book signing will be held for the speaker from 6:15 to 7 p.m. in the college's art gallery, adjacent to the auditorium. Profits from his book sales go toward supporting two schools in Nepal.

As the second of seven fall semester colloquium presentations offered as part of the college's adventure sports management academic degree program, the reception and presentation are free and open to the public.

Ammons, a Montana native and world-class kayaker for the last 25-plus years, has accomplished dozens of expedition first descents of rivers around the world, as well as steep creeks and rivers in the Rocky Mountains in the U.S., Canada, and Alaska. He is particularly known for his monumental solo descents of high-water and extended wilderness Class V+ and VI runs.

Ammons writes regularly for adventure publications, and published the book The Laugh of the Water Nymph in 2005, voted one of the best outdoors books of the year by the National Outdoor Book Awards. He published a second book, Whitewater Philosophy, in February 2009, and has several more books in draft form, including The Stikine, a dramatic history of the attempts on the Grand Canyon of the Stikine River, together with the story of his 1992 solo run, which has been equated to Himalayan climber Reinhold Messner's epic solo of Mt. Everest.

TO SPEAK AT GC – World-class kayaker Doug Ammons, who was recently chosen by Outside magazine as one of the top 10 adventurers of the past century, will present a program on his adventures and life's philosophy next Thursday, Oct. 14, at 7 p.m. in the Garrett College auditorium. A native of Montana, Ammons has accomplished dozens of expedition first descents of rivers around the world. He is pictured above plummeting over a waterfalls on Mexico's Aqua Azul River. See story.

In addition to his writings, Ammons was the creator of seven television documentaries of expeditions for National Geographic, ESPN, and the Outdoor Life Network, four of which won Emmy awards for their photography. He wrote the scripts for four of them, played guitar on the soundtracks of three, and won an Emmy for action cinematography in 1998 for footage of climbing and kayaking that he shot on an expedition in Bolivia.

According to Mike Logsdon, director of the adventure sports management program at Garrett College, Ammons' slide show is filled with outstanding outdoor adventure photography – showcasing everything picturesque scenery, as well as intense action.

"However, what he is best known for is a uniquely poetic and insightful view of adventure sports, and where they fit into our lives," said Logsdon.

Ammons holds a doctorate degree in psychology, is married, and has five children. He has black belts in several martial arts, and is a passionate classical and flamenco guitarist. He is employed professionally as the editor of two international science journals.

For more information about the reception and presentation, persons may telephone the college's Adventuresports Institute at 301-387-3330 or send an e-mail to adventuresports@garrettcollege.edu.

Correction Noted For Deadline For "G-race" Event

An article in last week's edition of The Republican newspaper about the "Amazing G-race" contained an incorrect date for the registration deadline. Registration for the event is required by Monday, Oct. 11.

The event is sponsored by the Anchor Ministry Training and Outreach Center in Friendsville, and is set for Saturday, Oct. 16.

The error is regretted.

Election-Related Deadlines Are Fast Approaching

Two important deadlines for the upcoming 2010 Gubernatorial General Election are approaching. The deadline to register to vote or change party affiliation, and the deadline for certain voters to request a polling place change for this election is 9 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 12.

To vote in the upcoming general election, Maryland residents who are eligible to vote but are not yet registered must complete a voter registration application and either hand-deliver or mail the application to the Garrett County Board of Elections. A hand-delivered application must be received by the above-mentioned deadline, and a mailed application must be postmarked by Oct. 12. This is also the deadline for registered voters who have moved since the last election to provide updated address information to the GC Board of Elections and for registered voters who wish to change their party affiliation.

Voter registration applications are available at the following locations:

- Local boards of elections
- Motor Vehicle Administration offices
- State Department of Health offices
- Local Department of Social Services offices
- Offices on Aging
- Division of Rehabilitation Services
- Public institutions of higher education
- Marriage license bureaus

Most of Maryland's polling places are accessible to voters with disabilities. An elderly voter or a voter with a disability who is assigned to an inaccessible polling place may request reassignment to an accessible polling place. This request must be submitted in writing by the same date and time. The form to request reassignment is available at www.elections.state.md.us by typing "polling place reassignment" in the Search field.

On receipt of a timely request, the Garrett County Board of Elections will determine whether there is an accessible polling place with the same ballot as the voter's home precinct and notify the voter of the status of his/her request.

On the State Board of Elections' web site, a voter can verify his/her voter registration status and find out if the polling place to which he/she has been assigned is accessible. To find this information, a voter can visit www.elections.state.md.us and click on the "Find Out Here" link.

The 2010 Gubernatorial General Election will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 2. Beginning the second Friday before the election and continuing until the Thursday before the election, voters can vote in person at the designated early voting centers in their county of residence. Early voting locations and hours and additional election-related dates and information are all available at the web site.

For more information, voters may contact the Garrett County Board of Elections at 301-334-6985 or the State Board of Elections at 1-800-222-VOTE (8683) or visit the web site.

Two Arrested On DUI Charges After Switching Drivers

Two men were arrested early Tuesday morning by Garrett County sheriff's deputies. Both were traveling in the same vehicle, and both were arrested for driving under the influence.

William Hagan Thoman, Cumberland, and Jason Ray Speicher, McHenry, were traveling in a vehicle on Kings Run Road, when the vehicle stopped at the Broadford Road intersection, and the two switched drivers. The deputy approached the vehicle and spoke to both Speicher and Thoman, and reportedly found them both to be intoxicated. Investigation also revealed that both men's licenses were revoked.

Both men were taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

Maryland State Police are investigating a burglary that occurred at a Grantsville residence sometime between 6:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. on Sept. 24.

Unknown suspect(s) forced entry into a Jennings Road home and reportedly stole several guns. Anyone with information regarding the incident is asked to contact Tfc. Arnold at the MSP McHenry Barrack at 301-387-1101. Callers may remain anonymous.

Three Arrested By GC Deputies On Court Warrants

Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested three men on the strength of court warrants this week. The following incidents are unrelated.

Michael John Hardesty Jr., 19, Oakland, was charged with 18 counts of forging private documents, 17 counts of theft less than $100, 16 counts of uttering a false document, 17 counts of bad check less than $100, three counts of theft scheme less than $1,000, and three counts of bad check/30 day plot/NSF.

The warrant was obtained after an investigation was conducted by the GCSO in reference to a check forgery case occurring at three businesses in the Oakland and Mtn. Lake Park areas. Hardesty was taken into custody and held on $9,000 bond.

Rocky Lash Larue Lloyd Jr., 33, Oakland was arrested on two District Court warrants charging him with violation of conditions and one Circuit Court warrant charging him with violation of probation. He was taken into custody to await a bond hearing.

Deputies stopped a 2005 Mitsubishi in the parking area of Short Stop, Mtn. Lake Park, Sunday night. Investigation revealed the driver, Chester Burgess, 32, Oakland, to be driving on a suspended license. The passenger in the vehicle, Jordan Buckman, was found to have a 2009 District Court bench warrant out for failure to appear. Burgess was released on personal recognizance, and Buckman was taken into custody on $1,500 bond.

EHRLICH TO VISIT GARRETT COUNTY – Former Maryland governor Bob Ehrlich will meet with re-election supporters and friends at Santa Fe Grille in McHenry this Saturday, Oct. 9, at 11 a.m. "He will meet with working families to discuss the challenges they face in this tough economy, and will outline his 'Roadmap to 2020,' his 10-year vision for Maryland, unveiled several weeks ago by the campaign," said a spokesperson. The cost for the general public to attend this event is $75. Ehrlich will also attend the Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade in Oakland at 1 p.m.

Another Rabies Case Confirmed By Health Dept.

Environmental Health Services Division of the Garrett County Health Department has announced the fourth laboratory confirmed case of rabies for the county for 2010. This most recent case occurred in the Finzel area of the county on Friday, Sept. 24, and involved a skunk with two dogs.

The property owner observed the two dogs with the skunk, shot the skunk, and tied up the dogs, according to a division spokesperson. The skunk was sent to the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene Rabies Laboratory on Monday, Sept. 27, and was confirmed to have the rabies virus the next day.

One of the dogs involved in the incident was currently vaccinated against rabies, was given a booster shot and will be closely observed for 45 days. The second dog was unvaccinated. He was vaccinated against the rabies virus and will undergo a strict, double-cage quarantine for six months.

"This case reinforces that pet owners need to verify the vaccination status of their dogs, cats, and ferrets," said the spokesperson.

All dogs, cats, and ferrets over the age of 4 months of age are required, by law, to be vaccinated against rabies. Environmental Health Services recently completed the fall round of low cost rabies clinics, and will not have additional rabies clinics until the spring of 2011.

"The public is encouraged to contact a local veterinarian to arrange vaccination for their pets," added the spokesperson. "As always, pet owners are reminded not to handle their pets for two hours after an incident with a wild animal. Should handling be necessary, gloves should be used."

Questions regarding rabies should be directed to the Environmental Health Services Department of the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7760.

Community Action Awarded Housing Preservation Grant

The Garrett County Community Action Committee (GCCAC) has been awarded a $40,189 U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Rural Development grant to assist very low- and low-income homeowners, Senators Ben Cardin and Barbara Mikulski announced yesterday.

This Housing Preservation Grant will be used to finance low interest or deferred loans to help local homeowners repair their homes and remove substandard conditions.

"We need to ensure that all Americans have access to the financing they need to remove dangerous and unsafe conditions and to make the necessary home repairs that will ensure the health and safety of families," said Cardin. "These funds will provide those in need with affordable loans to help ensure their homes are structurally safe and sound."

The Housing Preservation Grant Program provides grants for repair or rehabilitation of low- and very low-income housing. Very low income is defined as below 50 percent of area median income (AMI), and low income is defined as between 50 percent and 80 percent of AMI.

Community Action assists the residents of Garrett County in establishing and/or maintaining a safe, healthy and affordable home. In 2009 and 2008, GCCAC received USDA Rural Development grants of $37,000 to assist with housing improvements.

"I am pleased that these families will be able to get the helping hand they need to make repairs to their own homes so they can continue to share in the American dream," Mikulski said. "My economic purpose is to give those who are not middle class the chance to get there, and Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. certainly gives families that opportunity."

Morgantown Man Sentenced To Five Days In GC Jail

A 31-year-old Morgantown, W.Va., man pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court last week to possession of marijuana. Judge Daniel Moylan (retired) then sentenced Gabriel Christian Bilonick to five days in the Garrett County Jail.

Bilonick was arrested and charged in March 2004 after he was stopped by a Maryland State Police trooper along I-68 for a seatbelt violation. A search of his vehicle resulted in the trooper finding marijuana in the ashtray, according to the state's attorney.

Bilonick had failed to appear previously in the case, and an arrest warrant had been outstanding since 2006. He was recently located in Washington County, arrested on that warrant, and returned to Garrett County for trial.

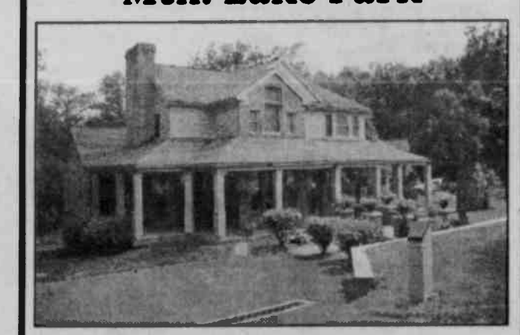

In an unrelated case, Joseph Ryan Cressman, 20, Germantown, admitted in Circuit Court last week that he violated his probation. Judge Jim Sherbin then reimposed six months of the sentence that had previously been suspended.

While on probation, Cressman was arrested for and convicted of possession with intent to distribute marijuana by Maryland State Police, Rockville Barrack.

Cressman was originally convicted in Garrett County of possession with intent to distribute marijuana after he was stopped in July 2009 along I-68 for a traffic violation, and a quantity of marijuana and scales were located in his vehicle, according to the state's attorney.

A Tough Case...

The U.S. Supreme Court is wrestling with a tough case this week involving a Maryland man, Albert Snyder, who was originally awarded $11 million via a lawsuit, but then had the ruling wiped out by a federal appeals court. The suit was filed against an extremist church group that protested outside the 2006 funeral of his son, Marine Cpl. Matthew Snyder, who was killed in Iraq. The protestors, members of the Westboro Baptist Church, were wielding signs with such words on them as "God Hates You" and "Semper Fi Fags," and were also shouting similar comments. Led by Pastor Fred Phelps, the protesters blame America's tolerance of homosexuality for the deaths of soldiers and events like the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, 2001. So the case involves what constitutes free speech, as well as whether or not the funeral of a fallen soldier is a public or private event.

The last thing that the justices want to do is to somehow infringe on freedom of speech, one of the most important guarantees provided by the U.S. Constitution. Yet they also do not want to condone what the huge majority of Americans believe to be absolutely horrendous, tactless, hurtful acts by such protestors. They must decide if those actions did indeed cause harm to Albert Snyder and other family members, as the lower court originally decided.

What is interesting to those of us in the journalism field is that we writers must be so careful not to include in our printed words anything that may be construed as libelous. If we print something in our newspaper that a court of law interprets as libelous material – that which is untruthful and/or brings personal harm to a person or a group of persons – we lose, and can lose big. The same can occur when such words are spoken in a public arena, in which case the charge is called slander rather than libel. Freedom of speech, then, already has certain limitations. (It is also, without question, illegal for a person to scream "Fire!" in a crowded building when there is no fire.)

So to us it seems clear that the actions of these protestors, with their words both printed (on their signs) and spoken, are clearly libelous and slanderous; that they did indeed bring at least substantial emotional harm to the already grieving members of the Snyder family.

It will be interesting to see what our highest-court judges will decide, but apparently we will have to wait until next July for their answer.

To the Editor:

Did you know that there are many people starving in my community? There are many starving children who may not grow properly without proper food. You should donate to Kids Helping Kids. It would provide food for people who are sick or handicapped and can't get out to buy food.

You would feel proud by giving to other people who need it. Many people are out of work and do not have money to buy food. You can bring canned or boxed food to Broad Ford Elementary during the Autumn Glory Craft Festival. Many people do not have enough food, so maybe you can help them!

There are many starving children in Garrett County. To start with, many adults have lost their jobs so they aren't getting money to pay for food. Many children may not grow properly without good nutrition.

You can bring food to Broad Ford Elementary during the Autumn Glory Craft Festival. You can help a child by donating food.

To the Editor:

Last weekend, we hosted a softball tournament in memory of Josh Custer (12/21/83-09/07/10). There are several people and businesses that need to be thanked for their support, assistance, and generosity.

A very sincere and heartfelt thanks goes to Kevin Green, First United Bank & Trust, Sheetz, Browning's Foodland, Bob Tressler and Tressler's Garage, Kristma Hardesty and Hair n' Phernalia, Clayton Arnold and Arnold Brothers Equipment Corporation, and Frank Roberts and Hopemont Auto.

We would also like to thank everyone who donated their time and/or items to the concession stand, each of the players, and the many friends and families who came out to make the day a huge success. So many individuals donated their time, money, materials, and labor. There is not enough room to thank each of you, but please know that this tournament could not have happened without you.

The outpouring of generosity we experienced was a true testament to what a great person Josh was, and we cannot thank you enough. We continue to miss Josh each and every day.

Sincerely,
Doug Copeland and

To the Editor:

In our world today, news is often sad, and horrific tragedies take place too often. However, this is a letter proclaiming something wonderful that took place.

A benefit dinner was held Sept. 25 for the Tim Humberson family at the Casselman Valley Sportsman's Club in Grantsville. The proceeds from the event far exceeded our greatest expectations.

Many businesses and individuals contributed a large number of items, services, and gift certificates for the fundraising raffle. The Sportsman's Club donated the facility. Cash donations were also received for the family. Cakes were auctioned every half hour, which greatly contributed to the proceeds. Groups of people came for the steak dinner. The supply of food was gone before 7 p.m.

Thank you to all the businesses and individuals that contributed raffle items or cash donations. Thanks to everyone who donated food items and beverages for the dinner and cakes for the dessert or for the auction. We send a huge thank-you to all who purchased a dinner, and to the Casselman Valley Sportsman's Club. To the workers who volunteered, your time and talents were greatly appreciated.

Two churches planned and worked together as one to make this event take place. However, the outpouring of kindness and love shown from those in the surrounding communities demonstrate what God's kingdom here on earth looks like. When we all work together for the common good of others, beautiful things happen. We also get a glimpse of Paradise.

We greatly appreciate your support of this event. Thanks once again.

To the Editor:

Fred Holliday recently paid off a $1.7 million debt, and Mr. Holliday stated this was not politically motivated, but that there was a reserve this year and that he wanted to leave the county debt free.

I went to the court house and requested the "Unreserved – Undesignated Fund Balance" for the last six years: 2005 = $1.86 million, 2006 = $5.38 million, 2007 = $0.36 million, 2008 = $3.58 million, 2009 = $2.80 million, and 2010 = (projected) $3.69 million.

That was only six years of review, but it shows that this could have been done anytime over the last six years. This was a good move to remove the debt, but to say it was not politically motivated is disingenuous to county employees who gave up their raises last year. Remember to get involved and be informed.

Eric Robison

To the Editor:

I want to express to everyone my feelings as to why I'm not going to pursue a write-in campaign for District 3 county commissioner.

It seems that since the primary election everywhere I go I'm asked to do just that. As much as I appreciate your support and confidence, I just feel it isn't in the best interest of the county or the election process to have a third candidate in the general election (Nov. 2). All voters still have a choice in this district, and better yet, the winners of their respective parties. I feel I need to be very respectful of this process and note the positives that were made during my campaign.

We definitely "raised the bar." We also showed that when you take time to get involved, start listening, work hard, stick to your values, and surround yourself with great people who have diverse abilities and opinions how much you can accomplish. And only in nine weeks.

As to where I will be in four years, read James, Chapter 4, verse 14. But we'll see. I remember just four or five months ago my interest in running for this office wasn't even a consideration.

Again, I can't thank all of you enough for your support and trust in both me and in the election process. If I can help anyone in our county/region, please contact me at any time.

As for the general election on Nov. 2, take time to seek out those candidates who support your beliefs and values, not only at the county level, but all levels. And after you've supported them with your vote, continue to support them and hold them accountable after they are elected.

In closing, I just can't say enough good things about our county, its people, and the experience I've had this summer. I'm sure all the candidates would say the same. I'm very proud of all of them and of the summer we shared with you. So enjoy your fall, and I'm truly glad you enjoyed the "What About Bob?" signs.

Bob Gatto

To the Editor:

I was shocked to hear that none of those new light bulbs we will all be buying are made in the USA. I was surprised to hear that there was a hearing last week to inform Congress that the lack of manufacturing in this country is dangerous to national security – not that many of us have not been thinking that ourselves. I was stunned to hear that the recession has been over for some time. What? Oh yes, they are measuring how much profit the country has made.

Well, that makes sense. The wealthy in this country are making lots of money – either off the interest of their wealth or as a money shuffler on Wall Street. That leaves a huge majority of "we the people" short-changed, as usual.

But, the sad truth is that there is a great disparity in who has a profit to celebrate and who has not seen a raise in a decade. And, the scary truth is that the corporate wealth in this country grows and goes into deep pockets, while national security is at risk. We don't manufacture what we need for daily use in this country, let alone big-ticket items to protect us in times of threatened danger.

Our capitalist policies continue to favor shipping jobs overseas and letting the middle class do without – subsidizing the companies that threaten what may never again be "our way of life." We need policies that will keep jobs in America and bring jobs back.

So why are the Republicans filibustering the Creating American Jobs and Ending Offshoring Act (S. 3816)? We need some real patriotism here to make sure there will be jobs waiting for our brave soldiers when they do come home. And, we need policies that will ensure not sending our young people off to die "for what?"

It's sad, but let's be honest. We are not the country we used to be so proud of. We are not such good guys, for others to emulate – when our track record shows us falling behind other nations in caring for our own people – jobs, health care, education, research and development, honest discourse.

Let's not talk about going back to our traditions – unless we know what that means for everyone. Let's not vote back in those whose policies foolishly waltzed us into this depressive mess.

Sincerely,
Cynthia S. Knight
Grantsville

"After reviewing the reports for the months of June, July, and August, the most recent months for which data were available, an average of 64 percent of the Criterion workforce were classified as local employees," Wagner said in an e-mail yesterday. "Local employees include tradespeople hired through the union local, and local non-union and management employees."

He added that throughout the construction phase of the Criterion project, Constellation Energy has made a concerted effort to be up-front, timely, and transparent in its communications with the community and the local government.

"However, my initial calculation of the percentage of the workforce that were local hires was simply incorrect," Wagner said. "I regret this error and apologize for any confusion this may have caused."

part of Project Safe Childhood, a nationwide initiative to combat the growing epidemic of child sexual exploitation and abuse launched in May 2006 by the Department of Justice. Led by U.S. attorneys' offices and the Criminal Division's Child Exploitation and Obscenity Section (CEOS), Project Safe Childhood marshals federal, state, and local resources to better locate, apprehend, and prosecute individuals who exploit children via the Internet, as well as to identify and rescue victims.

Those seeking more information about Project Safe Childhood should visit www.projectsafechildhood.gov. Details about Maryland's program are available at http://www.justice.gov/usao/md/Safe-Childhood/index.html.

U.S. Attorney Rod J. Rosenstein extended thanks to the FBI, the Harford and Garrett county sheriff's offices, the Harford County Child Advocacy Center, the Maryland State Police, and the Garrett County State's Attorney's Office for the work in this investigation and prosecution. He also commended assistant U.S. Attorney Bonnie S. Greenberg, who prosecuted the case.

Editor's note: As a point of clarification, the defendant identified in this case is not the son of Shirley Skillman, Oakland, and the late David Skillman.

Americans are ready for the jobs of the 21st century, we must have state-of-the-art education resources today," Mikulski said. "Community colleges are providing the 21st century education we need to have a 21st century workforce. Technology is the tool and empowerment is the objective, and this money is a federal investment to do just that."

Allegany College was awarded $54,000 for the Workforce Development Through Smart Classroom Technology Program, designed to improve and upgrade worker training programs at the college by turning ordinary classrooms into "smart" classrooms that include computers, projector screens, and interactive audience tools. Allegany College expects to use the new facility to train more than 200 workers in healthcare and general office/business skills within the next year.

A second grant in the amount of $30,000 was awarded to Allegany College to upgrade six computer labs used for science and continuing education, providing an additional 700 students with the most current technology.

"Education is the key to economic success and our local colleges are on the frontlines providing the training and skills that are needed to succeed," said Cardin. "Residents of western Maryland need access to the high-level technology that is needed for the workforce, and these grants will ensure that our local colleges can provide the training that is needed for jobs of the future."

Pay Off

next five fiscal years, the county will have an average of $346,344 in annual principal and interest payments ($1,731,720 in total) that will no longer need to be budgeted for this specific debt and can be directed toward other operating expenditures," he said.

Also taken into consideration in the decision to pay off this bond were the high coupon rates accompanying this bond ranging from 5.4 percent to 5.75 percent to maturity in 2016, he added.

"If borrowing should become a necessity in the future, the county is confident that a loan with lower interest rates could be obtained," Pagenhardt said.

Every year during the auditing of the county's financial transactions, the unrestricted fund balance, or rainy day fund, of the county is evaluated.

"It is essential that governments maintain adequate levels of fund balance to mitigate current and future risks such as revenue shortfalls and unanticipated expenditures," Pagenhardt said.

He noted that it is normal practice for all counties to establish an Unrestricted Fund Balance Policy, whereby the appropriate level of unrestricted fund balance that should be maintained is stated. The Unrestricted Fund Balance is monitored by outside agencies to evaluate a government's continued creditworthiness.

As stated in Garrett County's Fund Balance Policy, Garrett County's Unrestricted Fund Balance is maintained at a level of 5 percent of regular general fund operating revenues. That amount is calculated at $3,262,196 for Fiscal Year 2011.

"When evaluating the decision to pay off this bond, several factors were examined," Pagenhardt said. "First, and most important, was the fact that these bonds could not be paid off until May 1, 2008, without the county paying a premium to redeem the outstanding bonds.

"Secondly, the financial resources were available to redeem the bonds. When factoring in the payoff, the Unrestricted Fund Balance would still be in excess of the 5 percent required level as stated in Garrett County's Fund Balance Policy by $400,000 – Fiscal Year 2010 Unrestricted Fund Balance of $3,690,430 versus required 5 percent of $3,262,196.

"Lastly, if borrowing should become a necessity, based on current market conditions, lower interest rates could be secured."

Also last Tuesday, the commissioners approved the idea of having the Garrett County Roads Department pave the Southern High School Athletic Complex parking lot before bad weather sets in. The project is in the Board of Education's capital improvement budget for next year, but Gregg indicated there was great need to complete the project as soon as possible.

He said most people who use the complex know the parking lot is in deplorable condition. The commissioner also noted that the facility, from the first of August through mid November, is in full utilization seven days a week.

The materials cost of the project will be $126,000, according to county officials. Roads Department superintendent Jay Moyer said a bid by a local contractor for the project came in at $232,000. By having Roads Department crews supply the labor, therefore, the BOE will save about $106,000.

The Garrett County commissioners' next public meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 26, at 9 a.m. at the courthouse.

Md. Transportation Secretary Reports "Good News" About State's Economy

Maryland Department of Transportation Secretary Beverley Swaim-Staley said she had "a little bit of good news to share" during her department's annual meeting with Garrett County officials and residents last Friday morning at the courthouse in Oakland.

Each fall, transportation and highway officials visit every county in the state to present their six-year Consolidated Transportation Program draft and to review local issues.

Swaim-Staley said Maryland had a "good summer." She pointed to such recent "transportation indicators" as increases in passenger counts at BWI Airport, goods moving through the Port of Baltimore, commercial traffic going through Maryland toll facilities, and vehicle titling tax revenue as signs the state's economy is improving.

"We anticipated there would be a turnaround, and we are seeing that," the secretary said. "So, hopefully, we can grow, based upon that good news."

She noted that two years ago her capital budget was cut by 30 percent, or $2.5 billion. But $650 million in stimulus funding enabled the DOT to keep up with its safety and systems preservation programs.

Swaim-Staley said $8 million of that federal money was used for highway improvements on state roads in Garrett County. The county itself received $1.2 million for its resurfacing projects. Garrett Transit was awarded $.5 million for transportation.

Neil Pedersen, state highway administrator, reported that the Rt. 219/Oakland bypass project was still on hold until the economy improves. He noted that all the planning for the 2.4-mile project was completed, while the engineering portion was 85 percent finished.

Pedersen added that all but three properties needed for the project have been purchased.

"The total unfunded cost for the remaining rights of way and for construction is estimated to be approximately $55 million," the administrator said.

The planning study for the Rt. 219 North/Chestnut Ridge Road project is also on hold because of funding issues. This 2.54 mile project is part of a larger joint effort between Pennsylvania and Maryland to enhance accessibility and promote economic development in the Appalachian region.

Since Pennsylvania's segment, from the Maryland line to Meyersdale, involves more miles and more money, that state is the lead agency for the overall project. But Pennsylvania is having trouble coming up with funding for the study.

Sen. George Edwards stressed the importance of working with Pennsylvania and keeping the project going because of its economic benefits.

He also asked that state highway officials speed up their lengthy timeframe for granting highway entrance permits.

"Time to businesses is money," he said. "And when it takes two years to get a permit, I think that is rather ridiculous and totally unacceptable."

Del. Wendell Beitzel also asked the officials to speed up the permitting timeframe. He noted there is also a costly and lengthy process that businesses have to go through before they can even begin to apply for a permit.

Beitzel indicated several businesses have elected not to proceed with their proposed projects in Garrett County because of permitting issues.

The delegate also mentioned the loss of Highway User Fee revenue to counties and municipalities.

Last year the state cut allocations by about 90 percent and does not appear to plan to restore full funding anytime soon.

Beitzel noted that local towns greatly depend on that revenue for their operating budgets. He added that smaller towns, such as Loch Lynn and Kitzmiller, are thinking about giving up their charters because of the cuts.

"We certainly don't want that to happen," Beitzel said.

Loch Lynn mayor Carolyn Corley said her town used to get about $65,000 a year from HUF. Last year it received $5,100. This year, the allocation will only be $2,300.

"The little towns are just being destroyed by this," Corley said about the cuts.

She asked the state officials to look at other issues besides huge capital projects and find ways to help the towns.

"We can't survive very many more years like this," she said.

Corley indicated that if local towns turn in their charters, the county will have to pick up the costs of running them.

"And how can they (the county) do that?" the mayor asked.

While Swaim-Staley had "good news" about the state's economic future, she did not offer Corley and other local mayors much hope in the near future for their towns.

The secretary said she remembered Corley's similar "impassioned plea" during her visit to Garrett County last year.

"We're trying to figure out if there's something we can do in the short term," Swaim-Staley said.

But, she noted, HUT allocations have also been "altered" in the 2011-201. budget.

ELIZABETH CALHOUN

Elizabeth "Betsy" Calhoun, beloved wife of Captain C.R. "Cal" Calhoun, U.S. Navy (ret.), and since September of 2005 a resident of Scotia Village, Laurinburg, N.C., passed away on Monday Sept. 27, 2010, after a long series of painful illnesses. She was placed under the care of Hospice of Scotland County, where she spent her last five days in an atmosphere of tender loving care without pain.

Betsy was born to Edward "Buck" Clatterbuck, and Anna Rafferty Clatterbuck in Nikep on Aug. 24, 1927, from whom she inherited a strong faith in God and a sense of devoted service to others. It thus followed that a career in nursing was her most appropriate choice, and after graduating in the late '50s from Sacred Heart Hospital's Diploma Nursing Program in Cumberland, she accepted a civil service position as a registered nurse at the Army's Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D.C. She served there for a total of 30 years.

In June of 1962, she married Col. Thomas Dunne, Medical Corps, U.S. Army, but Tom died from a massive heart attack in 1964.

Frequently assigned to the VIP Section, she was privileged to render what must have been a special brand of gentle and affectionate care. On several of his hospitalizations, President Eisenhower requested that Betsy be assigned to his case. She also was assigned to care for President Truman, General Omar Bradley, General Chenault, King Saud of Saudi Arabia, Haile Selasie, and the president of Ethiopia, among others.

She served the wounded from the Okinawa Campaign, and later from Vietnam. Her stories of the courage displayed by amputees were inspiring, and clearly revealed her own selfless outlook. Betsy never knew a stranger, and she was always concerned about those who were less fortunate or handicapped. She worried more about the "little guy" than she did about herself.

She befriended the dining room servers, the nurses, and the housekeeping staff here at Scotia Village and followed with great interest the welfare of their children, about whom she would inquire at every opportunity.

She married Cal Calhoun in January 1986, and they enjoyed 24 wonderful years of travel and happy living at Caswell Beach (7 years), Wilmington, N.C., (12 years) and Laurinburg, N.C. (5 years). For the past five years, she has had a succession of serious illnesses, frequently life-threatening and always painful. She bore the pain with guts, determination, and faith in God. She was an inspiration to all who knew her, and especially to her loving husband. She shall be sorely missed.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by the children and grandchildren of Tom Dunne (from his earlier marriage), who now reside in Arizona; and Cal's daughter and three granddaughters, who live in Wilmington and Minnesota.

A memorial mass was held on Saturday, Oct. 2, at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Laurinburg.

McDougald Funeral Home and Crematorium are serving the family.

A memorial register can be found at www.McDougald.com.

He was a logger and farmer by trade, and was happiest when he was in the field on his tractor, singing at the top of his lungs. He took pride in raising fat cattle, (including his prized bull, Snoopy), big pumpkins, and loving kids, grandkids, and great-grandkids.

He enjoyed picking apples, fruit, berries, and walking through the garden to see what he could find. He looked forward to plowing his fields in the spring, picking the first sweet corn in the summer, "deer camp" at the barn in the fall, and Christmas Eve with his family in the winter.

He and his wife "Curly" were married on March 5, 1955. Throughout their 55 year journey together, they built a loving home together and were best friends and constant companions. They enjoyed going for rides on Sundays, watching the Pirates on television, dancing the jig at the Flat, and spending time together at their home. Junior never missed a birthday party, and looked forward to spending Sunday nights at home with his family and fishing with his boys. He was "Pap" to everyone, and kids were always drawn to his sense of humor and cheerfulness.

Although he will be sadly missed, his family will find peace and comfort in all of the happy memories and loving times they were so fortunate to share with him.

Friends were received at Newman Funeral Home, Grantsville, where a service was conducted on Wednesday, Oct. 6, with the Rev. Dan Agnew officiating.

Interment was held in Blocher Cemetery.

Area Traffic Info To Be Available By Dialing 511

Governor Martin O'Malley announced this week that beginning next fall, Maryland travelers will be able to access real-time traffic information, statewide, by dialing 511. The service will be free and can be accessed at any time, day or night. The Board of Public Works recently approved a five-year, $4.7 million contract with Telvent of Rockville to provide Maryland's 511 statewide traveler information service.

"On a daily basis, the State Highway Administration uses technology to obtain real-time traffic information and manage the flow of traffic throughout the state," said Governor O'Malley. "With the 511 system, the public will be able to access much of the same information. Knowing traffic conditions along a particular route will allow a motorist to make an informed decision on how best to avoid a bottleneck or crash site, saving time and fuel."

Managed by the Maryland Department of Transportation's State Highway Administration (SHA), the contractor will pull traffic information from a variety of sources and make it available to the public for free through an automated telephone line, 511, a web site, and social networking outlets. The contract also includes the future enhancement of personalized 511 service in which customers can register for specific information that is automatically provided to his/her e-mail address or text service.

"From western Maryland to the Eastern Shore, the deployment of 511 next fall will be a tremendous value for customers, saving them precious time otherwise wasted sitting in traffic," said transportation secretary Beverley Swaim-Staley.

The three-digit 511 number was designated by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) as the national telephone number for traveler information. The number is used by nearly 40 state or municipal transportation departments and transit agencies in the U.S. Telvent will design, build, implement, operate, host, and maintain Maryland's statewide 511 program.

Telvent previously implemented 511 systems in California, New York, and Pennsylvania.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

The government has a responsibility to provide for the "common good." And that includes lots of critically important things: prisons, border security, the FBI and other intelligence agencies that are necessary to keep America safe, like FDA experts to check our food supply to ensure it is safe, and test new medications that would possibly be life-saving drugs and better treatments for deadly diseases.

Is that unessential spending? Do we need our national parks? Or security for our ports? Should we eliminate the Peace Corps? There are few things that spread good will to America across the globe.

Should we stop providing student loans? Without them, my daughters couldn't go to college. And within the next decade, they will be some very valuable citizens.

I was very sad to see the last home game of the Pirates this season, because only road games remain. Many are out West, meaning that they are too late for me to watch them.

One case concerning our right to freedom of speech involved the anti-gay people who showed up at a military funeral screaming that the reason we lost so many service personnel is because God is punishing the American military for too permissive an attitude toward homosexuals.

At the University of Maryland, I used to hang out with a bunch of very heterosexual guys, living in the same hall as my close male friends. They were deeply bonded with their hall-mates.

When my friend Dan got a new roommate, Matt, who told Dan that he was gay, Dan didn't freak out or feel threatened by Matt. And pretty soon Matt was just another guy in the gang. They regarded the sex lives of their friends as no business of theirs. When Pete lost his long-time girlfriend in a car crash, they cried with Pete and hugged him, but no one thought it was a sign of homosexuality.

When I had a student who said something hateful about gays, I pointed out that about 10 percent of people are homosexuals, so there was a good chance that a few gays were among the 30 students in that class. Unless you know a gay person really well or they behave indecently, it is not easy to tell just by looking at a person. There are even NFL players who are gay. Do you approve of the sexual behaviors of any number of straight people you are observing? Really, what goes on in a private bedroom is not the business of anyone except the two people involved.

I had the same dilemma that was probably shared by quite a few Bittinger residents. Both the Pirates and the Steelers had an early Sunday afternoon game. I turned to the Pirates because it was their last game of the season. I agree with the former Pirates ace pitcher Kent Tekulve, who said that we can look forward to a few years down the road. This group of very talented players will be involved in playoffs.

I did turn to the Steelers just to check it out. They were leading 14-7, but that didn't last. They lost to the Ravens, so they are no longer undefeated.

Pirates' games were the highlight of my day. I am a big Steelers fan, but I definitely prefer baseball over football. Baseball players look like real human beings, not all padded and helmeted. You can't really see what a football player looks like. And the present Pirates are all very good looking, all attractive in their own way.

Some candidates for elected office actually propose to abolish Social Security. That is pretty scary to me. I would have almost nothing in terms of income. And they are floating the idea that they may run Donald Trump for president in 2012? Does anyone have fewer qualifications that we need in a leader?

I am pretty concerned that the security warning about major cities in Europe might be a red herring. Maybe they really plan to strike America. I imagine our Homeland Security Department is considering that possibility.

I am really sick of hearing how bad our public education system is. It is a totally false claim. At least I know that I got a very good education in Garrett County public schools, except that I had two math teachers who weren't very good. In one class, we did not get any textbooks.

But I had many wonderful teachers. And it is not the fault of the teachers' union if too many students do not achieve at a high enough level. What encourages them to get an education is their families. Many get only indifference, or worse, actually live in a home that is hostile to education.

I also know how great an education my daughters got in Garrett County public schools, especially in the case of my middle daughter, who started school during a very traumatic time in her life. She started kindergarten when her mother was in a life-or-death condition.

Someone thought it would be better for them not to see me in ICU be-

LEADERSHIP CAMP HELPS EMPOWER STUDENTS – Representatives from each of the five Garrett County SADD groups participated in "The Weekend," a free youth leadership camp held at the Western Maryland 4-H Center on Friday night and Saturday. SADD (Students Against Destructive Decisions) is designed to promote youth development and empower students to get involved in leading their peers toward good decision making. "It also provides a supportive environment for many young people to follow a healthy lifestyle," said a Garrett County Health Department spokesperson. "A total of 24 local Garrett County SADD members and nine adults attended this year's camp, where the focus was giving youth the tools to step up and create real solutions to real issues in their schools and communities. They learned how to make a difference through informational and skill-building workshops. Participants earned eight service learning hours while enjoying an event packed with fun activities, including a campfire, a dance, canoeing, archery, a challenge course, and volleyball." Every participant received a free sweatshirt hoodie, which included the theme "Life Is A Highway, What Drives You?" "The Weekend" was sponsored by the Health Department and Western Maryland 4-H Extension Office. Any Garrett County middle or high school youth interested in becoming a SADD member is asked to call Brenda Sisler at 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111. Pictured are "The Weekend" participants discussing marijuana use and its dangers. Left to right are Leah Welch, Brennon Crosby, Sarah Lambka, Haley Moon (partially hidden), and Kendra Georg.

Activity Of Bears Increases During The Fall Months

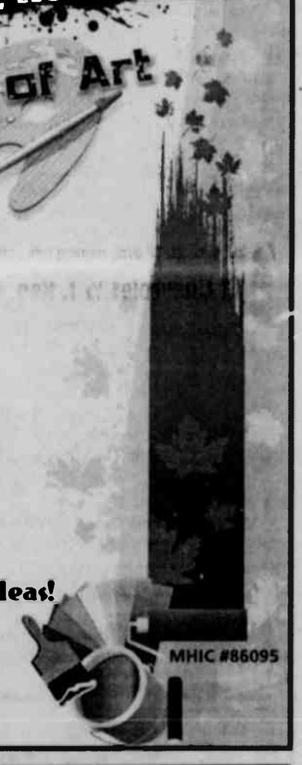

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) reminds Marylanders that as temperatures cool, black bear feeding activity increases in preparation for hibernation. During this time, bears may be attracted to human-provided food sources such as trash, pet food, and birdfeeders. Bears exploiting human-provided food may lose their natural fear of people, which can lead to conflicts and possibly dangerous encounters, according to DNR bear experts.

"The best way to avoid problems with bears around the home is to keep your trash and pet food in a place where bears can't get to it," said Harry Spiker, DNR's Game Mammal Section leader. "Homeowners should also delay feeding songbirds until the winter months to avoid attracting bears."

Bears may travel many miles searching for food in the fall. Motorists traveling in Maryland's western counties are reminded to watch for bears crossing roads, especially during October and November. Bears in Maryland will begin entering dens in mid-November and most are denned by mid-December, Spiker said.

To learn more about Maryland's black bear, persons are encouraged to go online to http://dnr.maryland.gov/dnrnews/infocus/blackbear.html, or contact a staff person in the Western Region at 301-777-2136 or statewide at 410-260-8540.

RECEPTION HELD FOR DANCING CLASSROOMS FOUNDER – Pierre Dulaine, founder of New York-based Dancing Classrooms, met supporters of the recently launched Dancing Classrooms Western Maryland at a reception held in his honor at the Deep Creek Lake home of Erika and Philip Rauh. In attendance was Jennifer Christophel, executive director of the local program. Dancing Classrooms uses ballroom dancing to teach fifth grade public school students such character traits as honor and respect. With support from a volunteer board and local educators, Christophel introduced the program last spring at Accident Elementary School. Dulaine went to the school Wednesday morning and gave a ballroom dancing demonstration. Left to right are Dulaine, Christophel, and the Rauhs. Photo courtesy of Cindy Stacy.

33rd Western Md. Tournament Of Bands Set; Seven Bands To Perform

The 33rd annual Western Maryland Tournament of Bands will be held at the Southern High School athletic field on Saturday, Oct. 9, beginning at 6 p.m. The event is hosted by the Southern Garrett Marching Band and the Southern Band Boosters.

There will be six bands competing for trophies and placement in four divisions based on band size. The Southern band, under the direction of Joshua Elmlinger, will perform in exhibition near the end of the program.

The show will open with the playing of the national anthem, followed by the first band performance. This will be Fort Hill High School, set to take the field immediately following the opening announcements.

Group IV bands will be next, with the schedule as follows: University High, at about 6:20 p.m., followed by Preston High and Martinsburg High.

Intermission will be at 7 p.m., and will feature a field performance by the Western Maryland Extreme All-Star Cheerleaders, under the direction of Jessica Crosco.

Group I competition will begin at about 7:15 with Hancock High School, followed by Northern Garrett. Southern Garrett will perform in exhibition at 7:43 p.m.

The Pink Glove Dance, directed by Brenda Brosnihan, will be presented as the judges tabulate the scores. The awards will be presented at approximately 8:15 p.m. Several area businesses have sponsored trophies for the event. They will be listed in the program.

Band fans may purchase the traditional "air grams," to be read as the bands take the field; "flower grams," to be delivered to band members at their buses; and "band ducks," little gifts also delivered to members. There will be food sales, program sales, and other items available for purchase. The Lions Club will operate the concessions for the evening.

Tickets are $6 for adults and $3 for children 12 and younger. Proceeds from the event will go to the Southern Band Boosters, an organization with the sole purpose of supporting and helping fund the activities and efforts of the band.

GLAF Offering Special Rates For PSO Concert

The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra (PSO) will perform in Morgantown at the Creative Arts Center of West Virginia University on Sunday, Oct. 24, at 2 p.m. The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival has made special arrangements with the PSO to offer a discounted ticket price for those who book their tickets at the GLAF office.

The special price is $32 per person. Coordinated and voluntary car-pooling will also be arranged to assist those who prefer not to drive. Tickets can be purchased by calling the GLAF office at 301-387-3082.

The program will be conducted by Leonard Slatkin and feature Rachmaninoff's seldom-heard First Piano Concerto, featuring Olga Kern on the piano. Olga is the winner of the Rachmaninoff International Piano Competition.

The afternoon concert will also include Antonin Dvorak's Symphony No. 6, composed in the Viennese symphonic tradition.

Two Joan Tower compositions will be featured, one honoring adventurous women and the other titled "Made in America," a commission for 65 U.S. orchestras in all 50 states.

A portion of the discounted ticket price will also benefit the fundraising efforts of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival.

Md. Symphony Orchestra To Perform At FSU

Under the direction of music director and conductor Elizabeth Schulze, the Maryland Symphony Orchestra, with special guest pianist Angela Cheng, will return to Frostburg State University on Friday, Oct. 15, at 8 p.m.

The MSO, now in its 29th season, will perform works from Beethoven and Schubert in the Pealer Recital Hall in FSU's Performing Arts Center as part of the University's Cultural Events Series and its partner, the Allegany Arts Council.

The orchestra will present Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 4 in G Major and Schubert's Symphony No. 9, featuring Cheng.

A resident of Canada, Cheng has performed with numerous symphonies across North America and has released several classical CDs. She was a gold medal winner at the Arthur Rubinstein International Piano Masters Competition, as well as the first Canadian to win the Montreal International Piano Competition.

Tickets for the Maryland Symphony Orchestra performance are $30 per person. Corporate and group discount ticket rates are also available. Tickets may be ordered by calling 301-687-3137 or online at ces.frostburg.edu.
